SENATE COMMITTEE VOTES TO RAISE GOVERNOR'S SALARY

Montgomery — The Senate finance and taxation committee voted this week to hike the governor's salary from the present $6,000 to $10,000. KNOW HOW TO KEEP ALUMINUM BRIGHT?

Auburn, Ala. — When washing aluminum, use mild, pure soap or soapless suds, then rinse and wipe dry.

Stella Mitchell, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist, states that if the inside of an aluminum pan is dark, it's easy to brighten by filling with water, adding a little vinegar or cream of tartar and heating a few minutes.

"Another way aluminum may be brightened," says the specialist, "is to cook mildly acid foods, like rhubarb, tomatoes, tart apples, or sour milk. This does not harm the food for eating."

Legionnaires "Capture" the City of Six Flags!

The echo of soldiers' feet will again be heard on Royal, Dauphin, Government and other downtown streets, in Mobile, this week-end. But they won't be from GI boots.

These "soldiers" are members of the American Legion, Department of Alabama, who are gathering 2,000-strong in the "City of Six Flags" for their 30th Annual State Convention July 2-4.

How naturally they selected Mobile for this occasion!

With its rich background of life under the flags of France, England, Spain, Republic of Alabama and The Confederacy—before the "Stars and Stripes"—Mobile is a thriving city of modern homes and buildings, and shady parks; of gracious residents never too busy to extend a cordial handshake.

From where I sit, a grand old organization of fine fellows has chosen a grand old city of fine folks in which to get down to "brass tacks" in a business way, and to take off their ties and have fun.

WAFM-TV Will Televise Chilco Peach Festival

Something new has been added to the Chilton County Peach Festival this year. For the first time television cameras will be here and the program will be televised.

The Alabama network will again be on the job too, and will send the proceedings out over the air waves to all parts of the country. WKLF will be on hand doing their share also. WKLF is Chilton's home station.

Another new development will be the Pathe News cameras, here to make newsreel pictures and send to all theatres throughout the country. This will probably bring as much, if not more, publicity to the county than any other one effort.

All in all Chilton County's Third Annual Peach Festival will be well advertised and well presented to the world. Folks everywhere will know what goes on in Chilton after today.

Mr. and Mrs. Wyndol Murrah and son Ricky, have returned after a trip to Fort Walton and Panama City, Florida.

As you know the Chilton County Peach Festival will be held in Thorsby by July 13, 1949. We are sure that you along with the other people in the county are anxious for this to be the best Festival ever held. In order for this event to meet the purpose for which it is intended, we must have on exhibit some of the best peaches you have produced.

There will be two classes of peaches exhibited—the bushel and half-bushel hampers. Each of these classes will be divided into three grades, (1-2-3). These peaches will be graded by specialists from three peach producing states and awards will be made on each grade.

Movie and television pictures will be made at the festival this year: therefore it is absolutely necessary that we work together on these exhibits. You who donate peaches for the exhibit are invited to bring peaches to be sold from your trucks.—W. A. Lecroy, L. C. Shields, Exhibit Committee.

In the night contest the Woodmen beat Thorsby 7-6. Robinson, W.O.W.'s starting pitcher, struck out 12 batters through the first six innings. At that point he left the game because of an arm ailment. Henry Smith turned in a good relief job for the remaining three innings.

The Woodmen have won eleven games and lost only two. Both losses have been revenged.

THIRTEENTH ANNUAL CONVENTION OF FHA

On June 8th, to 11th, over six hundred Future Homemakers from the State of Alabama met at Alabama College, Montevallo, for their 13th annual convention.

The members of the Isabella chapter who attended were: Doris Williams, Joyce Oates, Evelyn Burnette, Jacqueline Smitherman, Louise Maddox, Ruth Edna Grooms, Mabel Jackson, and the advisor, Mrs. Nan R. Heida.

Louise Maddox, with a number of members of other chapters, received her State Homemaker degree. The ones who received the State degree last year were: Betty Conway, Dean Owen, Imogene Higgins, Jacqueline Smitherman and Mabel Jackson.

Isabella, with a few other chapters, succeeded in achieving a "Gold Star Certificate."

Among the highlights of the program were the Fashion Show, presented by Avondale Mills, and the selection of Miss Alabama Future Homemaker. The lucky girl to win this title was Miss Eloise Jackson. The contestants were shown "at leisure," at home and in formal dress.

A film "A Day At The Fair" was shown as part of the program. Emily Whatley, State resident of F.H.A., with the presidents of the F.F.A. and 4-H Club, were featured in the movie.

The officers of the Isabella chapter for the year 1949-50 are: Ruth Edna Grooms, president; Evelyn Burnette and Inez Smith, vice-presidents; Joyce Oates, secretary; Merle Apperson, treasurer.

The Future Homemakers of America is a wonderful organization and is striving to make better our homes, states and nation. — Mabel Jackson, Reporter, Isabella Chapter.

MEET CONSUMER DEMAND

Purchases of the so-called "refrigerator foods" such as red meats, eggs, poultry, fresh fruits, and vegetables are still climbing. Farmers who make production and marketing adjustments to meet this demand will profit.

CASH VALUE OF ARTIFICIAL BREEDING

In most cases when a heifer calf is sired by one of the bulls in use at the Auburn bull "stud," it will eventually produce over $100 worth of milk a year more than daughters of cows bred to ordinary bulls. See the local county agent for full details.

USE BRIGHT CLEANER TO MAKE SHOES LAST

How well summer shoes wear depends partly on how they are cleaned. The right cleaning not only keeps them looking new but also makes them last longer.

"When white shoes are grass stained," says Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist, "brush or sponge off the old polish, then brush with a solution of sodium perborate. Rinse and polish, working rapidly in order not to wet shoes any more than necessary."

Miss Ellis points out that some summer shoes contain elasticized fabric to make them fit closely. The rubber in such fabric is ruined by ordinary cleaning fluids. "Read the label on the cleaner to be sure it is safe for elasticized shoes," advises the clothing specialist.

NOT LESS THAN A FULL CASE OF EGGS A WEEK

"For profitable marketing, egg producers should keep 100 or more hens and sell eggs by the case," advises John Weeks, A.P.I. Extension Service poultryman. "One hundred hens should produce a full case of eggs a week."

ALFALFA GROWERS BUSY THIS MONTH

Auburn, Ala. — Successful alfalfa growers agree that now is the time to get seed and fertilizers or locate them so they will be easy to obtain when planting time comes in September.

"Everything should be ready to do all jobs right when they should be done," warns J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist, "However, this does not mean that alfalfa is a very difficult crop to grow."

Lowery reveals that most farmers can grow it by using the information found by the Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station. He emphasizes the fact that alfalfa is Alabama's finest hay and grazing crop. For this reason, those interested in growing it for the first time should contact the local county agent for full details.

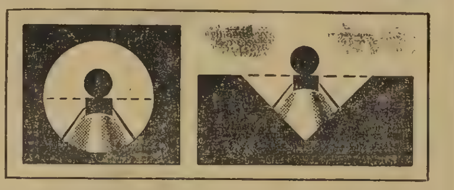
Sighting



Gun sights are used to point the rifle at the target and it is important to learn to sight perfectly. An error of 1/10 inch in sight alignment will place the bullet two inches from the center of a target only 50 feet away—a bad miss.

If you have the rear peep and front post sight combination on your rifle, aim as shown at top left, centering the top of the post in the peep hole. With an open rear sight (right above) center the top of the post on a level with the top of the rear sight before directing the aim on the target. Notice that when shooting at bullseye targets you aim at the bottom of the bull rather than at the center. That is because you are likely to lose sight of the black post within the black bullseye.

Aiming and shooting at bullseye targets is not only a great sport with many thousands of adherents throughout the world, but it is also the finest training for any kind of shooting. If you can't hit a bullseye that is standing still how can you expect to hit a live target that is moving?

(This instruction based on the booklet, "HOW TO SHOOT A RIFLE," published by The National Rifle Association, Washington, D. C.)

Big things are coming to the Coosa Lakes. Recreational Cottage Sites are being leased on Lake Jordan by the Alabama Power Company. Lake Mitchell is being sub-divided and will be open for lease in July. This recreational program is expected to attract thousands from far and near. Two resort areas have been set aside on Jordan, for hotel and cottage service to the foreign and local vacationist. Public picnic grounds are being prepared—complete with barbecue pits and tables. Public camping areas are being cleared for the over-night fisherman that brings his tent.

Fish were being caught between showers the past week. From reports up and down the Coosa Valley, Bass, Crappie, Bream, and Drum are striking unusually well, considering the weather conditions. Crickets and worms seem to be the favorite diet for Crappie and Bream at this time. Those large Bass are taking top water lure best early in the mornings. Drum are being caught in large numbers with worms. Good locations are, Weoka Creek and the upper reaches of Lake Mitchell and Spring Creek, Lake Lay, also the upper reaches of Lake Jordan.

Few entries are being submitted to the Alabama Power Company Fishing Contest during these hot days. H. R. Evans' Store, Holtville, reports: Young Tommy Davis, Deatsville, Route 2, had to call for help in order to land his 3 pound 6 ounce Largemouth Bass. This big boy didn't like the taste of the fly Tommy used, so he put up such a fight reinforcements had to be called to make the catch. Shoals Creek, Lake Jordan was the location.

Bring the family and enjoy this wealth of recreation in the heart of Alabama. Include a visit to one of the Hydro-plants in your holiday schedule. But don't forget, have your largest game fish weighed at one of the various weighing stations.

SAFETY COMMENT FOR THE DAY: Don't overload boats with passengers or cargo. Fishing, rowing, and small outboard boats, should never carry more than four people. Larger loads are seldom safe; never except inexperienced hands. Safe Outboarding.

United States. In Alabama where more emphasis is being put on cattle raising, people should be very careful. All milk should be pasteurized before it is drunk, and rubber gloves should be worn when treating animal abscesses and during butchering. Five per cent of the cattle in the United States are said to have the disease; so everyone should be careful.

Prevention of the disease in humans is simple, as noted above, and prevention should be our aim. However, if you once contact undulant fever, follow your doctor's orders implicitly. Though this disease is thought of as being one found primarily in rural areas, remember that most of us get out to the country at some time during the summer. Let us be careful.

Friendly criticism may be extremely helpful, even though it is not so pleasant to hear.

Selfishness The Cause

Most of the troubles that confront the world and many of those that worry individuals can be explained in a word of eleven letters — selfishness.

To elucidate this thought, let us consider a single individual who is entirely interested in what he can get. He takes what he wants to satisfy his ambitions, appetites and desires. He takes no thought of other people and their rights. He is unconcerned with the fate of other human beings. Life to him is completely successful when he completely satisfies his own aims. What do you think of such a man? What kind of world would we have if every man were of this type?

Take for example a family group. Here we have the fundamental organization of society. Let us assume that each member of the family—father, mother and all of the children—are concerned solely with their selfish aims. Each is determined to get what is coming to him or her without any thought of the other members of the group. How long do you think such a family group would continue and what kind of life would they lead as long as the famiy continued to operate?

The observations in regard to individuals and family groups apply equally to the other organizations and institutions of human society. It is true in reference to [illegible] cities counties and states, and nations, as [illegible] obvious, in theory, when we reflect upon the [illegible].

As an individual, you control the life of only one person. You can direct yourself and your relations with other people. You can make one useful member of human society if you are willing to give up some of the selfishness that makes human cooperation impossible. Whether you decide or intend to do so is a personal problem for you to determine. The answer that you make measures the extent of your contribution to civilization.

Watch Drinking Water

With many families of Chilton County taking a vacation trip, it might be well to remind all persons that there is some danger in carelessly drinking any water that might be found.

People who travel in unfamiliar places should be careful in quenching their thirst. It is well to be sure that the water supply is unpolluted and while this precaution may seem unnecessary to many, it might prevent a serious illness.

CHILTON COUNTY vs. GEORGIA

It would hardly be fair to match Chilton County against the whole state of Georgia except in one way.

And that's growing peaches.

But when you do, you wonder why the State of Alabama doesn't put out special Alabama tags for Chilton residents saying, "The Peach County."

It's natural for folks in Chilton County to be proud of their peaches. And natural for all of Alabama to be proud of Chilton County!

If you can get away next Wednesday,—July 13, drive over to Clanton and help 'em celebrate the third annual Chilton County Peach Festival. You'll enjoy the fun and the gay floats that'll wind their way from Clanton to Thorsby.

And pretty "peaches" won't be limited to the kind that grow on trees!

From where I sit, what helps any one of Alabama's 67 counties is mighty important to the other 66.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Dyer (Shack) Shackelford is back at his place at Clanton Motors, Inc. We thought Shack was on his vacation and was enjoying the sunny beaches of Florida like most everybody else is. But no, he was undergoing an operation at Miami, to restore his hearing. He told us this week that the operation was about ninety per cent success, which moves us to say we're glad and know he is happy to be rid of his hearing aid.

As quiet a Fourth of July as one could imagine was our lot this year—and we enjoyed it. The only grandson in the world, (regardless of what some old men in Clanton say) came down from Memphis and spent the week end with us. He's growing to beat the band and the smartest. . . . but let us tell you about him some time when we got plenty of time.

Cleveland Driver and wife were Chilton County visitors the past week [illegible] to think of it they are [illegible] Cleveland Driver [illegible] home town in the world. If it is his county or his state, well, it just can't be beat anywhere. He'll fight anybody who says his country isn't the all-time "tops" in nations. He's just plain proud of anything that is his. He takes a keen interest in his country's doings, too. The other month he wrote congressmen and suggested that the necessary plans had been made to loan the ex-soldiers money, but no plans had been made to protect their investments in case of hard luck, like losing their job, or sickness, or anything like that. In other words if they bought a place and after paying for years on it and putting all their money into it, no provision was made to assure them of keeping it when time got too tough to keep up the payments. The congressmen who read his letter thought it mighty good suggestion and has taken it up with his colleagues.

Clanton was lousy with out-of-town visitors up until Monday, the Fourth, then they along with everybody else, disappeared. We don't know exactly where they disappeared to, but a good guess is the river, where it's cool and comfortable. It surely wasn't here.

Completed the Peach Festival Program the past week end and hope you folks like it. That program committee worked hard and we think did a mighty good job. Of course J. Archie Ogburn, general chairman of the Festival this year, helped a lot too. Thanks to everybody who took a part and cooperated. This especially includes the advertisers, for the forty-four page book could not have been possible without them.

Burke Allison has adopted a novel way of advertising. He is keeping the sales slips of every sale and the name of the person who made the purchase. At the end of this month Burke will check back through the month and the day when he made the fewest sales he will call each purchaser on that day and refund every penny that they spent with him on that day. He says now that Thursdays and Friday's are the lowest sales days. We are telling you this so you will know which days you are apt to get your money refunded. If you win you gotta give us half of it. Anyway, it is something new in the way of advertising and is creating a good bit of attention. It's just for the month of July according to Burke. If he decides to extend the offer another month he will let you folks know about it. Just watch the advertising columns of the CC News.

Mrs. Tobey Wright mentioned Monday at the post office that only newspapermen and druggist worked on the Fourth. Bet she wasn't thinking about peach growers. They sure put in a day of hard work getting these lucious peaches ready for the market. For the most of them the Fourth was just another day.

Our Nation's Independence

This is Fourth of July week. In fact, today is the Fourth of July. I have just had my breakfast, and believe me, one that was fit for a king. I have also listened to the news around the world by radio. While millions are on the highways, and millions at the places of amusement, I sit quietly here in my home and write this article, and thank God tha I am an American, and that I live in the greatest Country in all the world. "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord; and the people whom he has chosen for his own inheritance." (Psa. 33:12).

Here in America God has given us a pleasant land; a very fruitful land; a land blessed with natural resources as none other land in all the world. Here in America we are blessed with intelligence, liberty, freedom and Christian Faith. We have every reason to be glad that we are Americans, and that our fore-fathers have left us a rich inheritance. We should feel proud of our providential beginning; and our splendid history of varied and expansive domain; our glorious institutions, and our noble form of government; and our exalted National spirit; which is enough to make every American citizen proud of his country; and thus rejoice in our liberty, freedom and holy independence. Instead of our people dishonoring this day by sinful revelling, we should bow our heads in worship to God, and thank Him for our forefathers who fought and suffered, and died that this generation might enjoy the greatest freedom, the greatest independence of any people on the face of the whole world. "America, the home of the brave, and the land of the free."

A. T. HICKMAN

Our progress, growth, popular education, high citizenship, civic righteousness, and love of liberty place us highest among the nations of the world, in spite of our social, spiritual and political defects. The spirit of America represents love of freedom for ourselves and our children, and sympathy for the oppressed who are still struggling for liberty and justice in other lands. We feel a sense of fraternity which binds every part of our land, from the North and South, East and West, as one United Nation, indivisible, with freedom and justice for all. We have chosen God for our Lord and Saviour. Long may our land be bright, with freedom's holy light; protect us by Thy might, Great God, our King." AMEN.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

UNDULANT FEVER

In rural areas there is a danger of undulant fever. It is also called brucellosis and Malta fever and is transmitted to humans from infected cattle, swine, and goats. The acute form of this disease may be gotten from raw milk and raw milk products.

Undulant fever is the fourth most common communicable disease in the United States today. The same vacation hazard that typhoid fever presented years ago is now presented by undulant fever. Death occurs in two per cent of the severe cases, and disability over long periods and frequent relapses are common. The tendency of the public to ignore the methods that spread undulant fever makes it difficult to suppress the disease.

When in rural areas, whether living there or on a vacation trip, people often unknowingly become infected with undulant fever. Months later, when symptoms of the disease appear, the person cannot remember where the possible source of infection may have been. Often typical symptoms do not appear at once, and some of the first symptoms often resemble those of most acute infections. The disease may imitate anything from a mild cold to severe illness such as appendicitis or mental disorder.

The number of cases of undulant fever are increasing throughout the

CLOSED BY GOV'T ORDER

Suppose that, Sunday, the day before Independence Day, you were not permitted to go to the church of your choice—that the privilege of free-will worship had been taken away from you—by government order—

JAILED for criticizing the Goverment

Suppose that today your right publicly to "speak your mind" about government and governmental activities no longer existed—

Individuals don't count the state is supreme

Suppose that, knowing them to be false, you would have to profess belief in untruths or suffer severe punishment—

Suppose that you were not free to change your employment whenever you chose, or go into business for yourself if you wanted to—

The Verbena Methodists—

The revival of the Verbena Methodist Church begins Sunday, July 10, at 11:00 a.m. Lamar Spencer of Bonabay, Fla., will be the visiting minister. We are looking forward to having a great week. Morning services will begin at 11:00; evening services at 8:00. The Young People will meet at 7:15. Everyone is urged to attend.

NEW HARMONY

The revival here is going good. The Lord is blessing our souls. Bro. R. A. Sapp is really preaching some wonderful messages. He and his wife are both good singers and are good workers for God. Also Bro. Provatt and wife from Florida are with them helping out in the services. There have been good crowds out every night.

Bro. Eual Headley has loaned us his chairs, which he uses in tent revivals and we now have more seating room. We invite everybody to come out and hear this good man of God. If you hear him once, you will want to hear him again, as he is certainly on fire for God.

We are glad to see Mr. and Mrs. Eual Headley home from Florida. They brought along with them Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Boggs of Auburndale, Fla., who are visiting in the community for a few days before going on to Missouri.

We are very glad for the many visitors who are coming out and helping to make the revival a success.

So be sure to come, if you can't come, pray for the revival. — Reporter.

BITTERWEED CONTROL

Mow bitterweeds when they are blooming but before seed form. Operate the cutterbar just low enough to clip the blossoms. By doing this, the second crop of blossoms, which are formed later, will be high enough from the ground so the cutterbar can be lowered enough to clip them.

STATE FARMERS URGED TO ACCEPT $4,200,000

Auburn, Ala. — As of June 1; Alabama farmers had used only $2,432,985 out of $6,685,000 appropriated to carry out conservation practices included in the PMA program for 1949,

B. L. Collins, state executive officer, Production and Marketing Administration, warns that state farmers will lose the difference between these two amounts if it is not used by December 31.

Even when it is assumed that payment rates for winter legumes will be higher than they were last year, it is doubtful if this practive will require much more than $2,000,000, believes Collins.

This is why he urges farmers to complete every practice approved to date, and, in addition, carry out practices valued at two and one-quarter million dollars above the $2,000,000 expected to be used for winter legumes.

In other words, farmers interested in constructing terraces and drainage ditches; applying phosphate, potash and basic slag to approved soil conserving crops; applying liming materials; or carrying out other approved practices should contact their local P. M.A. committeeman as soon as possible.

When picking up broken glass, dampen a piece of cotton and tap it over the surface where the small pieces are lying. The cotton will pick up all the tiny particles, and there will be less danger of your cutting yourself.

BE A TIMBER OWNER ALL OF YOUR LIFE

Cullman, Ala. — H. J .Stewart, part owner of a tract of timber here, was recently offered $750 for 40 acres of his timberland.

Before selling, however, he requested the assistance of I. R. Martin, A. P.I. Extension Service forestry specialist.

Martin made a partial cut on this woodland from which Mr. Stewart received $1,500. A good stand of young fast growing trees is left which will produce another crop of timber in the next 10 years.

Stewart believes that $1,400 every 10 years is much better than $750 once in a lifetime. This is why he urges all Alabama timber owners to practice selective cutting.

FEED CALVES PROPERLY

The first year of a cow's life largely determines her reproductive ability. A large percentage of infertility is due to improper feeding. Always question the feeding program when confronted with breeding difficulties.

A Question Of Quality

QUALITY continues to reign as the number one factor in determining the market demand for all farm products.

The consumer is interested not in where a product was grown but in the value he gets for his money.

Growers who are careful about the quality of their produce are bothered little by competition from other areas. They know that when they deliver a better package, buyers will use it before buying produce shipped in from out-of-state.

Example Cited

An example of what is happening in Alabama is found in the marketing of tomatoes in the state. John Bagby, A.P.I. Extension specialist in truck crops marketing, stated in a recent report that the marketing of local tomatoes is made more difficult each year because of "shipped-in" products. However, with all other things equal, home-grown, vine-ripened tomatoes ordinarily sell better than tomatoes picked green and ripened on the way to the consumer.

"Alabama producers can supply local markets with home-grown products," said Bagby. "But they must first grow the quality that buyers want and pack the item in the right type of container."

Tomatoes selected by the housewife at the grocery counter are packed in containers that protect the fruit from cuts and bruises. To meet with her approval the product must be graded to eliminate worm damage, serious cracks, catfaces and other defects.

Local Markets First

Another crop named in the report was sweet corn. Sales of roasting ears depend largely on quality, and quality here includes sugar content when the corn reaches the consumer's table. In growing this crop, too, local gardeners are given the advantage; with little effort they can get sweet corn to market in good condition.

Bagby points out that the statements made about these two crops hold true in general for other Alabama farm products. Farmers here must compete with other sections on an even basis when they go to regional and national markets. And they must use the advantages offered at local markets by keeping them supplied with produce grown at home.

Looking Ahead

REMEMBER that August and September are important months for planting garden crops.

Be ready with a good seed bed by starting preparations now. Fallow the land, a few rows or a garden spot, for several weeks. Put in fertilizer two weeks before time to plant; then wait for a good rain.

NOT A BLACK SHEEP

The lad and lamb represent more than a farm boy and his pet. Agricultural leaders consider sheep production an important part of the livestock program in Alabama and predict growing interest in the industry, especially in the Black Belt area.

"Dollar for dollar, money invested in sheep brings greater returns than investments in any other type of livestock," says W. H. Gregory, A.P.I. Extension livestock specialist.

Above is 11-year-old Charles Stewart, Heiberger 4-H Club member of Perry County, whose lamb won a prize at the 4-H Sheep Show in Selma. Sponsors claimed this event, in which more than 100 animals were exhibited, was "the best sheep show ever held in Alabama."

DEFOLIATING COTTON

Farmers who plan to defoliate cotton this fall should make arrangements for securing defoliant material now. Where cotton makes a rank growth, defoliation reduces loss from boll rot and enables hand pickers to pick more cotton. Defoliation is a "must" for machine picking.

A. E. A. APPEALING TO PREVENT CUT IN TEACHERS' SALARIES

Montgomery, Ala., June 29, 1949—The Alabama Educational Association, thru its president, R. E. Moore, Cullman, appealed to the Legislature Wednesday to prevent a cut in teachers' salaries for the coming year. The appeal was carried in a letter from President Moore addressed to the members of the 1949 Legislature, and urged law-makers to maintain the salary schedule now in effect which was established by the present Legislature at its 1947 session.

To do this and to employ 700 additional teachers to take care of increasing enrollments will require about $6,368,000. During the school year just closed approximately 6,000 Alabama teachers were employed on non-professional certificates. Many of these are in summer schools taking training to acquire professional status. Others are seeking advance ratings. Unless the additional amount named is appropriated to pay for this improved training, the state salary allotment which includes increments for additional training will have to be revised downward, resulting in a cut for a majority of teachers.

President Moore pointed out that certain Southern States have materially increased school funds this year, notably Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, and Texas. For a number of years Louisiana and Florida have paid salaries considerably higher than Alabama. With four Southern States forging ahead of Alabama in salaries, the teacher exodus from this state will add materially to the already large number of non-professional teachers.

CHICKEN OF TOMORROW IS IN THE INCUBATOR

This year each state will hold a "chicken of tomorrow" contest, announces John P. Weeks, A.P.I. Extension Service poultry specialist. Next year, this year's state winners will compete in a regional contest. In 1951, the "chicken of tomorrow," or the leading national broiler strain, will be selected from the 1950 regional winners.

WANT LONGER GRAZING FROM SERICEA FIELDS?

Land growing sericea may be grazed a longer period if a reseeding winter legume is planted this fall.

S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. Extension Service soil conservationist, can name many farmers who have a mixture of sericea and reseeding crimson clover or caley peas that furnishes grazing from around January 1 to October 1.

"The reseeding winter legume should be planted in the sericea about the time of the first frost," says Doughty. "From that time on, no further seeding should be necessary provided the spring grazing is managed so that the winter legume will be allowed to make seed."

If interested in this grazing and soil building mixture, see the local county agent for further details.

SUN-FLUFF FEATHERS TO MAKE THEM SOFT

Auburn, Ala. — Sunshine treatment to restore the fluffiness of flattened feathers is recommended by Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service Home Management Specialist.

She reveals that sun has an almost magic power to bring back lightness or curl to feathers that have become packed and heavy with use.

"To do the job," says Miss Peavy, "divide the feathers and place them into three or four cheesecloth bags. The bags should be large enough to allow the feathers to expand as they fluff. Then, the first sunny, breezy day, pin the bags to the clothes line and shake them occasionally during the day. By sunset the feathers will have regained much of their original lightness."

Miss Peavy recommends cheesecloth bags because the open weave lets in sun and air and lets out dust or broken bits of feathers.

HOW LONG TO AGE BEEF BEFORE IT IS FROZEN

Often the question is asked, "How long should beef be aged before it is frozen?"

"Aging the freshly slaughtered carcass for a week or 10 days in a chill room increases the natural tenderness of the meat," states Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension Service food preservation specialist. "Longer aging is often used, but it allows for the development of stale odors from the growth of mold on the surface of the meat."

Miss Curtis adds that longer than 10 days appears unnecessary for beef that is to be further tenderized by freezing.

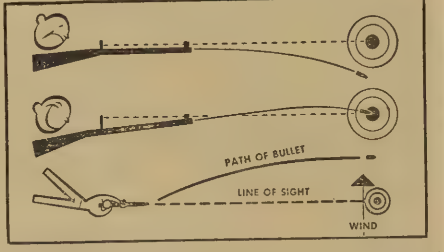
HOW TO SHOOT A RIFLE

By ARTHUR E. COOK
National and Olympic Rifle Champion

Advanced Training



A bullet never travels in a straight line. As soon as it leaves the gun muzzle, gravity begins to pull it toward the ground. Therefore, at longer distances, the bullet is likely to fall short of the target unless (1) you deliberately aim high, or (2) you adjust your sights to compensate for the drop of the bullet.

The same thing applies to horizontal (or sideways) movement of the bullet due to wind while shooting outdoors. Particularly with small caliber bullets, wind is capable of blowing the bullet inches off course. Again it is necessary to compensate for this action.

If your rifle is equipped with an adjustable rear sight you need only to determine the amount of adjustment needed and the direction, and then turn the adjustment knobs the necessary amount. There is one basic rule to follow: MOVE THE REAR SIGHT IN THE SAME DIRECTION YOU WANT TO MOVE YOUR SHOTS.

Don't try sight adjustment until you have learned to put all your shots in a tight little group on the target. Then, if the group is not in the center you can correct the rifle's point of impact by adjusting the sights. Remember that a rifle is only as good as its sights—put the best ones you can afford on your gun.

MORE PONDS AND FISHING. New fish ponds will add many acres to the state's already vast fishing area before the summer ends. The large dam shown at left, above, was recently completed on the farm of Earl Moody in Crenshaw County. Mr. Moody and his son are standing on the dam.

The farmer is planning a complete wildlife program. He will sell fishing permits on the 34-acre lake, produce fish bait, grow fishing poles and raise furbearers on his farm.

In ponds already stocked uncounted hours of pleasure are enjoyed on Alabama farms by fishermen like the one shown in the center picture. (Note the bass striking the surface lure in the circle.)

Many farmers are building two or more ponds on the same watershed or are using the same stream to supply several ponds. The ponds shown in the picture at right are in Macon County.

Corn - Alfalfa Make Cheap Pork In Calhoun

CORN and alfalfa have teamed up to give Maxwell Dulaney, an Estaboga farmer, plenty of pork. When 89 bushels of corn and 89 days of grazing produce 1,800 pounds of pork, that's farming at a profit in anybody's league.

Eighteen 100-pound pigs were turned on alfalfa on this Calhoun County farm February 1. Each day one bushel of corn was fed to the pigs. On the last day of April the hogs, weighing 200 pounds each, were taken off the alfalfa and sold.

"In other words," explains County Agent A. S. Mathews, "five bushels of corn and grazing, with mineral mixture, produced 100 pounds of gain per pig."

Ten hogs were sold for 16½ cents per pound, or an average of $33 each. Eight gilts were sold for brood sows at $40 each. Total income on the 18 hogs was $650. After deducting the value of 89 bushels of corn—$111.25, which Mr. Dulaney marketed through his hogs, a net of $538.75 was realized. The pigs were worth $297 when started on the alfalfa; Dulaney got that money too, because he raised the pigs. The 89 days grazing on alfalfa paid the farmer $241.75—$60.44 per acre.

Jim helps his mother, Mrs. Bessie Barrett, with her 450-acre farm. This 12-acre patch of ladino clover is only one of many good grazing areas he is responsible for.

Expensive Crop?

"Alfalfa is expensive to sow, says Mathews, "especially if recommendations are not followed. The cost of sowing the four acres of alfalfa was approximately $40 per acre. However, returns are also high. After selling $60 worth of pork the farmer can expect two tons of hay per acre this year while grazing one sow, one gilt and ten pigs."

The county agent declares that alfalfa is a great crop. It prevents erosion, builds up the soil and provides an abundance of grazing and hay. He says alfalfa, corn with high yields and hogs are well adapted to most small farms throughout this area.

Plans are now being made for seeding alfalfa this fall. Handle it so it is a cheap but valuable crop. Contact your county agent for complete recommendations.

Poor Soil Preparation Causes Most Winter Grazing Failures

AGRONOMISTS say the biggest mistake farmers make in planting winter grazing crops is failing to have soil prepared on time. When a crop is planted at the wrong time its chances of succeeding are greatly reduced.

D. R. Harbor, A.P.I. Extension agronomist, says the only way to avoid this error is to plan ahead for planting these crops. Set aside early land which will be planted to winter grazing in the late Summer or Fall.

"Good land preparation, which includes fallowing, is essential for early seeding of crimson clover and ryegrass," declares Harbor. "There are two places where winter grazing can be seeded early on prepared land—where small grains or winter legumes were harvested for seed or used for grazing and on idle land. Only on these areas is there plenty of time for the right kind of preparation."

The specialist believes it is impossible to grow such crops as corn, cotton, and peanuts on a field and harvest early enough to seed winter grazing on time. For details on time of planting and land preparation he suggests you see your county agent.

Keep Products Moving In And Out Of Freezing Unit, Says Food Specialist

TO get the most from a home freezing unit the farm family must keep it full. When a package is removed for use the space it used should be filled with more food, says Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension specialist in food preservation.

Filling the locker with foods and keeping it full amounts to little, adds Miss Curtis, unless food is moving into and out of the box all the time. The family who is using its unit only to save surplus products for a rainy day is losing money on the investment.

Miss Curtis emphasizes the importance of freezing foods correctly and passes on several tips about the handling of fruits.

"For a first class frozen product use only your best fruit," she advises. "Furthermore the fruit should be ripe enough for eating when it is picked for freezing.

"When berries and other small fruits are washed, place them in a large strainer or small mesh wire basket. Dip them up and down in several changes of cold water until they are completely free from sand and other foreign matter. Remember that shallow layers of fruit are easier washed."

While The Sun Shines

SUNSHINE is the best haymaker known, but it must be used to the best advantage. If the farmer is to get good hay he must treat every cutting as a special case; he cannot always wait for ideal weather.

The objective in making hay, explains J. B. Wilson, A.P.I. Extension engineer, is to produce a roughage of high quality that will contain the food nutrients needed by livestock.

"All too frequently," says Wilson, "the vital elements are lost from hay because of improper curing. Curing hay simply means the removal of moisture with as little deterioration in quality as possible. This is best accomplished by mowing at the stage when the crop contains its greatest amount of plant food. For best results allow hay to wilt for two or three hours; then use a side delivery rake to bring it into fluffy windrows. This reduces the time required for curing."

Heavy hays may require turning in the windrow, he adds, and in case of showers, it may need a second turning. Hay will keep if the moisture content is brought down to 14 or 15 per cent, whether it is stacked in the field, stored in the barn loft, or baled.

Lakeview Farm's Herd Ends Test

ANOTHER of Alabama's outstanding dairy herds has completed a testing period and recorded excellent results. It is the herd at Lakeview Jersey Farms, Guntersville.

The herd of registered Jerseys owned by R. A. Brown and W. R. Tate is announced by The American Jersey Cattle Club, Columbus, Ohio, as having completed a year's work in official herd improvement registry testing with an average production of 8,908 pounds of milk and 492 pounds butterfat per cow. The herd had an average of 28 milking cows during the year.

All tests on this herd were conducted by Alabama Polytechnic Institute and verified by The American Jersey Cattle Club.

In accomplishing this production record the above herd joins the select group of Jersey herds in which cows produce more than two times the amount of butterfat obtained from the average dairy cow in the United States.

Veterinarians Report Wide Use Of Cholera Control Program

CHOLERA is the killer most dreaded by Alabama hog growers. And farmers here are praising highly the state's program for combating the disease.

Veterinarians report more than 200,000 hogs vaccinated since the plan was launched 18 months ago. Dr. R. S. Sugg, state veterinarian and dean of Veterinary Medicine at A.P.I., reports that the State Department of Agriculture and Industries has furnished 7,323,124 cc's of serum, 356,891 cc's of virus, and 110,259 cc's of vaccine to hog growers.

Under the 1947 Legislative Act providing for this service all Alabama farmers may obtain free vaccination material for weanling pigs. Animals must, however, be eight to 10 weeks old and weigh under 40 pounds. For hogs above this age and weight, materials are available at cost.

The program operates under local and state supervision. Hogs are treated by administrators appointed in each county; the grower pays for his services. At present 90 administrators are working in 49 counties.

In carrying out this work the state department and the state veterinarian have cooperation from local employees of the A.P.I. Extension Service and the State Department of Vocational Agriculture. If you are interested in the program and are not receiving its benefits contact your county agent or vocational agriculture teacher.

Grain Elevator Built By Black Belt Farmers

THE Black Belt Elevator and Grain Company, a corporation of farmers and businessmen in Dallas and surrounding counties, has built a grain elevator in Selma. The plant will grade, dry, and store all kinds of grain and will process livestock feeds, corn meal, and grits.

Construction of the elevator was completed last month by Rush Construction Company of Birmingham in 12 days of continuous work. Elevator cleaning and drying equipment were delivered at the plant the middle of June.

Farmers in that area have been unable to sell grain on a graded basis and as a result have sold it for less than market price each fall. The construction of this plant will assure growers a stable price for their grain all year. It will start operation this fall.

May Be Stored

The grain will be eligible for Commodit Credit Corporation Loan or may be stored a small cost. Storing grain at the plant wi assure farmers of avoiding loss from insec and rats.

County Agent L. C. Alsobrook and othe agents in this area believe construction of th elevator will put grains in the same marke ing class with cotton and livestock.

Stock in the company is being issued $100 denominations to farmers and busines men. Producers who have a surplus of gra to market are vitally interested in this pla as are dairymen and poultrymen who have buy feed for supplementing rations.

Spring Saw Bumper Seed Harves

LAST spring was one of the best seed ha vesting seasons known in Alabama h tory. For example, six million bushels of oa were harvested in the state.

That is six times as many oats as were ha vested in the spring of 1918, according to W. Jones, A.P.I. Extension marketing speci ist. In addition, farmers saved 15 milli pounds of winter legume seed—1,000 tim the amount planted in the state 20 years ag

Many farmers will have seed for sale a others will need to buy seed for late Summ and early Fall planting. If both the buy and seller are to benefit from these sales seed should be tested and certified for varie and purity, Jones says. If they are eligi for certification they should also be certifie

Work with your county agent and se dealers to build an industry that will supp increased quantities of high quality planti seed. More such seed are needed for t kind of farming Alabama is developing.

Along the Way with P. O. Davis

DIRECTOR, API EXTENSION SERVICE

WE'RE told that any time is a good time to live, provided we know what to do. And any time is a good time for thinking, provided we think clearly, wisely, and honestly.

In one week recently three statements were made in Alabama by three different people under very different circumstances. Each was thinking clearly, wisely, honestly. So I comment about them.

At the University of Alabama Dr. Charles F. Kettering said "the greatest problem facing the nation is how to teach our young people to differentiate between progressive thinking and false promises." He added that if this can be accomplished "we can forget everything else."

Dr. Kettering is an outstanding scientist, a remarkable inventor, a great American. Each time one rides in an automobile he is indebted to him in several ways. And his genius has not been confined to the automobile.

Action Brings Success

Next a statement by Donald Comer of Birmingham who is head of that excellent chain of textile mills known as Avondale Mills. He deplored that which rewards people for doing nothing; and insisted that success comes from the positive rather than the negative.

As I listened to him I was impressed with his sincere appeal for thought, for study, and for action to create and live; yes, create more and live better in every way.

This caused me to recall a statement made a few years ago by another great American. He said that "only the strong can be free; and only the productive can be strong." So high production on farms and in factories is an absolute essential, not only to progress, but to freedom of this nation, or any other nation.

The third statement was by Lamerle Davidson, a 4-H Club girl of Walker County. She was emphatic that in a true democracy one's achievement is limited only by ability, ambition, character, training, environment. She stressed individual opportunity and responsibility, not false promise to which Dr. Kettering referred.

Individual Greatness

Stated differently, the greatness of America is the total of the greatness of individual Americans; and individual greatness is determined by the qualities and assets named by Lamerle.

The way these three statements blend together and compliment each other is remarkably impressive. They are a combination of science, study, thought, character, action, living.

They are a profound reminder that man, as the Bible says, still "lives by the sweat of his brow" but that by study, thought, and character the drudgery of that sweat is dispelled in a way to make life and living sound and abundant.

A word more about Dr. Kettering's statement. It is a masterpiece. It is both a red light and a green light.

It is a solemn warning to old people, as well as young people, to think clearly and study diligently before coming to a conclusion, or before acting.

Progressive thinking is always in order. It is essential to progress. But false promise can easily nullify.

The warning, therefore, to all of us is to separate the wheat from chaff, truth from false, right from wrong, and act accordingly.

A combination of lespedeza sericea and crimson clover provides both summer and winter grazing for the dairy herd on the Piedmont Substation, Camp Hill.

At top, above, milk cows are grazing a 20-acre field of sericea during the Summer. Below, the cows are grazing crimson clover on the same area during Winter. The combination is proving invaluable in all dairying sections of the state.

Crimson-Sericea Combination Sets Fast Pace In Piedmont

By E. L. MAYTON, Superintendent
Piedmont Substation

TWENTY acres of crimson clover grown in combination with lespedeza sericea on the Piedmont Substation near Camp Hill, furnished all the feed consumed by nine dry cows for five months, and five heifers and 10 producing cows for two months.

Milk sales from the producing cows amounted to approximately $23 per acre during the two months they were grazing crimson clover. The herd was on the clover in April and May.

Crimson clover was seeded on 20 acres of established sericea October 17, 1948. The area had been fertilized with 700 pounds of basic slag and 50 pounds of muriate of potash per acre. The crop was grazed continuously from January 1, 1949, to May 30, 1949, with an average of nine dry cows or heifers. And from April 1 to May 31 it was grazed with 10 producing cows and five heifers. Thus during the months of April and May, the 20 acres carried a total of 24 animals—more than a head per acre.

The milking cows produced an average of 25.7 pounds of milk per day during the two-month period. A small amount of hay was fed them during April to lessen danger of bloat. But the dry cows and heifers were fed nothing in addition to grazing.

Thousands Die Annually In Farm Accidents

NATIONAL Farm Safety Week, proclaimed by President Truman, will be observed July 24-30 this year. Its purpose is to reduce tragic farm accident tolls by urging every farm family to adopt safe practices of living, playing, and working.

Nowhere is the problem of safety more important than on the farm, declares S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. Extension safety chairman. One-fourth of all on-the-job deaths occur in agriculture and one-fourth of all home accidental deaths occur in farm homes. A total of 17,000 farm people lose their lives in accidents each year. And fire alone destroys $100,000,000 worth of farm property. Seriousness of the situation is further emphasized by the fact that less than one-fourth of the country's total population lives on farms.

It is estimated that 1,500,000 accidents happen to farm people each year not including death accidents. Time loss resulting from these is estimated at 250,000,000 man days—enough labor to produce the nation's wheat crop. So the actual cost of farm accidents runs into hundreds of millions of dollars each year. There is no measuring the suffering and unhappiness they cause.

A Hazardous Business

Why are accidents so prevalent on farms and in farm homes? Because, says Doughty, the wide range of the farmer's activities and conditions under which he works make his job dangerous. He must be a "jack-of-all-trades." Facing the risks of each, he must be a carpenter, mechanic, painter, and blacksmith; he must be skilled along many other lines. He rarely gets the training and respect for tools and machinery that is drilled into workers of one special field. He is also forced to work in extremes of light, temperature and weather; he has no well heated and lighted factory under the guidance of a safety engineer.

Farm people live and work among the uncertainties of kicking mules, balky tractors, explosives, poisons, falling trees, vicious bulls, and lightning, to name only a few of the hazards. However, studies reveal that twelve types of accidents account for over 90 per cent of the deaths and serious injuries to farm people. They are (1) falls, (2) burns, (3) machinery, (4) animals, (5) firearms, (6) automobiles, (7) excessive heat, (8) poisoning, (9) mechanical suffocation, (10) falling trees, (11) drowning, and (12) lightning.

Your Farm Is Not Safe Unless You Make It So

A farm should be the safest place on earth. But only the farm owner, the farm family and workers can make it that. Practically every farm accident is the result of somebody's carelessness!

When a neighbor fell through the loose and open board floor of the haymow, it was the result of somebody's carelessness — the man who laid that floor knew it was a death trap. The farmer gored to death by a bull in the cow pasture knew that a thousand other farmers paid with their lives for carelessly trusting a bull. The friend who lost his hand reaching into a running machine, while a safety warning in big letters was right before him, can charge the agony, remorse, and inconvenience to his own utter carelessness.

The accident rate is much lower in many great industries than on farms because safety is taught and safety rules rigidly enforced—this is made an important part of the business. On many farms nothing much is said or done about safety. The result is broken arms, cracked skulls, and heart-breaking funerals.

Make every week a safety week and every day a safety day; work at safety every hour from Sunday morning through Saturday night.

TEN TIPS for FARM SAFETY

1. Never grease, oil, unclog or adjust a machine that is in gear.
2. Keep tools in a safe place.
3. Don't wear floppy clothing that can catch in machinery.
4. Keep ladders and stairways in good repair.
5. Apply first aid promptly, even to minor injuries.
6. Don't smoke around the barn.
7. Keep all safety devices in place.
8. Be careful not to startle animals.
9. Use a staff when leading a bull.
10. Teach others safe practices.

Farm Hazards Increasing!

EVERYBODY instinctively avoids danger. More people are being accidentally killed or injured, not because the instinct of self-preservation is waning, but because the number of hazards is increasing.

On the farm, a new crop of dangers is springing up with the introduction of electricity, new labor-saving machinery, new insect poisons and new devices for doing many jobs. These new "gadgets" are not unsafe—danger lies in their mis-use, and the lack of knowledge of precautions in using them.

To avoid danger, we must know of its existence. With new dangers created every day, the task of learning of their existence and how to avoid them is an enormous undertaking. But it is of tremendous importance to all—that's why Farm Safety Week was proclaimed.

"There's No Place Like Home" -- For Heart Breaking Accidents

THERE is no place like home for being hurt or killed in a careless accident. The national toll last year was 32,500 killed and 4,850,000 injured in homes all over the country.

"Farm homes in Alabama can be safe places in which to live," declares Stella Mitchell, A.P.I. Extension home management specialist. "They have not been safe in the past because we use carelessness as a word which applies to some one else."

Miss Mitchell lists six major causes of accidents in the home and urges all housewives to take steps for preventing them:

1. Falls on stairs, slippery floors, walls and from porches and ladders account for many cripples.

2. Burns by gasoline and kerosene, matches, smoking in bed, steam and hot liquids are also common.

3. Suffocation is caused by bedclothes, babies sleeping with adults, and ingested objects.

4. Firearms kill when played with, or when otherwise handled carelessly.

5. Poison gas causes accidents when stoves are badly vented or otherwise in disrepair, and also when gas fails to ignite.

6. Poisons make home accidents when someone fails to identify a bottle before taking medicine or when harmful substances are placed within a child's reach.

How Safe Is Your Home?

1. Are halls and stairs in your house well lighted, free of boxes, toys, mops, brooms, other tripping hazards and do you have handrails for all stairways?

2. Are ladders, platforms, stairtreads and porchsteps in good repair? Are top and bottom cellar and attic stairs painted white?

3. Are small rugs tacked down or skid-proofed? Stair carpeting secured?

4. Are electric cords in repair and placed to prevent tripping?

5. Are cooking utensil handles turned away from stove edges to prevent tipping? Are you sure window curtains cannot blow over stove flames?

6. Are flues, pipes and chimneys inspected regularly?

7. Do you use non-flammable cleaning fluids?

8. Do you keep matches out of children's reach?

9. Are poisons clearly marked and out of children's reach? Do you turn on the light before taking medicine from the cabinet?

10. Are firearms kept unloaded and locked up?

Marengo County Farmer Sold On Fertilizer

THREE years ago A. G. Rankin, Marengo County beef producer, made a visit to the Black Belt Substation at Marion Junction. It was there, he says, that he became convinced the use of more fertilizer is profitable.

For five years every dollar invested brought a return of 42 pounds of beef, he was told by K. G. Baker, superintendent of the station. In other words for every dollar invested in fertilizer and applied to the land, the station had received $4 in the form of livestock production.

These figures stuck with Mr. Rankin and last year the Rankin farm invested over seven thousand dollars in fertilizer, principally 0-14-10. A visit to his farm shows how that fertilizer is paying off in his operation.

Praised By County Agent

The hundreds of acres of Caley peas, black medic, lappacea clover, ladino clover, white clover and other crops keep green cover on practically every acre of open land. County Agent Frank Jones remembers only a few years ago when this farm was so badly eroded that exposed lime rock would hurt your eyes when you looked across a field. Only one small spot of less than an acre is exposed now on the 1,100-acre farm.

"Terracing, drainage, land reclamation, fertilizer, hard work and good management are responsible for the changes brought about here," says Jones.

Mr. Rankin gives credit to his four sons, Amzi, Johnny, Joe, and William. He says they are the ones who do the work. The boys have hundreds of registered Jerseys grazing on their green pasture. Amzi is president of the Alabama Jersey Cattle Club.

VISITOR FROM TEXAS. Crimson clover is riding a high tide in Alabama agriculture. And growers in Autauga County believe it will continue to be of prime importance in the farming system. In addition to its value as a winter grazing, soil building, and seed crop, the legume adds glamour to a farm when its crimson blooms cover the fields each spring.

Standing in the field of lespedeza sericea and crimson clover, above, two Alabamians explain to a Texan how crimson clover is grown here in combination with other crops. The visitor is one of a group who came here recently to arrange for purchase of crimson clover seed.

Left to right, are Charlie Breedlove, county agent of Autauga, Dan Clinton, county agent of Harris County, Texas, and J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. Extension agronomist.

Tips About Terracing

MORE interest than usual in new terrace construction is the present trend. Much effort will be necessary, however, to regain momentum lost during the war production rush. P.M.A. money used to supplement farmers' expense in doing the job is an added incentive for this work. Here are two pointers from A.P.I. extension engineers on construction:

1. Build terraces with a channel cross section of 10 to 12 feet. It will take this to keep a six-foot cross section.

2. A terrace channel cross section can be increased as much as two square feet by plowing out one time. Build wide channels; they are easier farmed and will not silt in so easily.

Guard Against Parasites

CONTROL of internal parasites helps insure healthy livestock, increases gains, and maintains high production. The American Foundation for Animal Health offers seven suggested steps for farmers to take as control measures:

1. Use clean pasture, and practice pasture rotation if possible.

2. Dispose of refuse piles that may harbor parasites.

3. Fence off or drain low swampy areas where young stock are likely to pick up parasites.

4. Provide a clean water supply.

5. Avoid overstocking pastures.

6. If a check-up shows the presence of parasites, have animals treated with an anti-parasitic compound before turning them into the pasture.

7. Keep a close watch for such symptoms as scouring, weakness, and slow gains. If these symptoms appear, obtain a diagnosis to determine whether parasites or infectious diseases are causing the trouble. Then start proper treatment at once. It is wise to follow the guidance of a veterinarian on such measures.

"Parasite invasions cut livestock profits by millions of dollars," the foundation warns. Curb these losses in 1949.

The rug which ordinarily would retail for around $100 cost Mrs. Moorer $12 for materials. She worked on it for two months.

Preventing Off-Flavored Milk

IF you are confronted with off-flavors in milk when you make an abrupt change in dairy cattle feeding, follow the advice of W. D. Salmon, A.P.I. agricultural experiment station nutritionist.

Professor Salmon recommends taking the cows off grazing crops for a period of two to five hours before milking. If they are turned back on grazing immediately after milking, they will get ample grazing to produce a good flow of nutritious milk.

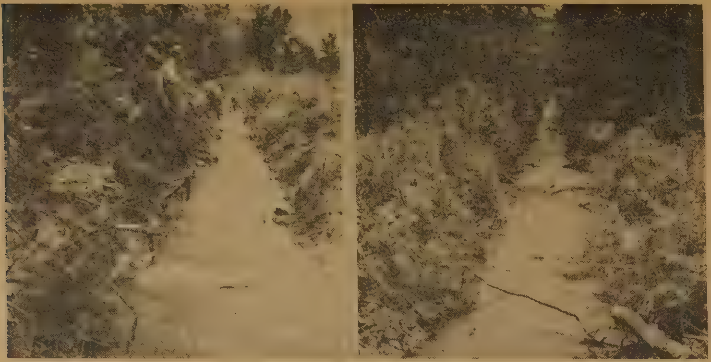
Tests conducted by the A.P.I. Experiment Station show that cows on grazing crops give milk with five times as much Vitamin A as milk from cows on dry rations. A few weeks or days of gradual treatment is necessary in getting customers used to the change when turning on grazing. When consumers become familiar with the new flavors cows can be kept on grazing continuously without further objections.

Where there are onions or bitter weeds in the pasture off-flavors will continue to be objectionable. Many times lush grazing gets blamed for off-flavors caused by these pests. Since no one ever gets accustomed to disagreeable flavors of this type the answer for the problem is to remove the weeds from pasture.

A PRACTICAL APPROACH. What the A.P.I. Extension service and the Alabama P.M.A. did with eight land reclamation schools in the state this Spring and Summer was to show professional workers a practical way of bringing the state's one million acres of idle land back into production.

At each of the schools, large machinery working under the supervision of J. B. Wilson and Lawrence Ennis, A.P.I. Extension engineers, cleared and leveled land, filled gullies, and constructed terraces in fields that were completely useless. Then farm equipment was used to plant the areas in sericea. After reclaiming, the land was valued at $50 per acre. P.M.A. payments are available for this type of work in the state this year.

The pictures above were made in Talladega County at the last of the series of schools. At left J. B. Wilson, extreme left in picture, is shown discussing the project with other extension and P.M.A. leaders present. The truck at right is spreading lime ahead of planting equipment.



The above pictures show two sections of a 2800-foot ditch blasted in Lowndes County to change the course of a creek. Several farmers in the Letohatchee area joined in the project and shared expenses; they will be repaid in part by PMA drainage payments.

The ditch required 17 cases of dynamite and three days of labor with several hands working. The job was supervised by J. W. Mathews, county agent, shown in the picture at left with T. J. Gerald, assistant agent.

Camp Grist Site Of Annual Forestry Camp Again In '49

FOUR-H Club boys from South Alabama and FFA members from the northern half of the state will attend the annual State Forestry Camp the last week in August. Camp Grist in Dallas County will be the site for the camp again this year.

Lasting for one week, the outing will begin July 31 and end August 6. One farm youngster will be selected to attend from each of the state's 67 counties. Counties that sent 4-H boys last year will be represented by FFA members at this year's camp. Other counties will send 4-H Clubbers.

Hanchey Logue, state 4-H Club leader, announced that 4-H representatives will come from A.P.I. extension districts two and three. Members selected, he said, must be between the ages of 14 and 20; they must have forestry projects or be showing an active interest in timber operations on their farms.

All expenses will be taken care of in camp, but boys will pay their travel expenses to and from Selma. Last year, Logue pointed out, banks, civic clubs, county 4-H councils and other groups sponsored trips and paid travel expenses of representatives going from their county.

Roosters Lay No Eggs

ROOSTERS do not lay eggs. Too many flock owners are letting roosters continue to eat their feed when they no longer have a need for them.

John Weeks, A.P.I. extension poultryman, recommends that all roosters not being used in hatchery supply flocks be sold now. Besides consuming valuable feed these birds reduce the quality of eggs.

Here are some more suggestions the poultryman makes for handling the flock this month:

1. Cull the laying flock. Sell off old hens as pullets come into production. Hen prices are probably higher now than they will be in the next few months when heavy culling gets under way in other areas. It takes 25 to 30 cents per month to feed a hen. If she is not paying her way turn her into cash or a Sunday dinner.
2. Immunize pullets against fowlpox. Also immunize against Newcastle disease if it has occurred in your area. If hatching eggs were produced where Newcastle disease is present this is especially important.
3. Pullets now on range are your future egg producers. Get them into production early this year to get as many Fall and Winter eggs as possible.
4. Prepare for winter green crops for your hens.
5. Plan alfalfa plantings for next Spring and Summer.
6. How hot is the temperature in your poultry house? Broilers make poor use of feed and egg production drops off when temperature is excessively high. If your house is hot you may need to add more windows or take out a wall to get the temperature down.

The Right Type Hog

THE demand for hog lard in this country is decreasing and lard exports are falling off. As a result, Alabama hog growers are swinging rapidly to the intermediate-type hog for market.

G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. Extension hog specialist, explains that such a hog has more meat than the lardy-type. To grow the intermediate hog he recommends that farmers breed their sows to purebred boars of that type.

"Then," the specialist advises, "feed all pigs intended for market or slaughter a balanced ration which includes green grazing."

Grazed Corn Not Enough

THE time of year has come when hogs grazing corn in the field will be a familiar scene—they will be enjoying themselves, saving labor for the farmer and making money.

"When corn is fed properly it is the best feed known for hogs," says G. B. Phillips, A.P.I. Extension hog specialist. "But hog growers must remember that corn fed alone is one of the poorest rations."

Phillips explains his statement by adding that hogs grazing corn need access to minerals and protein supplement. For best results he recommends that supplement be self-fed, free choice in the field. The protein helps the animal make better use of corn.

Since corn is very deficient in bone-building qualities a good mineral mixture should be fed in a box alongside the supplement.

BEEF IS THEIR BY WORD. Farm boys and girls in organized rural clubs of Alabama sold over $250,000.00 worth of beef at 14 district fat stock shows this spring.

The 4-H Club and FFA youngsters entered 1,063 animals, 72 per cent of which graded U. S. Good or better. They sold their calves for an average price of 30.7 cents per pound or about $250 per animal.

Representative of the several championship winners over the state are the two youths shown in the above picture. They are 13-year-old Carolyn Blalock, Cullman County 4-H girl and Walter Shaw, Tanner FFA member.

Carolyn's calf was grand champion and Walter's won reserve honors at the Birmingham event, last of the beef calf shows this year.

No More 52-20 Dough AfterJuly Twenty-fifth

Montgomery, Ala. — Most of Alabama's 285,000 World II veterans will not be eligible for unemployment or self-employment benefits after July 25, Fleetwood Carnley, director of the Department of Industrial Relations, reminded them today.

"There has been considerable confusion about the termination of this program and the 51 local employment offices over the state report that the number of veterans seeking information is on the increase," Carnley said. He pointed out that all veterans who were discharged before July 25, 1947, cannot draw the readjustment allowance benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights after the 25th of this month unless Congress extends the act before that date.

Many veterans have been under the impression that if they were drawing payments on July 25, they could continue to draw payments after that date until they have received the maximum, Carnley said. "The fact is that regardless of how long the individual veteran has been drawing benefits, his payments will cease this month unless he was discharged after July 25, 1947," Carnley said.

Some veterans who can no longer receive benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights will be able to make claims for unemployment compensation under the state act. During June there were about 15,000 Alabama veterans who received benefits under the federal readjustment allowance program. It is estimated that about half of these may be eligible for regular unemployment compensation benefits.

"To be eligible for unemployment benefits under the state law, veterans will have to qualify on the same basis as non-veteran claimants," Carnley said.

Under the state law veterans who file claims must have worked for employers who are covered by the act. They must also qualify on a basis of minimum earnings, be "willing and able to work" and meet other requirements. The state law makes no provision for self-employment allowances.

Veterans whose payments cease under the G. I. Bill and who may be eligible for state unemployment compensation must make new applications, Carnley said. If they are otherwise qualified for benefits, the fact that they have drawn benefits under the G.I. Bill does not affect their claim for regular unemployment compensation.

The weekly benefit for unemployed veterans is $20.00 a week, and they are eligible for a maximum of 52 weeks. Payments under the state law vary with a maximum of $20.00 a week, and a maximum of 20 weeks in any one year.

Only a small percentage of Alabama's veterans were discharged after July 25, 1947, Carnley said. These may continue to file readjustment allowance claims, but they are eligible for a period of only two years after their discharge just as other veterans were.

Carnley also pointed out that the ending of eligibility for readjustment allowance payments does not affect other programs under the G.I. Bill, such as on-the-job-training for veterans learning trades or farming, educational benefits, or G.I. home or business loans. These latter programs run for longer periods than the readjustment allowance program.

Since the readjustment allowance program began, Alabama veterans have received more than $100,000,000. During June there were some 11,900 veterans who drew $901,527 for unemployment, and 3,100 who drew $326,015 as self-employment allowances.

JOE MONEY TO SEEK GOVERNORSHIP

Birmingham, Ala. — The name of Joe Money, Birmingham businessman, now can be added to the list of Alabamians definitely planning to seek the governorship in 1950.

Mr. Money, widely known over the State for his business ability and his active interest in sound government, said this week he has been in touch in recent months with many citizens in all 67 counties and has been gratified and encouraged by assurances of strong support if he enters the race.

While it is far too early for formal announcements, Mr. Money said, he desires at this time to express appreciation to all those who have proffered support and to say that it is his "positive intention to become a candidate for governor of Alabama in the Democratic primaries next year."

Mr. Money is 38 years old, a native of Jackson County, and is president of the statewide machinery company bearing his name. He has been prominently mentioned for the governorship for more than a year, but his statement this week was the first disclosure of his plans.

FARM BUREAU URGES HILL COTTON LABELING BILL

Cotton is used by every individual in the nation, yet 80 per cent of the cotton goods on the market are not identified as cotton, Walter L. Randolph, President of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, told a Senate subcommittee in testifying for Senator Hill's cotton products identification bill.

The Hill bill will require the labeling and identification of cotton products advertised or offered for sale. Randolph testified as a member of the board of directors of the American Farm Bureau Federation, which has endorsed the Hill bill. He was introduced to the committee by Senator Hill.

"The cotton farmer has played a big part in developing and building the reputation of many brands of clothing, household items and industrial cotton goods," Randolph said. "The cotton farmer is entitled to share in the value of the brand reputations he helped to create.

"The consumer is entitled to know what he is paying for. Cotton has outstanding qualities of washability, absorbability, wet strength, resistance to wear and abrasion. These may mean the difference between satisfactory performance and wasted money in buying textile goods."

Senator Hill, urging favorable committee action on his bill, pointed out that the Department of Agriculture and the Federal Trade Commission has said enactment would be "advantageous to cotton farmers, cotton manufacturers, and the consumers of textile products."

Cotton is losing the benefit of some $10,000,000 a year in national advertising, Randolph said, because so many cotton products are not labeled.

"Identification of wool and rayon in advertising and labeling already is mandatory," he said. "The same benefits and protection will be given cotton through the Hill bill."

FARM FORESTRY CAMP FOR FOR BOYS OPENS JULY 31

Montgomery, Ala. — Farm youths from each of Alabama's 67 counties will get an insight into the proper handling of their woodland resource again this summer. The fourth annual Alabama Forestry Training Camp for Farm Youths will be held July 31-August 6 at Camp Grist in Valley Creek Park near Selma.

The campers will consist of 4-H and F.F.A. Club members, one farm youth from each county being selected. Reversing last year's procedure, the 4-H Club boys will come from south Alabama and the F.F.A. boys from north Alabama.

Youths selected to attend the camp must either have forestry projects or have an active interest in timber operations on their farms. They are given intensive courses in growth and protection of trees, forest fire control, tree identification, harvesting, utilizing and marketing of timber and an insight into the state's forestry program. All the camp time is not work, they have competitive athletic events, most popular of which concerns aquatic sports in the Valley Creek Lake.

Dan C. Royal, Selma, Miller Lumber Company forester, will again serve as camp director, according to State Forester J. M. Stauffer, of the camp committee. The faculty will consist of foresters from the Department of Conservation's Division of Forestry, U. S. Forest Service, A.P.I. Extension Service, Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association and the state's pulpwood plants.

The camp is sponsored by member firms in Alabama of the Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association; Gulf States Paper Corporation, Tuscaloosa; Southern Kraft Division, International Paper Company and the Hollingsworth and Whitney Company, both of Mobile.

MORE BEEF, ANSWER TO PRODUCTION CONTROLS

Production controls are gradually coming back, points out W. H. Gregory, A.P.I. Extension Service livestock specialist.

Gregory maintains that this offers Alabama farmers a great opportunity to further increase the state's beef cattle enterprise. He says that results at the Tennessee Valley Substation have shown that farmers, with a small acreage of land released, could very well go into the business of buying thin steers in the fall and selling them in the spring.

"Farmers who have 60 acres or more of available land should consider very seriously going into the brood cow business," advises the specialist. "Any farmer interested in going into the beef cattle business should contact the local county agent.

Farmer Action Needed On Farm Records

By B. L. COLLINS, Executive Officer
Alabama Production and Marketing Administration

MUCH is being written and said these days about a long-range farm program. While such a program is of prime importance to farmers, other matters of a more immediate nature now require positive action by individual farmers.

They concern acreage information on such basic commodities as cotton and wheat and on the so-called war crops used in connection with marketing quotas of these crops. Marketing quotas are now in effect on wheat. Cotton farmers no doubt will have an opportunity to vote on quotas this fall.

To put quotas in effect requires a two-thirds favorable vote by farmers. County A.C.A. offices, operating under the direction of farmer-elected county committees, are contacting farmers in every community for the purpose of obtaining basic information.

It is of the utmost importance that the acreage history covering every farm be obtained since the farm's past record will be used as the basis for making allotments. It will be extremely difficult, if not impossible, for a farm to receive an allotment if its acreage history is not furnished on time.

Marketing Agreements

Increased interest is being shown by farmers in the use of marketing agreements. Marketing agreements are used as a means for more orderly marketing of certain commodities and to bring about a better price to the farmer. Public hearings have recently been held with respect to a proposed marketing agreement and marketing order regulating the handling of pecans grown in Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Mississippi, and South Carolina.

Pecan growers and handlers will testify as to the need for such marketing agreement. When, and if, approved by the Secretary of Agriculture, pecan growers, large and small, will have an opportunity to vote for or against putting the agreement into effect.

This same sort of opportunity to enter into marketing agreements is open to potato growers and to growers of certain other commodities not subject to marketing quotas. The initiative for such action rests with the growers and handlers of the particular commodity. A favorable vote by growers of the crop is required before agreements are put into effect.

Alfalfa Seed In Short Supply

SOME farmers who have planned to plant alfalfa this year may have to alter their plans because of the seed shortage.

The 1949 crop will not be harvested until August and very few seed will reach us in time for planting this year, says Ralph Jones, A.P.I. Extension specialist in seed crops marketing. Many farmers of Central and South Alabama have successfully used Argentine seed, but seed of this variety are not available this year. Heavy import and export duties to the United States have caused these seed to be diverted to other countries, Jones adds.

Some farmers bought alfalfa seed three or four years ago and did not plant them because of the extreme potash shortage. If you have carried over alfalfa seed, chances are they are still good since they remain viable for eight years where properly stored. To be sure, however, have them tested before planting. Farmers can get their seed tested free at the State Seed Laboratory, Montgomery, Alabama.

Is Your Meal Enriched?

BY the time summer ends millers in all Alabama counties will have had the opportunity to install corn meal enrichment attachments on grist mills.

John Bell, A.P.I. Extension specialist in charge of corn meal enrichment, reports he has worked with county agents in 64 counties contacting millers and informing consumers about the value of the enrichment program. In those counties 477 mills are now adding concentrated minerals to their product. More than 51,000 pounds of the mixture have been used.

Numerous instances are reported where millers increased their business by offering this added service to consumers. In cases where all mills of a locality are not enriching their meal customers drive extra miles to get the enriched product, Bell explains.

In outlining the advantages of corn meal enrichment, the specialist points out the wide use of corn bread on tables in Southern homes. He emphasizes the fact that ordinary corn meal is low in the content of thiamine, niacin, and riboflavin. These nutrients are important to everyday health and sometimes prevent the occurence of certain skin diseases.

With the attachments now in use all over the state these all-important minerals are added to the meal as it is ground. The mixture is inexpensive to use and is tasteless. Does your miller enrich your meal?

H. K. Dour, grist mill operator of McKenzie in Butler County, is one of hundreds of millers in the state who have installed corn meal enrichment attachments during recent months.

Above, Dour is explaining to home agent Claribel Parsons the use of another feature he added to give his customers a better product. It is a corn cleaner through which he runs all corn before grinding.

"You would be surprised at some of the trash that comes out of corn," the miller stated, "especially where it is power-shelled."

Army Worms March Again

THE fall army worm has destroyed stands of corn on some acres in South Alabama counties already.

Watch your corn for worm damage. If worms appear in numbers corn should be dusted at once with a material that contains 10 per cent DDT.

TREES ARE IN MOST DANGER of insect attacks during the summer. When bugs get a good start they often kill a large number of trees in a forest. In affected areas, tests show that bugs can be killed before they move on to other trees, however. This is done by cutting the affected trees, removing the bark, and exposing the trunks to direct sunlight.

FARM POWER EFFICIENCY can best be improved by increased annual use. Records from Alabama farmers indicate that the hourly costs of using tractor power are nearly twice as high when tractors are used 600 hours as when used 1,200 or more. Workstock costs are more than four times as high when animals are used less than 500 hours as when used 1,000 hours annually.

RESEEDING CRIMSON CLOVER, seeded with a mixture of Kentucky 31 fescue in September, 1947, came up to a good stand in tests but failed to reseed satisfactorily in the fall of 1948 where fescue was not grazed or mowed. Apparently, it is necessary to either graze or mow fescue in late Summer or early Fall if a stand of crimson clover is to be maintained.

ONE ACRE OF ALFALFA furnished all the feed—grazing and hay—consumed by a dairy cow for 26 months before the stand disappeared. During the 26 months the cow produced 14,021 pounds of milk valued at about $491. The cash expense for establishing and maintaining the alfalfa was about $65.

ALFALFA USED AS A HAY CROP on the animal husbandry section of the Main Experiment Station yielded four to six tons of hay per acre annually for the past three years. TO HAVE IRISH POTATOES ALL YEAR, plan a spring and fall crop. Seed potatoes taken from the spring crop are satisfactory for fall planting. They should be stored in a cool, damp, dark cellar, or in a light straw bank (no dirt covering) in a moist shady spot.

* * *

FALL IRISH POTATOES planted in a moist but well-drained bottom, or on a dry site that is mulched, irrigated, and well fertilized will usually produce economical yields. The Triumph and Sebago are good varieties. Best planting dates are from July 20 in North Alabama to August 15 in South Alabama.

MOSQUITOES, when numerous, have been found to reduce the number of eggs laid by hens. Spraying the inside of the chicken house regularly with DDT will prevent egg losses from this cause and at the same time reduce the spread of fowl pox.

THE TENNESSEE VALLEY SUBSTATION recommends that all lands to be planted to crimson clover and ryegrass for early grazing be prepared and the fertilizer applied on or before July 20.

Farmers who plan to plant a combination of sericea and reseeding crimson clover for grazing, should have their land prepared and fertilized by July 15.

COW SHOULD BE BRED AT THE RIGHT TIME

Auburn, Ala. — Most cows remain in heat about 16 to 18 hours, but in many cases, the time varies considerably.

"Ovulation or releasing of the egg from the female ovary takes place from 10 to 12 hours after the end of heat; therefore, cows should be bred before the egg is released in order that propr union of the male and female germ cells can take place," explains Pete Turnham, A.P.I. Extension Service dairy specialist.

"Animals noticed in heat during the early morning should be bred during late afternoon,' advises the specialist. "If cows come in heat in late afternoon they should be bred any time between noon and mid-afternoon the next day. Keeping a record of the time a cow is due to come in heat will eliminate guess work on heat expectancy.

ALABAMA MERCHANTS CONVENTION HELD IN BIRMINGHAM

Grocers and other food merchants from all parts of Alabama will convene in Birmingham July 20-21 for the 1949 Alabama Merchants Convention sponsored by the Alabama Food Council.

Announcement was made today by C. V. Self, Food Council president, and general manager, R. L. Zeigler Co., Bessemer, Ala., who said some of the nation's leading authorities on food merchandising will be present.

The men "who feed Alabama" will see a complete model self-service store properly stocked and fully equipped. In this store, President Self said, clinics will be held, by men of national reputation, on produce, dairy products, meats, prepackaging and general merchandising.

Representatives from the U. S. Department of Commerce and U. S. Department of Agriculture will participate in the Convention with displays of their aids to the small business man, and with personal advisers, to explain the cooperation available to the food merchants from their respective departments.

Being held at Birmingham's huge Municipal Auditorium, the Merchants Convention also will feature a wide variety of entertainment plus a host of free awards, including a new automobile.

"The Alabama Food Council is making every effort to insure that the 1949 Convention will be the most beneficial, entertaining and successful ever held," President Self said. He added that everything will be free to food merchants.

"All merchants, whether members of the Food Council or not, are invited to be the guests of the Alabama Food Council and the Alabama Merchants Convention," President Self continued.

Scores of unusual exhibits are being arranged, he said, and many novel items will be shown, along with many of Alabama's favorite stand-bys.

During the two day confab the clinic on meat merchandising will be conducted by C. E. Van Reed, of the National Live Stock & Meat Board, Chicago, Ill. Other widely known experts also will appear.

A feature of the convention will be a food show for the general public. Banquets, entertainment and other activites will round out the two-day program.

Rebuild the Bee Line Highway Now!

Governor Folsom wants 160 million dollars for road construction in Alabama. The legislature, instead, will submit a constitutional amendment calling for issuance of 40 million dollars in bonds, to be expended at the rate of 10 million per year.

All road bonds are issued by the state with income from state gas and oil taxes pledged for their redemption.

The truck highways of Alabama with dense motor traffic naturally are the big tax money producers; the revenue from which forms the major part of the highway department's income.

Therefore it is only logical, good business and good sense that these main traffic arteries be kept in A-1 condition.

Unfortunately, such is far from being the case. U. S. 31, which we call the "Bee Line Highway," is by far the heaviest traveled road in Alabama. Yet it is one of the worst highways in the state. The roadway is a crazy quilt of patchwork repairs. It is rough, it is almost completely worn out in many places. It is dangerous, narrow, full of blind curves.

As Alabama's biggest highway revenue producer, if for no other reason, the Bee Line certainly should be rebuilt and made a safe, comfortable trunk-line highway, attractive to tourists and home motorists. This overhaul should have priority over any other highway construction in Alabama. — Cullman Democrat.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Yep, the Third Annual Chilton County Peach Festival has passed and we learned a few more things. One was the fact that if the Program Committee is organized and gets to work several months before the date of the Festival, a much better job can be done. Not that our Program Committee didn't do a good job for the time they had, but just see how much better job could have been done with plenty of time to make contacts.

We must compliment James Popwell on his improvement at the "mike." He has developed quite the experienced air about his announcing and it sounds good.

That was J. Archie Ogburn you heard saying late Wednesday night: "I hope that I shall never see, a little man as tired as me."

They tell us that a customer of Jimmy Warren across the street at his studio was complaining about a picture not doing her justice. Jimmy contends that it wasn't justice she needed—it was mercy.

Looks like we will soon be growing strawberries twelve months in the year. While in Thorsby Saturday afternoon we chanced to meet Pope Payne and W. L. Leary on the street in front of Pope's Hardware Store. Mr. Leary was telling us that on July 3rd of this year he picked a quart of strawberries from his patch. It reminded us that quite a few stories went around during the Christmas Season about folks eating strawberries from their patches. Mr. Leary says that he was one of them too. Gosh, that's berries eight months out of the year, what you'd call "the berries."

Isn't the widening of Seventh Street (the Highway) going to make a great difference in our traffic situation. To date only one block has been completed but it is enough to see how badly it was needed. Now when the white-way lights are installed, Clanton will look like the little city it is, to motorists coming through. In fact it will look real inviting. Much more in keeping with our slogan, "A Good Place To Visit; A Better Place To Live."

What makes folks greet you with, "Hot enough for you?"

Birmingham has long bragged about the number of it's inhabitants who spend their summer vacation on the Florida Coast around Panama City. In fact one of the beaches and night clubs down that away is called Little Birmingham. We'll bet a plugged nickle that according to population Clanton and Chilton County sends ten to one more vacationists to this popular beach than does the Magic City. During the hot months (and we do mean now), there are a dozen families weekly coming and going to the Florida beaches.

Signs of the Times

"But thou, O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end; many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased." (Dan. 12:4). We are living in the days of increase of knowledge. Just h[illegible] further man can go, we will have to wait and see. But ever since the turn of the century knowledge has been increased; till today we have the motion picture, the radio, the automobile, the airplane, the talking machine, the atomic bomb, the television, and a thousand other things which man has been able to pro-

The Pharisees with the Sadducees [illegible] to Jesus, tempting him, desired him that he would show a sign from heaven. He answered and said unto [illegible] it is evening, ye say, it [illegible] be [illegible] ye [illegible] he sky, but [illegible] ern the signs of the [illegible] all that man has learn[illegible] it is to ev[illegible] n of the times [illegible] Knowledge [illegible] and men are running to and fro. God said [illegible] would be at the time of the end. The disciples asked Jesus, saying, "What shall be the signs of thy coming, and of the end of the world. Jesus answered, "Ye shall hear of wars and rumors of wars. See that ye be not troubled, for all these things must come to pass. For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom; and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes. And there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity. Men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth; for the powers of heaven shall be shaken.

And then shall they see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with power and great glory. When these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh. . . .Man has subdued the power of nature unto himself. MARRY AND LIVE LONGER

If one has the time and patience to search hard enough, he can find statistics on almost any subject. Many figures have been used to prove mathematically many things about marriage, but the latest ones seem to be so used as to help a person who is trying to persuade someone else to marry him or her.

Perfectly reliable statistics have been used in the March issue of Hygeia, health magazine, to show that marriage is a good prescription for a long and healthy life. The authors, Rose and Irv Leiberman, say that for each married man 20 years of age and over who dies, 141 single men die. Women fare slightly better without matrimonial ties since the ratio of women over 20 who die is one married to 117 single.

Married persons have better nerves, are less subject to mental disease and mental breakdown, and have a lower mortality rate from heart disease, cancer, tuberculosis, accident and suicide. Now take those accidents; marriage reduces man's chance of dying in this manner by more than one half, regardless of popular misconceptions as to the effectiveness of the rolling pin as a weapon.

The medical writers offer the possible explanations that marriage promotes better and more rational habits of eating, sleeping and recreation. It causes men and women to tend to avoid hazardous adventure, violent sports and sources of germ infections. Also the responsibility of family care and the mutual concern over health results in consulting a doctor before illness becomes advanced.

So get married and live longer. Never mind the cynic who tells you it only seems longer. Statistics have come to the aid of the grand old institution to prove that the longevity is real as well as apparent.

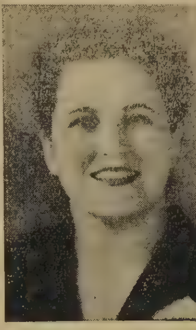
Cancer Fight In Alabama To Reach Widest Scope



Mrs. Mamye Atkinson

BIRMINGHAM — (Special) — The American Cancer Society's volunteer organization of cancer fighters in Alabama—already one of the best organized in the United States—is to be extended and expanded even more.

Mrs. Lillian G. Meade, Executive Director of the Society's Alabama Division, announced here today that Mrs. Mamye Atkinson, Commander of the Jefferson County Unit, has been promoted to State Field Representative to help build comprehensive cancer control units in every county in the state.

In counties where control units are well-organized now, the organization will be extended down to communities within the counties, Mrs. Meade said, and in counties where the units are new, they will be enlarged and strengthened.

"Mrs. Atkinson was selected by the State Executive Committee to carry out the work because of her remarkable record in her ten months as Jefferson County Commander and her skill for organization," Mrs. Meade added.

"Jefferson County doctors tell us that the number of patients for cancer examination and the percentage in which cancer is being caught in the early stages, has climbed to an all-time peak.

"Much of this increase they attribute to the intensive cancer education work which was directed there by Mrs. Atkinson. Now our objective is to get the same results in every county."

Mrs. Atkinson's new duties will carry her over the entire state and will put her in close working relationship with professional, industrial, business and civic leaders in each county.

She resigned a lucrative position as personnel director of a chain of women's wear shops to enter the field of cancer control last August. She already had gained wide note for her volunteer work for the Red Cross when her husband, the late Capt. John Atkinson, was director of the Office of Civilian Defense in Alabama during World War II.

Mrs. Atkinson, who lives in Birmingham, is Health Chairman for the Third District, Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs—a group for which she organized the first health forum ever held in Alabama—and is Health Chairman for the Women's Civic Club.

She is a member of the Business & Professional Women's Club and numerous other organizations. Most of her time will be spent out in the state, but her Birmingham headquarters will be at 907 Ramsay McCormick Building, Birmingham.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

July 12, 1949.

Hon. Edward deGraffenried
Old House Office Building
Washington, D.C.

Dear Congressman:

I am sure that you have made a study of Bill 1882 which is the Brannon Farm Program. This Bill, in my opinion, means the survival of the small farms. Farming is a way of life as well as a means of livelihood for these people and they can be maintained only by a one hundred percent parity.

This machine age of mass production on the farm as well as in the factory has come to a dangerous point. The machine, in the industrial field, has brought a quick supply of goods as well as created a mass of unemployed workers.

The machine on large farms has created a competition that the small farmers cannot meet and will be forced to seek other ways of livelihood if not protected on his small farm.

The Brannon plan of 100% parity to small farmers will not only help small farmers, but will help small business men also.

If the farmer gets full parity for his products he will then be able to pay his doctor bill, his grocery and clothing bill.

This machine age has created a great challenge to our democratic way of life and our leaders must meet this challenge with courage and sincerity if it is to become an asset instead of a liability.

It seems to me that if America with its men, resources and machines can fight a successful war against dictatorship and exploitation on foreign soils, that it can, with these men, resources and machines, wage a successful campaign for economic democracy within it's own borders.

Our problems of today are a great challenge to every serious minded American and I feel that every one should accept his responsibility as a citizen to help find the correct answers to these problems.

Yours truly,

W. L. SANDERS,
Clanton, Alabama.

WAYS TO HELP KEEP FARM PRICES STABLE

Some people expect the fall decline in farm prices to come sooner this year, possibly beginning as early as August 15.

A. W. Jones, A.P.I. Extension Service marketing specialist, reveals that earlier sale of more spring pigs grown out from the big 1948 grain crop is expcted. He states that these pigs, together with bigger supplies of broilers, milk, eggs, turkeys, dairy products, and animal and vegetable oils may bring prices down sooner than usual.

Jones believes that Alabama farmers may keep farm prices more stable by leveling out the fall flow of products to market. "In other words," says Jones, "earlier sales should not only bring the highest prices, but they should help get the big run of increased supplies into use earlier which would lengthen the marketing period and help stabilize prices."

Women Found Averse to Being Called "Maids"

MILWAUKEE.—Most women do not like to be maids. Even less do they like to be called maids.

Several Milwaukee agencies are sharply aware of this. For years they tried to sell a domestic employment program to Milwaukee girls with the aim of improving household working conditions, but most girls would have no part of it. Although they could cook, wash and take care of children, many women did not like to earn a living that way.

The household employment program, which was at its height here about 10 years ago under the supervision of a citizens' group, the YWCA and the vocational school, was never very successful even during depression years when women were forced into domestic jobs. At best it consisted of employer and employe placement bureaus and a training school. The spark of life it did have apparently was snuffed out by the surge of industrial employment which accompanied World War II.

Although the Milwaukee citizens' committee on household employment died with the demand for household jobs, about 19 cities, including Milwaukee, were included in a recent report on household employment programs published by the women's bureau of the United States department of labor.

Problem General

No community has solved the important problem of household employment, according to Frieda S. Miller, director of the bureau. While specific standards and progress of programs varied from city to city, she found, the local projects have accepted the basic principle that wages and working conditions for houseworkers should be set in the same way as for other workers.

1. Establishment of working condition standards.
2. Better training for employer and employe.
3. Efficient placement service.
4. Improved status for household employes.

"For the worker," wrote Miss Miller, "such programs should result in better working conditions and more job security in the long established but unstandardized occupation. For the employer they should mean better trained and better satisfied workers, a partial answer to the difficulties thousands of homemakers have experienced since close to a half mililon domestic workers left homes for wartime jobs several years ago."

Failure of the citizens' group in Milwaukee to interest a sufficient number of women in the program is attributed by Mrs. Walter Blount, chairman, to the war.

"The war was upon us and we knew there was no use in trying to attract girls to housework when there was so much war work," she said.

Worked with YWCA

For a number of years the citizens' group worked with the YWCA in operating a household employes' and employers' placement bureau. They intended that ultimately the question of wages, hours and working conditions would be considered. The program passed to the vocational school, where after a struggle to interest girls, it faded.

From 1938 to 1942 the school had a domestic program, according to Miss Isabel Scholl the counselor who directed it. The program mainly was a training course. A five room apartment was constructed for training in household work with full and part time classes.

Mrs. Jack Critchfield of Dayton, Ohio, is spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Sherrod; also Mrs. D. E. Horne of Marion, Ala., and Mrs. L. A. Sample of Selma, Ala., were Sunday guests.

'SUN SICKNESS' IN WHITE LIVESTOCK

Sunshine, the greatest of Nature's disease preventives, can cause serious trouble for white-skinned animals.

Too much is too much, especially when such animals are exposed to bright sunlight after eating certain "sensitizing" plants.

The result is a sore, peeling and highly inflamed skin over all white-surfaced areas of the body exposed to sunlight. "Sun sickness" is a popular name for the condition. Photo-sensitization is the accurate veterinary term, and the disease is also known as solar eczema and trifoliosis.

The condition affects all types of livestock with white skin or white-patches of skin. It is seen in horses with white-stockinged feet, in line-backed Hereford cattle, in Holstein cows, in white and white-spotted pigs, and in sheep. A frequent complication in sheep is "big head," where the ears become thick and swollen as a result of sun sickness. In some animals the symptoms may resemble a contagious disease. It is therefore important to get a veterinarian's opinion if any of these signs show up.

The only known preventive steps are to provide shade, and to prevent grazing on pastures known to cause trouble. Among the plants that sensitize animals to sunshine are certain clovers, St. John's wort, wild buckwheat and lecheguilla.

Note damaged, peeling hide.

Usually, if the trouble is "sun sickness" and not some disease, the animal will recover in a few days if it is given proper treatment by your veterinarian, and protected from direct sunlight.

U. S. SHOULD NOW ERADICATE RABIES

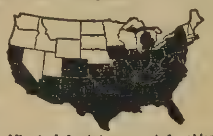
Modern vaccination for rabies is 95 per cent effective. Federal agencies and many states have funds and authority to fight this treacherous disease. And everyone agrees on how to control it.

So, there is no excuse for allowing the dread virus of rabies to go on striking down 8,000 to 10,000 animals and persons each year in this country. Rabies can be eradicated here—just as it has been in England, Norway and Sweden.

People usually think of rabies as a "mad dog" disease — especially common in stray dogs. But it is more than that. Actually, all warm-blooded animals can and do have rabies. Nearly 1,000 head of farm livestock were among the 9,000 reported victims in 1947. Most cases are traced to bites from dogs, but rabid squirrels, skunks, foxes and other animals are responsible for many outbreaks.

Rabies is tricky, too, because the symptoms vary in different cases. Fierce dogs may become docile, quiet dogs may become aggressive, before they go into the "mad" stage. Rabid cows and horses become wild and excitable, with a tendency to bite and kick or bunt at moving objects. In the final stage, any animal or person dying of rabies goes into a state of collapse and paralysis.

What to do about it? If rabies is suspected in a dog or other animal, call the veterinarian at once. The case must be reported.



All shaded states reported rabies cases in 1947.

But the real answer is prevention—and widespread preventive measures can eradicate rabies and end this threat to the animal and human populations. Annual vaccination of dogs, coupled with strict control of dogs in rabies areas, is the answer. All dog owners should co-operate with veterinarians and other authorities in every effort to stamp out this deadly disease.

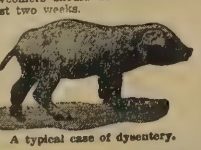
SWINE DYSENTERY A DEADLY DISEASE

Dysentery in swine is a deadly, treacherous, hard-to-control disease. Yet, by correct sanitation and other precautions, swine producers can do a lot to reduce the heavy losses caused by dysentery.

This contagious swine ailment is thought to be due to a germ much like that causing human cholera, and is now recognized as a specific disease. Infection spreads fast, killing as many as 60 per cent of affected swine in a stricken herd. Hogs may die suddenly, after two or three days' illness, or they may linger on for two weeks or longer. Those that recover are stunted and usually unthrifty, are not immune against later attacks, and may act as "carriers."

One type of control plan may be effective on one farm, while some other type may be required on another farm. The veterinarian's advice should be obtained on the best program, and in setting up an adequate scheme of sanitation. Certain general preventive measures are advisable in all cases.

Great care should be taken, for example, in bringing in pigs from sale barns or public stockyards. Such newcomers should be isolated for at least two weeks.



A typical case of dysentery.

Frequent cleaning and disinfecting of quarters is always advisable. Clean water, good feed, and good methods of feeding, all help to guard against swine dysentery.

Symptoms of dysentery include bloody scouring and a rise in temperature. If suspicious symptoms develop, the ailing pigs should be separated from the healthy ones and examined by a veterinarian at once.

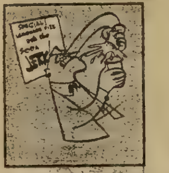
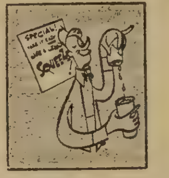
HOW TO SHOOT A RIFLE

By ARTHUR E. COOK
National and Olympic Rifle Champion

Trigger Control





Control of the trigger can make or break you as a shooter. The accepted movie hero technique of yanking at the trigger with hardly more than a glance at the target is bosh. You can't hit anything consistently that way.

When your sights are aligned on the target the only way to get off the shot is to squeeze the trigger with such a smooth and steady motion that you do not disturb that aim. The trigger is squeezed by a steady movement of the forefinger only.

Speed and smoothness in the trigger squeeze can be combined but it takes practice and the best way to practice is with an empty gun. Aim at a small bullseye across the room and carefully let-off each shot. Since the rifle does not actually fire you can see your mistakes.

Another thing—while squeezing the trigger stop breathing and relax. The rise and fall of the chest while breathing will throw your sights off the target. Relaxation will reduce your pulse beat, which is another disturbing factor in precision aiming.

One final hint—always follow through. By that I mean keep looking through the sights at the target even after the shot is fired. This prevents movement of the gun before the shot has left the muzzle and often enables you to see where your shot hit when you are shooting in the field.

Be sure of your target!

MAPLESVILLE NEWS

Quite a few persons have asked us what happened to Maplesville news last week. All we know is that we mailed the news in the Post Office here before 8 o'clock Monday a.m. as usual and from some cause it did not get off in time to get to the News Office in time for print.

We are very sorry, for it is disappointing to those who bring in their news items to the reporter, and do not get it printed. For instance, the announcement of the public installation of the Masonic Lodge officers of Lodge No. 706, here at Maplesville Tuesday evening of this week. We do sincerely regret this, and we do hope everyone will continue to give your news items to this reporter. We will make every effort possible to get it to the News office in time. We thank each one for their every kindness.

Church News—

The prayer service at the Methodist Church has been changed from Tuesday evening to Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. Everyone is urged to attend this service.

Rev. Clayton Gilbert, pastor of the Baptist Church, asks all R.A.'s who plan to go to Shocco Springs, either the Intermediate or Junior weeks, must get your $1.00 reservation fee to him this week. This is a wonderful opportunity for anybody who will go. Parents, please send your boys. Call 2041 or 4041 for any information concerning these camps.

Big Barbecue—

Mr. Ray Stremming of the Stremming Veneer Corporation here gave a free barbecue on the Fourth of July to his employees and their families. It was held in the spacious grove surrounding the old home of the late T. U. Crumpton. All kinds of drinks, a nice barbecue plate to each one at the lunch hour. In the afternoon barbecue sandwiches, drinks, the cutting of about 150 watermelons, a ball game played by Maplesville baseball team and Jones team. The score was 6-5 in favor of Jones.

Mr. Stremming is a very fine man, always busy trying to make his employees happy and contended with their work, giving them a week's vacation with pay, Christmas gifts to each on Xmas, two rest periods and lunch period during each 8-hour work shift, electric fans, refrigerator boxes of cold drinks throughout the entire two plants. Their housing project has comfortable apartments for the employees and families. He deserves a vote of thanks from all the employees. Each one should show their appreciation by giving their very best while on their job. Of course a few would grumble and complain if they were in the "Garden of Eden."

All during the day of the Fourth a band of musicians, the Dixie Hotshots and The Peach Valley Playboys furnished some fine music for those who wished to dance. Then in the evening a street dance was given in front of Mr. Union Chambers' filling station, thus ending a most enjoyable day for all who attended.

Mr. Stremming said this would be made an annual affair.

Those who criticize, who find fault with the recreation the young people have here, should get busy and find somthing for them they think is better. Young people just aren't going to sit around home with no outlet for their energy. They have never done so in the past, and will not in the future. So instead of criticism, do something; some don't even know what recreation means.

Walker Reunion—

July 3rd some of the children and grandchildren of the late C. T. Walker met and had a picnic lunch at Dr. H. M. Nix's fish pond—an ideal place for a picnic. Some of the family were unable to attend. Present were Mrs. Carson Snead, daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Young and their three children, Pat, Bonnie and Danny, of Columbus, Miss.; Mrs. Howard Boic and son, Bruce, of West Palm Beach, Fla.; Mrs. Sam Shoults, of Lawley Route 1; Sgt. and Mrs. Chas. Shoults and two children, Vicky and Randal, of Selma; Sgt. and Mrs. Layden Hicks and son, Perry, of Forest Homes, Selma, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Walker, Mrs. Willie Hathcock, Mr. and Mrs. Quinton Mitchell, of Maplesville; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Snead, of Clanton; and Miss Hazel Guthrie, of Plantersville, Ala.

Their special guest was Mr. Marvin Holmes, of Tuscaloosa, a World War I Veteran, and a war buddy of Cpl. Bert H. Walker, who was killed in France in July, 1918. Mr. Holmes was in the same Company with Bert and was with him when he was killed. Soon after arriving in the States after the war in 1919, Mr. Holmes spent a week with the Walker family. It was a great joy and consolation to have him visit them, telling them about the death and burial of their son and brother; also of the place in France where he was buried. His body was not returned to the States.

Mr. Holmes always attends the Walker reunions and seems as one of the family. They are always very happy to have him.

The day was a very happy day for all. They are very grateful to Dr. Nix for permitting them to use this nice place for the picnic.

SARDIS

We had very good attendance at our services Sunday and Sunday night. Bro. Cox brought two wonderful sermons, and you people missed a blessing by not being present.

We want to say that our singing school will begin Monday, July 18th, and we would like to see our neighboring churches come out and let's see if we can't have a real good singing school, for we greatly need one. We expect to see a large crowd out next Monday morning.

We want to urge every one to come to Sunday School and B.T.U. The days are long now and we have plenty of time to come to our church services and then go other places if we wish. So we will be looking for you Sunday. — Reporter.

VOL. XXVII — CLANTON, ALABAMA — THURSDAY, JULY 21, 1949

W.O.W. NIPS RANDOLPH 6-4; TO PLAY MONTEVALLO AND DRAPER

The W.O.W. baseball team won their 14th game of the season last Thursday night when they defeated Randolph 6 to 4. They have lost only two games.

Lyndon Robinson pitched a neat five hit game for his third win against no defeats since joining the Woodmen. Lynnls team mates gave him good backing by collecting ten base hits. Johnnie Smith led the attack with four hits for five trips to the plate.

The W.O.W. have two good games coming up this week and next. They play a strong Montevallo Club Thursday night (tonight.) Robinson, Smith and Ousley will be on hand for the mound duties. Bobby Ousley will be behind the plate to do the catching for the W.O.W.

Tuesday, July 26th, Draper Prison will bring their team to play the Woodmen. They have a very good baseball team which most of the baseball fans saw when they defeated the Clanton Independents several weeks ago. Draper will also bring their orchestra to furnish plenty of good music before and during the game.

All of you baseball fans will certainly want to be on hand for this big event.

Fifteen Minute Parking Now At The Post Office

Monday morning of this week fifteen-minute parking signs were placed along the half block in front of the post office. This will give patrons of the post office a better chance to find a parking place there in order to get their mail. In the past, all-day parking there has been allowed, causing bad traffic congestion especially during mail hours.

Lions ClubNews

(By Tail Twister)

Well, the new officers for the Clanton Lions Club have been installed and they really look good in their new positions. Under the direction of their new president, Julian Evans, big plans are under way for the coming season.

And to start the year off the Clanton Lions Club has undertaken to sponsor the Third Annual Horse Show to be held in the City Park under the lights at 7 o'clock Wednesday night, August 10th. This show promises to be one of the best of the season in the South. Several hundred dollars worth of prize money has already been set up, entry blanks are in the mail and preparations are nearly completed for the show. The horseshow committee, under the direction of Earl Parrish, is working hard in an effort to make the 1949 show one of the best in the history of Clanton.

* * *

One of the outstanding features of the annual report of the Clanton Lions Club shows that $323.80 was spent during the past year on under-priviledged children in Chilton County for new eye glasses and necessary eye surgery. It also noted that aside from this project that a total of $146.00 was expended to such organizations as the Red Cross, Cancer Fund, the T.B. drive and the community chest. Other expenses included $356.70, which includes the cost of the Lions Club Float that appeared in the recent Peach Festival Parade.

* * *

A past president of a Lions Club visited the local club last Thursday night. He is Mr. Linton, manager of the local Watson's Store. He is expected to transfer his membership to the Clanton Club shortly.

Lion Lambert has announced that he will have an interesting program on tap for this week's meeting which begins promptly at 7:30 p.m. in the private dining room of the Dixie Cafe. He will have as his guest Mr. Joe Murphy of the Chilton County office of the Farm Security Administration.

Letter of Thanks From Senators

Washington, D.C., July 15, 1949.

Mr. J. Archie Ogburn, Gen. Chairman

Dear Mr. Ogburn:

Please accept our thanks for the prize-winning peaches which you so thoughtfully sent us with the compliments of the Chilton County Peach Festival.

We have never seen finer fruit and "Chilton County peaches are truly tops." We have today presented them to the United States Senate and Vice President Barkley and Majority Leader Scott Lucas accepted them on behalf of the Senate members.

The Chilton County Peach Festival has become one of Alabama's outstanding events. It is stimulating evidence of the growth of our diversified Alabama agriculture. Our State can indeed be proud of you, Co-chairman Erle Ellis, the peach growers and our other Chilton County friends whose whole-hearted effort and interest have made the Festival such a colorful annual celebration.

With kindest regards and all good wishes,

Sincerely yours,
LISTER HILL.

Plans For 7th Annual Horse Show Now Well Under Way

With over seven hundred dollars being offered as prize money in 12 different classes for the seventh annual horse show to be sponsored by the Clanton Lions Club on August 10th, Lion President Julian Evans expressed himself yesterday as being well satisfied with the plans that have so far been drawn up for the coming event.

At the same time it is understood that with such large prize money being offered one of the largest horse shows in the history of Clanton will be the outgrowth.

Earl Parrish, chairman of the horse show committee, reported at a special meeting of the committee Tuesday night, that he had had assurances from several well-known horsemen that they would be on hand with their prize horses on the night of the show. The show is scheduled to get under way under the lights in the City Park at 7:00 p.m.

At the same meeting the final draft on all other committees was made, as well as many Clanton individuals who have been called upon by the Lions Club to assist in making this third annual horseshow one of the best. This list is headed by R. C. Williams, ring master; Dr. Thomas Hayes, veterinarian; Cohen Stapp, grounds, and who will have to assist him Milton Barth and Lloyd Popwell. The reception committee will be headed by Julian Evans, assisted by Milton Barth, Cohen Stapp, Erle Ellis, Chick Fiquette and Judge W. L. Parrish. Publicity is headed by Bob Taber with Gene Wyatt and C. L. Wilkins; decorations committee headed by Mrs. Eleanor Craig with Mrs. Jewel Lambert, Mrs. Catherine Ellis and Mrs. Mary Heflin. The Entries committee will be headed by Mrs. Ellen Brinker with Hollis Jackson, Bud Gerald, Mrs. Mae Vinson Foshee, James Parr, Mrs. Olive Fiquette, Miss Ila Mae Bean and Mrs. Isabel Morrison.

Sponsors will include Mrs. Lois Rath, Mrs. Luedell Parrish and Mrs. Clyde Martin. Clifford Jones will be in charge of the reserved seats. The Boy Scouts will assist Mr. Jones and the Ribbons committee will include Miss Peggy Ramsey, Miss Sylvia Lambert and Miss Joan Aussant. Leroy Martin is chairman of advertising, assisted by Erle Ellis, Herman Lecroy, Ben Rath, J. B. Forte, and Earl Parrish. Ticket sale will be in charge of Watson Yearger, financing by Earl Parrish and the supper will be in charge of the Clanton Pilot Club.

Plans have also been put into effect to handle one of the largest crowds ever to attend a local horse show and hundreds of reserved seats will be placed around the horse show ring.

The advance ticket sale is expected to get under way during this coming week end with every mebmer of the Clanton Lions Club assisting in this sal. At the same time it is planned to place a big block of tickets in each drug store here in Clanton, with contacts being made to also place advance sale of tickets in the surrounding towns of Maplesville, Thorsby, Jemison and Verbena.

Chilton's Tax Collector To Be Honored In The Windy City

(From The Montgomery Advertiser)

Chicago, July 16 — At long last, there will be a Jackie Hayes Day at Comiskey Park.

Vice-President Charles Comiskey of the Chicago White Sox officially has set August 30 to honor the former Pale Hose infielder who went blind in 1942.

It will be a great night (the Washington Senators and Sox will be playing under the lights) in the life of the man who took one of life's cruelest blows and still can laugh.

Hayes, now a tax collector at Clanton, Ala., got what he thought was a particle of sand in his eye while traveling through the grapefruit circuit on the Sox' 1940 Spring training Junket.

Two years later he was totally blind and through as a player, one of the best defensive second basemen in the game.

The committee which is handling arrangements and collecting funds for Jackie Hayes' Day, will bring Hayes, his wife and Jackie's seeing eye dog to Chicago for the occasion.

The contributions are being received by Cornelius Dore, treasurer of the committee, post office Box 7,200, Chicago.

This is the first formal homage ever paid Hayes by his old club, although Ted Lyons, now a Detroit Tiger Coach, had Hayes in Chicago several times to "see" some games when Ted bossed the White Sox.

Last Spring, Hayes was Lyons' guest at the Tigers' training camp in Florida.

When informed of the day planned for Hayes, Lyons said: "Jackie will have a field day visiting with players that night.

Even if they don't give him a cent, it will be worth a million dollars in happiness to the boy. I hope I can get here just to see his face light up." Comiskey, who was in knee pants when Hayes was playing, said the Sox also planned to give Hayes a gift.

Joining in with the committee will be such organizations as the Kiwanis, Elks and Moose. The group has high hopes of getting a crowd of more than 40,000 to attend. Hayes and his wife will be seated in a special box as guests of the Sox. Whether the presentations to Hayes will be a purse or gifts or both will depend on the success of the collection drive.

LAND TO FALLOW

Land must be fallowed for alfalfa, crimson clover seeded alone or in mixtures, white clover, Ladino clover, bur clover, and subterranean clover. In fact it is best to prepare land early and fallow for most all small-seeded crops to be planted in the fall.

DEWBERRY VINES

After old dewberry vines are cut out, plants should be worked out and fertilized with 600 to 800 pounds of 6-8-4 fertilizer per acre. Cultivate just as long as vine growth will permit.

Radio Ramblings

(By JESSE CULP)

Whew! The peach festival is over! It was a grand event, but it surely was a lot of work. Every time I close my eyes, I can see microphones and cables.

WKLF naturally went all out to cover the festival, since it is the county's biggest annual event. Announcers and engineers were stationed at four different points along the parade march and other points in Thorsby to bring radio listeners a complete description of all the events.

I think that some special recognition should be given to the persons and groups who made all this possible. The average person can't imagine all the technicalities that are involved in such broadcasting that sounds so casual on his radio. The Southern Bell Telephone Company was very cooperative in installing numerous remote lines to make these on-the-scene pickups possible, despite the fact that electrical storms had them frantically fixing telephone lines. WKLF's chief engineer Lester Carter and his brother Grady worked overtime to put all the equipment in shape, and program director Paul Reid did some good planning in his department. In other words, it took a lot of hard work by a lot of people to make such radio coverage possible. I sincerely hope it was a real service to you.

Actually, the value of such an event as the peach festival depends upon how much publicity it receives, and we should not only be grateful to the local radio and press for their cooperation, but to these agencies all over the state.

That's sign off time for this week. Until next Thursday, so long and good listening.

ATTRACTING CONSUMER

Surveys show that more and more buying is done on impulse resulting from improved methods of displaying food products.

FALL PRODUCE

Successful curb market sellers and other market gardeners are planning now to produce the products which will be in demand through the fall and winter months.

REMOVE DAMPNESS THEN FIGHT MOLD

Since mold thrives in dampness, Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist, says that the main line of defense is to thoroughly dry attacked articles.

After drying, brush upholstered articles, mattresses and rugs with a whiskbroom to remove mold. Work outdoors to prevent scattering mildew in house. If available, a vacuum cleaner attachment run over surface will draw out more mold. If spots remain, sponge lightly with thick soap suds, wetting fabric as little as possible. Wipe with a clean, damp cloth, or with a cloth wrung out of a mixture of one cup denatured alcohol added to one cup of water. Dry thoroughly.

MORE MILK NEEDED IN THE DAILY DIET

Auburn, Ala. — Our present rate of consuming milk and milk products should be stepped up for the entire year, according to Mary Hulsey, API Extension Service nutritionist.

She points to the big drop in milk consumption that comes when schools close. The specialist believes that parents should think about this drop and check to see if their children are getting the milk they need for health. In other words, does each growing child get at least a quart of milk a day and each adult a pint?

For the sake of variety, Miss Hulsey urges the family to try buttermilk, the lomonade of the dairy industry. There are other milk drinks and many different flavored ice creams ready and waiting on the market. And, most of all, don't forget desserts topped with ice cream, especially apple pie.

Wants More Clothes On Women

A letter-writer to a newspaper in a neighboring state suggests that we have "reached sex-o'clock in our social history" and denounces the "viciously suggestive literature and pictures that appear in our periodicals."

The gentlemen is concerned about the "beautiful girls and women" that appear in the public print without much clothes and wants the Christian women to start a movement of protest against the indecency now prevailing.

We cannot share the gentleman's alarm, although we are quite frank to admit that some literature and some photographs reflect the poor taste of the publisher and those who read and look. Nevertheless, customs change with the years and, as we have learned, so does the proper dress for women.

We remember, some years ago, when a female went in swimming with enough clothes on to drown her. Gradually, the ladies and girls began to shed their voluminous outfits and today a popular bathing resort closely resembles what the theatrical magnates call a "girl show."

There are good, sensible and modest women in Clanton who appear in public in clothes which, in their grandmother's day, would have caused a scandal. In fact, a modern two-piece bathing suit, if it had been worn in 1900, would have caused the ostracism of the wearer and the good fathers and mothers of the community would have probably run her out of town.

We have no idea that the morals of the younger generation have degenerated because of the customes, brief and otherwise, worn by the women. Certainly, modern beauty contests, in which young women of the finest type participate, seem to be very popular and none of the contestants apparently object to their photographs being published in the newspapers.

The probability is that the interest being taken in the female form and figure by men, as well as women, will result in the improvement of the physical bodies of the race. Gone is the ideal of the pallid, wan and illness-cherishing female. In her place, is a live-wire, athletic and outdoors type. It looks like an improvement to us.

The search for easy profits often lead to harder work.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Wish to call your attention to a letter written to the Editor this week in regard to the Peach Festival. The letter written by Rev. Alva Hart, of Thorsby, carries food for thought. It's on this page.

Received a letter, too, this week from Father Flanagan's Boys' Home. Be sure to read it. Several citizens recently have had experience of the wrong kind with magazine salesmen. Seems they are now capitalizing on the good name of Boys' Town.

Another letter yet. This one comes to us from Dallas County Singing Convention and is signed by L. B. Morgan, who is president of the organization. He wants all you good singers to attend their singing this year. You'll find the date, etc. in his letter in this issue.

We were so upset getting the Peach Festival programs, tickets and more programs to press last week that we overlooked a couple of news items that should have been carried. One was the painful accident of Mrs. E. E. Upchurch. She fell in front of the City Hall (across the street) last week and broke her wrist. She remained several days in a Birmingham Hospital where she could be close to a son, Sam, so he could take care of her. We deeply regret her misfortune.

The other was the sickness of Irvin Lande. Irvin came home for a visit and was promptly rushed off to a Birmingham Hospital where he still is confined. He leaves this fall, you know, for a year's study in South America, on a scholarship he won. Irvin is Assistant Professor at Northwestern University, you know.

Plum overlooked the names of the four girls who were on the Dean's list at Alabama College. Those qualified for the honor roll are Mary Clyde Mims, Marilyn Joyce Bean, Dorothy Frances Jones and Audrey Popwell. All are from Clanton. And all very smart young ladies.

Looks like Shelton C. Davis is off for Point Barrow, Alaska. Hope it is a little more comfortable up there than it has been in Chilton County the past several weeks. He is with our Uncle's Navy and will visit several of Uncle Sam's out posts on the "Rim of the World" in northern Alaska.

Buddy Ellison is still located at Maplesville as a city policeman. He came in this week to give us a Believe-It-Or-Not. He and his buddy, P. L. Robinson, who has been on the police force for the past umpsteen years, discovered a whiskey still within the police jurisdiction of Mapelsville. They destroyed a little whiskey but just ruined 30 gallons of "mash." That's what they make whiskey out of, we think—it's been so long since we made any. Anyway, it was just south, or southwest of the University Highway below Maplesville business section and within a stone's throw of police headquarters. Course this statement depends on who throws the stone.

Been so much rain here for the past several days your clothes mildew on you before you can change.

We don't believe Rev. John Smith and his Boy Scouts were responsible for this, but we'll tell the story anyhow. Seems that when a Scoutmaster asked his flock whether they had done their good deed for the day, three members admitted they hadn't. "In that case, they were told, "leave this meeting and don't return until you've lived up to our motto of one good deed a day." A half hour later the boys returned, dishevelled and flushed. "I did my good deed, sir," the first Scout said. "I helped an old lady across the street." "Me too," said the second. "I helped the same old lady across the street." "So did I," chimed in the third Boy Scout. "Do you mean," the Scoutmaster demanded, "that it took three of you to help one old lady across the street. The spokesman for the three lowered his head. "Yeah," he replied. "You see, sir, the old lady didn't want to cross the street."

According to a notice received last week Merry Christmas is a guest of our county this week. Charles Merry Christmas is doing the preaching at Big Springs Baptist Church this week. He is from Dothan. He and pastor Windham invite you to come out and worship with them. We'd make a "crack" about Christmas coming to our county in July, but it's probably been done a hundred times.

Letters To The Editor

July 16th, 1949.

Dear Editor:

Here are a few thoughts prompted by the wonderful Third Annual Chilton County Peach Festival:

It was a "grand and glorious" time. It is beyond words to do justice to compliments for all who worked together to put over the event. So many modern marvels were in evidence: Radio, wire recordings and News pictures. One said to me after the night program, "Well Thorsby Institute is in the movies."

(Aside, I might say that I wish that they had not humiliated the "Queen" by making her pose on the floor in that unladylike manner. We have too much of that type of exposures). This to be no reflection on the Queen. She carried her part well.

There was a great thrill in the parade of beautiful floats, and bands and the speakers and the vast crowds. And the Barbecue up on the hill was a wonderful idea; and we got our money's worth.

It seemed that the good Father above was especially kind and good in granting prayers for suitable weather, clear through the out-door events. No rain upon the people and the beautiful floats lined up in their georgeous array.

Then, suddenly a cyclonic change in attitude took place. It could remind one of the Negro Spiritual, "Were you there when they crucified my Lord?" . . . .I saw in a few moments of time, destruction run rampant; beautiful floats crashing to earth. They had fulfilled their mission and were no longer of use. Beautiful floats crashed to earth in adject wreckage and the naked trucks slunk off in shame after a blaze of glory, to resume their more accustomed menial tasks, after a sky rocket experience. They left grounds littered with ruin-writ story of departed glory. The mop up Squad has not yet arrived.

(A moral might be suggested about building a life ever so carefully, sometimes ruined in moments of reckless abandon.)

I. ALVA HART.

My Dear Editor:

It has come to my attention that a magazine racket misusing the good name of Boys Town is being carried on in various communities throughout the United States without our knowledge or sanction.

I would appreciate it very much if within your newspaper columns you would warn your readers to beware of any magazine solicitors identifying themselves as having any connection whatsoever with Boys Town. We have no authorized representatives selling book or magazine subscriptions. None of our boys are permitted to do so and we have no arrangements with any solicitors whereby a portion of their commissions are turned over to Boys Town.

Any magazine solicitor who represents himself as a Boys Town citizen, a former Boys Town citizen, or claims to represent Boys Town in any way whatsoever, is using the good name of Boys Town to promote his own personal ends.

Please urge your readers that if any magazine solicitors call upon them using the name of Boys Town in any way whatsoever, they should immediately contact their local Better Business Bureau or Police Department so proper investigation may be made and this unauthorized practice may be stopped.

Will you please warn your readers of this magazine racket in which the good name of Boys Town is being misused? We do not want any of your readers to be victimized or taken advantage of by fast-talking magazine salesmen who sell their magazines on the strength of Boys Town rather than on the merits of their publications and mislead people into believing that by subscribing they are contributing to the work which is being done at Boys Town.

Thanking you for your cooperation in helping us stop this vicious magazine racket, I am.

Sincerely,
NICHOLAS H. WEGNER.

Revival Season

"Preach the Word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long suffering and doctrine."—(2 Tim. 4:2). These words were spoken to Timothy by the great Apostle, Paul. Timothy was told to preach the Word, to be instant in season, and even out of season.

A. T. HICKMAN

According to the wise words of "The Preacher," there is a time to all things. A time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted. A time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down, and a time to build up. A time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance. A time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together; a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing. A time to get, and a time to lose. A time to keep, and a time to cast away. A time to rend, and a time to sew; a time to keep silence and a time to speak. A time to love, and a time to hate. A time of war and a time of peace.

There also seems to be a time for Summer revivals, especially in rural churches. It is in the late summer, when the crops have been laid by that the people love to gather for family reunions; all-day singings; and protracted meetings. It is a time for spiritual renewing, reviving of the love and zeal of God in the hearts of the people. A time of soul winning to Christ, and enlisting new members in the work of the Lord. Such revivals are characteristic of our Protestant religion.

You will find this spirit of evangelism among the Assemblies of God, Baptist, Church of God, Methodist and many more of the Protestant denominations. Among the twenty-two denominations in Chilton County every one should find a church of his choice, and benefit himself by attending the revival services.

There may be some high-tide of emotionalism manifested at some of these revivals, but folks become emotional over other things, such as baseball, football and many other kind of sports. Why not become a little emotional over religion? There is a proper emotional content in salvation, as well as in all the higher aspects of life.

And speaking of Summer revivals, the revival is on at the Temple Church this week, and next. I am happy to be pastor of this fine church, and I assure every one there is a welcome awaits one and all. And there are many more revivals in the county. Attend as many as you can.—AMEN.

RATS

There are more than 300 varieties of rats, the most common of which in the United States is the brown rat. A pair of rats is capable of producing 120,000 descendants a year. When one realizes that there is a rat for approximately every one of the 140,000,000 persons in the United States, an estimate of the total rat population is recorded.

It is estimated that the damage caused by rats runs to about $250,000,000 annually for the United States. In such places as hotels, the cost of damage per rat may be as high as $5.00. They destroy huge amounts of food and spoil more than they eat.

Dangerous, useless and destructive, the rat harbors and carries the germs of more than six serious diseases, including bubonic plague, typhoid fever, infectious jaundice, rat-fever and food infections.

Everyone should help destroy these rodents and keep them away from our homes. All garbage cans should be tightly covered and, if possible, kept on a platform eighteen inches off the ground. If garbage is kept in a sunken container, care should be taken that the rats cannot burrow underneath and that the container is not cracked.

If garbage is burned, be sure that nothing remains except the ash. Paper, rags, packing material should not be allowed to accumulate because they provide nesting places for rats.

Every effort should be made to have cellars ratproof. There should be a concrete floor, masonry walls and well fitting windows and doors. There should be no openings around pipes or wires and all drains should have narrow-slotted protective covers.

Food, such as vegetables or other garden produce, and firewood must be stored on platforms elevated eighteen inches above the floor and eighteen inches away from all walls.

Help your community to get rid of rats. Remember they breed disease, cause serious infections through their bites and are a curse to public health.

Every day, along rural roadways of the South, you see new telephone poles reaching for the sky.

Telephone service has been supplied to a lot more southern farms during the last three years than during any other three-year period in history. Right now Southern Bell is building rural lines at the fastest rate ever. And total telephone installations in southern rural areas this year will set a new record.

Telephone service is our business, and we are working to get it to those who want it as soon as we can. It'll be good service, too—the kind for which America is famous!

THORSBY NEWS

(BY MISS C. N. TURNQUIST—CORRESPONDENT)

Lutheran Church News—

There will be services at the Lutheran Church on next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock when the Rev. W. H. Lefstead of Summerville, S. C., will conduct the services. The public is most cordially invited to attend.

* * *

Mr. Albert Anderson of Sylvia, S. C., and wife spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Inga Anderson, who has been quite all, but is now on the road to recovery.

Mrs. John Johnson and daughter, Mrs. Beatrice Scogin of Fairfield, Ala., attended the Peach Festival here last Wednesday and were guests of Mrs. J. O. Johnson while in town.

Mrs. A. E. Reagan entertained as guests during the Festival last week Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thorson of Madison, Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss and son, Robert, of Fairfield, Ala. Mr. Thorson is a former resident of Thorsby, having lived here in the early days, and his father, Mr. T. T. Thorson, was one of the founders of Thorsby. Mr. Thorson was amazed at the progress that has been made through this section and he and his wife certainly enjoyed the Festival.

Mrs. J. O. Johnson is enjoying a visit from her daughter, Mrs. R. L. Keitzman, and two little girls, Patricia and Pamela, of Gary, Ind. Mrs. Johnson has also had another daughter with her for a week, Mrs. Lester Garrett, of Birmingham. She returned to Birmingham Saturday and will probably spend next week end here to visit with her sister before she returns to Indiana.

Mr. Gust Berlin of Atlanta, Ga., arrived Sunday night and came here to do some interior decorating at the Lutheran Church. The church has been undergoing repairs for some time now, has been painted and papered inside, and Mr. Berlin will add the finishing touches.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dixon, Mesdames Bertha Davenport, Eunice Walker, Elizabeth Holcombe, Clyde Livingston and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Preston attended the installation of officers of the Order of Eastern Stars at Siluria, Ala., last Saturday night.

Mr. Leonard Bosworth is enjoying a two weeks vacation from his duties at the Bank of Thorsby. Leonard says he has no plans as to what he will do, but we'll guess that a large part of it will be spent fishing, and if there is a ball game around, he'll be pretty apt to be there—then maybe he'll take a trip—who knows?

The Stricklands and the Patricks entertained a number of guests who came here to attend the Peach Festival. Mr. W. A. Strickland and Preston Duren came from Tuscaloosa, Charles Strickland from Daytona Beach, Griffin Chandler from Prattville, Miss Holcombe from Birmingham and a Miss Holcombe from Montevallo. Also Mrs. H. E. Nichols and daughter, Sandra, of Birmingham and Gary Nichols.

Mrs. W. H. Strickland was a charming hostess when she entertained at a miscellaneous shower on last Friday afternoon, honoring Mrs. Earl Moss (Clarice Collins), a recent bride. The guests were received at the door by the hostess. Mrs. H. E. Nichols presided at the punch bowl and little individual embossed cakes were served, with salted nuts and mints. New Yorker punch was served. Assisting in serving was Miss Joyce Higgins. Mrs. W. J. Patrick registered the guests in the bride's book. Little Sandra Nichols presented the bride with her many gifts. About 30 guests registered.

Two Heads Are Better Than One (Or None)

I get a kick out of buying stuff down at the hardware store. And I always ask for a little advice from one of the two brothers who run it, because I know beforehand exactly what the answer will be.

Like when I needed a new garden hose. "Henry," I says, "how about this new plastic hose—is it really as good as rubber?" "Well," he says, "I'm inclined to think it is—but you'd better ask Tom."

I found Tom in back and asks him the same question. "Well," says Tom, "in my opinion it is—but you'd better ask Henry." "I already have," I says, "and when you two cautious old codgers agree I'd bet my life on the decision."

From where I sit, your own opinion is worth a lot—but so's the other fellow's. That's why I keep saying, over and over, let's be tolerant of the other person's point-of-view—whether it's on politics or farming—or whether you like milk shakes and he prefers a temperate glass of beer.

EDUCATION BILL WOULD BENEFIT ALABAMA $20,000,000

Congressman Edward deGraffenried is [illegible] contacting all members of the Committee on Education and Labor [illegible] an effort to [illegible] the Federal [illegible] reported [illegible] at the earliest possible date and issued the following statement today in regard to the status of this bill.

"I am [illegible] that the House Committee on Education and Labor has not yet reported out the Federal Aid for Education Bill [illegible] passed by the Senate. [illegible] contacting all members of the committee urging them to report this bill immediately to the House so it can be considered [illegible] on before adjournment of the present session of Congress. I am also contacting the various leaders of the House who are interested in the passage of this bill in an effort to get them to use all possible influence to bring about a speedy consideration of this measure.

"This bill is of paramount importance to all the people of the United States and especially to the people of Alabama and the South. The Alabama Delegation had as its guests at the regular weekly luncheon on Thursday, July 14th, Mr. Earnest Stone, a former President of the Alabama Educational Association and Mr. Frank Grove, Executive Secretary of the Alabama Educational Association and a discussion was held on the present federal aid for education bills now pending before the House Committee on Education and Labor.

"Ways and means were discussed as to how to get one of these bills reported out of the committee, if possible, by next week so that it may be voted on by the present session of Congress. It is my belief that one of the bills will be reported out of this committee next week and if not, I am ready to join with other Congressmen in signing and circulating a petition to force the bill from the committee for consideration by the entire membership of the House."

If this bill passes, it will benefit Alabama schools by about $20,000,000.

County Books Are Ordered Impounded By Judge Melton

The State of Alabama took its first legal move in the case of Chilton County's dwindling finances last Saturday, July 23rd. All county records covering the period from October 1, 1946, to September 30, 1948, were impounded upon receipt of an order from Circuit Judge Oakley W. Melton.

The records, stored in steel ballot boxes and padlocked, now rest in a vault at the Peoples Savings Bank. They are under the custody of Ralph B. Eagerton, chief examiner, Department of Public Accounts.

Several state examiners, while working on the books for the past several months, frequently encountered the name of Mr. F. E. Robinson. Mr. Robinson, supposedly a county employee, was found to have worked in quite a few county beats for the past five or six years. Although the majority of the incriminating facts have pointed to persons of solid body, this Mr. Robinson has vanished into thin air, leaving no traces or forwarding addresses.

Investigators disclosed the fact that they had checked purchases of concrete, pipe and lumber, made in recent year by the county.

A recent statement, published in this paper, stated that the audit did not concern the term of office now being filled by Neal Harrell, Jim Dunlap and V. O. Lenoir.

Elsewhere in this issue is an Act which is underway in the State Legislature to do away with the present Commissioners Court and at the same time set up a Board of Revenue.

FARMERS TO GET FIVE CENTS PER GALLON CUT ON FUEL

A climax was put on a verbal fight that has lasted for the past 10 years. The tax/on fuel for farm machinery was passed in the Senate last Friday by a vote of 23 to an opposing 3.

Farmers get a five-cent cut on every gallon of fuel, but still pay a 1-cent tax to be retained by the state to serve in payment of the cost of administering this exemption law.

The chief argument in favor of the tax free fuel was the fact that farm machinery does not travel on streets or highways. The present state gas tax is levied on fuel consumed in highway traveling vehicles.

Mass Meeting Called Against Proposed Local County Bill

CITIZENS CALL MASS MEETING AGAINST LOCAL COUNTY BILL

We believe that fully 90 per cent of the people of Chilton County are against abolishing the Commissioners Court and having a Board of Revenue appointed. For the purpose of letting our representative and senator know how the people of the county stand, we hereby call a mass meeting at the courthouse in Clanton next Saturday afternoon, July 30th, at 2 o'clock. Everybody interested is urged to attend.

It is our regret that we are confronted today with the promise of C. B. Cox, Representative of Chilton County, of opposing the passing of any local bill until it has been submitted to the people and their decision shown at the polls. To quote Representative C. B. Cox from his PLEDGE to the voters of Chilton County during his campaign and as published in a paid political adv. in the Chilton County News issue of April 11, 1946. His third article or declaration is as follows: "I will be opposed to passing any local bill until it has been submitted to the people and their decision shown at the polls."

We wonder what power or influence caused such a change of mind of our Representative regarding local legislation?

We believe in a government by the people. Give us a chance to vote on this local bill.

Don't forget the time and place—Chilton County courthouse at 2:00 p.m., Saturday, July 30th, 1949. — The Citizens' Committee.

Former Chilton Resident To Open Drive-In Movie Here

One of the South's largest and most modern Drive-In Theatres will be in operation here before next Christmas. It is to be completely equipped and will show the finest films that the nation produces. The Drive-In will be located two miles north of Clanton on U. S. 31.

This announcement was made by Joseph Able Jackson, former resident of Clanton and a native of Chilton County, who was here this week attending to details preliminary to breaking ground for the project.

The name will be the Clanton Drive-In Theatre, home-owned and home-operated by Mr. Jackson. Other members of his company are Dr. W. P. Wilson, born and raised in Autauga County; and Mrs. W. P. Wilson, a native of Tallapoosa County, where she met and was married to Dr. Wilson.

Old-timers of this section will recall that the Jackson Chapel is a namesake of the Jackson family, and the ground on which the Chapel stands was donated by Mr. Jackson's father.

Grading of the project will begin soon, and contracts will be let to local grading companies. Lumber, building blocks, and other construction needs will be purchased in Clanton, Mr. Jackson said. Local labor will be used.

Mr. Jackson recently resigned as manager of the Empire Theatre in Birmingham to begin construction on the Clanton Drive-In Theatre. He started show business early in life. After traveling on a Chatauqua circuit for several years, he became interested in moving pictures, and served an apprenticeship as a projectionist.

He was a projectionist at the Alabama Theatre in Birmingham for several years, following which he became president of the Moving Picture Machine Operators Local Number 236 for ten years. He was also president of the Birmingham Trades Council for four years. Later he resigned to become manager of the Empire Theatre, during which time he laid his plans for building the Clanton Drive-In Theatre.

"I have long dreamed of coming home to build a theatre," Mr. Jackson said. "I have also dreamed of owning a home in Clanton, and will begin building it almost as soon as I do the theatre. The site will adjoin the theatre premises, where I can be close to my work. The home will be a modern bungalow where I look forward to renewing acquaintances with my old friends."

Projectors, sound machines, and other technical equipment must be purchased outside Chilton County in most instances, Mr. Jackson said, but all material produced in or near Clanton will be used.

Bookings for top-flight pictures have already been arranged. Grade A pictures will be shown at the Drive-In almost as soon as they are introduced on Broadway, Mr. Jackson said. Latest news reels, comedies and short subjects will be screened.

In addition to those for autos, two special ramps for trucks will be built. Every farmer for miles around who wants to load his family and neighbors on his truck and come to the movie will be as welcome "as the flowers in May," Mr. Jackson said.

The theatre will charge popular prices, and refreshments at reasonable prices will be sold during intermission.

All grounds in and surrounding the Drive-In will be landscaped and artistically planted with flowers and shrubbery as soon as the seasons permit. Mr. Jackson said every plan is being made to make the Clanton Drive-In Theatre one of the best in the South. He has made an extensive tour of drive-ins throughout Alabama, Florida, Tennessee and Georgia with the view of incorporating all the best ideas in the Clanton Drive-In Theatre.

CLANTON TO GET NEW DOWNTOWN THEATRE

Clanton, Ala., July 25- Mr. George A. McCain officially stated today that the land on which his mule barn now stands has been purchased by Mr. Frank V. Merritt. Mr. Merritt, a former resident of Chilton County, now esrides in Birmingham.

The land was purchased for the building of a theatre. Mr. Merritt also owns the Empire Theatre in Birmingham, and several others throughout the state.

The tentative estimate given on the building was one hundred thousand dollars. The date for the beginning of construction, also tentative, was said to be next September. Plans call for a modern building to serve Clanton and its surrounding territory. This land is adjacent to the Chilton County News on its northern side.

In conclusion, Mr. McCain stated, that he was not getting out of the livestock business but would remain where he is until construction gets under way. He will then move to a location in West End which has not been disclosed at present.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

THE BILL OF MYSTERIOUS PARTICULARS

A bill presently advertised to change this county's form of government from a Commissioners Court to a Board of Revenue. The author or authors, for reasons best known to themselves, prefer to be and remain anonymous. Why?

If the bill would serve the best interest of the people of this county, if its aims and objectives are open and above-board, why the mysterious authors and all the hush-hush? We all know that authors of good public bills acclaim them from rooftops; only bills of selfish interest are slipped by the public with a minimum of publicity.

What are the main objectives of this bill? Does it propose to reduce expenses? The answer is "No." Instead, it would greatly increase county expenses.

Will its enactment prevent graft? The answer again is "No." In fact, it might make it easier for grafters to reach the top kick. It is not so much what the Bill proposes to do; it is what is proposed to do with it.

Here are the behind-the-curtain scenes: Delegate one of the present Commissioners as Chairman, double his salary and reduce his and his associates' duties to days per month, vacation with pay. (Soft, eh!) Employ another as Road Supervisor, employ a bevy of foremen and assistants to serve under the Supervisor. In other words, increased pay and less or no work.

Of course, another objective, as evidenced by the shroud of mystery, is to shift authority in order to shield certain parties who are now under suspicion in connection with the investigation which, when made public, will no doubt shake the political structure of this county to its very foundation. Why else the Bill at this particular time; one or the other, perhaps both.

Naturally, we would like to improve the system if it would mean dollars saved and|or roads made possible. However, the Bill makes no provision for bringing in new talent, which need is evidenced by our impassable roads. We would like to promote our Road Commissioners, those, if any, who merit it.

However, another serious objection to the secret deals behind the curtain is the invisible hand that will run the entire show. His pound of flesh will consist of a lion's share of the spoils. Having a final say on all county purchases, contracts and other awards, this invisible Tsar should become fabuously rich in short order. Is this what you want?

Judging by their past good works, it is hardly conceivable that either of our esteemed representatives would at this critical time sponsor such controversial legislation even taken at its face value, much less one cloaked in absolute secrecy, tied in with so many shady angles. I have just been informed that a mass meeting will be held Saturday p.m. at 2 o'clock at the courthouse to discuss this bill.

T. E. BLACKMON,
Clanton, Ala., Route 4.

The Clanton Chapter No. 271, O.E.S. will meet Friday night, July 28th, at 8:00 p.m. All members are urged to be present.

Chilton County Youth Needs Your Help

BY WILLIAM KITKAY
(From the Birmingham News)

This is his birthday. All Ralph knows is that today he's 8 years old.

What he doesn't know is that his mother has just been handed a time card on his young life.

The surgeon put it this way—

"Operate now or your boy may never leave his teens."

* * *

Mrs. M. D. Hilyer turns to you. The Clanton farm woman makes a gesture of complete helplesness.

Where is she going to get the money to pay for the delicate heart operation that is to spare her boy?

Ralph doesn't know he's a blue baby. He doesn't know either the answer to a paradox that's been puzzling him.

As he grows older, he less and more wants to run and play.

As he grows older, he less and less has the ability to keep up with his friends and classmates.

"I sure do like to play," Ralph says. He talks haltingly and gasps for air after every couple of words.

"I like baseball and basketball. I play fine. I never play long, though.

Ralph can only play for about 20 minutes at a time. Then, he must squat and rest and catch his breath for 10 or so minutes.

It all has to do with a valve between the boy's heart and his lungs. The valve is too small.

So, Ralph's blood does not pick up sufficient oxygen from the lungs.

That is why Ralph's skin has a bluish tint. This is why he's always short of breath.

* * *

His heart trying to make up for nature's error has been working extra hard to get sufficient blood thru the narrow valve. The effort to pump harder and faster also is causing the heart to slowly enlarge.

"The doctor says he can help my boy," Mrs. Hilyer says. The mother and son are visiting one of Birmingham's chest surgeons.

"He says he must operate. He says this is the time to do it if it's to be sucessful and if Ralph is to live."

The surgeon is a member of the faculty of the Medical College of Alabama. In the last year, he's performed some 20 such blue baby operations sucessfully.

"I don't want any fee," the surgeon says. "I'm ready to operate on the boy without charge."

Mrs. Hilyer smiles a little. She shakes her head and bites hard on her lower lip.

The mother is grateful for the surgeons' gesture. But this is only half of the problem.

There's the hospitalization. The hospital must be paid.

And that's the way it is. All that stand between life and death for young Ralph is $350— the price of a bed for 20 days at the Jefferson-Hillman Hospital.

"We have no such money," Mrs. Hilyer says. "This hasn't been a good year on the farm. There's been a lot of rain.

"We had a good crop last year. But last year the market wasn't right."

Ralph interrupts to tell about his air rifle. His grandmother gave it to him for his birthday.

He then talks about school. He's made three grades and the teacher says he's about the brightest boy in his class.

"He can't go to school too often," his mother says. "He gets tired too quickly.

"When he does go, his brother Earle who's 13, carries him on his back the half-mile to the school house."

Mrs. Hilyer tells how her son's been getting worse each year.

Since he's been 18 months old, doctors have been prescribing tonics for the boy. They said he was born with a bad heart.

"We know a great deal more about blue babies today," says the surgeon. "From all indications, Ralph is eligible for surgery. He's at the age when we get the best results with his type of ailment."

Will he be all right?

There's no doubt in the surgeon's mind. There's no doubt in the mother's mind, too.

But there is a great doubt as to whether the surgeon will be given the chance to operate unless by some miracle someone comes forward with the $350 for the hospital room bill.

MAPLESVILLE NEWS

Home town boy makes good in baseball—

Mr. Leighton McAfee [illegible] Georgia, son of Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] McAfee of Maplesville [illegible] ter for the Newnan Browns. Following is a copy of a write up printed in [illegible] paper: [illegible] First baseman— We would like to discuss the possibilities of Leighton McAfee, hustling first sacker for the Newnan Browns, McAfee had a very sucessful year at first for Newnan last year and seemed to be on his way to higher ball, only to return to the Browns for another year. Mac, as he is often called by his teammates, is by far the best fielding first baseman in the league, and his hitting is improving as the season progresses. He is a born leader and hustler on the field around first base, and he is missed when he is not in the line up. Mac makes many uncanny stops around the bag and saves many wild throws from going for extra bases. He quite often resembles an acrobat as he does a split, back-bend and leaps high in the air to pull high throws down. Mac will have plenty competition for the first base honor in the All-Star contest July 11th but all Newnan fans hope to see this boy in the starting line up. Flaherty of LaGrange has the track in hitting, as he is batting .303. Driving out seven doubles and four home-runs. However, he doesn't compare with McAfee in fielding around first base bag.

Mac hails from Maplesville, Alabama and started into professional ball in 1948 with the Newnan Browns. He is twenty-two years old and states that hunting, fishing and movies are his favorite hobbies. Mac played Army ball for two years; Then semi-pro in Atlanta with the East Point Motors. In the part of 1948 with the semi-pro outfit, Mac hit .363 and later in the year he joined Newnan to compile .249 average for the Browns. About Newnan, Mac says, "I like it fine. It is the best base ball town in the league."

Leighton has many friends in and around Maplesville who are much interested in his career as a ball player, and are happy because of his success. We are always glad to see our hometown boys making good.

Speaking of home-town boys— you have noticed the big, broad smile that George Brown of the Brown Brothers Hardware Store always wears. It's a smile that doesn't rub off. He wins many friends and customers with his smile and warm greetings. As Henry Vance wrote in one of his recent articles in a daily paper, "You would be suprised what a smile will do." And it is so very true.

There will be expert riders in the game which is between Montgomery and Selma. It will be indeed a thrilling game. Everyone is invited to come and enjoy this game and also help the V. F. W. There are many things the V. F. W. wants to do as soon as they have enough money.

Sgt. Tommie Williams who has been in Germany serving with the Army of occupation for four years expects to be home in October. Tommie has many friends who will be glad to see him.

Mrs. Hill Foshee who suffered a broken hip and arm a few weeks ago, is much better but she remains under treatment at a Selma Hospital. Mrs. Foshee slipped and fell while walking across a freshly polished floor, after stepping on a throw rug. We hope she will soon be able to come home.

Being away from home on the week-end and not much news coming in we haven't gotten all the Maplesville news this week. Please send in your news for next week.

Soil Conservation News

Napoleon Posey, Willie Smith, G. U. Mims, Hillery J. Bolton, G. W. Orton, W. L. Parrish and Chilton Horticultural Experiment Station (C. C. Carlton, Supt.) have sowed in the past week meadow outlets. These outlets are as essential to a terracing program as a terrace is to row crop conservation farming on rolling land. No farm is properly terraced unless some provision is made to dispose of the water. Meadow outlets are useful as roadways, turn rows, and hay as well as a water outlet for the terrace water.

O. M. Harper, C. R. Childress and W. L. Parrish have fields that they are sodding down to permanent cover to sericea this July. Hard seed crimson clover and Kentucky 31 fescue will be added this fall. The addition of the reseeding clover and the perennial grass insures more erosion control and a longer grazing period.

J. N. Dennis has added partridge péas to his bicolor lespedeza wildlift border. With sericea and the bicolor already established, quail should enjoy the feed and cover they can get from these plants.

Joe Smith, Milton Hubbard and Noah Latham have purchased 100, 100 and 1,000 pounds respectively of reseeding crimson clover. The clover will be planted on sericea and kudzu sods to obtain a longer grazing period from the land and reduce erosions.

Chick Fiquette has turned his cows on a 30-acre partial volunteer stand of kobe lespedeza. After the cows eat the present growth down, Chick plans to turn and harrow the land for an early planting of hard seed crimson clover and rye grass. Sericea will be planted next July.

Don't forget early land preparation, fertilizer, and seed insure enough growth for effective erosion control and grazing. Prepare now to get your needed material for a good grazing and cover crop for erosion control this winter.

CHILTON COUNTY NEWS

"IF WE PRINT IT - IT'S TRUE"

Entered in the Post Office at Clanton, Alabama, as second-class matter under the Act of Congress of March, 1897.

The Bill Deserves Your Attention

I have been asked several times within the past [illegible] to express my opinion of the bill now being [illegible] in the Chilton County News in regards to changing our form of county government from the Commission to a Board of Revenue.

[illegible]'s issue of the News this bill is being published for the last time. This bill seems very good with the exception of one thing. It doesn't give the citizens of Chilton County an opportunity to express themselves at the polls.

Even though we are inclined to favor this change in our county government, it is only with the understanding that the people of Chilton County get a chance to vote on the Bill. We oppose this, or any Bill, where the people do not have a chance to "have their say," where their welfare is concerned. We believe that this should be a must in all legislation.

According to the best information we can get something should be done in Chilton County to pull us out of the stagnant state we now find ourselves in. The proposed bill would divorce the Probate Office from the Commissioners Court we now have and place the responsibility of our county's business on the shoulders of three men—the members of the Board of Revenue.

It is true that we are trying to operate in 1949 with a set of rules and regulations that were drawn up about fifty years ago. Times have changed. We cannot operate a streamlined railroad with stagecoaches. As we said before the voters of Chilton County should have the opportunity to go to the polls and cast their vote for or against legislation of this type.

In this case we believe the voters of Chilton County should see their representatives in the State Legislature and let them know what their opinion is, in this matter. Our representatives, Mr. Gulledge and Mr. Cox, we are sure, want to do what the people think is best and they will welcome your opinions as to the merits of this bill.

This Bill deserves your attention.

R. M. (Ben) TUCKER.

Entertainment And A Good Deed

More than likely if you attend Chilton County's Seventh Annual Horse Show, you will do so for your relaxation and recreation. Yet, while you are watching it you are enabling some underprivileged youngster to get a better view of life. Th Lions Club of Clanton, sponsors of this year's Horse Show, has a Sight Conservation Program which is well known throughout this county. Already it has been beneficial to many children of our county and can continue to do so with your cooperation.

Just remember that when you buy your ticket to the show you are helping to buy a better pair of eyes for a child who needs them.

Commendations Are In Order

The streets of Clanton underwent a much needed operation last week. Recently numerous holes were beginning to rut our streets. But last week the City took pity on the motorist's tires and nerves and did an excellent job of repairing said danger spots. Now, thanks to our city fathers, we can enjoy a ride through town without fraying our tires or nerves.

The Contest held by Johnson's Fashion Shop for the selection of the Queen of all Queens was pretty exciting. With twenty-four charming ladies to choose from and being permitted to vote for only one, the choice was a hard one. Congratulations go to the Queen of all Queens!

[illegible] made at [illegible] in the near future.

There is always something being [illegible] about "seeing it in the News." Here is one recent example where the Chilton County News saved a subscriber a $1.00 parking fine. This subscriber parked in front of the post office Thursday morning early, not noticing that there was a sign stating that there was fifteen minutes parking in that space. Thursday morning being the day that the News is in the mails she entered the post office, got her paper and went on to work. After reaching her office she settled down to read the News and the first article to meet her eye was headed "Fifteen Minute Parking Now at Post Office." So off she rushed to move her automobile before the time limit was up.

Had a visitor to the office Monday morning looking for the boss. He was told that the boss was out of town for the week and was he skeptical? You see, the whole office force was working!

Miss Lois Parrish, daughter of Judge and Mrs. W. L. Parrish, is in Oakland, Calif., as the only representative from Chilton County to the Convention of County Officials. In her letters home Miss Parrish reports that she is having a very nice trip.

Vernon Payne, who is writing editorials this week in the absence of the Boss, had one all mapped out about the holes that were left in the city streets after putting in new water lines, etc. But he had to write a new one this morning. The City fixed the holes one day last week.

Mrs. L. A. Lambert, one of Clanton's talented artists recently presented the Gen. Gorgas Unit No. 1 of the American Legion Auxiliary with a picture she painted. This presentation was made at a surprise birthday [illegible] given for the president of [illegible]

NOTICE TO WOMEN WHO SEW FROM BILLINGSLEY HOME ECONOMICS DEPARTMENT

Miss Sara Carpenter, the Home Economics teacher, will be in the department every Wednesday (with the exception of August 17) from eight until five o'clock. She will assist you with your clothing problems and with the use of the equipment.

Maybe you don't have clothing problems, but you are making ruffled curtains. Come to your department to use the attachments for such. You may want to bring along your nicely made garment to pink the seams. Take advantage of your opportunity.

CONVICT SKIPS OUT WITH ONLY HOURS LEFT

Montgomery, Ala. — With only 14 hours left to serve of a 10-year sentence, a Negro convict, Willie Davis, 43, just walked into the woods behind Kilby Prison last week and vanished.

Prison Director Boswell said, "We don't know what happened to him." The prison director said that the Negro may have met with some kind of accident. He said Davis had a good prison record.

JAPAN'S NEW GOD

Japan, the nation of the "Rising Sun" has a new God. This time it is not the sun, or natural light, but "The God of Electricity." Few weeks ago in the City Tokyo, Thomas A. Edison became to the Japanese a god. A new cult has been formed, it is called "Electric God Religion," and in its creed Mr. Edison gets the title Mikodo, and its accompanying veneration. It is easy to understand for the heathen Japanese, who have been taught to venerate the sun, to worship the electric light, but how much better it would be for them if they would except Jesus, The Light of the World. Our God is not only the God of the electric light, and the God of all natural light, but He is Light Himself, and in Him there is no darkness at all. Apart from God there is no real light. Satan's kingdom is a kingdom of darkness, while God's kingdom is the kingdom of light. In him there is no darkness at all.

A. T. HICKMAN

The right forearm of St. Francis Xavier has been taken from Rome to Japan to be venerated at celebrations commemorating the 400th anniversary of the Jesuit missionary's arrival in Japan. On its way around the world there were elaborate ceremonies at Lisbon, N. Y., San Francisco, and other places where the relic and its guardians stopped. It was greeted by thousands of Roman Catholics. Undoubtedly many believe there is power in the right arm of a dead man, but if Francis himself were alive he probably would inform them that there is no power in the arm of a dead saint to perform miracles. He might point them instead to the Son of God Who is Eternal, Who was dead, but is now alive, and alive forever more.

It is He that has all power both in heaven and in earth. It is written of Tim, "The right hand of the Lord (not of a dead saint) is exalted; the right hand of the Lord doeth valiantly. (Psa. 118:16). Little children, dear Christian friends, keep yourselves from idols. AMEN.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

BIRTHDAYS

The birth of a child into a family should mean great happiness and usually it does. Frequently, however, the child will bear some blemish that brings heartache and grief to the family. Parents often blame themselves and this is wrong.

Just why these blemishes or birthmarks occur is not known, but as the late Dr. William Allen Pusey observed: This is just a part of the skin that was not built according to specifications. Frights or other fears belong in the "old wives' tales" handed down through the years. That they are responsible for any marking of the baby before birth cannot be proved in any medical experience.

Since the blemishes appear in different forms, such as growths, with dark and roughened surfaces and excessive hair patches, the treatment is an individual problem. The location of the mark is also a consideration. For example, if it is near the eye, care must be taken not to impair the sight. Cauterization, radium and carbon dioxide snow are some of the procedures that may be utilized in the treatment of birthmarks. Surgery is frequently employed and special methods may be needed according to the individual problem.

Parents should be alert to the care of birthmarks. Frequently, some are of the type that disappear in time without treatment, but it is not wise for a parent to make his decision himself. Also parents of children born with so-called birthmarks should remember that they are not at fault. This is a theory based on superstition and conjecture and has no scientific basis. They should, however, make every attempt to seek competnet medical advice so that the treatment for the removal of the blemish can be started early.

Thorsby News

(By MISS C. N. TURNQUIST — Correspondent)

A Word From Our Mayor:

Quite a delegation of Thorsby citizens attended Council Meeting at the Town Hall on Tuesday night, the 19th of July. This meeting was a sort of open forum, and different people got up and got things "off their chest." They discussed various things in general and really everybody just sort of got each other told. This is a good thing, and I appreciate the group of people that were at that meeting, and I want to say here that any time any one wishes to attend our council meetings, they will receive a welcome and if they have any grievance that they wish to discuss, they will certainly have a chance to be heard.

Homecoming Day At The Lutheran Church—

Homecoming day at the Lutheran Church last Sunday was quite an event. Services were held at 11 o'clock with the Rev. W. H. Lefstad conducting the service, using for his sermon "Christian Life."

The little church, which has been used for occasional services in the past several years, had been dressed up for the occasion. Through the kindness of friends and former members who have been making donations for its repair, it has been possible to have the church redecorated, and while it is not yet quite finished, it did look fresh and clean for the gathering of its former members who came here from far and wide to attend these services. Mrs. Erle Ellis of Clanton, was soloist, with her mother, Mrs. C. R. Foss, of Fairfield, Ala., at the piano.

Hearing the tones of the bell at this church Sunday morning, was indeed a thrill to its old members as it rang out loud and clear, and it must also have cheered the hearts of many, as they even called us on the telephone to tell us how good it was to hear the bell again and people all around remarked how they enjoyed hearing its tones again.

After the service a bountiful dinner was enjoyed on the spacious grounds of the Bosworth home, just back of the church. Everyone brought a basket dinner and there was plenty of delicious food.

Attending this reunion from out-of-town were: The Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Lefstad and son, Paul, of Summerville, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Sutlive and children, Hattie Jane and Vincent, Jr., Mrs. V. H. Sutlive, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss, Mr. and Mrs. Karl R. Peterson, Robert Foss, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Morris, Mrs. Esther Garrett, Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Gerald and son, Jimmy, Mr. and Mrs. John Brothers, all of Birmingham, Ala.; Mr. Arnold Soberg, of Mobile, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Lefstad, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. Gust Berlin, of Atlanta, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Barnes and son, Eugene, of Mobile, Ala.; Mrs. C. A. McComber and daughter, Shirley, of Arlington, Va.; Mrs. Edith Kietzman and daughters, Pat and Pam, of Gary, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Wingfield, Jr., and children, Tommy III and Charlotte Ann, of Montgomery, Ala.; Mrs. Ralph Mason and son, Ralph, Jr., of Selma, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. Thos. G. Rogers of Atlanta, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. Erle Ellis, of Clanton; Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Diefenderfer, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Diefenderfer, of Clanfon. Joining the party in the afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. A. Brown (Celia Gerald) and two children of Maplesville, Ala., and Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Gerald, Jr., and children of Clanton, Ala. About 85 people attended.

Did you know that the Chilton County Peach Festival really rates? In speaking to Gordon Cargile, he mentioned that while he was in a book store in Ashville, N.C., he picked up a booklet containing names of the best books, and as he turned to the cover of the back page, he saw listed, the ten most important events in the United States in the month of July, and listed third from the top was the Chilton County Peach Festival. The booklet was published in New York—now how's that.

NEW TELEPHONE DIRECTORY BEING DELIVERED

A new telephone directory, which contains a section in which businesses are classified alphabetically for the first time and includes many new and changed listings and other helpful telephone information has just been distributed in Clanton and Maplesville.

Approximately 1,850 new directories have been delivered to homes and offices, according to P. J. Kreis, manager for the Southern Bell Telephone Company.

The new directory has a gray cover, which makes it easily distinguishable from the old green cover telephone book.

Mr. Kreis asks that telephone users refer to the new directory for the desired number. Looking up the number helps avoid the possibility of getting a wrong number, and frequently saves time for the calling party as well as the party who might be called in error. Consulting the directory also helps make the best user of already crowded central office equipment. "Information" should be called only when desired numbers are not listed in the directory.

The new classified section, printed on yellow pages just as in other cities, a convenient source of useful business information. It lists business telephone subscribers alphabetically under headings describing their businesses, professions or the products and the services they sell.

Because of the continuing paper shortage, Mr. Kreis request that good care be taken of the new copies, and that your old directories be turned in with other waste paper.

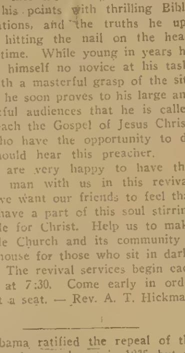
Temple Church Revival

The revival now is in progress at the Temple Church and is drawing good attendance every night. The Rev. Charles Hurst of Nashville, Tenn., is doing the preaching. His subjects have been thus far in the revival, "An Unchanging Christ for a Changing World." ... "God's Blue Print for a Revival." . . ."A Man Who Tried To Run From God." . . . "Second Coming of Christ."

The Rev. Mr. Hurst makes no attempt at oratory, but he is a wonderfully interesting and electric speaker. He puts the "punch of a pile driver" into his words, and drives home his points with thrilling Bible illustrations, and the truths he upholds, hitting the nail on the head every time. While young in years he proves himself no novice at his task, but with a masterful grasp of the situation he soon proves to his large and delightful audiences that he is called to preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ. All who have the opportunity to do so, should hear this preacher.



REV. CHARLES HURST

We are very happy to have this young man with us in this revival. And we want our friends to feel that they have a part of this soul stirring crusade for Christ. Help us to make Temple Church and its community a Lighthouse for those who sit in darkness. The revival services begin each night at 7:30. Come early in order to get a seat. — Rev. A. T. Hickman, astor.

Alabama ratified the repeal of the eighteenth amendment in 1835, but an effort to wipe out the dry law failed to carry in a statewide election. The drys cast 51.9 per cent of the total votes.

State Audit Report Shows Big Shortage

The long awaited report of the state auditors who have been in Chilton County for the past year was made last week.

According to the report there is a mis-appropriation of some $240,000 for which six officials and ex-officials are responsible. In the state examiner of account's report were named: Judge W. L. Parrish, J. Lee Smith, Hoyt Freeman, Monroe Parrish, R. L. Ousley and W. M. Polk.

Contrary to the belief of some, the "shortage" does not mean that the men named by the state auditors "went south" with the county funds. About ninety percent of the amount stated will probably be revealed as monies spent for materials from funds earmarked for another purpose, or, money spent for materials, equipment, supplies, etc., which amounted to more than one-hundred and fifty dollars. (In this case the law specifically states that bids shall be taken, and on this point the officials faulted.)

Below is quoted some paragraphs from The Birmingham News in a story written by Dan Cobb last Thursday.

"Three of six men asked to account for $250,000 in Chilton County funds today explained their stands.

"Former County Treasurer W. M. Polk said: 'I only signed checks as ordered by the (county) commission. They drew the Warrants and I countersigned them.'

Charlie Cox Writes Chilton Friends

Dear Friends:

Since there has been so many false rumors in regard to the local bill effecting the commissioners court, I think it best for me to state my position.

As I have already stated on the radio and at a democratic meeting, I did not write the Bill, I did not sponsor it, I did not have it advertised and I did not commit myself on it either way.

After the Commissioners Court and the Chairman had stated to me and others that it was necessary to have a change made and then I stated to the promoters of the Bill, who had been discussing the situation that existed in the Commissioners Court for the past two months, that they might write a Bill and have it advertised so the people could see what it provided for so they would have four weeks to build up sentiment for or against the Bill.

I told them that if I was convinced that a majority of the people was for the Bill when the advertising period was out, I would pass the Bill and if I was not convinced it was, then I would not pass it.

There were a good many citizens of this county who expressed themselves as being in favor of the Bill but I was thoroughly convinced after a couple of meetings at the Courthouse that a majority of the people were against it. That being true the Bill will not be introduced or passed.

It is not my purpose to carry out my personal views while serving as your Representative, but to try to carry out the wish of the people as a whole.

Sincerely,
C. B. COX,
Representative.

This announcement was made this week by Mr. Earl Parrish, Chairman of the Lions Club Horse Show Committee, after a survey of the entries already received, plus contacts having been made with show men in the recent north Alabama horse show and in the Selma area. Mr. Parrish said he had been assured that the entry list from Selma will be almost one hundred per cent strong. This means that the 12 different classes to be entered will be strongly contested and the judges are bound to have a difficult time in awarding over $700.00 in cash prizes.

Lions Club President, Julian Evans, said today that committee chairmen are making final plans for the big night and everything will be in readiness when R. C. Williams, ring master, steps into the middle of the show ring and begins the program under the lights.

Arrangements have been made to have Mr. Turner Young of Lebanon, Tenn., on hand to judge the many fine

They Cut Off The Old Pine Tree

A few weeks ago the State Legislature voted to have a picture of a pine tree stamped on all 1950 automobile tags. But now a stop has been called. The legislature found that the adding of the little pine tree would cost the state an additional seventy-five thousand dollars over and above the regular cost of making license plates. The lawmakers were informed of this by a Revenue Department attorney last week.

When the statement was verified by officials who make the tags, the lawmakers immediately voted to overlook the matter and let the pine tree remain in the forest. They cut off the old pine tree.

However, the pine tree has been voted the official state tree.

Roosevelt's Birthday A Holiday

Senator Lister Hill has introduced [a resolution] in the United States Senate asking the federal [govern]ment to declare the late President Roosevelt's birthday a national holiday. The late President was born on January 30th. The resolution, which would make that date a day for nation-wide observance was passed by a joint resolution of the Alabama legislature. The measure further requested that the holiday be announced through a proclamation by President Truman.

Rep. Laurie Battle, of Jefferson, is slated to introduce a similiar petition in the lower house.

[illegible] and Forty Thousand Dollars—Great Balls of Fire!

We have sorely neglected a good friend. [illegible] White recently opened the Standard Service Station in [illegible] Clanton and we have failed to [illegible] him or mention the fact. [illegible] caused by our excitement at [illegible] to go on [a] week's vacation and [illegible] our lack of interest in [illegible] doings. We do wish him [illegible] best of business and we think [illegible] guys and gals should drop [illegible] and give him a part of [illegible]

We were talking to Ira Crowe at City Grocery the past week. When [illegible] about the sheriff's race next [illegible] he stated [illegible] wasn't [illegible] from the office. Ira [illegible] anybody [illegible] heard mentioned lately. When this political bug bites you—you are a dead duck.

A hundred or more of Chilton Coun[ty] [illegible] this [illegible] members of Compa[ny] [illegible] Infantry. They have [illegible] to Fort Benning, Ga., for ten days training. Farrell Williamson is C.O. of the local Guard.

Which reminds us of the oldie about the Sergeant giving the private a dressing down for being so late in returning with the supplies. The sergeant demanded: "Okay, let's hear how it happened." "Well, I picked up a preacher along the way," said the rookie, "and from then on the mules couldn't understand a word I said to them."

The local doctors are having a time keeping up with patients who have over eaten during this hot weather. According to the doctor we all should go mighty light on the heavy foods and plan our meals to consist mostly of liquids. They're not talking about "strong" liquids either. Milk and fruit juices get top place we believe. So far as we are concerned this kind of weather kinda kills our appetite anyway.

Our hat is off to Mr. S. L. Gibson, of Verbena. The other day writing in the "Tell It To Grandma" column of The Montgomery Advertiser, Mr. Gibson stated that instead of building a monument in Mississippi for our Confederate dead, why not put that amount into a memorial bridge across the Alabama River at Montgomery. That would be a memorial that all of Alabama would see and appreciate, while not one in a thousand Alabamians will ever see the proposed memorial in Mississippi. And might we add, nor will it be of any use to any Alabamian, now or ever.

One thing is a cinch, when they get done building all these new picture theatres here-about, one cannot say that he is all dressed up and no where to [go] [illegible] be a case of: "Let's see, [illegible] all we motor out to the Clan[ton] Drive-In, drop in the N[ew] Wade[illegible], trip up the block to Mr [illegible]ritt's New House on the George [illegible] Cain lot, or, stroll over to Clanton's oldest cenema, the Wadesonian." Another thing is a cinch. Out of that many choices everybody should be able to find exactly the kind of motion picture to suit their taste.

The Birmingham Junior Chamber of Commerce is certainly working overtime on the publicity for the Redskins-Cardinals football game at Birmingham on September 10th. Every day or so, the mail brings another long write-up publicizing the game. The reason, of course, is they knew if they kept at it long enough, we would eventually break down and help them advertise the game like we have in the paragraph just finished.

Spiritual Revival

Some of our greatest statesmen have said that America's greatest need is spiritual revival, a spiritual awakening. I believe this to be so. The need for our community, our county, and our state, and nation is a mighty spiritual revival, a spiritual awakening. This calls for positive thinking on the part of every true Christian. But there are some things to be expected in having a spiritual revival.

A. T. HICKMAN

First, there has got to be some Bible preaching. Not some little social gospel; something that entertains the fancy of men, but some old fashioned Bible preaching; the preaching of the Word of God. The sin fighting type of preaching. Preaching that is positive, straight from the shoulder, driven toward the hearts of men. This is to bring a conviction of sin on the part of the church. Backslidden professors are to be awakened, and there will be a deep searching of the heart. The fountain of sin will be broken up in a true revival. Christians are brought under deep conviction in a time of a revival. They renew their hope with God; pay their broken vows, and make a fresh consecration of their lives to God. The whole church, if in a backslidden condition, will be brought to repentance. A revival is nothing else than a new beginning of obedience to God. Just as in the case of a converted sinner, the first step is a deep conviction of sin, then repentance, a breaking down of a selfish will, a getting down in the dust before God, with a deep humility of the heart and the forsaking of sin. A spiritual revival renews faith in the hearts of Christians, also renews them in the love of God.

A true spiritual revival breaks the power of sin over professed Christians. With all of their renewed faith, love and courage, they get more power over sin in their lives. Spiritual revival brings about holy living. Church members are made to live better before their fellowmen. All this will result in the unconverted people becoming interested in their soul's need. There will be the turning from sin unto God with many sinners. People will witness the "born again" experience. Yes, friends, what we need is a spiritual revival. We are having this now at the Temple Church where I am pastor. We invite you to share this spiritual revival with us.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

STUTTERING

Stuttering is one of the most common speech defects, affecting one in every hundred persons in either of its two forms; the repetition of sounds and the opening of the mouth without any sounds being made.

Children having these symptoms should be carefully examined by a physician to rule out any physical malformation of the jaw, larynx, tongue, palate or nasal passages. Nutritional disorders and emotional disturbances must also be considered.

Emotional confusion results from the impatience and reprimands of parents. When a child stutters the parent frequently hurries him to complete his sentences, supplies the word for this thought and most often delays the correction of the defect by ignoring it with the hope that he will outgrow it.

Every effort should be made to relax the child, put him at ease and treat him as though no defect existed. Observe a child in solitude, singing or talking to a doll or dog, and you will observe that there is no stuttering. It is only when the tot is thrust into a position where he is exposed to ridicule by his playmates or impatience by his parents that the stuttering rises to a struggle.

The child should be placed under the guidance of experts in the problem who will help him overcome his handicap with special training. It is the responsibility of every parent to equip his children with the best preparation possible for competition in later life. Earning power is higher for persons with good speech habits than those in whom defects and impediments exist.

GILLILAND HOMECOMING

Mr. Editor:

Will you please give me a small space in your paper this week?

First, I want to say last Sunday, July 24th, was the regular day set for our homecoming. We always meet at the old home place in Coosa County where we grew up into manhood. My mother died when I was a small boy (about six years old). There were five of us oldest children. My father married again, so with all of the children together there were 17 and all of them lived to be grown and married but one. There are 14 still living. As it so happened I was the oldest one.

In the year, 1899, August 11th, I, W. F. Gilliland, and Miss Tempie Jo Watts were married. We celebrated our 50th golden wedding anniversary and the homecoming all together. So we had a good day and a large crowd only, eight of the children were present. A large crowd of children and grandchildren and a lot of friends. We had about 175 all together. We sure did have a good time together with our kind people and old friends.

At noon dinner was spread and we enjoyed a great feast down at the old spring where we children used to carry water when we were small.

After dinner we had another feast we enjoyed most of all and that was the Spirit of God. We had some good singing and music, with talks from some of the children and friends.

Then we turned the preacher loose, one of our boys, Rev. E. L. Gilliland, from Anniston, Ala. Everybody seemed to enjoy the message. His subject was, "When God called Noah to build an ark for the savings of His people."

We hope to meet again next year, but nobody knows what will take place before that time, but we do know that we have to depart from this life. So let us remember that the time to make preparation is while we are living, because when the Lord calls then it is too late. Let us make ready while we are living. My prayer is that everyone who reads this letter, if they are not ready to meet the Lord in peace that they may just stop and think about where they are going to spend eternity.

May the Lord bless everyone who reads this letter. Love to all.—W. F. Gilliland, A Subscriber.

There will be an annual homecoming the Medline Baptist Church the second Sunday in August. This church is located 12 miles northwest of Plantersville, Ala. The all-day program will begin at 10:30 a.m. and will include a worship service, conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. E. Dean, of Selma, Ala.

There will be dinner on the ground and singing in the afternoon. Singers and pianists from the Dallas County Singing Convention and other groups will be present to take part in the musical program.

Also adding to the interest of this year's homecoming at the church, one of the oldest in Dallas County, is the announcement that plans are being made to rebuild the dilapidated building. All who have an interest in its continuance will be given a chance to contribute to the fund being raised for the improvements.

The descendants of the church's first worshippers and many who have moved away return for this one day of fellowship, worship and reunion.

On Wednesday, August 10th, a cemetery and church clean-up will be held. It is hoped that all who can will be present and assist in this undertaking.

Radio Ramblings

(By JESSE CULP)

One of radio's greatest casts will be heard daily on WKLF starting next week. It's the program "Myrt and Marge," one of the most successful radio serials ever created. This program has been heard on the air for more than ten years, and has a well established listening audience of millions from coast to coast. My prediction is that "Myrt and Marge" will become a morning listening habit for most of the ladies in Central Alabama.

All gospel music lovers will want to tune in to WKLF tomorrow (Friday) at two in the afternoon. Prof A. H. Glasscock, who is now teaching a singing school at Sardis Church, will bring his pupils up to the studios for some community singing on the air. This is another public interest feature of "the friendly voice."

Well, there's some hot politicing in the fashion kingdom of Clanton this week, as the two top queen contestants vie for the title of "Queen of Queens." Mrs. Raymond Mims and Mrs. J. E. Gowan were selected by popular vote last week as the two top fashion queens in popularity from the large roster of those honored as queens on the Fashion Portraits program. The two contestants made campaign speeches on the air yesterday afternoon, officially opening their respective races for the title. Next Wednesday, on "Fashion Portraits," (5:00 p.m.) the successful candidate will be crowned. Be sure to listen.

Our broadcasting colleagues up in Birmingham have been having numerous troubles lately. WBRC has had most of its technicians out on strike for several weeks now, which resulted in many of the new announcers which you have heard on ABS. Just this Monday, the strike was finally settled. Another Birmingham Station WTNB, has been forced completely off the air because its whole engineering staff quit in a labor squabble. And just the other day someone cut a guy wire and felled WEDR's tower. WEDR is Birmingham's new station, which was scheduled to go on the air August 15th, and is to be operated solely by Negro personnel and programmed strictly for Negro people. A new tower has been ordered, and the station expects to get on in early September.

Several new stations are currently being built in Alabama—in Ft. Payne, Fayette and Atmore. These are all small community stations. WVOK in Birmingham has received permission from the Federal Communications Commission to increase its power to 50,000 watts directional. This will make it the strongest station in Alabama, so far as wattage power is concerned.

That's sign off time for this week. Until next Thursday, so long and good listening.

ALUMINUM FOIL IS GOOD FOR HOME FREEZER USE

Aluminum foil for home freezer use is a fairly new wrapping material that has become very popular, Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension food preservation specialist, told homemakers this week.

"It is handy for wrapping such foods as baked cakes or pies, meats and poultry. Laminated foil, made with a backing of other sheeting material, holds up better than the plain foil and with correct folding, provides a moisture and vapor-proof package," said Miss Curtis.

Farmers Must Break With Past to Get New FHA Loans

Loans will be made only to those who will follow proven practices.

When the Congress appropriated funds for operating loans to farmers through the Farmers Home Administration for this fiscal year, it was made unmistakably clear that the agency must administer these funds in a manner that will result in substantial improvements in the farm and home operations of borrowers, says Mr. Joe M. Murphree, County Supervisor for Chilton County.

In a policy statement to State Director Julian Brown, Administrator Dillard B. Lasseter, emphasized that the credit and supervisory services of the program must promote the kind of agriculture that should be perpetuated.

State Director Brown said that regulations have been revised to implement this policy. Fundamental adjustments such as the application of basic soil treatment, establishing improved pastures, fencing, obtaining or improving foundation livestock, using improved varieties of seed, adequate fertilization of crops and pest control measures must be practiced on borrowers' farms.

Families using the program will be encouraged to participate in and receive maximum assistance from other available agricultural programs, the State Director said. Applicants for new loans, or present borrowers, unwilling to participate in other agricultural programs which are essential to their success and which have benefitted other farms in the area should not receive Farmers Home Administration assistance. The help of the Soil Conservation Service, Extension Service, Production and Marketing Administration, as well as others, is available and must be fully utilized by our borrowers he said.

If the operations of a majority of the tenant applicants are to be improved substantially, an understanding must be reached between the tenant, the landlord and the FHA concerning improvements to be made in farm practices, and how they will be financed and the benefits distributed, Supervisor Murphree said.

The State Director declared that present borrowers who have not made substantial progress in improving their farm and home operations must not be given further assistance unless the necessary adjustments and improvements are planned with them, and there is reasonable assurance that they will carry out the plans.

Annual loans will be made only to those eligible applicants who are conducting family-type farming operations of a satisfactory nature, and who need annual credit to continue their operations this year.

Annual loan assistance will no longer be extended to those who are carrying on the type of farming that will likely require a continuation of such loans year after year, instead of developing the farm so that it will become self sustaining, State Director Brown said. Many borrowers who have received annual loans in previous years will not qualify under this policy.

Veterans will again be given preference and they will be provided the best credit and supervisory assistance possible, the county supervisor said.

Duke Gets His Tractor

Duke Thomas bought a farm with the money he'd saved in the Service, but he couldn't get a tractor. He needed it badly, but was tenth on the local dealer's list.

"Tell you what," old man Peters says, "If these nine fellows ahead of you agree, you'll get the next one I get in." "No, thanks," says Duke, "I'll just take my turn."

But old Peters mails out nine postcards. And the other day he tells Duke his tractor will be in next week. "I simply wrote the facts to the fellows ahead of you They decided it."

From where I sit, it's that spirit of understanding that helps make our democracy so great. Understanding for the other fellow's problems and respect for the other fellow's rights—whether it's his right to earn a living, his right to cast his vote against your candidate, or even his right to enjoy a moderate, friendly glass of beer or ale—if and when he chooses. Let's always keep it that way.

. . . . SECTION OF - CHILTON COUNTY NEWS - CLANTON, ALA. . . . .

A Seven-Year Miracle

SOIL-building winter legumes are bringing prosperity to Virgil Green, unit test demonstration farmer in Jackson County. Although he has been farming only seven years, this farmer is making rapid progress.

In the Fall of 1942, Green washed the grease off his hands and left a garage where he had worked several years. He headed for a farm in Randall's Chapel Community, some three miles south of Scottsboro. When he bought the place it was badly eroded and run down. Only seven or eight acres which had been petted for cotton would make respectable yields.

Today he has 90 acres of cropland on his farm, and every acre is capable of producing a bale of cotton per acre or 50 bushels of corn. The farmer credits this largely to the use of soil-building winter legumes.

Land Reclamation Project

In early March of this year, Green says he still had "eyesores" on his farm. There are still a few today, but they are dwindling. Corrections are being made as money and time permit.

Green has just completed a reclaiming project on five acres. He is so well pleased with the miracle performed that he is already in the process of planning another on 10 or 12 acres—an adjoining part of the same pasture area. He has applied for and will likely get P.M.A. assistance on these jobs because reclamation is designated as a special practice in Jackson County.

County Agent J. E. Carter praises Mr. Green's soil improvement project as one of the best he has ever seen.

"No picture or story can do justice to the changes on this farm," he says. "The job of soil improvement done here during the past seven years is remarkable."

Fall Prices May Fall Early

THE Fall decline in farm prices may come ahead of schedule this year. It could begin as early as August 15.

A. W. Jones, A.P.I. Extension marketing specialist, predicts that earlier sale of Spring pigs grown out from the big 1948 grain crop will take place. He thinks these pigs, together with bigger supplies of broilers, milk, eggs, turkeys, dairy products, and animal and vegetable oils, may bring prices down sooner than usual.

Jones believes Alabama farmers may keep farm prices more stable by leveling out the Fall flow of products to market.

"In other words," he says, "earlier sales will not only bring higher prices but will help get the big run of increased supplies into use sooner. This will lengthen the marketing period and help stabilize prices."

AND HIS CORN GROWS TALL . . .

Frank McKenzie of Fairhope, Alabama, shows by the smile on his face how he feels about his corn prospect for this year. Here he holds on to two nice ears in his field of Dixie 17 hybrid.

McKenzie is a corn fertilizer demonstrator in Baldwin County and a firm believer in hybrid varieties. Besides his Dixie 17 he has a large field of Louisiana 468. He learned last year that fertilizer applied to corn brings in handsome returns.

Mr. "Mac" fertilizes all of his corn well, but he gives his demonstration plots a special treatment. He uses 600 pounds of 4-10-7 at planting and 200 pounds of ammonium nitrate side dressing in two applications.

They'll Stay Home

TOO often locally-grown seed are sold to outside areas when they are actually needed in the county where they are grown.

County Agent C. P. Granade is trying to lick this problem as related to lupine seed. Butler County farmers produced nearly one and three-quarters million pounds of lupine seed this year.

Instead of selling seed out of the county, Granade is urging farmers to hold them until this Fall and sell their surplus to neighbors.

STATE AUDITORS REPORT SHOWS HUGE SHORTAGE

W. L. Parrish, who took office in 1947, said 'I asked for the investigation. I still welcome it and wish it well.'

"He added that 'if anybody is found guilty of anything, I hope they get their due punishment through the courts. That is the height of my ambition.'

"The six men are to be asked to account for approximately $240,000 which state examiners say was unaccounted for or improperly accounted for in an audit covering the period between Oct. 1, 1946, and Sept. 30, 1948.

"Mr. Freeman is the only member of the present County Commission named in the report. As Probate Judge, Judge Parrish is an ex-officio member of the board. His only vote is to break a tie of the four-man body.

"He explained, however, that as probate judge, he is chief purchasing agent for the county and that it is his duty to sign purchase orders.

"Judge Parrish said that 'since the investigation started, I have been getting better cooperation from the commission toward putting the county's affairs on a business basis.'

"He declared that when he took office in January, 1947, he found that the commission was 'lax in keeping records.'

"He said that when he insisted on good business procedure, members of the commission would reply that 'we haven't been doing that and we are not going to start it now.'

"Judge Parrish said he found this attitude 'from the commission as a whole.'

"He said he is proud of the fact that he asked for the audit in July, 1947. 'My reason, then and now,' he added, 'is to see to it that the taxpayers of Chilton County get what they pay for and that none of their money is routed around to the city slickers and their friends.'

"J. Monroe Parrish served his district as commissioner from 1936 through 1948. He said that since that time he has been retired. He is confined to his home now with a leg infection.

"He grows a lot of peaches, cotton and corn.

"Judge Parrish said there is a possibility that some of the irregularities may have been 'rammed under my very nose since I've been in office.'

"If they were, he continued, 'I want the examiners to expose them thoroughly. I have asked the examiners if I have been guilty of deceiving my friends or defrauding them. I want them to put it right on the table.'

"He said he suspects that 'this sort of stuff has been going on 10 years or more.'

"The six men will have 10 days after they are notified to show cause why the amounts should not be made final."

Tickets for annual horse show will go on sale within a day or two and any members of the Lions Club will have tickets for sale. At the same time it is expected that tickets will be placed in several drug stores throughout Chilton County. They will also be available at the gate on the night of the show. Reserve seat tickets will be sold inside the gate.

Plans have been made for a special detail of police to handle the crowds that are expected to attend the horse show and the proceeds from the big event will go toward the Alabama Sight Conservation Benefit Fund, of which the Clanton Lions Club is a regular contributor.

ALABAMA SENATORS ANNOUNCE COTTONSEED LOAN

Senators Lister Hill and John Sparkman announced this week that a government loan on cottonseed of about $50 a ton would be effective on this year's crop.

The loan, first ever approved on cottonseed, will be 90 percent of parity based on August 1 prices. The Alabama Senators estimated that the $50 a ton loan would be $10 or $15 a ton higher than seed prices without the government support.

In a joint statement the Senators declared:

"This is the first time we have been able to get a government loan on cottonseed. It is tremendously gratifying to know that Alabama farmers will have the benefit of a 90 percent of parity support."

Hill and Sparkman met with Agriculture officials last Saturday and Ralph Trigg, PMA Administrator, promised the Senators that he would issue full directions to PMA officials, County Agents, and others concerned with the program in the immediate future.

This flock of sheep is one of the few found in the Gulf Coast region of Alabama. But it is making good profits for the Powers Brothers in Baldwin County, Jack F. and James R..

Jack Powers says the 60-odd native ewes, crossed with purebred Hampshire rams, produce enough market lambs each year to pay twice the original cost of ewes. Wool, he says, pays for wintering.

The sheep share their 30 acres of permanent pasture and winter grazing with beef cattle.

Planning Makes A Difference

FARMERS who secure seeds, fertilizers, and other supplies early get their fall crops in on time. And that makes a big difference in the final outcome.

D. R. Harbor, A.P.I. Extension agronomist, says planning ahead means increased profit with such crops as winter legumes, small grains, mixtures of winter legumes and small grains, ryegrass for winter grazing and permanent pastures.

"By starting now, farmers will be able to find the variety and quality of seeds needed and the amount and kind of fertilizers recommended before fall planting time," declares Harbor.

The agronomist believes many farmers will find it advisable to secure from their neighbors seed harvested this Spring. However, he cautions farmers to see that they are tested for germination, purity, and noxious weed seed content before buying.

Seed of the right variety and high quality may mean the difference between success and failure with fall-planted crops. Low quality seed often infest the farm with undesirable weeds and other plants which give trouble for years.

Farmers Find Profit In Treating Fence Posts

EXPANSION of the livestock industry in Alabama is responsible for much of the growing demand for good fence posts. Farmers trying to maintain fences with untreated posts of nondurable woods know the expense and labor involved.

The supply of naturally durable posts falls far short of the demand. Posts given good preservative treatment are cheaper in the long run than untreated posts.

For 11 years, experiments with preservative treatments and lasting qualities of fence posts have been conducted by the Forestry Department of A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station. Knox Livingston, assistant forester, says results indicate the cold-soaking process to be most promising for individual farmers or small cooperative groups. This process involves the use of an oil solution.

Pentachlorophenol, five per cent solution in fuel oil, has been thoroughly proved as a wood preservative. This solution, often called "penta-preservative," is recommended for treating fence posts by the cold-soaking method. It is mixed with oil to make the desired solution according to the manufacturer's directions. Kerosene, furnace oil, or diesel fuel can be used. The mixture must be thoroughly stirred before posts are soaked.

Preparation Important

It is important that posts be properly prepared before treatment, Livingston warns. All bark must be removed; the inner bark, especially, is very resistant to penetration of the preservative. Posts may be either hand or machine peeled. Hand peeling is best accomplished with a "spud," an old shovel, a straightened hoe, or a truck or auto spring with one end sharpened. A draw knife is used to remove the last strips of inner bark. Mechanical peelers are of either the revolving drum or chain type.

To season, the peeled posts are placed in open stacks, which must be supported well above ground. Three months is usually a long enough period for seasoning; however, more time may be required in cold or rainy weather. When sufficiently dry, the posts will have deep cracks along the sides.

The seasoned posts are placed in a tank, either butt-ends down or in a horizontal position. Enough "penta-preservative" is added to keep the post covered throughout the soaking period. They must be held down to prevent them from floating. A 24-hour soaking period is recommended for pine and 48 hours for hardwood posts.

Equipment Made At Home

Tanks of various shapes and sizes are used for treating posts. An oil drum with one end cut out is one of the simplest and most suitable tanks for small operations. In such a tank, posts less than six feet long can be treated for the required soaking period by first submerging one end and then the other. Old hot water tanks or gasoline tanks, cut off to the desired height, make excellent vats for treating posts in an upright position. Rectangular vats, long enough to hold posts in a horizontal position, can be constructed of steel plates, welded at the seams.

The Experiment Station forester reports that the cost of "Penta-preservative" for treating a post is about 15 cents. And the treatment usually increases the life of pine five or more times. Treated posts save the farmer money in two ways. Over a ten to twenty year period, each treated post takes the place of five untreated ones; and each one does away with the necessity for four or more replacement jobs.

Four Million To Spare

LAST month Alabama farmers had more than four million dollars in conservation payments not yet claimed. B. L. Collins, state executive officer, Production and Marketing Administration, warns that they will lose that amount unless it is used by the end of the calendar year.

Even when it is assumed that payment rates for winter legumes will be higher than they were last year, it is doubtful if this practice alone will require more than two million dollars, believes Collins. He urges farmers to plant legumes and complete every practice approved to date. In addition, he says, carry out practices that will enable you to claim the other two million dollars.

Farmers interested in constructing terraces and drainage ditches; applying phosphate, potash, and basic slag to approved soil conserving crops; applying liming materials; or carrying out other approved practices should contact their local P.M.A. committeeman as soon as possible to learn the status of their farm and county.

POSTS PILED FOR SEASONING: The stack at top is supported well above the ground. Large spaces between posts provide for free air circulation and facilitate rapid drying.

The vat, below, has a capacity of from twenty to thirty-five posts, with length up to eight feet. About two hundred gallons of preservative solution are required to cover a full charge of posts. Cleats on the sides of the tank are used to hold the posts down and prevent their floating. The removable cover keeps out rain and prevents loss of the treating solution by evaporation.

Looking Over The Record On Winter Legumes

By J. T. WILLIAMSON, Agronomist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

A winter legume that produces 10,000 pounds of green matter per acre and is ready to turn two or three weeks before time to plant the following crop is good.

Although tests by the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station show no one winter legume best for all conditions, however, some legumes give good results on all Alabama's well-drained soils if properly seeded and fertilized. Austrian peas and the vetches have done well on nearly all experiment fields, substations, and at the Main Station. Austrian peas are more subject to disease than vetches and are not as highly recommended, especially for planting at frequent intervals on the same land.

Fit Your Own Farm

Crimson clover has given good results in all sections of the state except on Black Belt lime soils. Caley peas have given good results in the Black Belt. Blue lupine is best suited to the Southern half of the state but suffers frequent Winter kills in the Northern part.

The Experiment Station recommends that each farmer plant the legume best adapted to his conditions.

Experiments show that legumes do best when fertilized. They need both phosphate and potash on most soils of the state. Good crops of legumes are produced usually by applying at planting time 300 to 400 pounds of 0-14-10 or its equivalent per acre. Vetches, Austrian peas, and crimson clover may need lime in addition to 0-14-10 if grown on sandy soils. Lupines do best when fertilized; however, they often make a high tonnage of green matter without fertilizer when grown after a well fertilized crop.

Planting Dates

Winter legumes properly planted seldom fail if seeded on time. Planting dates recommended for crops to be used for soil improvement are as follows: North Alabama, August 15 to September 15; Central Alabama, September 1 to October 1; and South Alabama, September 15 to October 15.

Winter legumes should be inoculated with the proper culture when planted on an area the first time. Thereafter, it is good insurance to inoculate the seed even though they are grown on land that has been in the same legume before.

Seeding rates per acre of the more common legumes are as follows: Austrian winter peas, common vetch, and Willamette vetch, 30 to 40 pounds; hairy and smooth vetch, 25 to 30 pounds; crimson clover, 20 to 30 pounds; Blue lupine, 50 to 75 pounds and Caley peas, 40 pounds. The higher seed rate recommended will usually result in obtaining the necessary green-weight for turning earlier in the spring.

Coosa County Farmer Sets Broiler Production Record

A Coosa County war veteran is convincing himself and others that there is money in growing broilers. With his last group of chicks he averaged 37.9 pounds of gain per 100 pounds of feed and sold two and one-half pound broilers when they were nine weeks old.

A. D. Bryant, whose farm is near Rockford, credits his success, not to any special secret, but to a good all-around production program. He is glad to show visitors how his project works.

First, he says, he starts with a good broiler type chick that is brought to his farm direct from the hatchery—these chicks are ready to start eating and growing immediately. His brooders are ready, set up, and operating properly long before chicks arrive. He uses brooder guards to keep the chicks close to the brooder until they learn where the heat, water, and feed are. He covers the litter with paper until the chicks have started eating.

The right size troughs are found in the house throughout the growing period. This is very important in prevention of waste. Troughs are the reel type and well constructed with a lip on the edge to prevent chicks from billing out feed. Small troughs are not used long and they are never filled except for the first two or three days. Feed is replenished often, but the trough is never more than one-half to two-thirds full. Bryant uses plenty of feeders. He finds that chicks crowding around feeders not only waste feed but injure and weaken each other.

Water Important

"We are very particular about watering our birds," says Bryant. "We find that broilers drink two pounds of water for every pound of feed they eat, and since water is cheap we see that they have all they can drink. We start them on three-gallon water fountains, at least one fountain to each 100 birds, and use the automatic waterer as soon as the birds can drink from them.

"We try to keep our birds comfortable at all times," he continues, "not only when they are baby chicks but throughout the growing period. We give them all the ventilation the house will admit after they are feathered. Our houses have ventilators near the floor and also near the top of the wall."

The poultryman keeps floor litter dry at al times. He has six inches of litter on the floor when chicks arrive, stirs it whenever it pack down and adds new litter to any wet spot that develop around feeders and waterers.

This farmer finds all these points importan in getting the most pounds of chicken out o a bag of feed. He believes none of them ca be left out.

BIGGEST TOBACCO GROWER: Henry Wilson, McKenzie, Route 1, in Conecuh County, is Alabama's largest producer of tobacco. From 28 acres of the crop this year he expects to gross $9,000.

However, Wilson is quick to point out that all is not profit in growing tobacco. He says the crop is expensive, requires special attention, and involves big risks.

"It's easy to destroy in 10 minutes at the curing barn what has taken all season to produce," he explains in talking about the importance of curing. When the crop is curing, the farmer sets up at the barn like the owner of thoroughbreds when a mare is foaling.

Wilson, at left, is standing in a field of his "Improved Gold Dollar" tobacco at harvest time. At right he is at a wagon headed for the curing barn. With him is Frank Britt, assistant county agent.

Two Tons Of Pork Per Sow

D. K. Christenberry, of Stewart, is one of many Alabama farmers who is now using hogs as a major source of income. Each six months this Hale County farmer sells two tons of hogs from two sows—a Poland China and a Duroc.

"I like the Duroc-Poland China cross because they grow off better and seem to be better for market than purebreds," states Mr. Christenberry. He declares that each of his fine sows produces two cross litters per year and that the litters average a ton of market pork. He markets the hogs in April and October.

In giving the record of his Poland China, Christenberry reports that the six-year-old sow came from a litter of eleven pigs. She has farrowed eleven litters and five times she has raised eleven pigs; in all the farmer has sold 108 pigs from the sow.

Last year hogs produced by this Poland China brought the equivalent of $100 per month for the year.

"I contribute the success of my hog project to what I call my souse and sausage crops such as corn, peanuts, oats, vetch, and good pasture," says the farmer. "All of these are grazed or hogged-off at the proper stage of growth. Alfalfa, grain sorghum, and crimson clover will be added to the grazing crops this fall and next spring," he adds.

Sericea Plus

PLANT a reseeding winter legume in your sericea this Fall and double the returns from those acres next year.

S. R. Doughty, A.P.I. Extension soil conservationist, names farmer after farmer who has sericea and reseeding crimson clover or Caley peas that furnish him grazing from January 1 to October 1.

"The reseeding winter legume should be planted in sericea about the time of the first frost," says Doughty. "From that time on, no further seeding should be necessary provided spring grazing is managed so the winter legume will be allowed to make seed."

If you are interested in this grazing and soil building combination, see your local county agent for details.

Hybrid Seed Corn Grown By Alabama Farmers

FOR the past few years Alabama farmers have received some poor hybrid seed corn. Often the hybrid has not been adapted to Alabama; in other cases the seed have been from improper crosses. Farmers here have bought seed which were turned down by other states.

This condition is not likely to exist in 1950, predicts Ralph Jones, A.P.I. Extension seed crops marketing specialist. Certainly, he says, it should not be so severe. In explaining his statement, Jones points out that nearly 2,000 acres of hybrid seed corn are being grown by Alabama farmers this year.

This acreage is made up of Dixie 18, N.C. 1032, Dixie 17, N.C. 27, Dixie 11, and Pfister hybrids. All of these are high yielding hybrids, well adapted to Alabama.

The fact that all of the above acreage is being grown under certification is further assurance of our farmers getting better seed. Officials of the Alabama Crop Improvement Association are inspecting the corn to see that proper crossing is being done. A list of farmers growing certified hybrid seed corn may be obtained from your county agent.

Dairymen Meet

ALABAMA'S 14 artificial breeding associations were represented at a state meeting in Auburn this week.

Directors, artificial inseminators, and county agents from participating counties assembled on the Alabama Polytechnic Institute campus to give reports on the functioning of county associations and to coordinate plans for the artificial breeding program in Alabama during the next several months. They entered discussions led by dairymen of the A.P.I. Extension Service and Experiment Station.

It was disclosed at the meeting that artificial breeding is growing in Alabama. Although local associations suffered setbacks in the beginning, they are moving ahead on a sound basis. Conception rates are improving, and more dairymen are participating in the program.

"The Time Is Now"

By A.P.I. EXTENSION SPECIALISTS

NOW is the time to prepare land for Fall plantings of grazing crops. If the land is not being fallowed already, turn it, firm it and smooth it to get a good seed bed several days before planting.

* * *

Many farmers who intend to plant pine seedlings this Winter have not yet ordered seedlings. Those interested in planting should get their orders in to J. M. Stauffer, state forester, Montgomery.

* * *

Hot Summer days call for refreshing and cooling meals. It is a good time to avoid highly seasoned, fat, and starchy foods. Try avoiding them for a while and see if your body is not cooler.

* * *

Finish out and market the hogs you plan to sell as rapidly as possible. Hog prices may not be as good after the big rush to market from the corn belt in a few weeks.

* * *

Farmers who have not done so should make arrangements for their Fall seed needs. Planting on time can mean the difference between success and failure with small grains and Winter legume crops. Late buyers often have to wait, and they may fail to get the kind or variety recommended for their area.

* * *

August is the ideal month to clean out the laying house and recondition it for Fall pullets. The pullets should be placed in the laying house not later than September 1—earlier if possible.

* * *

Now is the time to keep your cattle from getting thin next February by doing the following things: 1. Save all the hay that you possibly can. 2. Start fallowing land for Winter crops.

* * *

It's important to turn hogs in the corn field when the corn is at the right stage of maturity. If it's not mature enough, much wastage and spoilage will result. When it can be shucked and some of the grains will rub off with the hand, it's ready.

* * *

Begin now to plan conversion of farm buildings into sweet potato curing houses for this Fall. Make plans for repairing, cleaning, and disinfecting existing sweet potato curing houses and storage crates. Check, repair, clean, and service grading equipment before Fall crops begin to move.

You can lose at the gin much of the value you have gained in your cotton because of good seed, high fertilization rates, and good cultivation. When cotton must be harvested damp, or with lots of trash, it should always be taken to a gin equipped with a good drier and adequate cleaning equipment. Poor ginning lowers your income in that it lowers the value of the product you have to sell.

Small Grains Good Three Uses

FARMERS in all sections of Alabama are taking advantage of the many uses small grains afford. They are planting them for grazing (alone or mixed with legumes), good quality hay, and harvested grain.

David Bryant, St. Clair County, is one farmer making good use of oats and wheat. From 25 acres of oats this year he combined an average of 60 bushels per acre.

This farmer uses 600 pounds of basic slag and 200 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre for oats and wheat. From one and one-half acres of the new Sannet (Sanford) wheat variety, he combined 50 bushels of grain.

For demonstration purposes, Bryant left in his 26½ acres of small grain a check plot that received no fertilizer. He declares this plot was not worth combining except to get a report of the yield for the farm demonstration record.

Fertilization, then, is as necessary in producing small grain as in producing any other crop. And the grains pay in proportion to other crops when fertilized.

Using small grain on the farm helps distribute work over a longer period, helps increase cash income from livestock, and lowers the risk in feed production.

Cull Your Laying Flock

HENS that fail to pay their board have no place in a laying flock.

At this time of the year all hens should be sold as they go out of production. Non-layers eat six to eight pounds of feed per month and return nothing to the grower. On the other hand, they are valuable meat animals and should be put on the market.

A hen in the flock that is not laying is like a man on the payroll who is not working.

It's just plain good business to move these old hens out and replace them with young birds," says John Weeks, A.P.I. Extension poultryman. "It's an accepted fact that pullets are more profitable layers than hens. As the old hens go out of production, replace them with young layers."

Family-Type Farmers And The F.H.A. Program

By JULIAN BROWN, State Director
Farmers Home Administration

SINCE the program started 12 years ago, 4,335 farmers have borrowed $25,000,000 for real estate loans under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act. More than 1300 of these have repaid their loans in full (30 years ahead of schedule); and about 80 per cent of the remaining borrowers are ahead of schedule with payments.

What's more, repayments against maturities on operating loans are higher than 95 per cent. In the current crop year F.H.A. made approximately 8,000 operating loans amounting to $3,000,000 in Alabama.

The Farmers Home Administration was created by Congress to provide an opportunity for family-type farmers to improve their status through supervised credit. Credit services are limited to farmers who cannot secure credit needs from other sources on reasonable terms. Direct loans are made by the administration to buy supplies and equipment needed in farm operations, to buy family-type farms, and to improve or enlarge farms.

In addition to making direct loans the administration is authorized to insure real estate loans made by private lenders for the acquisition, development, or enlargement of family-type farms.

Here's How It Works

Operating loans bear five per cent interest and may be payable over a period of one to five years, depending on the type of loan. Real estate loans are four per cent loans and may be repaid over a maximum period of forty years.

In the case of insured mortgage loans, the borrower is required to make a down payment of 10 per cent of the total investment and the lender receives three per cent net for the loan. The Farmers Home Administration handles all details incident to the making and servicing of the loan. The investment of the lender is insured 100 per cent. It is hoped that this program of insuring loans of private lenders will encourage private capital to do the job and save the use of government funds.

This administration is authorized to make operating loans provided the borrower agrees to make necessary adjustments in his farming program and carry out good, sound practices. On this basis loans are made to family-type operators who agree to operate in accordance with a farm and home plan developed by their supervisor in cooperation with the family.

Farm Better, Live Better

Borrowers are expected to change their type of operation where necessary and as rapidly as possible to conform to the system of farming which is being successfully carried out by others. They are expected to carry out their practices in accordance with information developed by land grant colleges and experiment stations. They are also expected to cooperate in programs of soil conservation, P.M.A., etc.

Farm families in Alabama are fortunate in having the Agricultural Experiment Station which makes available to them, through the A.P.I. Extension Service, scientific information applicable to various areas. Borrowers of this administration are expected to accept and apply this information in order to farm better and live better. In this way they should be able to establish themselves in the communities and secure assistance from local institutions and agencies as they need it.

Mowing a pasture is as sensible as cultivating such crops as corn and cotton. The objective of both mowing and cultivating is to control weeds and other undesirable plants.

In a hog feeding experiment, each pound of protein supplement saved about three pounds of corn. Other experiments have shown that 100 pounds of protein supplement, in balanced rations for young pigs, saved 500 to 600 pounds of grain.

CATTAIL MILLET is a popular grazing crop among dairymen in Escambia County. This 50-acre field, planted May 1, had cows turned on it for grazing around the first of June. It is expected that the millet will last until the end of August.

Standing in the field are F. A. Rew, Escambia County agent, and O. E. Peavy, manager of the McMurphy Dairy, Atmore, Alabama.

J. C. McMurphy, owner of the dairy, has 100 registered Jersey cows. He pasteurizes and bottles his own milk for retail in Atmore.

Along the Way with

P. O. DAVIS
DIRECTOR, API EXTENSION SERVICE

THIS little article is about cotton, from which came half of the cash income received by Alabama farmers in 1948.

Cotton is also the crop that provides the major cash income for more farmers of the United States than any other farm product. And more workers in industry depend upon cotton for their chief raw product than upon any other crop.

So cotton is highly important to the people of Alabama and to the people of the United States. Almost three pounds of each four of all fibers used in this country last year were cotton.

But the position of cotton is not rosy. It is confronted with difficulties. Synthetics are increasing, and production costs are much higher.

In foreign countries farmers are producing more cotton, and they hope to make further increases in their production. The same is true of the cotton growers of the United States.

Increasing Production

It is true, of course, that many farmers who have been producing cotton are not now greatly concerned about increasing their production but, in the aggregate, American farmers would like to produce considerably more cotton than they have been producing in recent years, provided the price continues around the parity level.

With better seed, more fertilizer of the right kind, better methods, and more power and equipment, we can make more cotton per acre; and we can cultivate more acres. Along with cotton, many farmers right here in Alabama can grow more livestock and poultry, also more feed and grazing crops.

For as far back as I can remember I have heard people suggest that farmers "quit growing cotton." This is a simple statement but it raises this difficult question: If a farmer quits producing his No. 1 cash crop, what will he produce instead of it?

No one has yet answered this question to my satisfaction.

Organization For Expansion

I have heard also statements to the effect that cotton is fighting a losing battle, that synthetics are whipping it, and that there are other causes of gloom concerning cotton.

But the fact remains that cotton is an excellent fiber. It is used in hundreds of ways, and it should be expanded greatly in many ways.

This is the main purpose of the National Cotton Council, Memphis, Tennessee. This Council is composed of all segments of the cotton industry, including growers, ginners, spinners, processors, consumers.

Through this Council every farmer, at a very small cost, can contribute efficiently toward effective procedure in behalf of new and bigger markets for cotton. If this is done growers may keep on producing on the present level, or even on a bigger scale.

The Council is financed on a basis of a dime a bale from growers; and this dime is collected by the ginner, provided the grower approves.

For years I have watched this organization in action. I have been delighted with its procedure and thrilled by its accomplishments.

I can think of no other way for a farmer to invest a little money (10c a bale) and expect to accomplish half as much. It is the key to the future of cotton for all of us.

Volunteer Caley Peas And Grandiflora Vetch

By E. C. RICHARDSON, Associate Agronomist
Soil Conservation Service

D. G. STURKIE, Agronomist
A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station

CALEY peas and grandiflora vetch have each produced three volunteer stands from the turning of one heavy seed crop in three-year rotations with cultivated row crops. These rotations consisted of Caley peas and grandiflora vetch grown for seed and followed by grain sorghum the first year; and volunteer stands of Caley peas and grandiflora vetch turned for green manure and followed by corn the second and third years.

In 1945, the year legumes were allowed to mature seed, grain sorghum yielded an average of 48 bushels per acre. Corn yields averaged 60 and 50 bushels per acre respectively the following two years. There was very little difference in the yields of corn after vetch as compared to corn after Caley peas. Corn in this case, was used in the rotation to measure productivity of the soil. However, it appears that cotton, peanuts, or any other spring-planted crop could replace corn in this rotation the years winter legumes are turned for green manure.

Tests On Piedmont Soil

Caley peas and grandiflora vetch were each planted after corn in the fall of 1944 on Madison soil, one of the Piedmont soils on the experiment station at Auburn. These legumes were successful in that both made excellent growth and produced heavy seed yields. After seed matured in the spring of 1945, the dry legume residues and seed were turned under. Seed production was adequate for stocking the soil and in late June, the areas were planted to grain sorghum.

In the fall of 1945, thick stands of peas and vetch volunteered in the grain sorghum. These were turned early the following April before making seed and were followed with corn. Second volunteer stands of peas and vetch came up in the fall of 1946, and were turned before maturing seed in early April, 1947. These legumes were again followed with corn. Peas and vetch volunteered for the third successive year in the fall of 1947; they were allowed to grow to maturity and produce seed again in the spring of 1948 to restock the soil. Volunteer stands obtained in the fall of 1945, 1946, and 1947 were from hard seed produced and turned into the soil in the spring of 1945.

Fertilizer treatments consisted of 500 to 600 pounds per acre of basic slag plus 100 pounds muriate of potash. These materials were applied to the legumes each fall. Basic slag contains lime and phosphorus; both are essential for proper growth of winter legumes.

Nitrogren Added To Soil

Green weights of Caley peas from volunteer stands determined in early April each year were about 16,000, 19,000, and 13,000 pounds per acre for the first, second, and third crops, respectively. Likewise, green weights of grandiflora vetch from volunteer stands were 21,000, 15,000, and 6,000 pounds per acre. (A yield of 10,000 pounds of green legumes turned into the soil added nitrogen equal to 400 to 600 pounds of nitrate of soda.) Green weights of the two crops indicate the stands obtained. Caley peas came up to thick stands all three years. Vetch came up to a thick stand the first year, a thinner yet satisfactory stand the second year, and to a thin stand the third year.

Caley peas apparently have a higher fertility requirement than grandiflora vetch and the growth may be disappointing the first year if grown on poor soils. In this case it is advisable to allow two or more crops to mature seed. This not only supplies the soil with more seed to produce volunteer crops, but also increases the nitrogen for succeeding crops. Apparently Caley peas have a higher requirement for lime, phosphorus, and potash than grandiflora vetch.

In addition to providing cover and improving the soil, considerable grazing may result as a by-product from those acres managed in a reseeding legume, row crop system.

Grandiflora vetch planted in 1944 was allowed to produce a crop of seed in the spring of 1945. After two volunteer crops were turned for green manure, the vetch matured seed again in 1948. Shown at left is the volunteer stand of vetch obtained last year.

Caley peas planted in 1944 produced seed in the Spring of 1945. Two volunteer crops were turned for green manure before the peas were again allowed to mature seed in 1948. Above, right, is the volunteer stand of Caley peas obtained following the 1948 seed crop.

Keep Your Timber

MANY a farmer gets a fast trip to the cleaners when he sells timber carelessly. He can avoid serious loss and damage by checking with experts before selling.

An example of such a case is cited by H. J. Stewart, part-owner of a tract of timber near Cullman. He was recently offered $750 for 40 acres of his timberland. Before selling, however, he requested the assistance of I. R. Martin, A.P.I. Extension forester.

Martin made a partial cut on this piece of woodland and Mr. Stewart received $1,400. In addition, he left a good stand of young, fast growing trees which will produce another crop of timber in the next 10 years.

Stewart believes that $1,400 every 10 years is much better than $750 once in a lifetime. He urges all Alabama timber owners to practice selective cutting.

Marengo Dairyman And D.H.I.A.

MR. and Mrs. James A. (Jim) Russell, who operate a forty-cow dairy in Marengo County, are enthusiastic about doing herd improvement work.

The Jim Russells haven't always lived in Alabama, and there are many things about the soil and climate here that they still do not understand. But they know about D.H.I.A. and appreciate its value.

When Marengo County organized a Dairy Herd Improvement Association, one of the first to join was Jim. He wanted to get some accurate records on his cows.

Russell says since then Talmadge Meadows, local D.H.I.A. supervisor and graduate in Dairy Husbandry from A.P.I., has done all he could to help him. After the first month's test on all cows Meadows pointed out to the dairyman a need for feeding cows according to production.

The dairyman was feeding most of his cows the same amount of concentrates during the April testing period, and the feed bill amounted to $145.10. In May he got with his tester to determine how much concentrates each cow should receive on the basis of April production and found after carefully checking that most cows were over-fed.

Feeding each cow according to production in May, the farmer found that concentrates cost him only $57.40 during the month. Milk production remained the same.

This saving in feed cost of $87.40 is only one of the values D.H.I.A. gives Alabama dairymen, says Russell.

Wilt Can Cause Cotton Failures

GOOD crops of cotton are ever in danger of having yields cut by conditions and hazards of the growing season.

Weather, insects, and diseases are three leading causes of cotton failure. Not all of these can be controlled but certain diseases can be prevented.

Fusarium wilt, commonly called cotton wilt or black rot, is one of the most destructive diseases of cotton. According to O. N. Andrews, A.P.I. Extension cotton improvement specialist, the disease is caused by a fungus which lives in the soil and infests the plant through the roots.

"Planting a wilt-resistant variety is the only effective method of control," states the specialist. "However, there are no varieties that are 100 per cent wilt resistant."

Andrews adds that farmers should check their cotton fields for wilt damage. Where stands are reduced or wilt symptoms occur, plans should be made now to secure seed of a wilt-resistant variety to plant next year's crop.

Never hoe or cultivate beans when there is rain or dew on the vines. Such a procedure will spread rust.

OKRA PODS MUST BE HARVESTED YOUNG if the plants are to remain productive. Experiments conducted at Auburn revealed that okra plants produced three times as many pods if harvested when young and tender as when mature pods were harvested.

Know Your Seed

TO make it easier for Alabama farmers to identify high-quality seed, the Alabama Crop Improvement Association has adopted the following bag policy:

1. All certified seed sold or offered for sale must be bagged in new bags bearing an imprint of the association's emblem and the wording: "Certified Seed." Certification is void unless association tag and seal are affixed.
2. The above regulation shall apply to seed sold or offered for sale. It does not apply to certified seed produced and used on the same farm or to growers who sell their seed for processing as provided by regulations.
3. Cotton bags shall be used for all seed except oats. They may be bagged in new burlap bags.

This creamery, located at Brewton, Alabama, was founded in 1947 on local capital. Today it is the hub of an enterprise that brings $100,000 annually to Escambia County farmers.

Not only has the creamery encouraged adult farmers to produce milk but it is helping to develop dairymen for the next generation.

Letter From Holland Lauds Rural Life In America

MRS. Reika Oud, Holland woman who visited home demonstration clubs in Alabama and other states recently, praises this country in a letter to a friend after returning to her native land.

Below are excerpts from the letter she wrote to the United States.

Prins Mauritslaan 26
Haarlem. 12. 1949.

Dear Mrs. Willis:

Your letter of 9th December has only just reached me. I am only just back a month now, and seeing that Christmas and New Year fell in that period, it was impossible for me to do as much as I wanted to do.

As you know, I left New York at 10:00 A. M. by K. L. M. plane for Amsterdam on December 12th. It was fairly cloudy, but the plane soon carried us above the clouds into the sun. I could thus not see much of New England, but as we came nearer Nova Scotia the clouds below us drifted away, and we looked down onto the many lakes and forests, and the scattered farms and small villages of what seems from the air a rather forsaken part of the world. It had had a thin dusting of snow, this wintery landscape made me realize that I was indeed traveling northward pretty fast. As we approached Newfoundland, the sun became much brighter, and the island with its high cliffs and deep canyons rose out of the ocean like an enormous iced cake . . . it was covered thickly with snow.

. . . . .

A little later we flew to Amsterdam, and at 1:00 P. M. I saw from the plane my little girl's anxious face watching the landing of the plane. It was grand to see them, but I found them looking paler and thinner than I had expected. Perhaps it was because I unconsciously compared them to the vigorous, healthy looking boys and girls I had been meeting in America.

. . . . .

It was a lovely homecoming for me to be in their midst again at such an intimate time. I was able to convey the good wishes of the many American women I had met to them. I was also able to tell them how very, very kind you had all been. They found that I had grown fat and was looking awfully well.

. . . . .

I must tell you something else. Last Saturday, 8th January, I had the great honor of entertaining to lunch His Royal Highness Prins Bernhard. I think I told you that my husband furnished the wines for the Royal dinners during the Inauguration of Queen Juliana; also, that he regularly sends wine to the Palaces.

. . . . .

It was quite a job being cook and hostess, and I will admit my knees shook as I stood in front of the stove, but it all turned out well.

Things went without a hitch. You can imagine how pleased I was when the day was successfully over. It was a great and rare honor.

A Rural Population

I was able to tell my guests of my visit to rural areas of America. I pointed out to them how often we are inclined to base our ideas of American life on facts from the great cities, and how it is forgotten what a fine rural population America has. The Prince was most interested to hear that I had visited so many States. He is intelligent, interesting, well versed in current events, decided in his views, and most natural in his attitude. We found him an easy and charming guest to entertain.

Thank you all for your kindness and warmth.

Please remember me to all the members of your staff whom I had met. Please phone Mrs. Trimble and give her my love. They sent me a card, too. Perhaps you will find time to read my letter to her. She was so sweet to me.

Your very sincerely,
(Signed)
REIKA OUD.

A Good Melon Is Ripe

NO farm product takes the place of a cold, sweet, red-meated watermelon.

Nothing, however, can be more disappointing than to cut into a green one. Maturity is the most important factor in determining quality of melons. To insure having good melons to eat and sell know how to select a ripe one.

There are several characteristics which determine when a melon is ripe. The curl near the stem end will be dead. The under side will turn from white to a creamy color. When thumped sharply a ripe melon will have a rather flat, dead sound rather than a ringing, live sound.

Only experience can make one ,an expert at harvesting ripe melons. Growers should study the external characteristics of ripe melons and use every care to be sure they send only that kind to market.

Year Round Farming In Franklin

By M. L. FERGUSON, County Agent

IN the past farm routine was to plant cotton, corn and hay in the spring; lay by in the summer; harvest in the fall and wait until spring to start farming again. Today Franklin County farmers plant one field in the morning and harvest another in the afternoon.

Farmers here have a year round productive operation now. They plant and harvest in the Spring, Summer and Fall and sell products daily, weekly or monthly. This new farming is demonstrated on all sides, but I can tell the story best with one example.

Some time ago I dropped by to see Dairyman C. L. Stovall, a Unit Test Demonstration farmer operating 90 acres. He had just finished planting his late corn; he was harvesting sericea and alfalfa hay; a combine was coming after lunch to save crimson clover seed; he was mounting a turn plow on his tractor to turn the field as soon as the combine finished work; and he was preparing to plant the oat field in grain sorghum.

July Planting

Oats were ready to harvest on this farm the middle of June. As soon as the combine finished in the oat fields they were turned and fallowed until the last of July. Then they were planted in crimson clover.

Sericea and alfalfa hay on the Stovall farm were ready to cut again the first days of July. Twelve producing dairy cows will graze this area until about the middle of October. From there they will go to crimson clover.

In the middle of September the farmer will drill oats in grain sorghum middles. After harvesting them in the Spring he will be ready to plant grain sorghum again. And so the cycle goes.

A farm pond will provide water for livestock throughout the year. Cows on the farm go daily into the barn to carry milk from these grazing crops. It is Grade A milk produced without supplement or sack feed—milk from an approved dairy barn equipped with an electric milker and cooled immediately.

In 1948 gross milk income alone amounted to $5,200 on this farm. But all fields worked full time to make it possible.

* * *

Give your pullets a chance to grow into hens this fall by grazing them away from old hens.

HERE THEY ARE—the artificially sired twin calves that sold for $160 each at six months of age.

The heifers were sired by Enna Donna Belle Son, owned by the state artificial breeding unit, and were dropped by Standard Actor Lydia, a Jersey cow owned by John Cottier of Auburn.

Annual Jersey Cattle Show September 17

The date of the annual County Jersey Show has been set for September 17th. Approximately twenty entries have already been made by purebred Jersey owners.

This year's show should be one of best ever held in the County. Since the County now has an outlet for "B" grade milk, there is a greater need for better bred cattle.

4-H Club members should be particularly interested in this year's Jersey Show. To the 4-H boy or girl who does the best job of fitting and showing their animal goes a bred, purebred Jersey heifer. Since the award is made on the basis of showmanship and fitting, the type and conformation of the animal being shown will not enter into the judges decision. It is felt that offering an award of this nature, every boy or girl who enters an animal will have an equal chance regardless of the animal that is entered. In addition to the 4-H award there will be others for each of the classes.

Everyone who plans to enter animals should contact the County Agent's office. There is sufficeint time left for anyone to do a creditable job of fitting and training their animals to handle well. All animals should be blanketed and kept out of the sun if they are to have a good coat of hair. Blankets will be stocked locally very soon; however, until they are available, a blanket made of sacks may be used. Animals should be trained to lead well and respond to a halter. A dairy type show halter should be used as they add greatly to the appearance of the animal and make handling easier. Show halters can be secured in Clanton.

Anyone who plans to show an animal in the Dairy Show should enter the animal within the next few weeks. A complete premium list and show schedule will be published just as soon as possible.

Chilton Masonic Picnic To Be At Blalock's Camp

The Chilton County Masonic picnic will be held at Blalock's Fishing Camp, located above Lay Dam on Wednesday, August seventeenth. This will be the third time for the Masons of Chilton County and their families to enjoy this occasion together, and we urge you all to be present.

The program will begin promptly at 10:00 o'clock. So leave early and be there at that time. Several of the grand officers will be present. The Spigener Prison Band will furnish the music.

There will be speeches by the most worshipful grand master, the right worshipful grand master and also a representative of the Eastern Star Chapter.

We have also worked out a program for the children, such as, swimming and games. Bro. John Charles Wade will be in charge of the children.

Let's make our arrangements to meet our old friends and make new ones on this date. Each family will bring a picnic basket.

WHO WOULD OF THOUGHT IT?

Jackson Chapel is my home church and I labored two years to get the community to have a place to worship, and I have been kicked out because I was not in favor of the negroes entertaining in the church. Since I wrote the letter in the paper against the scandal the pastor came to me and replied, that it had knocked him out of his churches. Well, he did it himself; I wasn't present at the time and because I exposed and let it be known, they framed a false on me and excluded me from the church.

I want my many friends to know that I am still in fellowship with the principles and teachings of good old Missionary Baptist doctrines. I joined the Baptist Church when I was fourteen years old and have had ordination papers nine years. I expect to stand for the truth; I will repeat, I don't believe in negroes entertaining, especially during a revival. Let's pray for them. — Rev. C. J. Moates.

Police Officers Wounded In Fight With Negro

Two City Police Officers, Sie Foshee and C. M. Lawrence were wounded last week when they went to West End to arrest a negro law violator.

Lawrence was only slightly wounded but officer Foshee required medical attention and was confined to his home for several days. He is able to be out now, however.

The negro, Cable Sawyer, is in the county jail charged with assault with intent to murder. No bond had been made Wednesday.

THORSBY GARAGE MAN INJURED

A Thorsby Garage man was injured Tuesday night when a tire he was inflating blew out and wounded him seriously about the head and shoulders.

He was Rastus Cleckler, age 38, who is employed at the Thorsby Garage. J. Mell Martin & Sons Ambulance rushed him to Veterans Hospital at Montgomery.

CENTRAL ALABAMA HOSPITAL CLOSED

The Central Alabama Hospital closed last Friday. The operators, Mrs. Alma Sue Henderson and Miss Rebecca Leeper, who have been in charge for the past several months, stated that the decision was made after a meeting of the stockholders and that no further plans could be announced at this time.

However, hope for opening in the near future has been voiced by several Clanton businessmen.

ANN HUDDLESTON BETTER AFTER OPERATION

Little Ann Huddleston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Huddleston, was reported doing nicely after an operation the first of this week at Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore, Md. Mrs. Huddleston and Pat went there with Ann last week and Mr. Huddleston joined them last week end.

Ann's friends here wish for her a speedy recovery and success in her operation.

GUARDSMEN HOME FOR WEEK END

A number of the local National Guardsmen were home last week end and went back to Ft. Benning, Ga., Sunday night for another week of training.

Those home were:

Lt. Ferrill Williamson, Lt. Ed Blackmon, Lt. Hilman Mims, Sgt. Leonard Bates, Sgt. Lewis Headley, Sgt. Jesse Mims, Sgt. Arthur Henley, Sgt. Jack Lawrence, Sgt. Marion Nelson, Cpl. Jimmy Giles, Cpl. Joe Martin, Cpl. Thomas Martin, Cpl. Sam Wilson, Hanson Leach, Lewis Driver, Eugene Hamic, Melvin Ellison, James, Parrish, Maxwell Hargrove, Thomas Blalock, Hardy DeVaughn, James "Billy" Glass, James Miller, George Bradley, Bernie Mims, Vernon Headley, Grover Minor, Clifford Moates, O'Neal Porter, Howard Buckner and Gene Murphree.

There were 100 men from the Clanton Unit that actually went to camp. The training period will be over this week and all the men will return to Clanton next Sunday night, August 14th, on train No. 4, at 7:22 p.m. They will appreciate a welcoming party at the depot as was the case last year. The incident was much like the days when local boys were returning from the war. Let's see if we can't all turn out to welcome the National Guardsmen Sunday night.

MASONS TO MEET

There will be a regular communication of Clanton Lodge No. 423, on next Tuesday, August 16th, at 8:00 p.m. There will be work in the M.M. Degree. There is also a matter of business to be taken up which is of vital interest to all members of Clanton Lodge. I urge each member to make a special effort to be present at this meeting. Visiting brethren welcome. —B. E. Reeves, W.M.

O.E.S. TO MEET

The Clanton Chapter No. 271. O.E.S. will meet Thursday evening, August 11th, at 8:00 p.m. Members are urged to be present.

Bill Introduced Would Give More Berry & Fruit Markets

STATE WINERY BILL PRESENTED

A bill to permit the legal manufacture of wine in Alabama was introduced in the House last Friday by Representative Cox of Chilton County.

Cox said the purpose of his proposal is to let the farmers of the state have another market for their berries and fruits.

Under the provisions of Cox's bill individuals would have the right to make the wine, after having been granted a permit by the governor.

Existing ABC laws already provide that the state can manufacture alcoholic beverages.

The bill provides that a winery could be authorized for any county in the state and that the wine could be sold to the ABC Board or to any other agency for consumption outside the state.

Thomas Makes Federal Game Regulations Known

Montgomery, Ala. — Planning to do some dove hunting when the season rolls around this year? Well, if you are, you'll be glad to know that a recent federal report that the bag limit would be reduced to four birds this coming season was in error.

The announcement was made by State Conservation Director Bert Thomas, who said that this year's regulation sets a bag limit of ten doves and a possession limit of ten, as has been the case for the past few years.

The dispatches from Washington, Thomas said, were also incorrect in stating that dove shooting would be permitted from a half-hour before sunrise until sunset. The official regulations, the conservation director explained in bringing to light the error, provide that all dove shooting must be done during the season only from noon until sunset.

This year's dove season will extend from December 17 until January 15, 1950.

The new regulations extended the waterfowl season to 40 rather than 30 days.

The season opens November 29 and closes January 7, with hunting hours extending from a half-hour before sunrise until August.

Waterfowl bag limits were not changed from last year.

ANNUAL SINGING AT BETHSALEM

The annual singing will be held at Bethsalem Church the second Sunday in August, which will be August 14th. Dinner will be spread at the noon hour.

All singers and lovers of music have a special invitation to come out and be with us.—D. D. Hill, Chairman.

Coosa Lodge Number 242 To Have Barbecue

In order to help raise money for the purpose of rebuilding their Lodge which was destroyed by a windstorm this year members of Coosa Lodge No 242 will have a barbecue at Sewell Memorial School Building, 13 miles northwest of Wetumpka off Highway 11, on August 17th. Time will be from 2 o'clock in the afternoon until 8 o'clock.

Mr. Chas. W. Gantt, in a statement to this paper yesterday said: "Coosa Lodge No. 242 was granted a charter in the year 1857, and has been very much alive all of these years, though our membership is at present very low, 36 members to be exact. We still have that inspiring love of masonry and for our forefathers who have gone before, who gave so much of their time and thought to the tenets of the order. We are anxious for this Lodge to still function and carry on in doing what it can for mankind."

Mr. W. M. Beck will be the principal speaker of the evening.

PLEASANT GROVE METHODIST

Our revival closed at this place Sunday with the 11:00 sermon. The revival was one of the greatest revivals that has been held at this place in some time. Rev. A. L. Lumpkin brought some of the most powerful and inspiring messages that we have heard at this place in years. People responded wonderfully to his messages. Three members joined the church. We trust and pray that we can have Rev. Lumpkin back with us another year and that we will have still a greater revival. We really do appreciate the cooperation that the other churches gave us. People came from most all of the surrounding churches and communities to this revival.

Sunday was also our regular preaching day. Rev. Rountree brought a wonderful message to a large crowd. A large crowd attended the Baptising held at Reynolds' Pond Sunday afternoon. A good representation from all churches attended the fourth and last quarterly conference for the charge which was held at the church Sunday afternoon. The church has paid all of the expenses in full for the entire year. God has really been with this little band of Christians that have stuck to this old church. We have done wonderful and mighty things in this church during the past year and we could not have done it without the help of someone stronger than man—which is God.

Rev. A. L. Lumpkin and Rev. Rountree visited almost every home in this community during our revival. Several members visited each other also.

Mr. and Mrs. John Earl Hosey spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Atkinson and sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Randle Ledbetter spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Ledbetter and family of Selma, Ala.

Mrs. Howard Popwell's mother is visiting the Popwells for a few days.

Let us all remember to come to Sunday School each Sunday, beginning prompt at 10:00 and MYF each Sunday night at 7:30. The church needs you and you certainly need the church.

Facts About Entrance Age Of School Kids

The law regarding the entrance age of school children [illegible] the same as it has been [illegible]. This law specifies that a child [illegible] six years of age on or [illegible] first day of October in [illegible] old enough to enter school in systems not having mid-term promotion.

This is a state law and will remain so until it is repealed by the passage of another law specifying another date. School personnel and parents who ignore the law are violating the law in the same sense as a person violates the law in any other manner. Consequently, it is the policy of the Chilton County School personnel to adhere to this law to the letter and to the day. To make an exception for one day will be violating the law on matter and would be serving the purpose of nullifying the purpose of the law.

As has been pointed out, no exceptions will be made. Interested parents can cooperate with their school officials by recognizing this fact.—Signed: J. H. Boockholdt, Superintendent of Education.

Research Results

in brief from A.P.I. AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION

BEST FISHING RESULTS are obtained when fishing in areas where bluegills are spawning. In spite of heavy fishing on beds, experiments have shown that this practice is not harmful to ponds and that adequate bluegills are produced to replace those caught by fishermen.

Experiments have also shown that in heavily-fished ponds it is possible to remove only approximately 50 per cent of the weight of fish in a pond by hook-and-line fishing.

CRIMSON CLOVER has been successfully established on broom sedge land for the past two years at the Piedmont Substation. The land was thoroughly disked, fertilized with about 700 pounds of basic slag and 50 pounds of muriate of potash per acre, and seeded about the middle of October.

SEASONAL VARIATION in fluid milk production burdens Alabama's dairy industry. At the Spring peak in 1947, Alabama dairymen who supplied the state's fluid milk markets produced about as much milk as was consumed on those markets. At their low point of production in the Fall, however, these dairymen supplied only about two-thirds of the market needs. During the Fall shortage, many distributors had to ship in emergency supplies of milk, which usually were expensive and frequently difficult to obtain.

* * *

YOUNG PINES crowded by small hardwoods may never get ahead. By using an axe or brush hook, small hardwoods growing near the pines can be cut down. If pines get above hardwoods, they grow rapidly and stay ahead.

* * *

A GOOD CROP OF GREEN COWPEAS turned under three to four weeks before planting a Fall vegetable crop will usually give yields equivalent to an application of six tons of animal manure. Cowpeas should be planted as soon as Spring crops are harvested.

* * *

TO DEVELOP GLADIOLUS BULBS (corms) for flowers another year, enough foliage should be left below the cut to mature the bulbs and enough fertilizer supplied to keep the foliage green and vigorous. After the flowers are cut, about one pound of nitrate of soda per 100-foot row should be applied and "watered-in."

ALFALFA fertilized with 300 pounds of superphosphate and 300 pounds of muriate of potash per acre annually for the past seven years at the Sand Mountain Substation produced an average yield of 5,505 pounds of hay. In contrast, alfalfa receiving the same treatment plus 15 pounds of boron every other year produced an average of 6,526 pounds of hay. In other words, $2.10 worth of boron increased the total hay yield from one acre of alfalfa 3½ tons over the seven-year period.

CRIMSON CLOVER seeded in cotton middles October 1 to 15, when cotton has quit offering competition for moisture, produced almost twice as much green-weight as hairy vetch when both were turned April 15 for the past two years at the Sand Mountain Substation. The average green-weight of crimson clover has been 31,770 pounds per acre as compared with 17,730 pounds of hairy vetch.

Farmers in Coosa County are learning about corn at an early age. They are demonstrating their knowledge with fertilizer demonstrations in all sections of the county.

A Coosa County 4-H Club boy led District II in corn yields last year. And Assistant County Agent Jim Hubbard believes his youngsters will be at the top again this Fall.

At left are William and Cecil Cowart, 4-H brothers at Richville. Sons of Lee Cowart, Rockford, Route 1, the boys both have fields of hybrid corn highly fertilized.

Upper center is Wayne Boulware of Rockford in his field of Dixie 17 hybrid. Below Assistant Agent Herbert Wright looks at corn with Robert Ward, another young demonstrator.

At right is David Bailey of Hanover, smiling confidently as he leans on a stalk of corn.

Cotton Grades Are Affected By Harvesting

MORE "in-the-pocket" money is what farmers are interested in with all production. At this stage of the game the best way for the cotton farmer to get the most out of his crop is to market good grades.

According to the 1949 loan program a bale of middling 15/16-inch has a loan value of $30.25 more than strict low middling of the same staple length. To improve grades, O. N. Andrews, A.P.I. Extension cotton improvement specialist, urges farmers to start picking cotton when mature bolls are wide open; pick it when dry and keep it clean. If cotton is dew-damp, dry it in the sun before taking to the gin, suggests the specialist. Cotton must be dry when ginned to get good grades.

Poor gin preparation is another cause of poor grades, reminds Andrews. Mixing varieties of different staple lengths cuts the market value, so keep cotton of one variety together. By all means, separate good and bad cotton.

Cooperation To Improve Grades

Alabama farmers planted more breeder cottonseed in 1949 than ever before. Cotton improvement associations and other cotton growers are working out plans with ginners to save first-year seed for planting next year's crop. They will make special efforts to keep seed from getting mixed in picking, handling, ginning, and storing. Cooperation of all farmers is needed in the program.

The supply of breeder seed next year will depend on the weather and handling during harvest season. Since some varieties are short every year, August is suggested as the best time to arrange for seed to be used in 1950.

Farmers in one-variety communities, says Andrews, should ask their ginner or warehouseman to send samples from every bale to the classing office for free government classification. The green cards received from the classing office show grades, staples, and preparation; they may well be used in marketing. Government lending agencies also accept these class cards in making government loans.

4-H Club Boy Makes Chickens Pay

BOARDERS in the chicken house cause loss of profits in the poultry business. Four-H Club boys and girls are helping to put these old hens into the pot for Sunday dinner.

Billy Stewart, 4-H Club boy of the Gum Springs community in St. Clair County, is one of the youngsters who are out to get these birds. Billy culled his flock of New Hampshire Red pullets recently while they were on range. Selected pullets from the flock will be his Fall layers.

Another thing the young farmer did to cut feed bills was to sell all his roosters. He says roosters lower egg quality and eat more feed than pullets. What's more, they never lay eggs.

Billy's next step will be to immunize his pullets against fowl pox. Then he will have them ready to enter in the St. Clair County 4-H Poultry Show.

Supplementary projects Billy has are corn and grazing crops. They help him in feeding his chickens and hogs.

The 13-year old youngster, a member of the Avondale 4-H Club, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Stewart of Pell City, Route 1.

BROILER PRODUCTION INCREASING IN STATE

The proportion of the U. S. chicken meat supply furnished by commercial broilers rose from about five percent in the mid 1930's to nearly 30 percent in 1948.

According to A. W. Jones, A.P.I. Extension Service marketing specialist, it will probably go higher this year. He points out that broiler output has been rising relative to production of other chickens.

"Fifteen or twenty years ago," says Jones, "Broilers were a delicacy consumed principally in the summer months, but now they are so widely used that they compete the year-round with other classes of chickens. This is why Alabama is in a position to continue the excellent gains already made in broiler production."

Another Needed

What the Chilton County Democrats need is another mass meeting. If the democrats who were so anxious for the last two meetings will call another for all members of the Democratic Party in Chilton County to iron out our difficulties and encourage good will and confidence in one another it will be a blessing at this time.

The Democrats need to get together and in a friendly and business-like way, remind the present office holders to work together for the betterment of the county, or to resign and let men who will cooperate, be named.

The old cartoon of the two donkeys and the hay is well known by us all, but it is as true today as it ever was. We cannot have the hay unless we pull together. There is no other way.

We firmly believe that someone has been listening to the cry of "wolf" in regards to our county shortage. Possibly true there is a shortage, or a mis-management of county funds. But the black name that our county has received because of the bad publicity is undeserved.

Understand we are not trying to make excuses for anyone. If money has been taken, when it belonged to the people of Chilton County, then the ones who are guilty are thieves and should be punished as a thief.

Too, a county official who will not do his level best to work with his fellow office holders for the betterment of the county is not doing right. He is not serving his people and it is better that he step down and let another take his place. After all, we are interested first in what is best for our county.

The Democrats need to get together and do some back slapping and iron out old differences.

One of these days, we suppose, all the answers will be known but we will not be here to hear of them.

INTESTINAL FLU

In recent years there have been frequent outbreaks of intestinal flu. This infectious and contagious acute gastro-intestinal disturbance appears in epidemic form and disappears suddenly after prevailing in an area for several weeks. Deaths from intestinal flu are infrequent and, inasmuch as the condition is self-limiting, little medical treatment is usually recommended.

The characteristic symptoms of this mild type of virus dysentery are sudden onset of nausea, vomiting, diarrhea, abdominal cramps, general aching and mild headache, weakness, and prostration. Outbreaks in various places frequently have predominant symptoms distinctive to each locality. One outbreak may have considerable vomiting among the victims without diarrhea, while another outbreak may note abdominal cramps and diarrhea without other symptoms.

The illness usually lasts between two to five days, with recovery sudden and often without after affects, although relapses and second attacks are common. The cause of intestinal flu is not known, although some filtrable and airborne agent is suspected to enter the respiratory tract. The number of cases in sporadic epidemics of intestinal flu is often very high, with a good many people in a given locality sick with the disturbance at about the same im. Your physciian will normally prscribeet rest and total abstinence from food and water for a few hours to ease the condition. Applying heat to the adbomen is usually soothing also.

INCREASE IN HOGS

A recent survey revealed that Alabama farmers increased their spring pig crop 24 per cent over last spring. The only state to do better was Michigan which had a 28 per cent increase.

Folks and Things About Town

Mr. Frank Callen has challenged us to a golf game. We told him the other day that the last three holes were about our speed and he agreed that he felt about the same way. What Mr. Callen doesn't know is that the last time we played a game of golf we made a "birdie." We shot a beautiful 35. Par was 36. It started raining and we didn't get to play the other eight holes.

The first cotton has been brought to the News office by Hershel Patterson of Clanton Route 3. The cotton was brought in last week end and could have been announced in last week's issue had we known about it —it was that old.

The Jemison Roller Rink is now open for skating. All you old skaters take heed, and take your pillows too. The opening of the Roller Rink reminds us of a little story that came out of Florida last year about then Mayor Leo Thompson and our wife. Seems that the husbands of the Thursday Afternoon Bridge Club had taken a couple of the members airplanes and flew down to spend the day and night at Charles and Minnie Wade's beach home with their wives who were holidaying there for the week. That night they all went down to Panama City Beach to have fun. Mr. Thompson and Mrs. Tucker were tripping the light fantastic around the skating rink when somebody's feet got tangled up and down the couple went—and without pillows. The wife says she looked up and looked straight into the face of John Mullins who was there on vacation and enjoying the "show" very much. But back to the Jemison Roller Rink. Miss Martha Norwood is the owner and operator and invites one and all to pay her new rink a visit.

Unless somebody gets busy pretty fast there will be no new bleachers on the south side of the Chilton County High School Athletic Field before football season and with the ones there now somebody could get badly hurt. Those old ones are rotten.

That is a nice sign that Hayes Chevrolet Company has over their repair and paint department. The half block long building and used car lot there now has taken on the appearance of a city auto service. Dick has made many improvements about Hayes Chevrolet Company within the past few months.

Sorry to learn of Sie Foshee's bad luck Friday night. Seems Sie and Officer Lawrence went to West End to arrest a negro and the law-breaker started cutting on Sie. He is to be congratulated upon keeping his head and bringing the negro to jail where he belonged. A man with less courage than Sie would have killed the negro thus creating bad publicity, investigations, etc., etc. You know, sometimes the hardest thing a man has to do is his duty. We understand that Sie is rapidly improving and will be out again soon.

Hocutt's Electric Store gave Dock Baker a table model G.E. Radio last Sunday afternoon. The gift was for knocking the first home run of the season. Dock knocked the four-bagger the Sunday before and Hocutt had agreed to make the gift to the first local player who made the home run. Time was taken out during the Sunday afternoon game to make the presentation.

Lost Boys

Some time ago in the City of Louisville, the public press printed a letter of a young man who committed suicide. The contents of the letter was, "I have done this myself. Don't tell anyone. It is all through drink." One sad thing about the letter was that it revealed that strong drink had driven the youth to do what he had done, viz., that of taking his own life. Another sad thing was the letter was unsigned. The identy of the youth was not revealed. 246 letters were received from persons who feared that their son might be the author of the letter, and thus the victim of suicide, driven by strong drink. This might reveal a sad situation in our country. Just how many lost boys are there, anyway? Mothers and fathers saying to themselves, "Where is my wandering boy tonight?" How many Christian parents who pray every day for some wayward son, or wayward daughter, who are lost in sin, and their whereabouts are unknown to their parents.

A. T. HICKMAN

In the Gospel of Luke we read about a young man who came to his father, asking for his portion of the goods. The father gave him his request. Not long afterward the young man went for a long journey. He wasted his money and his life in sinful practice. But every day the dear old father must have prayed for the return of his son. One day the prayers were answered. The boy had come himself, repented of his wrong, and returned home to his dear old dad. There was rejoicing at the return of the lost boy. Parents today should be encouraged to pray for their lost boys and girls. Though you may know where they are, yet they may be lost in sin, and need to be saved from the sins of an ungodly world. Keep on praying parents. Don't give up, that lost boy may come home to God, and to you soon.

I would love to hear from every one who has a lost boy or girl. I will join you in prayer for their salvation. May God see your tears and hear your petitions, and may they not go unanswered.

I would appreciate hearing from some who may read these writings eacl week. Write and ask any questioi you desire, or make request for prayer Thanks to all who have spoken very kindly of these talks already. Amer

State Cancer Drive Hits Top

Birmingham, Ala. — Alabama has reached and passed its state-wide goal in the cancer drive.

Paul Scherf, of Andalusia, who headed the drive in Alabama as state campaign chairman for the American Cancer Society, announced here today that contributions total several thousand dollars more than the $137,500 minimum goal the Society's national headquarters asked Alabama to raise.

Campaign reports from many counties are incomplete, Scherf added, a several counties have not yet complet ed their local drives. When all return are in, the state total is expected to b comfortably higher than the $140,0 goal set by state officials to finance a extensive expansion program.

"The drive's success," Scherf decla ed, "first is a demonstration of tl public's eagerness to continue its fi ancial support of the American Canc Society's steadily increasing effectiv ness in the fight to stop the preven able deaths cancer is causing; and se ond, of the public service rendered the hundreds of unselfish men and w men who gave their time and energ to raise the money.

"Success means that the cancer co trol effort here in Alabama can go with undiminished vigor."

Most successful local drive in t state was conducted in Fayette Cou ty by the Fayette Lions Club w Judge J. C. McGough serving as cha man. It marked the fourth conse tive year that Judge McGough has his county to top honors in the ca paign.

Customers' Corner

Have you ever noticed the date stamped on each carton of A&P eggs? It is put there to protect the quality and freshness of this perishable item.

An egg that is Grade A when it is inspected and packed could become Grade B or C by the time you buy it if it has been improperly or slowly handled.

We don't want that ever to happen to an A&P egg. That is why we put the date when the eggs are graded on each carton. Eggs not sold within a few days of that date are removed from sale even though they are still of good quality.

If you should ever find that any of our egg cartons bear old dates or that any eggs fail to live up to our high quality standards, please tell us about it. Please write:

AN EXAMPLE OF WHAT SERICEA DOES FOR YOU

In the early summer of 1948 one N. W. Latham called on county agricultural workers for advice on planting a 50-acre hill area in pasture.

Workers recommended early July seeding of lespedeza sericea and gave planting recommendations. Mr. Latham purchased and stored the required amount of seed.

Just prior to seeding time Mr. Latham again called by the county office and stated that he wanted another recommendation. He was not going to plant the sericea. When questioned as to why he had changed his mind he stated that the barber and a few others had told him that cattle would not eat the sericea.

County workers prevailed on Noah to proceed with his sericea planting.

To make a long story short, Mr. Latham prepared his field and made a July 1948 planting of sericea. He kept his cattle out of the area last fall and fertilized the fields during the [illegible]

Mr. Latham is thoroughly convinced [illegible] at sericea will produce a large vol-[illegible] feed. He is now spend-[illegible] d of his time taking his [illegible] cattle producers to his sericea field to show them the way to make their hill land produce cow feed.

GRADE A MILK MARKET HAS GROWN MUCH TIGHTER

But this situation is nearly over, believes John [illegible] tensive dairyman. [illegible] it is difficult at [illegible] market in many of our larger consuming centers," he said this week.

"In view of this situation, I believe it wise for anyone interested in selling Grade A milk to make the market arrangements his first step in setting up for business.

Our operations must be sound to produce milk at a profit," continued Parrish. "Dairymen must (1) grow feed at home, (2) breed to best bulls, (3) use better herd management, (4) control breeding, and (5) produce milk when people drink the most—October through April.

"Alabama can expand production of milk for manufactured purposes. Most expansion in the future will be for this purpose, unless a local situation develops where a demand is created for more grade A milk."

MORE BREEDER SEED

Alabama farmers planted more breeder cottonseed in 1949 than ever before. Cotton improvement associations and other cotton growers should work out plans with ginners to save first year seed for planting next year's crop. Every effort should be made to keep seed from getting mixed in picking, handling, ginning and storing.

(By MISS C. N. TURNQ UIST — Correspondent)

The P.-T.A. is sponsoring another movie on Saturday night, August 13, 7:30 p.m., at the junior high school. The feature will be a Laurel and Hardy comedy, "The Flying Deuces." There will also be a short.

* * *

Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Lefstead and son, Paul, left Thursday morning for their home in Summerville, S. C., after spending a vacation of three weeks with his sister, Miss Alma Lefstead. Rev. Lefstead is pastor of the Lutheran Church in Summerville, having served the same church for 19 years. After having had the pleasure of hearing him preach here for two Sundays, we can understand his being so well liked by his members as to be retained for these many years.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brothers of Birmingham spent Saturday night here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Bosworth, and then left Sunday morning for Panama City, Fla., and other points for a vacation of one week. They will return here Saturday night for the week end before returning to Birmingham.

Mr. J. A. Ogburn spent Wednesday of last week in Montgomery on business.

Mrs. Felix Eiland, who has been in rather poor health for some time, though up and around, suffered a fall last week, and in falling pulled a kettle of hot water over her and was quite badly burned. She is doing as well as can be expected, but has been terribly uncomfortable from the burns. We hope that she will soon recover and be able to be up and about again.

Mr. Robert Hall, popular clerk at the Bank of Thorsby, has been with the bank a year now and has deserved a well earned vacation. Robert will be on vacation for two weeks.

Mrs. Irene Peterson, teacher of music at Thorsby Institute, writes that she is having a wonderful vacation. She is visiting with a daughter in Salt Lake City, Utah, and different places in the West. When the writer last heard from her, she was in Los Angeles, Calif., and says she is having a wonderful time. She intends to return to Salt Lake City where she will attend the Music Festival on the 20th of August, and then will return to Birmingham.

Messrs. Chas. Howard, Lloyd Howard and Ernie Hanson made a business trip to Birmingham on last Friday.

Quite a large number of people from here attended the opening of Jemison's roller skating rink on last Friday night. A large crowd attended and everyone had a wonderful time. There were a lot of spectators as well as skaters. This is indeed a nice recreation hall, and we are glad, since we don't have any form of recreation for our young people in Thorsby, that we will have a place of this kind near by where we can all go for an evening of good, clean, wholesome recreation. The place is owned and operated by Miss Martha Norwood and she states that she intends to keep it free from any "rough stuff." You will enjoy an evening at the Jemison roller skating rink.

Mrs. A. S. Vjlladsen of Montgomery was in town last week, visiting with relatives and friends and attending to business.

Mr. N. C. Peterson was honored last Saturday night when his wife entertained a group of friends on his birthday anniversary. A delightful evening was enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served to about 18 guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Davenport left Tuesday for Winchester, Tenn., where they will visit with Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Davenport.

Mr. and Mrs. Rascoe Maddox and son, David, and Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Thompson motored to Birmingham Sunday to visit with friends, and in the afternoon attended the double-header baseball game.

Miss Mary Tom Merchant enjoyed a vacation stay at Sunnyside Beach, la., last week. She made the trip with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Merchant of Centreville, Ala.

Miss Nell Robinson has been quite ill at her home here but is said to be on the road to recovery.

The entire town was shocked over the sudden death of Mr. Washburn, who died early Wednesday morning, August 3rd, from a heart attack. Funeral services were held from the Thorsby Baptist Church on Thursday afternoon and interment was in the City Cemetery. Surviving Mr. Washburn are the wife and three daughters, also several grandchildren. Our deepest sympathy to the family.

Members of the Thorsby Baptist Church honored their new pastor and his family on last Wednesday night, August 3rd, with a reception and a 'pounding." It was held in the church basement and a large crowd attended.

Rev. B. B. Burks, new pastor of the Baptist Church here, occupied the pulpit Sunday and preached to a record crowd both at the morning and evening service. It is hoped that this good attendance may continue.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Merchant returned last Saturday from a vacation trip of about a week, when they made a trip to Chattanooga and on up through the Smoky Mountains and different points of interest. They report a wonderful time.

Mr. Martin Nelson of Birmingham spent Sunday and Monday with his m oterMrs.ran. kh N si mother, Mrs. Frank Nelson, and other relatives.

An announcement of much interest to her many friends here appeared in The Birmingham News of last week and tells of the forthcoming marriage of Miss Marjorie Bentley, and reads as follows: "Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Bentley announce the engagement of their daughter, Marjorie, to Jack H. Vardaman of Birmingham and Burnsville. The wedding will be September 2 at the Thorsby Baptist Church."

GET A GOOD STAND OF FALL PLANTED CROPS

Auburn, Ala. — A good smoothing-job on land where fall crops are to be planted is necessary to obtain the best stand, according to J. T. Gaillard, A.P.I. Extension Service engineer.

He says that the way to do this job is to use a log-drag behind the disc harrow. I will rub out humps and fill in low places.

Gaillard also reminds farmers that a soil pulverizer or cultipacker is an excellent tool for finishing the land preparation job. However, this operation should be considered a part of the planting work. The section harrow ahead of the broadcast seeding, followed by the roller or soil pulverizer will complete the job. Where the grain drill is used the soil pulverizer or cultipacker should follow immediately.

"Do a good job of soil preparation, follow with a good planting job, and get a good uniform stand of fall crops," urges Gaillard.

MANGANESE BUR CLOVER IN A CROPPING SYSTEM

Many Alabama farmers rotate Manganese bur clover with grain sorghum. Those who have done this will soon have grazing.

"Here's how it works," reveals J. C. Lowery, A. P. I. Extension Service agronomist. "Land is prepared and planted to grain sorghum by the middle of June. In the fall the Manganese bur comes up in the grain sorghum middles."

Another plan the agronomist recommends is to follow the Manganese with Sudan grass or Johnson grass for hay or grazing. The clover comes back in the fall. Also, it can be established on permanent pastures, especially on hilly areas, and bermuda sod.

TREE SEEDLINGS

The State Division of Forestry Nursery, Montgomery, will give priority to small orders for tree seedlings if submitted prior to October 1.

Hens Who Don't Pay Board Should Go Says Glasscock

Hens that don't pay their board have no place in a laying flock, County Agent M. R. Glasscock told Chilton County farmers this week.

He said that at this time of the year all hens should be sold as they go out of production. "Hens that are not laying will eat six or eight pounds of feed per month and return nothing to the grower. They are valuable meat animals and should be put on the market," M. R. Glasscock explained.

Meanwhile John P. Weeks, A.P.I. Extension poultryman, gave strong backing to County Agent M. R. Glasscock's advice.

Said Weeks:

"A hen in the flock that is not laying is like a man on the payroll who is not working.

"It's just plain good business to move these old hens out and replace them with young birds. It's an accepted fact that pullets are more profitable layers than hens.

"Since baseball is in season, make the old hens go to bat.

"Strike one—if comb is shrunken, scaley, and cold.

"Strike two—if vent is small, dry and yellow.

"Strike three—if pelvic and lay bones are close together and abdomen hard and fat.

"Those that strike out should go to market."

Want Pines for '49 Planting?

Place orders before October 1!

The supply of pine seedlings for this year will be approximately the same as it was for last year.

Many farmers have been unable to obtain seedlings in the past because their orders were placed too late in the year.

Mr. J. M. Stauffer, State Forester, Montgomery, Ala., states that farmers should submit their orders for trees as promptly as possible. Farmer orders will be given preference over large industrial orders, if they are submitted prior to October 1st. Orders will be filled in full which are submitted prior to that time. After that time, Mr. Stauffer states that he will not be able to handle any more orders unless some of his large orders are cancelled or unless actual production appears to exceed the production estimated at this time.

Mr. B. L. Collins, State PMA Director, tells us that we are safe in stating that payment will again be made for "Establishing a Stand of Forest Trees" in the 1950 PMA program.

Farmers cooperating with the PMA and obtaining low cost seedlings from the State Forestry Nursery should find that planting trees will be a very inexpensive way to make their poor lands more profitable.

KEEP FALL AND WINTER GARDEN IN PRODUCTION

Auburn, Ala. — Two things that should be kept growing in the home garden are turnips and radishes.

J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension Service gardener, recommends that they be planted every 30 to 60 days from late August until April.

He further suggests that onion sets be separated into large and small sizes. Plant the large ones in September and the smaller ones later. The large ones will make green onions for use during the winter, and the smaller ones, planted one inch deep some time in November or December, will make mature onions for use in the spring.

"Also," adds Ford, "don't forget to set cabbage plants in early August. They should make good heads before Christmas."

Industry Approves The Cotton Council

The National Cotton Council is in the midst of its annual finance campaign in Alabama and all other cotton-producing states to obtain the funds which will carry on the industry-wide cotton research and sales promotion program during 1950.

Last week at Montgomery, Ala., agricultural leaders gave full approval to the Cotton Council program and urged every member of the cotton industry in the state to back the Council to the fullest possible extent.

The reasons the Agricultural leaders gave for their support of the National Cotton Council are these:

(1) Cotton's synthetic fiber competitors are exerting strong pressure on cotton markets. From 1930 to the present, the consumption of rayon has increased from 267,000 cotton bale equivalents to 2,650,000 bales.

(2) The cotton carry-over has shown steady increases during the past two years. At the beginning of the 1949-50 cotton year, the carry-over will be about 5,650,000 bales compared with 2,500,000 bales on August 1, 1947.

(3) Cotton consumption must be increased both at home and abroad if we are not to be faced with a dangerous surplus. Consumption can be increased only through research to improve cotton's qualities, research to lower cotton production costs, and sales efforts to tell the consumers of the nation the story of cotton's desirability and superiority.

(4) The National Cotton Council, as the central research and promotion organization of the entire cotton industry, has for the past ten years led the way in cotton's fight for markets, winning a long series of victories for cotton.

As a direct result of Cotton Council campaigns, cotton today is the favorite fashion fabric of America. Council activity has stopped cold the inroads of paper into the bag market second greatest outlet for cotton. Cotton consumption in bags is increasing steadily

Through the efforts of the Council in cooperation with other groups, the Research and Marketing Act of 1946 was passed As a result of this Act, an additional $2,500,000 was made available by the federal government for cotton research.

The Cotton Council has led the way in the fight to increase cotton experts under the ECA program. For the coming year, it has been recommended that 375 million dollars be appropriated for ECA cotton shipment.

Through such activities as these, the National Cotton Council has proved that funds invested in it by the cotton farmers, ginners, warehousemen, merchants, spinners, and cottonseed crushers have been a sound financial investment.

In Alabama, where cotton last year accounted for more than $400,000,000 in the farmers' and workers' income, it is only logical that the agricultural leaders of the industry should pledge their support to the National Cotton Council. It is equally logical that every cotton farmer should contribute to the Council his ten cents a bale share to safeguard cotton's' future.

Citizens Committee Acts To Bring Large Gas Pipe Line Crew Headquarters Here

A Citizen's Committee met at the Willingham Hotel Monday night in an effort to learn from the people of Clanton if they could depend on their cooperation in bringing a large pipe line crew, along with their families, to Clanton.

By cooperation, we mean aid in securing rooms, apartments and housing facilities to accommodate more than two-hundred and fifty people.

The meeting was a success and R. C. Williams, who acted as chairman for the Monday night meeting, stated that it was wonderful the way the people of our little city cooperated in supplying the needed accommodations. One hundred and twenty-five rooms, apartments and houses were promised—easily enough to take care of the entire crew, and a committee headed by Mr. Williams, left Wednesday at noon for Selma to report to Mr. Wilhite, general superintendent of the Company, that Clanton could take care of all employees.

These workers are the crews of the Mid-Western Pipe Line Company that are laying the cross country pipeline from Houston, Texas, to New York, and runs across the southern part of Chilton County. Thousands of feet of the pipe is stored at Verbena now awaiting use by the company.

The Committee Chairman has been promised by Mr. Wilhite that the crew would make Clanton headquarters if living quarters could be found here for the crews.

CARL McDOWELL IN HOSPITAL

Carl McDowell, salesman for Taylor Wholesale Grocery Company here, is reported resting well today after an operation in a Montgomery hospital. His friends wish him a speedy recovery.

LETTER FROM FRUIT & TRUCK GROWERS ASSOCIATION

August 15th, 1949.

At the request of the Chilton County Fruit & Truck Growers Association our Representative, Mr. C. B. Cox, has introduced a general agricultural bill permitting wine to be made in Alabama. Since there is a large crop of berries and other fruits grown in Alabama we thought it would be wise to have such a law enacted. For the past few years a large portion of our berry crop has been shipped to out of state concerns. This would save the Alabama growers thousands of dollars in freight alone each year.

If this bill is passed it will not affect any law now existing in the State of Alabama and the wine manufactured cannot be sold in any dry county in the State. It must be sold through the ABC Board or shipped out of the State.

Leonard H. (Shorty) Bates Given Letter Of Commendation By General Paxton

A tired but happy and wiser company of men filed off number four Sunday evening. The men were members of the Clanton unit of the Alabama National Guard returning from two long weeks of ergular Army training at Fort Benning, Ga.

Training at the camp was intensive with many phases of army training being crowded into two weeks. Men with only a short time in the National Guard were put into a separate unit and given basic training while veterans and older guardsmen were given advanced training. This training actually contained field problems such as attacking an aggressor army.

For two days a realistic sham battle was acted out. Specially trained National Guardsmen wearing bright green uniforms with blank ammunition and TNT to simulate actual combat. Company A from Tuscaloosa, Company C from Selma, and Company B from Clanton took turns attacking the men in the green uniforms.

The Clanton unit, along with others spent three days in the field, living in pup tents which hold two men. While living in the tents the men slept on the ground and ate from field kitchens. The place where tents were pitched was about five miles from the barracks and the men marched to and from the area. Returning from the field the men showed excellent spirit and stamina, marching the full five miles without a stop even though the temperature was hovering near the 100 degree mark.

On the sixth of August, all the companies paraded in review for the governors of Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi, and on the 13th, paraded for the Regimental Commander, Colonel Dent Williams, of Birmingham.

Men of the Clanton unit were praised in both parades. All of the 14 days in Fort Benning were not rosy with the long-working hours and hot weather, but all in all, the training was enjoyable and definitely a change from the every day routine of civilian jobs.

The training was invaluable from the standpoint of National and State emergencies, either of which would call the national guard to active duty.

One of the most pleasant things that happened in camp this year was when Sgt. 1st Class Leonard H. (Shorty) Bates was called before the whole battalion by the Commander, Major Collins, and presented with a letter of commendation from none other than the Commanding General of the Dixie Division — Maj. Gen. A. G. Paxton.

The letter which the whole Clanton unit is proud of follows:

* * *

Ft. Benning, Ga., Aug. 14, 1949.

SUBJECT: Commendation

TO: Sgt. 1Cl Leonard H. Bates
Company "B" 167th Infantry
Fort Benning, Ga.

1. I desire to personally commend you for your outstanding performance of duty in Field Training 31 July to 14 August, 1949.

2. You have shown dogged determination and untiring efforts toward the betterment of training of your company. You have demonstrated abilities as a Master Marksman and an Instructor with Infantry Weapons.

3. Your faithfulness and devotion to duty have caused you to become a pillar of strength contributing greatly to the successful operation of your company's training.

A. G. PAXTON,
Major General Commanding.

The crowd that met the train Sunday evening was true evidence that Clanton citizens are proud of their guardsmen and the yell that went up from the guardsmen as the train stopped showed that the men were just as proud of Clanton and its citizens.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

All soil conservation plans call for a winter legume for soil building and erosion control on our row crop land during the winter months. This along with a reseeding summer legume gives us a maximum soil erosion control the year around.

It is now time to start buying winter seed again so some thought should be given to what kind and variety to plant. We are coming more and more to the reseeding type legume, so as to do away with the expense of buying and planting seed each year.

We have several legume plants that will reseed themselves in a row crop rotation. Of these, probably the best suited ones for Chilton County are Grandiflora Vetch, Caley Peas and Button Clover. From the outlook now. Caley pea seed will be more plentiful than either of the others. By planting a crop of either of these this fall and letting them go to seed in the spring of 1950 before turning, you can expect to turn a volunteer green cover crop in the spring of 1951, '52, and 53 without letting them go to seed again. You can also follow the turning of the 1950 seed crop with grain sorghum and by doing this you don't lose a crop that year by letting the legume go to seed.

Certain precautions should be taken before planting any of these reseeding legumes. See your work unit Conservationist or County Agent for recommendations.

George McCain Corrects Rumor

It has been rumored that I might leave Clanton. I am responsible in a way, since I did make the statement that I was going to sell everything and go to California. The statement was made in a joking way and was not intended to be taken seriously.

I want all of my friends and customers to know that I have no intentions of leaving Clanton, selling my home, or going out of business at present. — Geo. A. McCain.

Visitors Day At Cancer Research Laboratory

Birmingham- (Special) - Visitors at the public inspection of the Medical College of Alabama's new $100,000 cancer research laboratory Saturday will see and meet some of the state's foremost medical and scientific personalities.

Research scientists from other laboratories and a number of prominent medical men will be there to help show visitors how the fight against cancer is being carried on.

Still another feature will be the first showing ever made in Alabama of one of the American Cancer Society's new educational exhibits. It dramatizes the way every individual is the first line of defense in the cancer fight and shows how knowledge of certain basic facts about the disease is saving lives.

"The laboratory inspection and these exhibits were arranged," Mrs. Lillian G. Meade, Executive Director of the Society's Alabama Division, said, "to demonstrate to people how the money they have contributed is being used to help fight cancer.

"The laboratories will be open to the public from noon Saturday to 7 p. m. and the director, Dr. J. K. Cline, and his staff of assistants will personally conduct visitors on the inspection and explain the work that is being done."

The inspection marks the first time in the state that a cancer research laboratory has been thrown open to the public for a first-hand view. The laboratory is located in the Public Health Building at 1912 8th Avenue, South.

SHRINK AND SET COLOR ALL AT THE SAME TIME

Auburn, Ala. — When in doubt as to whether a garment or fabric is fast color or pre-shrunk, test a small sample.

"The way to do this job," states Levice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist, "is to soak a small piece of the fabric in luke-warm suds for a few minutes. Then remove and press on a piece of white fabric on which the outline of the sample was traced before soaking."

Those who want to shrink and set color at the same time will be interested in the following suggestions given by Miss Ellis. Place the material to be shrunk in a vessel large enough to hold it easily. Leave the goods in its original folds. Have enough warm, not hot, water in the vessel to cover the goods. To set color while shrinking, add one of the following ingredients to the water:

½ cup of salt to 1 gallon of water.

½ cup of vinegar to 1 gallon of water.

1 tablespoon of alum to 1 gallon of water.

1 tablespoon sugar of lead to 1 gallon of water.

Use vinegar to set blues and salt to set reds and pinks. Let material stand in water for several hours. Be sure that the water soaks through the folds of the fabric. Remove from the water, rinse, and hang in the shade. Press while still damp.

"This method works satisfactorily, but it is not a cure-all for fading," adds the specialist.

MORE AIR MARKERS FOR ALABAMA

Montgomery, Ala. — The Alabama Department of Aeronautics, at its own expense, is arranging a new air marking project for Alabama, it is announced by Asa Rountree, Jr., State Director of Aeronautics. This will be the third air marking project within 18 months. Air marking is an essential aid to air navigation and air safety. It is of vital importance to pilots on cross country flights, particularly in an emergency. Many accidents have been prevented because of it.

Alabama's new project will provide for 125 to 150 markers. The Alabama Department of Aeronautics has made an initial allocation of $7,500 for it. Bids for handling the work will be requested between September 1 and September 15.

Last year, Alabama led the entire country in air marking, according to the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics. The Alabama Department of Aeronautics, with two projects, painted 319 standard markers in 274 towns and at 45 airports, at a cost of $19,173.49.

Each individual marker will consist of the name of the town in 10-foot letters, meridian arrow and arrow pointing to nearest airport. The marker will be located on the roof of a prominent building in each town.

STATE LEADS DIXIE IN CORN MEAL ENRICHMENT

Auburn, Ala. — Alabamians should be proud of the grist millers who have brought their state to the front in corn meal enrichment, states John P. Bell, A.P.I. Extension Service corn products marketing specialist.

"Results of this action have led federal and state agencies of other states to become interested, in expanding such a program to embrace not only corn meal enrichment but improved processing, storing, and marketing of corn meal," said the specialist. "The program is already under way in South Carolina and plans are made for starting the work in Mississippi."

He explains that corn meal is among our cheapest sources of energy and, of course, most people like corn bread. However, nutritionists point out that corn meal is low in vitamins and minerals. Then, for a more healthful food, it is necessary to enrich corn meal just as it is necessary to enrich flour.

Realizing these facts, a total of 483 grist millers in 64 of the 67 Alabama counties have equipped their mills with special attachments for enriching corn meal since January, 1948.

Mr. Bell announces that the new expanded program will include technical assistance to millers on enriching, packaging, storing, labeling and merchandising corn meal.

POTASSIUM CHLORIDE WILL CURE BLUE COMB

Auburn, Ala. — Blue comb or pullet disease has occurred in several Alabama pullet flocks this summer, reveals John Weeks, A.P.I. Extension Service poultry specialist.

He explains that the disease can cause considerable loss in egg production if it strikes pullets after they come into production.

"Symptoms of blue comb," said the specialist, "are loss of appetite, food remaining in crop, comb becomes withered, and usually the comb, shanks, and skin turn dark in color. Birds have high temperature, lose weight quite rapidly, and sometimes there is considerable death loss. An attack may run from two to four weeks before birds that live recover.

Treatment recommended by Weeks for this disease consists of adding one level tablespoon of potassium chloride to each gallon of drinking water for one week. Muriate of potash fertilizer is impure potassium chloride and can be used. Refined grades can be purchased at the drug store.

"After treating severe cases for one week, one-half pound of potassium chloride may be mixed with each 100 pounds of mash and fed for one more week," added the specialist

I CAN DO IT BETTER

Those big figures are hard to understand — so let's apply them to you and me. What they represent is the additional generators America's business-managed electric light and power companies will have installed between V-J Day and the end of 1951, and the total amount of money they will have spent for them and transmission lines, rural lines, substations and many other extensions and improvements.

That means an expenditure of $60.00 for every man, woman and child in the United States. It means that since V-J Day, the electric light and power industry will have increased its generating capacity by more than half! It means, too, that the slack of the war years, when few electric generating plants or power lines could be built, is quickly being taken up; that there is no threat of a shortage of electric power.

Since V-J Day, Alabama Power Company itself has built thousands of miles of rural electric lines, bringing the convenience of the city to many thousands of farms; it has built numerous major substations and has enlarged others; it is completing a 160,000 horsepower steam generating plant at Gadsden; installation of an additional 30,000 horsepower generator is well under way at Mitchell Dam; construction has begun for the installation of a 134,000 horsepower addition to its modern steam generating plant at Gorgas; a 54,000 horsepower generator is on order for installation at its Chickasaw Steam Plant near Mobile.

It takes money in the millions to do these things — money which has come and must come from the savings of millions of people throughout America in all walks of life — savings invested by banks, trust companies and insurance companies — investments representing faith in Alabama Power Company and

According to some experts, the present downturn in business has been stimulated by the wait-and-see attitude of many consumers. It is probable that it has also been encouraged by that considerable group who simply feel that prices are higher than they should be and refuse to make avoidable purchases until they come down. These attitudes are far from as logical and sensible as they sound. For one thing, they obstruct the normal functioning of supply and demand and curtail needed production.

As far as prices go, who can judge a fair price under existing conditions? Rare is the farmer who is ready to concede that he is getting too much money for his product. The same is true of manufacturers and distributors of virtually every necessity and luxury, and where is the workman who would advocate a wage cut? It is folly for anyone to establish in his mind an arbitrary conception of a fair price—on the other fellow's goods.

Many businesses nowadays are operating on a thin margin of profit. One observer, commenting on the recent experience of the textile manufacturers, pointed out that "they concluded everything was too high in price and, urged on by the constant necessty of orders to run 24 hours a day, they have consistently and progressively cut away their profit. Today—almost profitless—they will seek to run 24 hours a day." Probably some people are still waiting for the price of textile goods to get down to a "reasonable" level before they buy.

The retail distribution industry is another that is operating on an extremely thin margin—its profits depend on efficient operation and volume. The annual statements of companies in all lines tell the same story. Survival depends on volume.

In reality the United States at this moment is nearer to production-for-use under the capitalistic system than communism, socialism or any other theoretical social scheme could ever hope to achieve. The proof of this is all around us. Countless millions of cars, telephones, washing machines, gadgets, and abundance without end testify to the capacity of this country to fill the material desires of the people—at a price the people can pay.

So why sit around in morbid curiosity to see if things are going to pot? This country is going ahead, come what may. As far as price goes you are getting your money's worth, and American productive genius and science have made available the greatest selection of goods for your use in the history of the world. — Opp News.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Mrs. J. E. Gowan is a Queen. In fact she is a Queen of Queens. A fact Dr. Gowan could have told us many, many years ago we are sure. However, it was only last week she was proclaimed as such when she won the title in a race with Mrs. Raymond (Lois) Mims. Now if you want our opinion, Mrs. Lois Mims is no mean competition when you speak of a queen, but Mrs. Gowan won and retains the title for all time. We can only say, congratulations, and it couldn't have happened to a nicer lady.

James and Edith Arnold were visitors last Sunday. They are now living at Pepperell, Ala., a suburb of Opelika. They were up here for the day and looked us up to say hello and to get their Community Newspaper coming their way again. They told us they missed it which is just what we want folks to do—when they don't get it, we want them to miss it. Then we want to know about it and get it started right away. Back to Edith and James, their little Jemie Lind was with them of course and Edith's mother. All are quite happy and doing fine in their new home.

The Rev. L. W. Woodward and family has moved to Montgomery. He has been appointed State Director for CROP. That's Christian Relief Overseas Program. He will be in charge of the State office and will tour the state to organize programs in all communities. Their many friends will miss them in Chilton County.

Mr. Patterson Hicks called us last week after our paragraph appeared about the bleachers at the Chilton County High School athletic field. He said there would be new bleachers this year. No, not exactly new bleachers, but mighty good ones and ones on which no one will get hurt. He has made arrangements to move the bleachers from the baseball park at City Park to the athletic field after the baseball season is over and use them during football season. This solves the problem without great expense to anyone and the bleachers which can be moved in sections, we understand, will serve the purpose until steps can be taken to construct more permanent seats.

Brushing the ashes off our shirt front reminds us that a man reaches middle age when his stomach sticks far enough out to catch the ashes that fall off his cigar.

If you want to take a good look at a jack-ass, look at the head of this column. Ordinarily we wouldn't admit that, just because some readers tumble over themselves to agree with us, but after finishing this paragraph we are sure you will agree. In fact, you might even admit that at times you have been a jack-ass too. The other night coming back from Birmingham we were on a long pull coming up the mountain and two old dilapidated automobiles were just in front of us and making about ten miles per hour. An automobile came flying by us and sped on over the hill which looked a long way off. Well, it seeming a "long way off," we decided that there was no use in crawling along at that speed, we would just go around and have plenty of time to pass the other cars before reaching the top. Brother, we got caught off base. About the time we got on the wrong side of the road and along side of the second car we were topping the hill and so was another driver from the other side. That hill top hadn't been as far away as it looked. Through the goodness of his heart the car we had just passed dropped back and gave us a hole to crawl into and save our neck—a break we didn't deserve, but was darn glad to get. Seldom in our lifetime have we pulled such a boner but we can't help but remember—it takes only one mistake to kill you and maybe others, who weren't at fault at all. Drive carefully. The life you save may be your own.

Believe me that Arlin Byrd from Greenville is a one-man Chamber of Commerce. Arlin was here visiting friends last week and being a newspaper man himself came around to chat with us for a while. Course, we didn't get to say much ourself, but we got to learn all about Greenville, Ala. He is employed there by the Greenville Advocate, but we believe he could make more money promoting Greenville. Truly though, we enjoyed his visit and hope he and his missus and two children enjoyed their stay here. They were visiting the Raymond Mimses.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

DIABETIC GANGRENE

Deaths from diabetic gangrene are inexcusable. Before the discovery of insulin, gangrene of the feet of the diabetic patient was a common and discouraging problem. Amputations were frequent and death often followed. However, insulin makes control of diabetes possible, and proper diet provides the diabetic with sufficient nourishment. Also advances in knowledge of blood circulation in the legs have been made, and there are now specific chemicals for treating infection.

The all-important feature in the prevention of foot infection in the diabetic patient is control of diabetes. Second in the prevention of foot complication is cleanliness. Next to cleanliness is the avoidance of foot injury, for nine out of ten diabetics who develop gangrene have suffered some injury.

Common among injuries are foot deformities caused by shoe pressure. Such deformities include corns, calluses and bunions. People often trim their corns and toenails carelessly, thus starting an infection. Nails in shoes, loose shoes, or tight shoes can cause blisters which sometimes become infected. Injuries from stubbing toes, toes being stepped on or bruised by falling objects may also cause a case of gangrene.

The diabetic patient's physician will give him specific directions for the care of the feet. Such care will include preventing injury, avoiding infection, and maintaining and improving circulation. If the physician's orders are followed, diabetic gangrene can be prevented with proper care.

The Big Fish Story

On June 6th of this year at Durban, South Africa, a 90-foot, 150-ton blue whale was pulled to the shore after a tug-of-war lasting eleven hours. The big fish was brought to shore with the aid of a winch and a powerful locomotive. It is said that the mouth of the whale was large enough to hold a small automobile. Surely a monster like that could have easily swallowed a man. There is no doubt in fair thinking people but what a man could be swallowed by such a fish. In the Bible we read that God prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah. And that Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights. (Jonah 1:17). Jesus was among those who believed that Jonah was swallowed by the big fish, for he said, "For as Jonah was three days and three nights in the whale's belly; so shall the Son of man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth." (Matt. 12:40).

A. T. HICKMAN

There are many things in the Bible which we do not understand, but only a fool has said in his heart, "there is no God." And since there is a Supreme Being, known to us as the Great "I Am," the Creator of all things; that which we do not understand, we doubt not. All things are possible with God. Have faith in Him. or without a controversy great is the mystery of godliness; God was manifest in the flesh, justified in the Spirit, seen of angels, preached unto the Gentiles, believed on in the world, received up into glory.

The Gospel And The Nations—

Jesus said in Matt. 24:14, "And this Gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness unto all nations and then shall the end come." The nations of the world are hearing the Gospel now as never before in the history of the world. The International Lutheran Hour alone is being broadcast in fifty nations of the world, and in twenty different languages. The fast speeding of the Gospel message to the ends of the earth is a sign that we are nearing the end of this age. Many denominations are putting forth every missionary effort possible for the preaching of God's Word to all the world. Today there is no famine for the Word, but when men reject God and His Word, behold, the days come, saith the Lord God, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor of thirst for water, but of hearing the words of the Lord. (Amos 8:11).

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Clanton, Ala., August 15, 1949.

Editor Chilton County News
Clanton, Alabama

Dear Sir:

I would like to make a statement through your paper to the citizens and taxpayers of Chilton County.

I have read several articles appearing in the papers, referring to the State Auditor's examination of the records of the Commissioner's Court of Chilton County.

I wish to state at this time that I have had no information from the State Auditors, as to the Audit.

The publicity given this Audit has cast a reflection on Chilton County, and, it makes no difference how honest the parties accused are, there has been a great damage done that cannot be repaired.

Judge Parrish stated through the newspaper that he asked for this Audit. If he did, he most certainly has some information, and he should appear before the Grand Jury. If any citizen has any information on the parties accused of taking our County money, I insist on them appearing before the Grand Jury.

I wish to state that I am proud of my record as an official, having served two terms as Mayor of the City of Clanton and twelve years as Probate Judge of Chilton County. My record is well known.

Yours very truly,
J. LEE SMITH.

DRINK NUTRITIOUS THIRST QUENCHERS

Those who substitute soft drinks for fruit juices, milk and milk shakes replace needed vitamins and minerals with sugar and calories, points out Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist.

To avoid this, she suggests that a can or two of citrus fruit juices or tomato juice, or a pitcher of homemade lemonade, and the full quota of milk for each child and adult be kept in the refrigerator. "These drinks will provide a variety of thirst quenchers that will promote good nutrition and cost no more than an equal quantity of "sodas," declares the nutrionist.

Civil Service Commission Holds Clerk Examinations

A new Clerk examination was announced today by the United States Civil Service Commission for filling positions at $2,284 and $2,498 a year (grades CAF-2 and 3), in various Federal agencies in Washington, D. C., and vicinity.

The Commission held a similar Clerk examination last March but not enough eligibles were secured as a result of that examination to fill, on a permanent basis, the Clerk jobs now occupied by war service and temporary employes, and to fill future vacancies that will occur through turnover.

Among the types of clerk positions to be filled from this examination are: Appointment, correspondence, docket, accounting, time, leace, pay-roll, statistical, coding, test rating, property and supply, mail, file, information, proofreading, editorial, indexing, purchasing, traffic, transportation rate, etc.

No previous training or experience in clerical work is required. To qualify, applicants will be required to pass a written test which will consist of questions designed to test their aptitude for learning and adjusting to the duties of the positions. A higher standard will be required for eligibility for grade CAF-3 than for grade CAF-2. Sample questions will accompany the examination announcement. The age limits, 18 to 62 years, are waived for persons entitled to veteran preference and, under certain conditions, for war service employees.

Further information and application forms may be obtained from the Civil Service Commission's Local Secretary, Mr. Reese G. Mullins, located at the Post Office, Clanton, Ala. from Civil Service regional offices, or from the Commission's Washington office. Applications must be received in the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington 25, D.C., not later than September 6, 1949.

One extra pound of meat from each bag of feed means that the grower will make an extra profit of $5.60 per ton of feed used when broilers are sold at 28 cents per pound.

PLENTIFUL FOODS

Many consumers find that this is a good time of the year to can, preserve, store, and dry foods that are so plentiful.

PICK RIGHT PICTURES FOR INDIVIDUAL ROOMS

Auburn, Ala. — Living room pictures should be of general interest to all members of the family and to guests in the home, believes Alice Peavy, A. P.I. Extension Service home management specialist.

She explains that the pictures should be restful—not too unusual in composition, color, or subject matter. "Landscapes, marines, beautiful buildings, flowers and figure compositions are the most popular types from which to choose," states the specialist.

She adds that dining room pictures should be the kind that will contribute to the pleasure of the meal hour. Flowers, still life, and landscape are all good subjects.

"Bedrooms may have very personal pictures," says Miss Peavy "if the owner so desires, but it is well to hang impersonal pictures in the guest room."

4-H TRACTOR SCHOOLS

Although 4-H tractor maintenance schools are primarily for 4-H Club members, any tractor owner or operator is welcome to attend. See the local county agent to find out when a tractor clinic will be held in your county.

State Raises Daily Bag On 1949-50 Partridge To Ten

Deer And Turkey Hunters Are Given Five Extra Days; Squirrel Season Left Unchanged

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama's Conservation Advisory Board meeting Saturday in Montgomery, reviewed the game situation and came up with a set of 1949-50 hunting regulations on resident game that liberalized the seasons on certain species. One extra day was allotted quail hunters over last year's hunting period while deer and turkey hunters, because their game has shown such an increase in numbers, got an additional five days each. In addition, the quail bag limit was restored to 10 birds daily. It was eight birds daily last year.

Quail hunting will open Thanksgiving day, November 24, and close February 20, 1950. Deer and turkey hunters will start shooting November 20 and close January 1, 1950. North and South Alabama turkey hunters will have different spring "gobbling" seasons: South Alabama's running March 20-April 15 and North Alabama's March 25-April 20. Bag limits remain the same: 1 antlered buck deer a day and three a season; one turkey gobbler per day and five for the combined fall and spring seasons. Counties where they may be hunted will be announced later.

No changes were made in the squirrel season, October 15-January 1 north of U. S. Highway 80 and November 1-January 15, south of Highway 80; rabbits, October 15-through February 20 when hunted as game; o'possum, raccoon, October 1-February 20. The daily limits on squirrel and rabbit were left at six each while no bag limit prevails on o'possums and raccoons.

The rabbit was taken from the furbearer's list and may be taken in the future only as game. The pheasant was declared a protected bird in Cherokee County where sportsmen are trying to stock the area. Bears and alligators were continued on the closed season list.

With regard to fur bearing animals: the otter was placed on the "okeh" list along with civet cat, fox, mink, weasel, skunk, o'possum and raccoon to be taken November 20-February 20 statewide; the beaver was closed in Randolph County but opened in Hale and Greene which will have an open trapping season of December 15-January 31, along with Bibb, Lowndes, Montgomery, Sumter, Elmore, Chilton, Macon, Perry, Lee, Dallas, Marengo and Russell Counties. The muskrat season was opened statewide November 20-February 20 but in Baldwin, Mobile and Washington counties a special season of December 1 through March 31 will be in effect.

In addition to setting the 1949-50 hunting and trapping seasons, the Board authorized Conservation Director Bert E. Thomas to place a 40-mile speed limit, with some 15 mile zones, on Dixie Graves and other parkways under the Department of Conservation's jurisdiction.

Home Demonstrati'n News

(Mattie Jo Barber)

Chilton County will be represented at the State dress revue by Mrs. Stanley W. Cost of Jemison. The State dress revue will be held in Auburn Thursday night, Sept. 8, as part of the State Home Demonstration Council meeting.

Mrs. Cost was selected to represent the county when the final county dress revue was held in Clanton on Friday, August 12th.

Her costume consists of black tailored sports outfit with a white detachable collar that she may wear in three different ways. The collar may also be formed into a hat and worn with the costume. Another feature that attracted interest were the detachable pockets which were made onto a belt of self material. Her hat, purse and shoes were black patent leather. The hat was a very becoming model that she had made from an out-dated number. For color in her costume, she added blue fabric gloves and blue flowers to her hat. By changing accessories she was able to achieve an appearance of six or seven different costumes from the one basic outfit.

Each of the contestants were judged by a score card which not only took into consideration the costume itself, but the posture, poise and grooming of the contestant. The suitability of design to the figure and personality, becomingness of color, fit and appearance for comfort, judgement, shown in choice of material, and general effect and completeness were also considered.

Others participating in the final revue were Mrs. H. M. Kelley, Mrs. Ruby Pickens, Mrs. A. B. Jones, Mrs. H. H. Miller, and Mrs. Alfred Penton. Preliminary dress revues were held in the clubs before the final revue.

ALABAMA-GROWN SEED

Alabama-grown seed for fall plantings of two important winter legumes, crimson clover and blue lupine, are more abundant than last year.

4-H CLUB NEWS

(Mattie Jo Barber)

Edwina Williams of Collins Chapel 4-H Club and Sadie Blackmon of Thorsby 4-H Club will represent Chilton County 4-H Club at the annual 4-H camp which will be held in Auburn August 29 — September 3.

While there, they will become familiar with 4-H activities all over the state and will have the opportunity to meet representatives from each of the 67 counties in the state. A program of instruction and recreation has been planned for this group of approximately 400.

Edwina and Sadie were selected on the basis of their interest in 4-H club work and their ability to bring back to the county worthwhile ideas that will make for better club work in their respective communities. The County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs is financing the trip for these delegates.

Edwina is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Williams of Clanton, Route 1, and Sadie is the daughter of Mr. Houston Blackmon of Thorsby.

TIP ON BREADS AND ROLLS FOR FREEZER

If placed in an earthen jar just before they are cold, soft cookies will stay soft. Cover the jar tightly.

Forsaken and Forgotten Section of Chilton County—

The taxpayers of West Chilton County have been wondering for several years what was being done with their hard-earned money they paid out to the county for taxes, property and gas tax. But since the shortage of the money found recently at the courthouse, it is plain to see where it went.

The public road from the University Highway through Oakmulgee Swamp to the Perry County Line, a distance of 12 or 15 miles, is a disgrace to any county. The farmers living on this road can hardly get over this road with their farm products to market, it is also dangerous to travel over. The trees and bushes have grown up into the road. It is more like an old-time wagon road. The school bus has for the past few years during rainy weather had to detour into Bibb County for 12 miles to get the school children. The mail carrier has a very hard time driving over this road. In all other sections of the county we find wide, graveled country roads, and find paved roads to the fishing camps on Coosa River.

We, the land owners of West Chilton County, pay our taxes the same as any other land owner in the county. We hope the Probate Judge and Commissioners will take a little time out and travel this public road in this section of Chilton County, just one trip will convince them.

AUGUST PLANTING TIPS LISTED FOR GARDNERS

Gardeners who plant collards, kohlrabi, and broccoli in early August should make a good crop.

J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension gardener, adds that cabbage plants should be set out at this time. Cabbage seed planted early in August have a fair chance to produce good heads before freezing weather, he believes.

THE MARTIN PETERSONS RETURN FROM DENMARK

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson

A trip which has certainly proved to be of great interest to many people throughout this community is that of the one recently made by Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson, old time settlers of Thorsby, but now retired and living in Jemison, Ala., with a son.

For a long time the Petersons talked of this trip and their strong desire to "go home" once more, but it seemed that they were never able to make ready for the trip, for there was always some obstacle in th way. Finally, it was as if a dream had come true when their children, eight of them, all doing well, made plans to send their parents home to their native Denmark.

When it was announced that they would actually sail at a certain date, people were dumbfounded—why that is foolish, they said, for he is 86 years old and she is 76, and at that age they would never be able to stand it. But they set sail on May 6th, had a most marvelous trip over there, spent three months in Denmark, returned here the first week in August, and they report that not one single minute of the entire time, were they sick the least bit. The trip was made on an ocean liner and took ten days to cross the ocean. This they enjoyed so much, that they wished it had taken longer.

After they arrived in Denmark, they were joined by a son, Leroy, who made the trip by plane, and was there to meet them when they landed in Copenhagen. This was indeed a big surprise. Later, they received another big surprise, when a daughter, Mrs. Hilma Mikesell, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, went over there by plane to join them. When the time came to come home, they all returned by boat.

It had been some seventy years since Mr. Peterson left his home in Denmark. He still had a sister and other relatives there. The home he says, is still there, and not changed a great deal. He also visited the church in which he was baptized and confirmed. This church has quite a history, as it is the old Borglem Kloister and has to do with Martin Luther and the reformation and dates back to the year 1128. It has the same pipe organ in it and this dates back to 1750.

Mrs. Peterson left her native home some 59 years ago, and still has sisters and brothers and many other relatives. One sister she had never seen before. Mrs. Peterson also visited and attended services in her old church in which she was baptized. This church is over one thousand years old. Her old home was also still there.

It is most interesting to talk to these people of their trip. They tell of how the sun rises at 3:00 a.m. and sets at 10:00 p.m.; how the church bells ring with the rising of the sun. They tell of the beautiful farms with hundreds of cattle grazing in clover up to their "bellies" as Mrs. Peterson puts it.

One thing which was so odd to them was the many bicycles. There were so many on the streets that they were simply thick. Everyone in the family has a bicycle, from tiny tots to old people 80 years old and older. They felt that the world was not so large after all, since they met a man over there from Montgomery, Ala., and they also met a man who had once lived in Thorsby, and to whom Mrs. Peterson once sold milk. His name was Christian Gaarddahl, and they had not heard of him since he left here years ago.

The Petersons enjoyed a family reunion in Jemison on last Sunday, when all of the children were home to greet them on their safe return home, except two boys. Those who were at the reunion were: Mr. and Mrs. Willis Peterson and three children of Astoria, Ore.; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Peterson and daughter, of Nashville, Tenn.; Mr. and Mrs. N. L. Self, of Birmingham, Ala.; Mrs. Hilma Mikesell, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Mr. Leroy Peterson, and a grandson, Mr. Arthur Thrasher, of Attalla, Ala., also Mrs. Inez Copp of Los Angeles, Calif. All were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Peterson.

All in all it was a most thrilling experience for these people, and while the parting with loved ones over there was a very sad occasion and when they said, goodbye, everybody cried. It was a happy landing over here when all their loved ones came home to greet them, and while they do, of course, like America the best, they said, "the trip was so wonderful, that we wouldn't have the money back that was spent on the whole trip."

Lions ClubNews

(By The Tail Twister)

Well, it seems that nearly everybody in the Clanton Lions Club took their vacation during the month of August. Whether it was to get away from the hot weather or to get out of working at the recent horseshow is yet to be determined. However, now that they have all returned to the den they find that those that were left did a fine job handling the show. It proved a success from every standpoint, even financial.

* * *

Those Lions who have returned from their vacations include Lion Taber, Holliman, Parrish, Clements, Forte and Searcy.

Tiger Football Practice Will Begin On September First

When Coach Spicer meets his candidates for the local high school football team on September first, missing will be such stalwarts as Byron Lowery, Russell Williams, Jr., Buddy Roberts, Jimmy Stroud, Jimmie Jones, Billy Gentry, Kenneth Smith and others who graduated last spring from the squad. Among the letter wearers returning will be Royce Seales, Chester Little, Ross Smith, Fred Clackler, Otis DeLoach, George Bradley, Vernon Headley, Jerry Studdard, James Pyron, David Wingard, James Easterling, Frank Donovan, Hershel Smith and Joe Jones. Dickie Popwell will be missed as he moved to Atlanta, Ga., during the summer. There is some question as to Joe Jones being able to play as he has an old injury that was uncovered during spring practice. If the doctor gives him the green light for this fall he should be of service in carrying the ball in the back field. Billy Mims should be ready for a good season after getting some experience last year. There should be several other boys to attract the attention of the coaches soon after practice begins.

Coach F. H. (Bull) Spicer, who was with the high school from 1937 to 1942, will be head football coach, and coach baseball next spring. V. L. Bulger will assist in football and coach the basketball team. Mr. Bulger is from Sylacauga, Ala., and has done his college work at State Teachers College, Jacksonville. REMOVE COTTON LEAVES TO PICK MECHANICALLY

Auburn, Ala. — To successfully pick cotton mechanically all plants must have the foliage removed.

Tests show that this can best be done by applying 30 pounds of calcium cyanamide dust per acre when practically all of the bolls are mature, according to T. E. Corley, assistant agricultural engineer of the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station.

The dust should be applied late in the afternoon or early in the morning while dew is still on the plants. Corley said the removal of the foliage also makes hand-picking of cotton easier; it reduces boll rot damage and permits earlier harvesting, all of which improve the grades.

Conventional type dusters used in insect control are very satisfactory for applying the dust. He pointed out that caution should be taken not to apply more dust than the 30-pound rate, since excessive amounts often burn the leaves and cause them to "freeze" to the stalk. If all foliage is not removed within 10 days after the first application, another application should be made, he explained.

FALL FRESHENING COWS

Experimental records prove that cows freshening in the fall months produce more milk than cows freshening at other times.

NAVIGATORS

The latest types of long range bombers and transports used by the Air Force have increased the need for more trained navigators. To meet this need, the Air Force will expand its Aviation Cadet Program this fall by opening a Cadet Navigator School at Ellington Air Force Base, Houston, Texas.

Upon completing the course, they will be commissioned second lieutenants in the AF Reserve, with rating of navigator and assigned to active duty with the Strategic Air Command or the Military Air Transport Service.

Classes at Ellington will begin every month, starting November 1, with approximately 100 students in each class. The qualifications are the same as for Aviation Cadet Pilot Training except for the physical which is less stringent for vision and hearing requirements.

Even a Liar Can Win At the FISHING RODEO

It's like Ben Hardiman says—fishing and lying about fishing just naturally go hand-in-hand. But it isn't always that a fellow can win a prize with a yarn about the big ones that got away, like he can at the 17th Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo at Dauphin Island August 22-24.

Besides the Liar Contest, there will be 20 contests for actual fish caught, a feature prize worth $650, a boat prize and a $500 amateur photo contest. In all, some $5,000 in merchandise that fishermen want will be awarded during this 1949 Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo.

The Mobile Junior Chamber of Commerce and the civic-minded folks cooperating with it deserve a big handshake for the success of these annual fishing tournaments.

They have publicized Alabama throughout the Nation, attracted thousands of visitors and offered fun and fellowship to our own salt water Isaac Waltons.

That's the kind of teamwork that really pays off!

STATE COTTON CROP ESTIMATED AT 960,000 BALES

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama farmers will produce 960,000 bales of cotton this year if the Alabama Co-op Crop Reporting Service's estimate holds up.

The estimate was based on conditions as of August 1.

The 960,000-bale production would be 20 per cent lower than the 1948 crop but seven per cent higher than the 10-year average, which is figured from 1938 to 1947.

The co-op's report said that the indicated yield per acre this year is 261 pounds of lint. This is 92 pounds lower than the 1948 crop average.

Some 1,766,000 acres are slated to be harvested. This is an eight per cent increase over the number planted last year as well as being the largest acreage for the state since 1940.

The report cited that Alabama's cotton farmers have suffered more from the boll weevil this year than in a long time. The heavy rains of June and July made poisoning ineffective to a large extent in the majority of the cotton growing sections, the report said. The excessive rains have also made the bolls have a tendency to open slowly.

Notorious State Bandit Dies By Knife In Prison Robbery

Behind the bleak walls of Alabama's Kilby Prison, T. R. Blackstock, one of Alabama's most notorious desperadoes, was stabbed to death last week.

Following the killing of the 29-year-old convict, who was serving a 99-year stretch for robbery, two fellow inmates owned up to the stabbing, according to Warden George Garner. The warden said the two men contended self-defense. No charges were placed against them immediately.

In addition to the robbery conviction, which was rendered by a Wilcox County Court in 1941, Blackstock was also serving 10 years for manslaughter, having been involved in the death of another Kilby inmate after he entered the prison.

Warden Garner said that Osie Mezick, 30, and Dalton R. Grace, 22, said that Blackstock was stabbed after he threatened to kill them if they did not turn over their money to him.

NEW ABSENTEE BALLOT LAW PASSES SENATE

Montgomery, Ala. — The Alabama Senate this week tightened the loopholes of the present absentee ballot system by a heavy vote of 20-3. The bill has already passed the House. Most of one afternoon was spent on filibustering the proposal, but after an amendment was added exempting all persons serving in the armed forces, the measure was given the green light.

The chief feature of the new law requires persons desiring to cast absentee ballots to appear before the register in chancery in person, not less than five or more than twenty days before the election date, and cast the ballot before said legal official. The bill will now be revoted on in the House, since the amendment was added, then it will go to the Governor, who has indicated that he will sign it into law.

LEGISLATURE ASKS "WEST POINT OF AIR" FOR MONTOMERY

Montgomery, Ala. — Both Houses of the State Legislature unanimously adopted a resolution requesting Congress to establish the projected 'West Point of the Air' at Montgomery's Maxwell Field.

The resolution, which was introduced first in the Senate by Montgomery's Senator Silas Cater, cited that, "Maxwell Field because of its environment and history as a school is the ideal location" for the academy of the air.

The bill that is now before Congress would give the Air Force a training school that would be comparable to West Point and Annapolis.

The resolution was dispatched to Alabama's Congressmen as well as to the Secretaries of Defense and Air.

HERE'S WHAT EQUALS BREEDING EFFICIENCY

Auburn, Ala. — Good dairy cattle breeding may be summed up as a lot of details done right.

Pete Turnham, A. P. I. Extension Service specialist in D.H.I.A. work, lists the four most important essentials in a good breeding program.

1. The bull — well-fed, healthy and exercised daily. 2. The cow — bred at right stage of heat, kept on good grazing, and provided with plenty of fresh clean water. 3. The dairyman —alert in keeping up with dates cows are due in heat, and having cows bred so they will calve at right time. 4. The breeding technician—if breeding artificially. He must use clean, sterile equipment, be prompt in answering calls, and use only good high-quality semen.

Turnham declares that breeding efficiently will result when proper steps are carried out by all concerned.

FOLSOM OPPOSES LAW LIMITING PRESIDENT TO TWO TERMS

Montgomery, Ala. — Stating that the move was sponsored by a group of persons long unfriendly to the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Gov. James E. Folsom this week asked the Alabama Senate to kill a bill which seeks to limit the presidential term of office to two four-year periods.

The amendment is one passed by Congress, which is now going the rounds of the several state legislatures, seeking passage. The House approved the measure last week, and it is now before the Senate for action.

Folsom said that he felt the move was a personal slur at the late president who "was a president for all the people." He told newsmen that the entire proposition was engineered by Republicans and that he didn't want to see such a law streamrolled into legality by Democrats.

STATE DAIRYMEN CAN SUPPLY MILK DEMAND

During the month of June U. S. condenseries bought an average of 147.1 pounds of milk from each source of supply.

"In comparison," says J. R. Parrish, A.P.I. Extension Service dairy specialist, "Alabama dairymen had only an average of 60 pounds per plant for sale—less than one-half the U. S. average."

Since Alabama can furnish green grazing the year round, the specialist urges dairymen to take the first step towards supplying the demand for Alabama produced milk. See the local county agent about winter grazing and breeding cows so they will freshen in the fall.

Folks and Things About Town

Members of the Clanton Methodist Church are holding their breath this week for fear they will lose their popular pastor. Rev. J. Carlisle Miller is attending conference at Montgomery and on Friday the appointments are read. At that time the members will know whether or not they retain Rev. Miller for another year. He has been pastor here for the past four years and as a rule we believe Methodist pastors are transferred after their fourth year. No matter who is sent to this church, when he follows Rev. Miller he will have a man-sized job to make himself as popular and appreciated in Chilton County, as is Carlisle Miller. He is loved and respected by all who know him.

Roy Wilkins was telling us the other day of a cute thing his boy Alan did. Seems the last piece of toast had been eaten off the plate and the boy, who is about eighteen months old, was told to get another piece out of the oven. When he reached for it the oven felt hot and he knew well that he had been told many times that the oven would burn him if he touched it. After being urged several times to get the toast his dad said: "Go ahead, Alan, mother has turned off the heat." To which little Alan answered: "Well, it's leaking."

One always calls for another. Clark Headley, who is now with The Selma-Times-Journal, was visiting us the other day and was telling about his little daughter, Sara Elizabeth. She is just getting big enough to talk and get into things. One of her small playmates while playing had shoved her down, whereupon she got to her feet and run into a back room. After several minutes her dad went to look for her and to his surprise found her in a far corner of the room tugging at his shotgun with destruction in her heart. Says Clark: "Hell hath no fury, like a woman scorned. . . ."

We were going to write a "smart" paragraph about Dock Levine. We were going to say that the heat must of got him—him putting fur coats in his windows when everyone was just about to suffocate with the heat. We were going to lay it on real thick. And what happens? It turns cold, and fur coats look just fine in a display window. In fact Sunday and Monday one of those in the window would have looked better around the shoulders. But see what we mean—the weather gypped us out of a paragraph.

Understand that Reedie Taylor and Leo Thompson are doing their daily, (pardon us), their weekly good turn by taking the Boy Scouts on a trip to Florida this week. They have gone to Sunnyside Beach. We just want Leo and Reedie to remember when they get back here and start those tall tales of tarpon trailing, that one of the Scout's Laws is: "A Scout Is Truthful."

There will be a motorcycle show at the City Park next week. Daredevils on motorcycles from all over the state will be doing their stuff and out for the hundred dollars worth of prizes being given away. According to a story on the front page of our favorite newspaper the contests are going to be very interesting and the show will be a thriller from start to finish.

We saw a picture of Newton Hosmer Price and a story to go with it on the front page of the Monday Age-Herald. It brought back old memories, Mr. N. H. Price having been principal of the West End Grammar School many years ago when we attended school there. He was not only our principal but a very dear friend—he was like that to the boys and girls. They remembered him more as an ideal to pattern after than a schoolmaster. Would that we could woo Iduna, Goddess of Youth, as he has done. You know Iduna had a magic casket filled with wonderful apples, which the Fates had once allowed her to pluck from the Tree of Life. These had the marvelous power of giving immortal youth and loveliness to all who partook of them. And no matter how many she took from her casket, it was always full when next she opened it. Mr. Price has surely eaten fruit from Her basket and may he continue enjoying youth and good health for many years to come. A life of more usefulness and service than his would be hard to find.

"Fun Fair" is fast catching on with the younger set around Clanton. It's a talent show, broadcast every Saturday morning at 10 o'clock from the stage of the New Wadesonian Theatre in Clanton. Those taking part on last week's program were Gail Hardy, Robert Popwell, James Allen Andrews, Betty Mollistcn, Elizabeth Sheppard, and Alec Tyndall. Alec took first place in the talent contest, as he had already done once before. The talent is judged by audience response, as registered on the "applause meter" at the studios

I think credit should be given here to firms who help make this program possible by giving merchandise prizes for the participants. Those who contributed this past week included: Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Curtiss Candy Co., Foremost Dairies, Sutley Jewelry Co., Chicago Sales, Miller 5 & 10c Store, Parley Drug Co., Dairy Queen, Warren's Photo Shop and Clyde Minor Grocery. Others besides these have contributed in past weeks. These firms are to be commended for this, because they are doing their part in helping the youth of this community. "Fun Fair" is a non-profit enterprise, designed to develop local talent, and to give Saturday entertainment to local boys and girls. I hope that local business firms, as well as the general public, will continue to support it.

Happy Hal Burns is now back on the air with a brand new show at 7:15 each morning, and invites all his listeners to drop him a line. Just address "Happy Hal Burns, in care of WKLF, Clanton, Ala." James Popwell, whose voice has a famaliar ring in these parts, will be leaving for Tuscaloosa this week end for temporary employment. "Jimmy" plans to enroll at the University of Alabama this fall, but he will be back with us again before leaving for school.

Temptation

"Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God; for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man. But every man is tempted when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed. Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin, and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death." (James 1:13-15).

A. T. HICKMAN

It is no sin to be tempted. Every Christian is tempted. Christ was tempted, that in all points like as we are, yet without sin. It was necessary for Jesus to be tempted at the very beginning of his Why? That he might begin his work with a smashing blow to satan whose works he had come to destroy. A decided victory over the devil at the very beginning of His ministry would demoralize all the forces of evil. From that very time every demon was to know that Jesus was superior, and every demon would from then on tremble in his divine presence. Satan would know by this first defeat, that some day his entire kingdom would be overthrown and himself cast into the lake of fire. Jesus had come to bind the strong man of the house, and spoil his goods; satan realized his house was shaking, and his demons cried out," Thou has come to torment us before the time."

This same victory must be won in the life of every Christian. Let every one that name the name of Christ, depart from iniquity. Temptation has in itself no tendency to lead the soul astray. If the soul be in Christ, and is holy, the temptation will only confirm it in virture. Only the evil will of a person, self-determined against God, can turn temptation into an occasion of defeat. As the sun's heat has no tendency to wither the plant rooted in the deep and moist soil, but only causes it to send its roots the deeper, and to fasten itself the more strongly.

The same temptation which occasioned the ruin of the false disciple stimulates to sturdy growth the virture of the true Christian. Contrast with the temptation of Adam in the Garden, and Jesus in the Wilderness. Adam had everything to plead for God. the Garden and its delight; while Jesus had everything to plead against him, the wilderness and its privation. Adam mistrusted God and fell, Jesus had confidence in God and His Word, and stood. The result for one was defeat, while for the other it was victory. The difference was in the ones tempted, not in the temptation. Watch and pray.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

EPILEPSY

There are one million persons with epilepsy in the United States. Misunderstandings about this disease include the false notion that it leads to mental deterioration, and epilepsy should not be associated with imbecility. Another misconception is that epilepsy is essentially a disease of childhood, when in reality thirty per cent of patients begin to have seizures after the age of twenty.

The word epilepsy is derived from the Greek word for seizure. It is described as a tendency to periodic involuntary behavior which usually takes the form of convulsive attacks. There are, generally speaking, three types of epileptic seizures—grand mal, petit mal, and phychomotor epilepsy.

Convulsions of the grand mal type occur in varied forms, and there may be no ill after effects or there may be severe prostration. Petit mal epilepsy is characterized by brief lapses of consciousness, usually lasting from five to thirty seconds. Phychomotor epilepsy, while considered the most dangerous type, is probably the one most responsive to treatment.

Treatment of epilepsy includes prophylactic, general management, social-phychiatric restorative, and specific measures. Certain drugs have been found to be effective in particular types of seizures, and each case calls for individual study.

There have been some famous epileptics including Julius Caésar, Peter the Great, Louis XIII of France, the Roman Emperor Caligula, and Alexander the Great. Others have been Mahomet, Lord Byron, Flaubert, and Swinburne. The intelligence of epileptics compares favorably with that of the general population, but these sufferers need greater understanding by the public.

A Trip To California—

In an interview with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Higgins, they tell of a very interesting trip they have recently had in California. These two people left Thorsby via train on August 2nd for Los Angeles, Calif., for a visit with their son, Milton Higgins, and family, also with a nephew, Jack Higgins.

They arrived in Los Angeles on Friday, the fifth of August, after a most delightful trip. They spent ten days ~~in the West and~~ every day and every minute of their time had been carefully planned by their son and his wife, so that there was never a dull moment, but the entire time was crammed full of exciting trips to various points. They visited the famous Forest Lawn Cemetery. Here they saw the mausoleum in which the famed Comedian W. C. Fields was entombed. They visited the ranch home of Will Rogers which is now a show place and a State Park. They visited the famed old Mission San Juan Capistrano, Knott's Berry Farm at Buena Park, Calif., where Boysen berries were first grown, here they also saw the covered wagon diorama. From here they went to see the Ghost Town. This town is made up of dummies throughout, just as it was back in the old days.

Mr. Higgins had a lot of fun at this place when a joke was pulled on him. He went to peek in at the window of the jail, where an old jailbird was seated (a dummy) and while a lot of people were peering in at it, a voice hollered out, "Hello there, Jim Higgins, from Alabama—you old Republican. You voted for Herbert Hoover and I'll bet you would do it again." He couldn't figure it all out for a moment, but later discovered that Milton had slipped around the back and tipped off a guy who was in the back with a loud speaker and pulling such jokes on visitors. Everyone had a lot of fun out of this.

They also visited in San Diego, in Tia Juana in Old Mexico and saw lots of places of interest here. They went to the Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks. Here they spent two days. They visited in Hollywood, saw the famous Hollywood Bowl, saw the Grauman's Chinese Theatre where are made the foot prints of famous movie folks. Saw the homes of Shirley Temple, Mary Pickford, Jack Benny, Irene Dunne, Charlie Chaplain and many others. They saw Jane Russell and John Wayne in person.

On Friday night Jack Higgins was their host at a big steak supper at Griffith's Park. Saturday was spent shopping and on Sunday before leaving for home they attended the rodeo at the Memorial Coliseum which was attended by more than 100,000 people. Here they saw and heard Gene Autry and Gene Austin. After all was said and done, Mr. Higgins remarked in his own inimitable way, "The biggest bang that I got out of the whole trip was wading in the ocean." It was indeed a trip that they will like to talk about for a long time.

G. A. Girls Go On Camping Trip—

The G.A. girls of the Thorsby Baptist Church spent last week at Shocco Springs with their instructor, Mrs. Frank Porter. The group left here on last Tuesday and returned home Friday night. They had a wonderful time these few days.

They met quite a number of Alabama Missionaries, Baptist State workers and did a lot of things which were instructive as well as having a good time. On Thursday night they had a banquet and a coronation service, at which time queens were selected. The little girls obtain the rank of Princesses and are then crowned queens at a special service. This is obtained through the things they do and learn throughout the course of study during their time spent at the camp. Two little girls in the Thorsby group received this honor, and they were Misses Betty Sue Vines and Mary Edna Griffin.

Girls who made this trip with Mrs. Porter were: Judy Nelson, Mary Edna Griffin, Betty Sue Vines, Nadine Barnett, Linda Seale Cleckler, Bennie Jo Franklin, Jeanine Childress and Donna Gentry. They all had a wonderful time. There were 358 G.A. girls assembled at the camp.

Farmers Urged To Save Lespedeza Sericea Seed

One of the most important jobs on many Alabama farms this fall is to save lespedeza sericea seed, according to J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist.

He emphasizes the fact that sericea is one of Alabama's most valuable plants for grazing, hay, soil improvement, and erosion control.

"Many farmers have stands of sericea that could be left for seed harvest," reveals the specialist. "Extra seed not needed on the farm where they were grown could be sold for cash."

CHECKING COMBINE MAY SAVE VALUABLE GRAIN

Auburn, Ala. — Inefficient operation of a combine can easily cause as much as six bushels of grain per acre to "go with the wind," say A.P.I. Extension Service engineering specialists.

It's easy to check the efficiency of the operation, the specialist point out. Just make several grain counts behind the combine. If 16 or 18 grains are found in one square foot behind the combine, the loss is likely to run more than two bushels per acre. When this happens it's time to check the machinery and the way it is handled.

If grain losses continue after poor adjustments and practices have been corrected, the operator is advised to check further into the instruction book furnished with the combine. If the trouble cannot be corrected, see the dealer from whom the machine was bought.

NECESSARY TO SELECT RIGHT PICTURE FRAME

Auburn, Ala. — The picture frame provides a finish for the picture and acts as a transition between the picture and the wall.

Alice Peavy, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist, points out that the frame should not attract more attention than the picture itself.

"Pictures with gold frames," said the specialist, "should not be hung close to pictures with wooden frames. Also, remember that pictures with mats make an unpleasant contrast when hung too near ones without mats."

Miss Peavy adds that most pictures are best framed without mats; however, pictures that are delicate in color or contain a great deal of light, such as etchings sometimes need mats.

MAIN FEATURES OF A PLANNED FARM HOME

A well-planned farm home has convenient entrances from the main driveway to both living room and work areas, according to Stella Mitchell, A.P.I. Extension Service home management specialist.

She recommends that kitchen windows face the driveway and farm buildings. This, will help the homemaker keep a watchful eye on the children and buildings.

Also, good traffic lanes are provided so that all parts of the house may be reached without passing through the kitchen or other centers of activity.

"Always keep in mind that adequate space for preparing, serving, and preserving food is necessary," states Miss Mitchell.

TREATING FENCE POSTS

After cutting and peeling, fence posts to be treated should be open piled or stacked so that air will circulate freely around each post. A drying period of 60 to 120 days, depending on weather conditions, is required to thoroughly dry the posts.

HOUSE UPHOLDS GOVERNOR'S VETO ON 'ECONOMY BILLS'

Montgomery, Ala. — The seventeen 'economy bills' which had steam-rolled through both Houses, came to a death blow this week then the lower House upheld the Governor's veto by a vote of 51-44. It requires 54 votes, a majority of the elected members, to override the chief executive's veto. The Senate had already overriden the veto. The bills were written to apply to the Revenue Department, giving its various divisions an appropriation under which to operate, instead of operating out of the collections as it does now.

Your Comments help guide our railroad

. . . MAY WE HAVE MORE OF THEM?

The words that Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain) wrote in 1870 could well be applied to our business. Today more than ever before we solicit the suggestions of our customers, for we are aware that many mutual problems will arise or have arisen as the result of the five-day business week to be instituted September 1 by the Nation's railroads under procedures prescribed by the Railway Labor Act.

While the public has always been generous in its commendation of our railroad, we know that we are far from perfect. Somebody has told us that everybody makes mistakes and certainly a railroad is no exception.

A mistake that goes unreported may also go uncorrected — and it could even re-occur. This is why our invitation for suggestions and criticisms is just as earnest as our appreciation for any compliments.

Won't you give us the benefit of your opinions . . . and help us to improve? For that we are always striving.

Local July Unemployment Payments: $7,472

Montgomery Ala. — Unemployment compensation payments remained at a high level during July but showed only a slight increase over June, Fleetwood Carnley, director of the Department of Industrial Relations, said today.

Benefits paid to 34,625 Alabamians from the state's unemployment compensation fund in July totalled $1,844,600, which was two percent higher than for June, Carnley said. "While the number of payments is three times as many as for July, 1948, there is some indication that the total unemployment is levelling off," he added.

Chilton County payments for July totaled $7,472.00, covering 499 weeks of unemployment.

July was the last month during which most veterans could draw unemployment or self-employment payments under the G.I. Bill of Rights. There were 16,134 veterans who drew payments totalling $1,283,000 during the month. Since an estimated 50 percent of these veterans are eligible for regular unemployment compensation, it is expected that new applications from them will result in a sharp increase in state payments during August.

Lay-offs in textile mills, coal mines, railroad car manufacturing, ship-building and repair, and paper mills accounted for the bulk of the new claims during July. Lumber mills, which had been laying off men at a rapid rate during the first six months of the year, did not show any significant increase in lay-offs during July.

Major lay-offs in the state included those from textile mills in Huntsville, a railway car manufacturing plant in Bessemer, a shipyard in Mobile, and a number of coal mines in Walker County.

State Turnpike Voted For By Lower House

Montgomery, Ala. — The House of Representatives by a vote of 50 to 15 approved this week a measure providing for a four lane turnpike stretching from the Tennessee line to the Gulf of Mexico. It was estimated that the 400-mile road would cost between 35 and 40 million dollars.

As explained by one of the sponsors of the bill, Col. Ira Thompson of Crenshaw, the road would pay for itself by a toll charge, and would be patterned after the Pennsylvania turnpike. While no definite route was selected, it was stated that the road would be placed down the center of the state so as to provide the maximum accommodation to the most people. It would not go through cities, but would skirt them on specially built roundabouts. The road would be strictly for express traffic, and clover-leaf turns would be built about every 25 miles where cars could enter or leave the road.

Ward McFarland, State Highway director, in commenting on the passage of the bill, said that it was his opinion that such a road could not be self-liquidating, and added that the Pennsylvania turnpike, with all of its traffic, cannot pay off the bonds which built it. The bill is now in the Senate for action.

FOLSOM FIGHTS FREIGHT INCREASE ON SMALL SHIPMENTS

Montgomery, Ala. — Gov. James E. Folsom this week instructed Attorney General Albert Carmichael to inform the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington that the State of Alabama is opposed to a proposed increase in all small freight shipment rates The governor told newsmen that such a hike would be "unjust and unduly discriminatory against all small business. . .throughout Alabama and the South."

The governor pointed out that freight increases on small shipments had already been increased "approximately 60 percent above what they were previous to and during the war period."

The proposed increase would apply to all freight shipments weighing less than 300 pounds. The governor states that "about 75 percent of all shipments in small business" would be included in the raise, which he said would be between 200 and 300 percent more per 100 pounds than is now paid.

"The State of Alabama will do all possible to prevent any such discrimination against small business and agriculture in this state," the chief executive said.

For summer meals, a honey fruit cup makes a delicious first course or dessert. If fruit is tart, add honey alone. If fruits are mild and sweet, mix lemon juice with honey, then add the fruit. Chill before serving.

* * *

If fat in a frying pan catches on fire smother it with wet towels. Never pour water on it because it makes the fat spatter and may spread the blaze.

Meal planners will find a greater variety of fresh vegetables on the market during August than in any other summer month.

CLANTON LAUNDRY & CLEANING CO. CELEBRATE 23rd YEAR HERE

Twenty-three years ago today (Thursday) the Clanton Laundry & Cleaning Company opened its doors for business. The location was where Melvin Mims and Buck Bice operate Chilton Feed & Seed Store now.

It was a far cry from the modern plant and home of the present business, but the owner and manager Leo Thompson, recalls the stench of gasoline cleaned colthes, the scrub board and the hand iron.

Nearly a year later, in March, 1927, the Thompsons moved the Laundry & Cleaning Plant to the building they were to occupy for the next 21 years. This was the building now occupied by Lawrence Paint Company. From there in 1947 they moved to the present home on First Avenue between Fifth and Sixth Streets. With the passing years Clanton Laundry and Cleaning Company has kept pace with Clanton and Chilton County. The plant is up-to-date and modern in every way and the management is constantly adding new machinery and equipment to keep abreast of the times.

Mr. Thompson says the company owes its all to their many friends in this territory and they are grateful for their cooperation in making the business the success it is today. Their constant aim is to give service and satisfaction.

Let Right Prevail

The Chilton County Grand Jury is in session this week at the courthouse.

It is our hope that the report from the State Examiner of Accounts will be received and turned over to them so that the long awaited facts behind the scenes at the courthouse can be known.

Be assured as soon as facts are known we will publish them.

Atomic Nature

Man brags of his might. He boasts of his power to destroy, and nature comes along and makes anything man can offer look like the popping of a firecracker.

Last Saturday the hurricane through Florida destroyed forty million dollars in property.

A very few weeks passed an earthquake killed some five thousand people and destroyed twenty-nine towns in South America.

Fires in the West in recent weeks have taken scores of lives and destroyed millions upon millions in timber.

And man boasts of his might.

Do You Really?

Honestly, do you believe the State Legislature should censor the present administration for being wasteful?

In the first place they raised their own pay to twenty dollars per day—mind you, that is for seven days a week.

They really work only two days a week with the exception of a few members who are on committees needed at the capitol.

They have the past week voted themselves another thirty thousand of the State's money in a recess—with pay. We could go on and on.

Only two more days remain of the present session but with that kind of legislation no telling how many weeks will be needed by them to complete the alloted days.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

You'd be surprised how many week-newspaper columnists started their columns last week with: "Baby It's Cold Outside."

A most delightful letter received this week from Mrs. Delos (Martha) Culp of Orangeburg, N. Y. The letter is mostly of Delos' work the past year and is quite interesting. However, she says her highest ambition at present is to "get back to a quiet spot in Alabama and listen to the grass grow." Chilton County, naturally.

Chicago Sales Company has put on a new dress. Reedie Taylor has had a complete new decorating job done and the place looks like something out of a book. We highly congratulate Reedie on the improvement, it's wonderful.

There was much shedding of tears at the Methodist Church the past week. Rev. Carlisle Miller, who has been with that church for the past four years, was transferred to Panama City, Fla. Sure we'll miss Carlisle and the family, but being one to always try to see the better side, we will say it could have been much worse. Now every year when Clantonites go to the coast on their vacation they can see their favorite Methodist pastor at the same time. We don't want to scare the Millers too bad but the Chilton Countians might even spend the day, or week with them each summer Especially would it be convenient when the beaches are crowded and all the cottages and hotels are sold out of room. Maybe if he had too much company down there he might come back to Chilton County in self defense.

And right here may we welcome to Clanton and Chilton County Rev. W. B. Atkinson and his family. He is from Panama City, Fla., and comes to the First Methodist Church to replace Rev. Carlisle Miller. Rev. Atkinson arrives Thursday of this week and fills his pulpit for the first time next Sunday. May his stay among us be fruitful and enjoyable.

No matter how much we wanted to see the courthouse scandle cleared up our guess is that the present Grand Jury won't get it. In the first place the report hasn't been finished at this writing and another thing, if it had, a four-hundred page report couldn't be digested in so short a time. Even after the report is received by the powers that be, time for study, etc., etc., will be needed before it could possibly be presented to a Grand Jury.

Tip comes from M. R. Glasscock that his office is getting ready to sponsor a fancy green edition of the local newspapers. Advertising winter cover crops. Within the next two weeks when you open your Chilton County News, don't get excited about seeing green, you ain't bilious, the paper will really be printed in green.

Speaking of color printing, take note of the pretty two-color, two-page ad of Watson's in this issue. Color printing in advertising is quite the thing in the dailies, but hasn't reached the weeklies yet. That is, until this week. Not to let anyone get ahead of us, we decided to do something about it. The result is that beauty of Watson's.

Under the new Army Air Force money clothing allowance system, state-wide servicemen's repairs must be made at individual expense, except shoes, but prices will be regulated. Alterations will be made at Government expense when an individual cannot be fitted from stock, or during the first six months of service if bodily sizes change materially. A joint directive now going to the field fixes repair and alteration prices.

The Air Force will further enlarge its cadet program by opening a cadet navigator school at Ellington AF Base, Houston, Texas. The first class starts November 1.

The Army has established a flat annual rental of $42 for approved sites for trailors on Army Reservations.

The Army has restated its policy concerning participation of troops and equipment in civilian ceremonies to encourage such participation within limits set by Regulations. Salient provisions are that the ceremony must be of such nature that the appearance of troops and|or equipment would reflect credit on the National Military Establishment, and the necessary troops or equipment must be readily available.

CHILDREN PROFIT FROM GREAT FOOTBALL GAME

REDSKIN'S RIFLEMEN — Washington's one-two punch in the clash with the Chicago Cardinals at Legion Field, Birmingham, Saturday night, September 10th, will be Slingin' Sammy Baugh and Hurlin' Harry Gilmer. Baugh holds almost every passing record, and Alabama's Gilmer is considered the hottest pitching prospect in pro football.

Less than one month remains for pigskin fans to purchase tickets to the Washington Redskin-Chicago Cardinal grid spectacle in Birmingham, Saturday night, September 10th, when Harry Gilmer will again thrill Alabama fans at Legion Field. The kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m.

While the Redskins whoop it up on the West Coast in pre-season drills, ticket sales through E. E. Forbes & Sons Piano Co., Birmingham, and the Birmingham Junior Chamber of Commerce are moving along at a rapid rate. Tickets are $3.60 for Main Stands and $2.50 in the Horseshoe. Include 25c additional to cover mailing and insurance.

It has been definitely stated by Redskin spokesmen that Hurlin' Harry Gilmer, Alabama's pride and joy for the past four years, is ready for action. Gilmer, Slingin' Sammy Baugh and the rest of the Redskins and Cardinals are moving into the Magic City to add more dollars to the Birmingham Children's Hospital Building Fund.

It's come one, come all. The pro gridders will put on their show of spills and thrills so that children in the state of Alabama will be assured adequate hospital facilities when needed.

This contest will be far from a

Repentance

According to Cruden's Concordance of the Bible, the words, "repent," "repentance," "repented," "repenteth," etc., occur more than one hundred times; besides the many illustrations and examples we have of repentance written in the Bible. All this proves to every Bible reader the importance of the doctrine of repentance. We ministers cannot overestimate the prominence which this doctrine has in the Bible. John the Baptist began his ministry with the doctrine of repentance, saying, "Repent ye, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." And the people were baptized of him in Jordan, confessing their sins. Then Jesus began his ministry with the same text; for from that time Jesus began to preach, and to say, "Repent; for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." Now, if such men as John the Baptist, and Jesus Christ preached that men should repent, then I cannot preach anything else. Surely there is a greater need for the preaching of the doctrine of repentance today than perhaps ever before.

A. T. HICKMAN

When Jesus ordained and sent out the Twelve Apostles, they went out and preached that men should repent. This was the preaching that Jesus commanded them to preach. For Jesus said unto them, that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem. Repentance was the very heart of Paul's preaching and teaching. For he testified both to the Jews, and also to the Greeks, repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ. He showed the people that they should repent and turn to God, and do works meet for repentance. The one desire of God for all men is that they come to repentance. The Lord is not slack concerning His promise, as some men count slackness, but is long suffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but, that all should come to repentance. Not only does he desire all men to come to repentance, but now he commandeth all men everywhere to repent.

It is the direct command of God to men that they repent and turn to Him. Jesus lets us know in Luke 13:3-5 that repentance is the only way to escape. Saying, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish. . . Friends, it is one thing to join something, and another thing to repent of all sins, and turn to God, with all the heart and life. My message is "Repent for the kingdom of God is at hand."

Thorsby, as well as Clanton, has learned with deep regret, the removal of Rev. and Mrs. Carlisle Miller from Clanton. Rev. Miller has visited Thorsby from time to time and Mrs. Miller has played her violin for several weddings here, and they have also been enjoyed to a great extent on the radio. The loss of these two splendid people will be keenly felt throughout our entire County. We do wish for them every happiness in their new field

Mr. J. R. Ekblad left Thursday night, via the Humming Bird, for Chicago, Ill., where he will visit with relatives. Mr. Ekblad's mother is not so well, and this was the main reason for this trip at this time. We sincerely hope that he finds his mother much better. She has many friends in Thorsby who are deeply concerned, and trust that she will soon regain her health

Mrs. Anderson, though ill, is always in a cheerful mood, listens to her radio, reads and keeps right up with current events and manages to while away the time, even though she is always confined to her home. She loves to have her friends come to see her.

It Isn't Your Town—It's You—

If you want to live in the kind of a town,
That's the kind of a town you like.
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip,
And start on a long, long hike.
You'll find elsewhere what you left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new,
It's a knock at your self when you you knock your town,
It isn't your town—It's YOU.

Real towns are not made by men afraid,
Lest somebody else gets ahead
When everybody works and nobody shirks,
You can raise a town from the dead.
And if while you make your stake,
Your neighbor can make one too.
Your town will be what you want to see,
It isn't your town—It's YOU.

If we work the streets and it comes a rain,
Then if muddy you will complain.
If we work the streets when it is dry,
Then you complain because the dust fly.
Now if you will cooperate we will see,
If we can make the town what you want it to be.
It's a knock at yourself when you knock your town,
It isn't your town—It's YOU.

House Passes Appropriation Bill For State Government Operations

Montgomery, Ala. — After spending two days in a committee as a whole, which included all the members, the House Friday voted a general appropriation bill to cover the next two years of operation of state government affairs. The amount of the bill for 1950 was $18,187,000, while for 1951 it had a slight increase of $18,840,000.

After several days of debate over many amendments and proposed changes, the House voted to take the previous two years' budget and slice ten per cent from every office, with the exception of the executive department which received the same amount.

The only departments which received different handling in the budget were the Veterans' Affairs and the Commerce Departments. Instead of a ten per cent cut, the veterans office got seven and one-half, and the Commerce Department received an increase of som $35,000 to provide for additional duties given it by the present legislature.

The bill is now in the hands of the Senate where members will be holding hearings on it for several days before bringing it to a final vote.

Gov. Folsom told newsmen that he objected to the ten per cent overall cut, because it would "hamstring the functions of various state departments chiefly the Department of Revenue and the ABC Enforcement Division." He added that it was not a fair measure to apply to arriving at the needs of the state departments, and pointed out that such a decision would mean a loss of half a million dollars for the Welfare Department.

Most members of the legislature, however, believe that the bill will pass the Senate with only slight changes, since it is perhaps nearest to a balanced budget that can be arrived at.

House members took another step in furthering the needs of education when they voted to take $700,000 from the general fund and switch it to the special education trust fund. This amount is to be used jointly by the State School for Deaf and Blind at Talladega, and the State Department of Education.

AUGUST PLANTING TIPS LISTED FOR GARDNERS

Gardeners who plant collards, kohlrabi, and broccoli in early August should make a good crop.

J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension gardener, adds that cabbage plants should be set out at this time. Cabbage seed planted early in August have a fair chance to produce good heads before freezing weather, he believes.

HOUSE VOTES $62,000,000 FOR EDUCATION

Montgomery, Ala. — The House Tuesday put its stamp of approval on a $62,000,000 appropriation for education forces to use during each of the next two years. The bill represented an increase of $10,000,000 over the appropriation for the same services during the past two years.

An entire string of amendments was added to the education bill voted out of the House Ways and Means Committee, which recommended $4,000,000 less than what was finally approved. Education leaders in the House, mainly Rep. Ed Miller of Gadsden, stated that money to provide for all amendments was to be paid out of the surplus monies in the special education trust fund. The bill now goes to the Senate where it will be debated on during the coming week.

REMOVE COTTON LEAVES TO PICK MECHANICALLY

Auburn, Ala. — To successfully pick cotton mechanically all plants must have the foliage removed.

Tests show that this can best be done by applying 30 pounds of calcium cyanamide dust per acre when practically all of the bolls are mature, according to T. E. Corley, assistant agricultural engineer of the A.P.I. Agricultural Experiment Station.

The dust should be applied late in the afternoon or early in the morning while dew is still on the plants. Corley said the removal of the foliage also makes hand-picking of cotton easier; it reduces boll rot damage and permits earlier harvesting, all of which improve the grades.

Conventional type dusters used in insect control are very satisfactory for applying the dust. He pointed out that caution should be taken not to apply more dust than the 30-pound rate, since excessive amounts often burn the leaves and cause them to "freeze" to the stalk. If all foliage is not removed within 10 days after the first application, another application should be made, he explained.

ALABAMA TOPS U. S. IN 4-H MEMBERSHIP

Montgomery, Ala. — During 1948 Alabama had more 4-H Club members than any other state in the nation.

According to the U. S. Agriculture Department, there were 120,104 persons enrolled last year in the state's 2,932 local clubs.

Georgia was runner-up with 117,694 members.

RECORD AMOUNT OF FERTILIZER BOUGHT

Auburn, Ala. — Alabama farmers bought more commercial fertilizer during the 1948-49 season than they ever bought during any previous crop year.

Total sales of fertilizer amounted to 1,063,000 tons, according to a report released by the State Cooperative Crop Reporting Service. This amount represents an increase of 11.1 per cent over the total sales during the 1947-48 season.

J. C. Lowery, A.P.I. Extension Service agronomist, states that this unprecedented sale of fertilizer reveals that more and more Alabama farmers are realizing the importance of fertilizer.

The agronomist adds that sales of fertilizer grades 4-10-7 and 6-8-4 led other grades by a wide margin.

RENT CONTROL LAW HINGES ON SUPREME COURT VERDICT

Montgomery, Ala. — Last Tuesday the Governor returned the rent decontrol bill to the House after it had already adjourned for the day. It was the last day the Governor had to sign the bill; in another day it would have become law without his signature.

Rep. Norman Harris of Decatur, sponsor of the bill, contends that the bill became law, because it did not reach the House before adjournment. The Governor's legal adviser stated that the law gave the chief executive until midnight to return the bill. Rep. Harris then petitioned the Alabama Supreme Court to determine whether or not the bill had already become a law. A ruling is expected in about ten days. The bill provides that rent control will be abolished May 10, next year. The Governor returned it with an amendment making it effective only in those areas where local authorities had removed controls.

ENTRANCE AGE EXPLAINED

As the situation stands at present, children who become six on or before January 15, 1950, will be eligible to enter school this year. However, a bill is pending in the State Legislature that would re-establish the October 1 date as it has been. It is very likely that this bill will be passed before the opening date of school. In this case, the minimum entrance age would again be six years of age on or before October 1. Station WKLF has promised to assist us in getting the information out over the week end.

In case the date remains on January 15, the school officials plead for your patience and cooperation in meeting what will prove to be one of our most serious situations. The law provides the additional children but does not provide additional funds for teachers, housing and transportation. It means that our already overcrowded conditions in classrooms and buses will be even worse, causing a hardship on pupils of all ages. In some cases, bus routes will have to be doubled back; calling for pupils to leave home earlier. Again, your patience is being solicited while adjustments are being made.

The Board insists that school patrons observe its regulation and the State Law regarding the school a pupil is to attend. The law states that a pupil must attend the school designated by the Board. The Board specifies that a child is not to pass a school teaching his grade. Patrons can be of great assistance to the school by cooperating willingly with this necessary regulation and by trying to understand the fairness to all concerned.

Schools will operate from 8:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. on the opening date—September 5th. After that day, the regular schedule will be observed.

Throw away worn-out kitchen utensils and other odds and ends in the kitchen in a yearly cleaning to get rid of dust collectors, save extra work, and preserve valuable storage space.

"If We Print It --- It's True"

VOL. XXVII — CLANTON, ALABAMA — THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 8th, 1949 — NUMBER 36

Death By Cancer Took 20 Chilton Countians Last Year

Montgomery, Ala. — The 2,582 cancer deaths reported from the entire state last year included 20 occurring in Chilton County.

This was revealed today by the State Department of Health. The announcement was based upon provisional reports prepared by the Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics. It was pointed out that these reports might differ slightly from final reports not yet available.

The Jefferson County total of 606 cancer deaths was more than twice as high as that for any other county. Mobile's 222 ranked it in second place. Montgomery County was third, with 140. Seventy-seven were reported from Etowah, 64 from Talladega, 62 each from Dallas and Madison, 61 from Tuscaloosa and 58 each from Calhoun and Walker. Fewer than 50 cancer deaths were reported last year from each of the other counties.

Chilton County To Get New Air Markers

Montgomery, Ala. — Two additional air markers for Chilton County are included in the new state-wide Air Marking Project of the Alabama nounced by Asa Rountree, Jr., State Department of Aeronautics, it is an- Director of Aeronautics. It is expected that a contract for this project will be awarded within the next two weeks.

The new air markers will be at Jemison and Verbena.

The new markers will supplement those painted last year in Chilton County at Clanton, Coopers, Maplesville, Stanton and Thorsby.

These markers will prominently advertise and identify each town to air traffic, and each town will appear on air maps as an air marked town.

In 1948, Alabama led the entire country in air marking. The State Department of Aeronautics painted 319.

Each individual marker will consist of the name of the town in 10-foot letters, meridian arrow and arrow pointing to nearest airport. The marker will be located on the roof of a prominent building in each town.

Montgomery, Ala. — Meeting with county sheriffs and peace officers from every section of the state last week, Gov. James E. Folsom urged the law enforcement officials to increase their efforts to end bootlegging and illicit liquor sales in Alabama.

The meeting, which was held in the executive office here, was attended by more than 30 peace officers, all of whom pledged their full cooperation with the Alcoholic Beverage Control's investigators in their continual drive to stamp out illegal liquor sales.

ABC board members have estimated that bootlegging and moonshining activities cost Alabama thousands of dollars annually in loss of revenue.

STATE BIRTHS DROP DURING FIRST QUARTER OF YEAR

Montgomery, Ala. — During the first three months of 1948, the Bureau of Vital Statistics reports that 19,401 babies were born in Alabama. At the same time, the bureau said that this year's January, February and March offspring crop is 692 short of the first quarter mark in 1948.

The total births for January, February and March of this year came to 18,709.

52-20 DEADLINE PAST FOR STATE VETS

Montgomery, Ala. — Readjustment allowance payments to some 15,300 Alabama veterans came to an end at midnight July 25, the expiration date of the period during which World War II veterans discharged before July 25, 1947, were eligible for allowances.

In making the announcement S. Fleetwood Carnley, Director of the State Department of Industrial Relations, said that those ex-servicemen who were discharged after the above date are now eligible.

Since payments were begun under the '52-20' law in 1945, Alabama vets collected more than $100,000,000.

DAUPHIN BRIDGE PROPOSAL FAILS AT POLLS

Montgomery, Ala. — An additional one-cent gasoline tax to finance the building of a bridge to Dauphin Island was knocked out last week when Mobile County voters downed the measure by a better than two to one vote.

SENATE COMMITTEE VOTES USE TAX EXEMPTION FOR NEWSPAPERS

Montgomery, Ala. — It looks now that the legislature may soon provide the way for a measure of tax relief for Alabama newspapers. The Senate Judiciary Committee voted Wednesday to send to the floor for action a bill which would exempt from use tax charges all newsprint, as well as machinery used in printing newspapers.

This tax is now collected on the above mentioned products which are bought outside Alabama and brought into the state.

Even though the days left for legislative action are fast drawing to a close, there is still time for the bill to get through both houses. The committee also exempted recordings rented by radio stations.

The first branch of the American Federation of Labor to be established in Alabama was founded September 1, 1900, in the Bricklayers' Hall in Birmingham.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT HIKES UTILITY TAX ASSESSMENTS

Montgomery, Ala. — Revenue Commissioner Phillip J. Hamm this week notified all public utilities in the state that their assessments were being upped to a sixty per cent evaluation of the property as provided by the present law.

The hike will apply to railroads, electric companies, gas and water companies, telephone systems and similar corporations. There are now approximately 250 corporations in Alabama which were sent notices of the tax increase. The Revenue Commissioner estimated that the move would make for a possible tax increase of $2,000,000 per year.

In his letter to the Governor announcing the action, Hamm stated, "I am just trying to administer the laws as they are written, and if the 60 per cent figure is wrong then the legislature ought to change it."

Hamm's instructions to the corporations informed them to appear at an early date before him and show reason why the tax increase should not become effective. Under the new move, assessment of the Alabama Power Company was raised from $70,000,000 to $95,000,000, while the L & N Railroad jumped from $32,000,000 to $42,0,000, and the Southern Railway was upped from $25,000,000 to $35,000,000.

Thomas Makes Federal Game Regulations Known

Montgomery, Ala. — Planning to do some dove hunting when the season rolls around this year? Well, if you are, you'll be glad to know that a recent federal report that the bag limit would be reduced to four birds this coming season was in error.

The announcement was made by State Conservation Director Bert Thomas, who said that this year's regulation sets a bag limit of ten doves and a possession limit of ten, as has been the case for the past few years.

The dispatches from Washington, said were also incorrect in stating that dove shooting would be permitted from a half-hour before sunrise until sunset. The official regulations, the conservation director explained in bringing to light the error, provide that all dove shooting must be done during the season only from noon until sunset.

This year's dove season will extend from December 17 until January 15, 1950.

The new regulations extended the waterfowl season to 40 rather than 30 days. The season opens November 29 and closes January 7, with hunting hours extending from a half-hour before sunrise until sunset.

Waterfowl bag limits were not changed from last year.

The communtation value of the Army ration for enlisted personnel authorized to mess separately was fixed on July 1 at $1.05 per ration in the U. S. The ration value outside the U. S. is $1.10.

VETERAN FARMERS TAKING ADVANTAGE OF HELP

Veteran farmers taking advantage of the help and supervision offered them by the Farmers Home Administration in Chilton County are tops. In a recent survey made to determine the veteran farmer that has the best long time farm program started on his farm, two F.H.A. borrowers took first and second place.

The first prize, a registered jersey heifer was awarded to Harvey M. Hubbard. The second prize, a registered O.I.C. gilt, awarded to Hillery J. Bolton. Mr. Hubbard, a disabled veteran, moved on his farm in January of this year and immediately began to carry out his farm and home plan and Soil Conservation Plan made at the time the farm was appraised by the Farmers Home Administration. The first job was to put his eroded land in such crops that would eventually build up the soil and also furnish grazing and hay crops. Forty-five hundred kudzu crowns were set out, nine acres of sericea sown, and two acres of existing kudzu was fertilized. Six acres of peach trees had not been cared for and an extensive pruning and spraying program was put into effect.

Two grade milch coks were purchased which made a total of four and Mr. Hubbard began selling milk to the milk route. A grade sow was purchased and nine hogs are being topped out from the first litter. One acre of strawberry plants were set out and 200 local mixed chickens purchased and he will maintain a laying flock of 100 hens, eight acres of cotton and 17 acres of corn comprise the other cash and feed crops. Two hundred pounds of Caley Peas will be sown in kudzu after frost and 150 pounds of reseeding crimson clover will be sown in the sericea established this year. Experiment station recommendations are being applied on all cropping systems on his farm.

Something To Think About

OLD AGE PENSION

REV. H. M. SANDLIN

Fifty dollars per month in a check sent to the mail box of every person 65 years old and older, black and white, bond and free without any red tape. Just as soon as a person is 65 let them register and prove their age is all that is necessary. That, is our goal.

More or less every citizen south of the Mason and Dixon Line are victims and have been victims of the Civil War and more or less have all suffered untold handicaps by the North Monopolists who grabbed all the manufactures of the nation; the educational facilities and have taken many other advantages of the South that have kept us in servitude all these years. Very few people in the South have been able to buy and own lands and homes uninterrupted by creditors as the years have gone by. We have had a depression or a panic every so often and had to go broke, reorganize, reinstate, pull the fragments together and start all over again, and we have done that until we have been schooled to believe it is the only thing to do.

We have suffered unconsciously, like a cross-eyed person that has always been cross-eyed, doesn't know his misery because he has never been any other way. A few years ago I had a light facial stroke and went cross-eyed. It was the awfulest punishment inimaginable, because I had been normal in my sight, and I could readily tell the difference. Now the South is beginning to awaken to these facts and the men and women who have cleared the land, ditched the swamps, built the schools and churches can never be paid by money for their services rendered to the generation now living and those who are to live yet.

It is next to a crime to neglect them the way they are being neglected right now. The federal government, I understand, is offering to th state fifteen dollars per person if the state will put up five dollars per person. If that is true, we have lost at least 12 million dollars this year we would have gotten if we had put a little over three million to match it. That would have given every person in the state 65 years old and over, twenty dollars per month and after that, I understand, the federal government puts up dollar per dollar with the state. If that is so then our crime against our old age is worse

In conclusion, let me express my personal views: If the state legislature is unable to find ways and means to raise that money and pass that law to provide this aid they shouldn't wait to be voted out, they should resign and confess that they are inadequate, too dumb and stupid to run the state government and let a new legislature be set up that will be faithful and trustworthy to govern the people who have entrusted and elected them to such a responsible place

My information is limited and if I have misunderstood the above figures I stand ready to be corrected, otherwise what I have said is mild and kindly to what our actions should be.

Practically three-fourths of the people of the state are favorable toward old age pensions and there are numerous ways the money can be gotten. Were the law enacted now to provide twenty dollars per month for all old agers and have an understanding for this fund to increase as means are available, it would not be 12 months by efficient management, until there would be provided enough funds to push it up to fifty dollars per head each month.

An old woman once said that the Bible said, "He that tooteth not his own horn, it shall not be tooted." However, it did not say it, but if you hear my horn "tooting," listen in you will hear something at least and if you can unscramble, scrambled eggs, it may be worth listening at —Rev H. M. Sandlin.

The "Other Guy"

The mysterious "other guy" is every driver's worst enemy.

This was the belief expressed by Jeff B. Wilson, director of the Highway Safety Division of the North Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles, who represents the department in its August campaign boosting "Motor Manners" and the indiviual's responsibility for safe and courteous driving.

"Most motorists consider the 'other guy' as the chief highway menace—never themselves. And yet, with about 500 fatalities a year resulting in North Carolina from improper driving practices and with about three-fourths of all drivers involved in fatal accidents being guilty of some sort of discourtesy, it stands to reason that there's a lot of over-lapping in this matter of the 'other guy,' " Wilson said.

The department during August is stressing the costliness of selfish driving practices and has as its slogan "Mind Your Motor Manners."

Wilson listed the following courtesy tips for motorists:

1. Use hand signals to keep the driver behind you aware of your intentions.

2. Remember that your share of the road is on the right-hand side—not 55 miles per hour down the middle stripe.

3. Yield the right of way when the other fellow has it, and don't insist on fighting for it when someone tries to usurp it from you.

4. Give the pedestrain a break—a human body is no match for 3,000 pounds of steel.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Beware the deadly sitting habit
Or, if you sit, be like a rabbit
Who keepeth ever on the jump
By springs concealed beneath his rump.

A little ginger 'neath the tail
Will for a lack of brains avail.
Eschew the full and slothful seat
And move about with willing feet.

Man was not made to sit in trance
And press and press and press his pants,
But rather with an open mind
To circulate among his kind.

And so, my friends, beware the snare.
That lurks within the cushioned chair.
To run like hell, it has been found.
Both feet must be upon the ground.

—SOUTHERN FIRESIDE

We hear that Arthur Taylor is building a skating rink just below Yieldings Store on Second Avenue. Now if Arthur will just put a second story on that and install some nice bowlings alleys, we will have that recreation center that has been talked of, for so long, hereabouts.

Mr. Hance Alred has purchased the Calloway Drug Company. His son, Callen, will operate with Bob Alred as assistant. Bob has been over at the Alred Drug Store for the passed several years and we are sure that he will be missed there. Mr. Hance says he will be around too, to keep an eye on the "boys' and help them over the "kinks."

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Williams are back from Alaska. They went up in the spring to spend the summer with a son who lives at Anchorage. The trip by automobile took 10½ days. The other day when they returned home they came by air. The trip took twenty hours on a DC-4.

J. E. Bonnett has received another promotion with his company. He has been made a manager and transferred to Alex City, Ala. We're glad Bonnett got the promotion but we sure hated to see him leave Chilton County. In the insurance business we had looked on him as a fixture around here. Oscar Jones, another old timer when it comes to talking insurance, was made superintendent of the local Family Reserve office to replace Mr. Bonnett.

Ke : Edwards, who was injured in an automobile accident south of Clanton early last week was not an employee of Wilbanks Motor Company as stated. He is head of the State Highway Shops at Kilby Prison. His cuts and bruises are healing and he will be back at his state job before too many days.

A man and his little girl were among the passengers in an over-crowded elevator. Suddenly a lady standing in front of the man turned around and slapped him. Before he had a chance to ask why he deserved such treatment, the woman had left in a huff. The little girl, however, innocently explained the whole incident by saying, "I don't like her either, daddy. She stepped on my toe, so I pinched her."

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

WOMAN'S WORK

Everyone has heard the old saying "a woman's work is never done." This is certainly true for Mrs. Housewife. In fact there is a condition known as chronic housewife's fatigue. There are nervous, physical and psychological factors involved in this condition. The routine of monotony, the constant repetition of dull tasks, lack of diversion, and domestic anxiety bring on this unfortunate state; and it is more or less common among housewives between the ages of 30 and 50 years.

Among early symptoms are irritability, intolerance and lack of concentration. These are followed by headache, (which often stops after the last tiresome job of the day is finished), backache, giddiness and sometimes blackouts.

One thing necessary in getting well of chronic housewife's fatigue is rest, although rest may be almost impossible in many instances. And this rest must be both physical and mental. Naturally rest depends on the environment, but where it is possible, a rest of one and a half hours in bed in the afternoon is normally adequate.

A day off once a week or at least once every two weeks is an excellent preventive for housewife's fatigue. In pleasant companionship with friends, anxities tend to dimish or disappear. Taking mother out to dinner once in a while is a wonderful treat and often prevents a breakdown with its accompanying incapacitation. A restful change breaks up the deadly monotony of cooking, cleaning, ironing, washing dishes, and cooking, cleaning, ironing, washing dishes, and cooking.

This condition of housewife's fatigue is preventable with just a little break from the routine so that Mrs. Housewife may have a little fun.

Here's Your Chance, Girls

Young ladies in Chilton County between the ages of 19 and 25 with "looks, poise, personality and background" have been asked to enter the contest to determine Alabama's first Queen of Cotton.

Announcement of the contest was made this week by Walter Randolph, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, who will act as chairman of the Alabama Queen of Cotton Committee. The Farm Bureau Federation and the Alabama State Fair Authority are sponsoring the contest with the finals slated to take place in front of the grandstand at the State Fairgrounds Wednesday night, October 6th—State Fair Week in Alabama.

Information has already been sent to J. Archie Ogburn president of the Chilton County Farm Bureau Federation and the county agent and home demonstration agent who will shape up the committee in this county.

Every county in the state will select a Queen of Cotton and the 67 county winners will compete for the title of Alabama Queen of Cotton.

The winner will be eligible to compete in the Maid of Cotton contest to be held in Memphis, Tenn., January 2-3, 1950. The winner of the national title gets a six months tour around the world and all of the acclaim and glory goes with the national title.

In addition, the Alabama Queen will receive a trip to Memphis with all expenses paid and a $500 cash award to be made by The Birmingham News-Age-Herald.

R. H. "Dick" McIntosh, general manager of the Alabama State Fair, has been named vice-chairman of the Alabama Queen of Cotton contest. A full committee, consisting of a number of Alabamians, interested in the promotion of cotton, will be announced soon.

Why I Pastor Temple Church

I have been asked many times "Why I pastor Temple Church?" The question is not hard to answer. In 1925 we conducted our first revival in Chilton County. From that time we have like the county, and the town of Clanton. In 1935 we became acquainted with the Temple Church congregation. The more we learned about Chilton County, the town of Clanton and the Temple Church, the more we learned to love this part of the state. We served the church from 1936 to 1938 half time, and during that time, the church became strong enough to adopt a full-time program, and to take on a full-time pastor. We were asked to take over the church then for full time, but we did not accept the invitation to become their full-time pastor then. We stepped aside for the church to call a pastor for full time. Then for five years the church had four different pastors, and every time the church would get without a pastor they would give us a call, but every time we refused to consider coming here. It was in 1944 that the church became open again for a pastor, this time we decided to answer the call. We resigned a good church and a lovely congregation in order to take over Temple and move to Clanton.

A. T. HICKMAN

We do not regret moving to Clanton, and accepting the pastorate of the Temple Church; for we believe Temple to be one of the best all-around churches in the State of Alabama. The people are good people. They love and appreciate our ministry, and we love and appreciate our people. We all can sing the precious old song, "Blessed be the tie that binds." For we all feel that cord of love and fellowship and friendship which binds us together.

Not only do we share the love and friendship of Temple Church, but we are very thankful for the many friends we have in Clanton and in the county who are not members of our church. It has been my privilege to minister in several churches in Christian-fellowship meetings, and to minister to the older folks, and the Shut-ins by means of radio, and to write our articles each week in both of our fine county papers. In this way I do minister to a great number of people. As the months and years go by we meet and make more and more friends, and we do love and appreciate every one. So this week we begin our eighth year as pastor of the Temple Church. We praise God for His past blessings and feel sure His blessings will continue as we follow on to know the Lord.

Radio Ramblings

(By JESSE CULP)

Expanded local news coverage now makes it possible for WKLF listeners to keep abreast of local news developments. Each afternoon at 5:45 on "The Final Edition," Bob Taber brings you five minutes of local news stories, in addition to a roundup of world and sports news, in which he is assisted by Paul Reid. One feature of the news cast, is recorded interviews with local personalities which are played back on the program.

Clanton's Jack Hayes and his family were introduced to radio listeners all over the United States week before last, when they were interviwed—in Chicago—on Don McNeil's Breakfast Club program. While in Chicago, Jack was featured on several sport broadcasts on some of the country's larger radio stations, and the family appeared on a television show.

Tag numbers called on "Tag Time" last week were as follows: 14C 714; 14C 211; 14D 443; 14C 1082; and 14B 223.

For stories that your children will enjoy, have them listen to WKLF each afternoon at 5:15 to "Let's Make Believe." And they can enter a contest and try for a beautiful radio which will be given away soon.

Birmingham's new radio station, WEDR, had its formal opening ceremonies last Sunday, with prominent state officials offering congratulations and best wishes. The station is staffed by Negro personnel, and will beam its program entirely to Negro listeners. Another Alabama station went on the air last week. It is WWWF in Fayette. The new Fayette station operates on 990 kc., with 1000 watts daytime power.

That's sign off time for this week. Until next Thursday, so long and good listening.

COLD WEATHER TONIC FOR COWS AND CALVES

J. R. Parrish, A.P.I. Extension dairyman, stresses the fact that salt and bonemeal should be made available now.

He says that if some heifers are on drying pastures, they may need some supplemental feed-silage or hay. This feeding practice will help the animals hold their weight and continue growth.

BUILT UP LITTER

One of the greatest advantages of built up litter is its ability to absorb moisture. This moisture-holding ability improves with age, so it should be well established before cold, wet, winter weather sets in. Litter may be built up by adding new litter gradually, stirring frequently, and adding hydrated lime as needed. Most poultrymen start their litter at six to eight inches in depth

Friends of Mrs. Chester McClain will be pleased to know that she is improving, after a severe heart attack suffered a week or so ago.

Carlson, and Mr. Carlson, of Rockford, Ill., who were en route to Montgomery, Ala., for the wedding of their son, Walter, Jr. Mrs. Carlson is the former Blanche Ekblad who once lived here with her family and who has many friends here who enjoyed seeing her again. Mr. Ekblad reports that his mother is somewhat improved, and we do sincerely hope that she is well on the road to recovery.

My Town—

"My town is the place where my home is founded; where my business is situated and where my vote is cast; where my children are educated; where my neighbors dwell, and where my life is chiefly lived. It is my home spot for me. My town has the right to my civic loyalty. It supports me and I should support it. My town wants my citizenship, not my partisanship; my friendliness, not my dissension; my sympathy, not my criticism; my intelligence, not my indifference. My town supplies me with protection, trade, friends, education, schools, churches and the right to free moral citizenship. It has done things that are better than others, the best things I should seek to make better, the worst things I should help to suppress. Take it all-in-all, it is my town, and it is entitled to the best that is in me.'

PRESSURE CANNER CAN BE DANGEROUS

Auburn, Ala. — For safe canning, Lavada Curtis, A.P.I. Extension Service food preservation specialist, urges homemakers to keep the following safety points in mind:

Pour enough water in canner to come up two inches on the jars. Keep pressure constant by regulating heat under canner. Do not lower pressure by opening pet cock. Keep drafts from blowing on canner. When time is up, slide canner away from heat.

"Never try to hasten the cooling of any type of canner," warns Miss Curtis. "A sudden drop in pressure inside canner will pull liquid from jars, may buckle tin cans, and may cause cracking of enamel or buckling of metal in canner."

She also says not to have a draft in room when opening a pressure canner. Lift cover so that heat and any remaining steam will escape away from your face and arms.

"Always throw a heavy cloth over top of canner to cover basket of jars; then remove from canner and place out of draft," adds the specialist.

HOSPITAL BILL PASSES BOTH HOUSES

Montgomery, Ala. — If the people of Alabama so favor, a six million-dollar hospital program is on its way. This week the House passed the already Senate approved bill providing for a $2,000,000 hospital bond issue.

The people will vote upon the issue three months after the end of the present legislative session. Each county will be able to participate in the program, but no county will be entitled to more than $350,000. The bonds must be repaid within ten years out of the state general fund.

The money will be used for matching federal funds, resulting in a $6,000,000 program, with Alabama putting up one-third of the amount.

KNOW WHEN TO BREED COWS ARTIFICIALLY

Auburn, Ala. — The artificial system of breeding dairy animals can mean extra dollars for Alabama farmers, according to Pete Turham, A.P.I. Extension Service dairy specialist.

He believes that those who are having their cows bred artificially will want to remember the following points since they are very important.

Most dairy cows remain in heat about 18 hours, but some animals may vary several hours either way. Therefore, all cows should be observed closely at all times. The female egg is released from the ovary about 11 hours after the end of heat; so cows should be bred before the egg is released.

"It is not practical to breed cows during the first six hours of heat or after they have been out of heat more than six hours," asserts the specialist. "Best breeding results are obtained when cows are bred during the middle or toward the end of the heat period."

THING TO DO ABOUT NEXT YEAR'S GARDEN

A cover crop of winter legumes planted now on the ground where tomatoes or other vegetables will be planted next spring may mean the difference between a good crop and a poor one.

This is the opinion of John Bagby, A.P.I. Extension Service marketing specialist, who states that most Alabama soils need more organic matter.

He emphasizes the fact that organic matter from winter legumes will help hold moisture in the soil as well as commercial fertilizers applied next spring. In addition, a legume will add much needed nitrogen to the soil.

PROPER REFRIGERATION PROTECTS FOOD VALUE

Studies show that almost one-fourth of the food purchased in this country is wasted through careless buying, storing, or cooking.

To protect wisely bought food, Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist, recommends good refrigeration. It will prevent loss of nutritive value.

She explains that warm temperatures destroy vitamins as well as the fresh, attractive appearance of vegetables and fruits.

WATERFOWL NUMBERS TAKE UPWARD TREND

Auburn, Ala. — Authorities of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service report an encouraging increase in waterfowl. They credit the increase to strict hunting regulations placed on waterfowl shooting the past two years.

Earl F. Kennamer, A.P.I. Extension Service fish and wildlife specialist, says that another note of interest is that mallards made up one-third of all waterfowl wintering in the continental United States this year. Mallards were observed in greatest abundance along the Mississippi.

Following the mallards in number were pintails. Less numerous species observed during the winter were bufflehead, swan, American brant, black brant, and bluewing teal. Increases were noticed in snow goose, black duck, and a few other species.

Windy Sure "Stopped The Show"!

The other night a bunch of us were over at Judge Cunningham's watching a swell vaudeville program on his new television set. It came in fine, but just once, the screen got a little streaky.

Before the Judge could touch the knob to bring it into focus, old Windy Taylor starts fooling around with the antenna connection. "I can fix that!" he says.

Windy fixed it all right. He "stopped the show" for us, and Buzz Ellis had to come over and do a $20 repair job. I understand Windy feels so bad, that he's paying the bill and has apologized to the Judge for acting so smart.

From where I sit, it pays to practice a little restraint whenever we get the urge to meddle. Whether it's television or a person's right to enjoy a temperate glass of sparkling beer now and then—let's get a good clear "picture" of the real situation before we cause more harm than good.

Mr. Redmond said, and I quote: "I always get a pleasure while signing these certificates. It gives me greater pleasure to be here to award these certificates to you in person instead of sending them. I hope you will enjoy wearing these pins as much as I enjoy giving them to you, and as much as I enjoy wearing mine."

He also made interesting comments on the ladies about how young they all looked; however, that didn't include any of the men.

I think it would be interesting to list those people who were awarded these pins and certificates and what each does in the mill.

MEET CONSUMER DEMAND

Alabama needs more dairy cows and laying hens in production during the months of August through January. This can be accomplished on farms in most of the state by adjusting the breeding program, the time of starting baby chicks, and attention to providing home-grown feed — particularly winter grazing.

LARGE TURKEY CROP SEEN FOR STATE

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama turkey raisers are slated to have 20 per cent more turkeys this season than in '48, according to an estimate by the Alabama Co-op Crop Reporting Service.

If the present estimate of 146,000 head holds up, the state will have its largest turkey crop since 1946

According to the co-op service, the nation as a whole is due to produce 29 per cent more birds than last year. Growers in the 48 states are expected to yield some 41,107,000. This would be the second largest turkey crop on record, being exceeded only by 1945 when 44,000,000 were produced.

Last year turkey raisers enjoyed a seller's market, and prices reached the highest peak on record

California is the leading turkey state, but this year Arkansas shows the largest increase in production—121 per cent

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced a program for the support of producer prices of live turkeys at a national average of about 31 cents a pound.

STATE REGISTERS INCOME GAIN

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabamians made more money in 1948 than they did the year before, according to the U. S. Department of Commerce.

An increase of eight per cent was registered in this state last year, bringing the total income figure to $2,585,000,000.

The other southeastern states showed gains with Mississippi coming up with the highest of 12 per cent. Running second was South Carolina with a 11 per cent hike. Alabama and Tennessee tied for third place with 8 per cent each.

The total incomes of the southeastern states jumped from $17,047,000,000 in 1947 to $20,903,000,000 last year.

The average national increase was put at 9 per cent by the Department of Commerce.

Alabama Reduces Forest Acreage Burned In 1948

Washington, D. C. — Alabama was one of 36 states in the Nation to reduce its acreage burned on protected land in 1948 under its average for the period 1944 to 1948 inclusive. Alabama's total acreage burned last year was 205,306 or a reduction of 35,113 acres from the average of 240,419 for the five year period ending in 1948.

This was revealed in a recent survey released by the American Forest Products Industries, a non-profit organization supported by leading lumber, pulp and paper, and plywood industries in the U.S. AFPI's aim is to encourage the best protection, management and utilization of our forests.

The survey, based on latest U. S. Forest Service figures for the Nation, is an eight-page leaflet showing comparative effectiveness of forest protection in all timbered states.

Commenting on the state's forest fire record AFPI forester J. C. McClellan called for intensified forest fire prevention efforts.

"The Keep Green program, active now in 25 states, is a national movement for popular education in forest fire prevention. Backed by our wood-using industries and the public and private agencies, it is a potent movement to awaken public interest in protecting our forests.

"By pointing out what woods fires mean in terms of wages, raw material, profits, taxes and recreational facilities, local Keep Green committees are putting an effective pocketbook punch into the forest fire prevention campaign," McClellan stated.

Real progress is being made in industrial forestry, and a continued cooperation between industry, the public and the woodland owners to keep down forest fires will assure our future timber supply, said McClellan.

To Cash In On Opportunities We Must Improve Our Soil

(By M. R. Glasscock, Co. Agt.)

Chilton County—one of Alabama's prize counties, agriculturally speaking—has its problems as well as its advantages. A long list of these problems might be prepared. From the farmer's viewpoint all farm problems might be boiled down to one major problem, expressed in two words: Inadequate Income!

The main reason that all farm people do not have modern farm homes, adequate farm machinery and equipment, adequate hospital facilities and medical care, and other necessities or conveniences that are considered essentials of an American standard of living is that they simply do not have money to pay for them.

Farm people constitute over 75% of the total population of Chilton County. Also 75% of the customers supporting Chilton County businesses and public institutions are farm people. Therefore, the problems of inadequate farm income effects every business or institution in Chilton County. Alabama's average gross cash income from all crop and livestock sales was only $229.00 per person in 1944. From the $229.00 was deducted the cost of fertilizer, seed, feed, fuel, labor, taxes, and building and equipment upkeep. The 1944—war year—income was not sufficient to provide a desirable standard of living.

The most pronounced cause contributing to farmers relatively low cash income is a lack of something to sell. The shortage of something to sell is chiefly caused by poor soil with resulting low crop yields and the small percent of our total land that is now actually devoted to the production of cash crops. Chilton County farmers are now utilizing only approximately 20% of their crop acres for the production of cash or market crops. The remaining eight out of every ten acres is planted to crops that maintain workstock or other non-marketable farm animals or is allowed to remain idle.

Farmers—in many cases—are now planting about as many acres in cash crops as they can properly cultivate and in many cases more than they can harvest and market. Acreages of cotton and other cash crops may soon be limited by allotments or market quotas.

Chilton County's farm opportunities lie in per acre yield increases and increased use of land for production of cash commodities that are not—in the forseeable future—limited by market quotas or acreage allotments. The keys to realization of these opportunities are soil improvement and the addition of cash earning livestock enterprises on these farm acres not now at work. Good farmers boastingly report that it takes less hours to cultivate an acre of corn that produces 60 bushels than it does to cultivate one that produces only 15 bushels. All farmers know that a cow or a hog grazing a grain or forage crop is at work harvesting that crop.

Hogs can harvest their own feed from the field and fatten themselves for market while farm operators are picking cotton or planting vegetables on another field. Cattle can harvest legumes or grasses from rough acres and convert this rough feed into marketable milk or beef while farm operators are on the market selling peaches, melons or other produce crops. Regardless of the price trends that occur, Chilton County farmers can meet competition in livestock production if they have carefully planned grazing systems. The Midwest and Northern farmers that now establish milk, beef and pork markets must have expensive houses and must hand feed their animals throughout most of the year. Chilton County livestock can harvest their own feed practically every day of the year.

To cash in on our opportunities we must improve our soil. Through soil improvement we can increase per acre production and per acre income of cultivated cash crops. Our most direct and most economical method of crop land improvement is through extensive use of winter legumes. Also, we must devote farm acres not in cultivated crops to livestock production. Our economical methods of livestock production is that of having the animals harvest their own feed. Winter grazing is our most pressing livestock feed need..

None of the above livestock recommendations are intended to imply that cotton, peaches, melons, berries, or other existing cash enterprises should be discarded. By all means—it is recommended that all of this be maintained and if possible increased if additional acres can be economically produced and marketed. Yet it is not within reason to assume that we can devote any appreciable portion of the now non-productive crop land to high-labor-requirement crops. In the event that we could, there is no assurance that a ready market would be available for such additional crops. We can produce milk, beef, or pork and produce it as cheaply as our competitors and markets are at present readily available.

With winter legumes on cultivated fields, with winter grazing on pastures and rough fields, and with Chilton County's entire economy tied to its farms we feel quite safe in saying, "Chilton County will prosper when it's fields are green in winter."

SEWING MACHINE IS A GOOD INVESTMENT

Auburn, Ala. — Any reliable make of sewing machine will give good service if it is understood by user and then given proper care.

Lvice Ellis, A.P.I. Extension Service clothing specialist, points out that a well cared for, smooth running sewing machine—no matter what its age, make, or whether it runs by foot or electric power—can be an asset to any family.

News Article By Judge Parrish

Many of us will remember Henry Grady's quotation, "The South Will Come Into Her Own When Her Fields Are Green In Winter." May we modify the quotation and say, "Chilton County Will Have Another Gold Star In Her Crown When Her Fields Are Green In Winter." I am so happy that in our own beloved Chilton county, many are conscious of this fact and are trying deligently to see many green acres this winter.

I would like to discuss very briefly a few of the facts from a health standpaint:

We are all well aware of the fact that no nation, no community or individual can be happy without health. Still someone would probably ask, "How could green fields aid in community or individual health?" If you will go with me I will endeavor to show you at least a few reasons.

If we do not add the correct minerals (phosphate, potash, lime) we will not have the green fields. When these minerals are added in the form of fertilizer, then we have the major minerals for growth and body maintenance. We not only have the major minerals of calcium and phosphorus, but the minor ones such as manganese, cobalt and numerous other ones. When our fields are green, then we will have abundant grazing for the livestock.

These minerals which are so essential to growth and good health will be taken into the animal body through the green food deposit in the animal body to be given to us as more wholesome milk and meat.

This green food, rich in Vitamins and minerals, will give you a vigorous, healthy animal, save a Veterinary bill on account of under nourished animals, will give you more and better milk, which is the most nearly complete food, will give you steaks and roast, chops and sausage that will not have to have vitamins added.

When our fields are green in winter you that have fish ponds will always have a pool that is clear and clean, (grass is a good water filterer and strainer) that will be a good home for nice healthy fish. A good fish is a choice delicacy and one fit to serve a king.

Last but not least, green fields will stop soil erosion and leave us a happy people, the greatest blessing the Lord could bestow on any people.

CORN MEAL ENRICHMENT

Results of the Alabama corn meal enrichment program have led federal and state agencies of other states to become interstd in expanding the service. The new program will embrace not only corn meal enrichment but improved processing, storing and marketing of corn meal.

Crimson Clover Will Play An Important Role In Making Chilton More Prosperous

SLEEK PRODUCTIVE JERSEY CATTLE HARVESTING CRIMSON CLOVER IN MID-WINTER

[illegible] of [illegible] and [illegible]:

[illegible] in any [illegible] following ways.

1. [illegible] grazing [illegible]

2. In combination with ryegrass as a grazing crop

3. In combination with Kudzu or Sericea as a grazing crop

4. As a cash crop for seed production

5. As a soil improving crop to be turned in early spring

Chilton County farmers annually send aproximately $30,000.00 out of the state for legume seed. Home grown crimson clover seed could replace every pound of vetch and other imported winter legume seed

CRIMSON CLOVER PLANTING RECOMMENDATIONS

Land Preparation and Seeding

Land that is to be planted to crimson clover should be thoroughly prepared by breaking and discing. Weeds and grass should be kept down by discing until seeding in August or September when soil moisture conditions are right. Where crimson clover is seeded on sericea and kudzu, seedings should be made about frost. All crimson clover seed should be double innoculated. Seeding should be made at the rate of 20 lbs. per acre when crimson clover is seeded alone. Where seedings are made on oats, kudzu, or sericea, a lighter seeding rate of 10-15 pounds may be used.

Fertilization:

Poor, eroded land produces very poor results when seeded to crimson clover. Land selected for clover should be land that would produce decent yields of cotton and corn. In advance of planting 600-800 pounds of 0-14-10, 15 lb. Boren and two tons of lime should be applied and worked into the soil. Crimson clover, being a legume, does not require applications of nitrate

Use and Precautions:

Crimson clover may be grazed from early winter until spring. Cattle should be removed when seed heads start maturing

It is possible that crimson clover may cause bloat. However, cases of bloat are rare if a few precautions are followed. Animals should not be turned on crimson clover for the first time and allowed to remain

When crimson clover is planted for seed, companion crop should not be planted as it is difficult to combine.

It is sincerely hoped that we will not have a farm in Chilton County without at least one green field of crimson clover this winter.

VETCH

By R. H. Kirkpatrick

More crop acres will be devoted to vetch this year than to any other winter legume. While vetch, particularly Willamette, may be grazed, it is planted primarily for a winter cover crop. Vetch offers farmers the most economical way of supplying nitrate for row crops. In addition, vetch increases the water holding capacity of the soil, retards weed and grass growth, and makes land easier to work.

Either hairy, common or willamette (a cold resistant strain of common vetch) will produce good results if properly handled. Willamette and common seem to be a little earler than hairy and seem to have some advantage as a grazing crop.

However regardless of variety, vetch failures are rare if a few simple rules are followed. Poor or inadequate applications of fertilizer, late planting and insufficient quantities of seed per acre are the major reasons for failure.

The time of planting vetch is very important. Those who plant vetch in November or December can expect poor results. Money invested in seed to be planted this late is wasted regardless of the price of seed. For best results vetch should be planted by October 15.

Money invested in fertilizer when used under vetch is a sound investment. Vetch without mineral fertilizer (phosphate and potash) may prove to be dis-appointment. On line land, 0-14-10 applied at the rate of 500-600 pounds per acre will produce excellent results.

Light or skimpy seeding rates may save money at planting time but will probably prove to be expensive in the end. Hairy vetch should be seeded at the rates of 30-40 lb. per acre. Larger seeded willamette and common should be seed at the rate of 60 lb. per acre. Seed may be broadcast or drilled; however, drilling is the more desirable method.

Innoculation is a must in planting vetch. Seed should be innoculated with vetch innoculation just before planting. Unless nitrogen fixing bacteria are present few plants survive.

Regardless of the number of new legumes that are rapidly coming to the front, vetch still remains the old, reliable stand-by. With the government assistance that is being offered farmers in purchasing fertilizer and vetch this winter, vetch makes greener winter fields and the greener the fields, the greater the prosperity.

Winter Cover, Grazing Good Farm Planning

By Olin G. Fields

Based upon land capabilities of the Soil Cinservation Service all our agricultural land in Chilton county should be under the green cover of grass or a legume. The different classes call for a different number of years that this grass or legume should occupy the land. For example, class 1 land can be cultivated continuously with the proper care. Class 2 land should be in a grass or legume, or a combination of the two, every other year. Class 3 land should have the above crops two years out of three. Class 4 land requires perennial vegitation and infrequent cultivation. At least three years of perennial grass or legume and one year row-crop.

The class 3 land is the land that is challenging the framers and agricultural workers. This class is where most of our cotton and corn is grown; consequently it is the land that is eroding and becoming potently poorer by the year.

To maintain and improve land should be the goal of every good farmer. Land must be given a rotation with more thick growing crops.

The ideal rotation for such land would be a four year rotation of small grain, kobe lespedeza, two successive years; corn or cotton. The next best would be a reseeding legume such as caley peas, manganese bur clover, reseeding crimson clover, button clover, subtranion clover or some other hard seed legume well lined and fertilized and allowed to make a seed crop followed by grain sorghum the next year, corn or cotton.

To apply the correct rotation or the crop best suited to the land, almost always calls for some form of livestock. In addition to the livestock the soil becomes better and a larger net income is possible.

Both winter and summer cover (close growing) crops are a must to improve the soil.

This article is being written only as a means of getting more green fields in Chilton county this winter and others to come. This does not imply that the specialized crops as the berries, peaches, and truck crops should not be grown. Soil conservation can be applied to the specialized crops.

SCREW WORMS IN HOGS

Screw worms can be controlled, but it is absolutely necessary that hog raisers check their hogs every day for breaks in the skin where the eggs may be laid and the worms developed.

Add a different flavor to potato salad by marinating the chopped onions in lemon juice for an hour before mixing with the other ingredients.

Definite Formula Developed By Extension Folk to guarantee success in output of Hogs

In the first chapter of Genesis we find that God, after creating the heavens and the earth, and waters said, "Let the earth bring forth grass."

From that day to this, grass has been important to the progress of the human family. Livestock has converted green grazing into food for human beings.

Somehow, many farmers who raise hogs don't need green grazing. Perhaps this is due to the fact that a hog is a versatile animal; even under adverse conditions hogs will convert feed into human food..

The A P I Agricultural Experiment Station has worked out a system of growing hogs that offers a new source of income to many farmers. Let me emphasize the fact that it is a system. A definite plan must be followed. Under this system, or plan, the Experiment Station does away with the old method, all too often followed, of raising hogs in the horse lot, or the cowpen, or in a floored pen.

The new system is tied to three kind of production. These three are (1) raise grain feed; (2) raise green grazing; and (3) raise pigs. It is believed that the sucessful hog raiser of the future- the farmer who makes good money growing hogs for tre market- must raise these three on his farm.

In this section of the state, these 3 "musts" of a good hog program are naturals. The corn yields are high; year-round green grazing crops are easily grown; and pigs can be produced thru which grain and grazing can be turned into cash to a good advantage.

Green grazing is absolutely necessary for economical pork production. Just as vegetables are necessary for good health in human beings, so is green grazing necessary for good health in hogs. You rarely ever see sick hogs where green grazing is plentiful from the time the little pigs have access to it until they go on the market as top hogs.

By G. B. Phillips
A.P.I. Extension Specialist In Animal Industry

* * *

And then green grazing is important in a good hog program because it saves grain feed. Under average conditions, pigs in the dry lot will require 12 bushels of corn alone to make 100 pounds of gain. But give these pigs access to good legume grazing and six to seven bushels of corn will make the same amount of pork. And this good tender green grazing willl replace about one-half of the protein supplement needed for the most economical rates of gain.

To say it another way, in one Experiment Station report one lot of pigs getting shelled corn, self fed, with protein supplement, free choice, gained 78 pounds. Another lot of pigs in the same experiment gained 83 pounds when self fed corn and legumes grazing. The third lot of pigs, getting corn, supplement, and green grazing, gained 135 pounds in the same period. So, a balanced ration of grain, green grazing, and supplement is important in a good pork production program.

This story would be incomplete without stressing the importance of green grazing in the ration of the breed sow. A sow's business is to raise big litters of big pigs. It is known now that the right time to begin feeding little pigs is about four months before they are born. And one of the things that must be done to insure big litters of big pigs is to furnish the old sow plenty of green grazing during the gestation period. In fact, one of the surest ways to raise small litters of sorry pigs is to keep the sow in a dry lot without green grazing.

One of the fine things about hog raising is that hogs are not choicy about the kind of green grazing required. They will graze and do well on most any kind grown in Chilton County. Alfalfa, of course, is the king of them all; crimson clover is excellent. White Dutch clover is very good. When oats are tender and succulent, they are almost as good for hogs as alfalfa. Mixtures of crimson clover and the small grains are fine.

From all the green grazing crops that grow so well -with proper management in Chilton County- hog raisers can select those best adopted to their particular farm and cropping system. The main thing is to grow green grazing and give pigs a chance to make hogs of themselves.

AUSTRIAN PEAS

Austrian Winter Peas will no longer grow on many farms in Chilton County. This is particularlly true on farms that have been planted to peas for several years in succession. Because of a disease in the soil, peas grow only a few inches high, turn yellow and die. There is no practical control for this disease and farmers must turn to vetch if good winter cover crops are to be grown.

Any land that peas have failed to grow well on in the past several years should be planted to vetch. New land or land that has not been planted to peas for five to seven years may be planted to Austrian peas and good results can be expected. The cost of seeding vetch may be slightly higher than that of Austrian peas. However, if a good growth of peas cannot be grown it is an expensive practice. If in doubt as to whether peas will grow on a particular field play safe by planting vetch. Chilton County needs greener fields in winter - peas may not be able to do this job.

FEEDING CALF

A calf gets the right food formula at birth: however, it's up to the dairyman to continue a good feed program such as providing the right amounts of concentrates, roughage and plenty of green grazing.

Among the many uses of sugar bags are oprons, children's sunsuits, luncheon sets, quilt lining and garment cases.

Asleep At The Switch

How long are the ones responsible, going to sleep while our school system suffers?

The inadequate conditions of our schools is not a local one, it seems to be of national scope. Yet, nothing is being done to ease the situation.

Our State Legislators are crying: "cut, cut, cut," when they should be doing something about raising more money for education. It is true education has made great strides in recent years, but not enough. If sufficient funds had been appropriated the crowded conditions would not exist.

It seems to us that just a little common sense would teach us that school appropriations could not be made the same each year—much less cut. Not with the increase in population that we have in America.

In the United States more than 800,000 children entered school this year for the first time. How can those youngsters be taken care of adequately without money appropriated for their use. It means that money already appropriated for the use of other children will have to be devided again. It has just about been devided and streached until it can't be streached anymore.

Our trouble can be dumped into the lap of ctate and national officials who have been asleep at the switch. They wouldn't have to look very long to know that something has to be done for our growing school population

The crowded conditions in Chilton County are no different from other localities it seems. Buildings that were constructed many years ago to accomodate half the present enrollment still in use with little, if any, additions or improvements. That seems to be the conditions almost everywhere.

Something must be done. The responsibility rests with our elected officials.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Well, this is our "Green Edition" we mentioned the other week. It's being sponsored by the Farm Agents Office and the Chilton County merchants. As you can see it's for the purpose of encouraging green fields in winter in Chilton County. Red Glasstock and his assistants have put in some hard work to make these editions possible. Yours truly and our contemporary Gene Wyatt have also gone to quite an expense and much extra work to accomplish this end. We hope we get the idea over, and accomplish the desired results.

Dewey Rockett is fast completing the new building he is constructing behind Clanton Building Supply Company. It's going up at a time when new store buildings are in demand and won't stay vacant. Clanton's building's can't keep up with her growth.

Speaking of growing, have you spent any time in or around Maplesville recently. If you haven't, you get in your automobile and drive over there and make them a visit. They are surely to be congratulated on their little town, their civic pride and their untiring efforts. Their hard work has borne fruit. Maplesville has grown into a hustling business center because the businessmen are pulling together and all working toward the same goal.

One whale of a crowd turned out to see the Rebel Motorcycle Races at the City Park last week. Most everybody was satisfied, it seems, and enjoyed the evening of contests. Many visitors were here from Montgomery, Selma, and Birmingham Clubs. We want to thank the local boys for the complimentary passes given the "press," they were appreciated.

Guess you heard about the old maid who hadn't swept under her bed since she learned that "man sprang from the dust.".

A man whose ship comes in usually finds most of his relatives at the dock. —Saturday Eve. Post.

A honeymoon is the vacation a man takes before going to work for a new boss.

One of the fellows taking the civil service examination for rural mail carrier was asked the question how far it was to the sun. Without even trying to finish the examination he exclaimed: "If they're going to put me on that route, I'm resigning before I begin."

Pretty flock of white chickens that A. D. Scott has got running around in his front yard. It's a hen and her beedies and they're probably the least trouble of any chickens we know of. To our knowledge they have been standing right there in his yard for several weeks without food, water, or even doing the usual messy things that chickens do. Think he told us his daughter got them in Montgomery or somewhere. Wouldn't advise getting any of the breed though, we understand they are kinda tough, even when cooked a long time.

Work coming right along on the new armory. Still grading etc., but at least moving. Can't say the same for the promised parking lot on the county property next to county jail. That project has really moved slow. We are quite sure that Mr. Brown, our able head of the City Street Department, would tell us he isn't twins, and can only be one place at a time, and we would have to agree with him. He's been busy as a bee all the time. But, that project is sure moving slow, isn't it?

Jim Parrish, the insurance man, wants to know if we are trying to keep his trip to Washington a secret! Jim took off from fox hunting long enough to go up there to tell his boy goodbye who is leaving, or has left, for Hawii. He will be stationed there. We mean his boy, not Jim. Jim is back in Clanton and reports a fine trip and a wonderful time.

Feeling a good fight coming on, a guy with a glass eye took out the eye and put it in his mouth for safety, with the result that no sooner had somebody made a good swipe at him than he swallowed it. His friends rushed him to the nearest medico. Since he was clutching his stomach, the doctor made that the first point of examination, and shoved a long instrument with a light on the end down the patient's gullet. Suddenly, the doctor passed out cold. When they revived him he seemed worse off than the patient. "Good grief," he exclaimed, "I've looked into thousands of stomachs in my time— but that's the first one that ever looked back at me."

FOLLOWING CHRIST

Jesus said, "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me." (Matt. 16;24) In order for any one to follow Jesus he must deny himself, not his neighbors nor his friends, but deny himself; and then take up his cross, whatever the cross might be, and follow Christ. The rich young ruler came to Jesus and said, "Good Master, what good thing shall I do that I may have eternal life?" Jesus said unto him, "If thou wilt be perfect, go and sell that thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven, and come and follow me." The selling of what the young man had would not have given him eternal life, nor giving to the poor would not have given him eternal life, but following Jesus was the secret of his salvation. To follow Jesus Christ today is the very basis of our soul salvation. If we follow him, we shall not walk in darkness, but we shall have the light of life. Jesus is the Light of the world, and where he leads me, I will follow, I will go with him all the way.

A. T. HICKMAN

We are to follow in the path of Holy living; for even hereunto were ye called, because Christ also suffered for us leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps: Who did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth. In this evil age of which we live; every person who names the name of Christ, should take time to live holy. Of course, we cannot live a holy life without his holiness and divine nature within our hearts, but this is possible. Add to your faith, virtue, and thus be a partaker of his divine nature, and follow Christ in the paths of righteousness for his own namesake.

We are to follow Christ in the path of obedience. Jesus said that he had not come to do his own will, but the will of Him that sent Him, which was the will of His Heavenly Father. We should have no will of our own, but to do the will of our Saviour. Though Jesus was the Son of God, yet he learned obedience by the things he suffered. It may cost us some suffering to follow Christ in the path of obedience, but obedience is better than sacrifice. And too, we are to follow Christ in the path of humility. Humble thy self to walk with God. (This is a summary of our text and sermon at the Temple Church last Sunday night.)

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

PERSONAL CLEANLINESS

Cleanliness and good personal hygiene are within the reach of everyone. There is no substitute for the daily bath and the use of plenty of soap to rid the skin of dirt and odors Waste materials are given off from sweat glands and the skin harbors germs which thrive on dirt. As billions of new cells are produced daily in the lower layers of skin, billions in the superficial or top layer, called the cuticle, become detached in the form of a dry scale. This dead material must be removed to permit the effective functioning of the skin.

Just stepping into a tub of water is not enough. The skin should be rubbed vigorously with soap and particular attention paid to those parts of the body having folds of skin. Special attention should be paid to the feet and skin between the toes. The daily bath should be a habit, for nothing is so unpleasant as body odor.

Good personal hygiene includes frequent washing of the hands, particularly before and after meals, and the removal of dirt accumulations beneath the nails. The hair should be washed regularly and brushed daily to keep it free from dust and oil.

Clothing should be changed daily whenever possible, particularly clothing worn close to the skin. The fabrics hold odors; so clothes should be cleaned and washed frequently.

Good personal hygiene is largely a matter of training and should be instilled in the very young child. An early understanding and appreciation for the small details in cleanliness will foster the development of sound principles in hygiene in later years. Certainly it will obviate the growth into habits of carelessness and slovenliness.

The following letter from Euell Hilyer who is at present in Seattle, Wash., proved quite interesting to us, and we are sure that it will be of interest to our readers, so ye are pleased to pass it on to you:

Dear Mr. Ogburn:

Just a line to let you know how Alabama stands out in this part of the country, and especially Chilton County and Thorsby. On the way out here we stopped several times and most of the places, when they learned that I was from Alabama, they wanted to know how Chilton County was doing with their peaches this year. They would want to know if they had a good year, etc. I asked several how they knew so much about the peaches there, and they say "through the papers and traveling through there one time or another." Some had seen in the papers where the President had received a basket of peaches from Chilton County. I just thought it was a grand thing for people out here 3,400 miles away, to ask about your home county, all because of the peaches we grow there. I thought you might like to know this, so I decided to write and tell you.

Yours Truly,
Euell Hilyer

Something To Think About

MONOPOLY, MONOPOLIST, MONOPOLIZER

Monopoly means the exclusive sale of something by a person or a company. Monopolist or Monopolizer means one who monopolizes on something. It is some one who is able to possess a controlling interest in something. It is an American legal process and custom and can be exercised by any one who is able to either buy or possess this right by inheritance and the power of a monopolist can only be controlled by legislature or legislation. Many times the unreasonableness of a monopolist have to be checked so other people can enjoy rights that belong to them. Here is a simple illustration: A big dog can take a bone away frow a little dog, and mind the bone and starve the little dog to death; He is able to control and guard that bone and to get it away from him something stronger than that big dog has to intervene. When you start speaking about the power of monopoly right straight people think you are trying to incite or stir up hatred against the rich. Rich people are not bad to have in the country but when they use the power of riches to oppress the poor there should be an investigation made and they should be checked. Most anybody will go just as far as they are allowed to go making money and the more they make the more they want to make. Something has to check them or soon they will control so much until they become oppressive and wicked toward the poor and laboring class. We call their power "cornering" on a thing. One "corners" on grain, one on iron, one on gasoline or oil, and one on meat. Then they guard what they think to be their right and by bribe and political pressure, control our law making bodies, until our legal processes become unbearable, as one side gets richer and the other side gets poorer and poorer. The South has been greatly tied up by the northern monopolist and swindled by those who are able to manuver in that field. I have known men who little by little accumulated until they could control almost every foot of land in whole counties and you could not buy a piece of land nor hardly anything else they did not have a mortgage on and when tight times come they get "panicky' and the people get discouraged and being honest and wanting to pay their debts and live, the poor threw up their hands and sell themselves as the Jews did to Pharoah. These people lose their ambition and become slovern and labor for mere existance. When a man knows he is not going to receive a decent wage for a days work he doesn't care whether he does an honest day's work or not. There is very little laziness and sloverness when times are good and wages fair.

* * *

This has been the process in the South ever since the Civil War and our law making bodies have favored the thing and when Jim Folsom came out against it and in favor of good roads and old age pensions I threw up my hat and said this is the first time Alabama has had a chance or a break. Big Jim is the Bill Murrah of Oklahoma, Huey Long of Louisiana and the Bilbo of Mississippi and if you laboring people, poor, and old age are against him you are misinformed by the influence of the Monopolist and will lose the chance of your life if you let him down. There are two ways this evil work has to be broken up by sound political reforms and information or by a shooting war, and let us remember right now America is the worst hated nation in the world and if we do not act wisely and keep the confidence of our own people there is a great liklihood that they will ignorantly sell themselves to Communism or some other promising agency and a war will be inevitable. The South needs a civil revolution and a reform that will make every citizen feel proud to be a southerner. We can lay a pattern to the world of charity and christian example if we will. If we do not there will remain discontent, stealing and crime worse and worse. A good slogan is "Live and let live."

NEW WEALTH FROM SOILS

Can Black-Draught Help That Dull, Dopey Feeling?

Yes, Black-Draught may help that dull, dopey feeling if the only reason you feel that way is because of constipation. Black-Draught, the friendly laxative, is usually prompt and thorough when taken as directed. It costs only a penny or less a dose. That's why it has been a best-seller with four generations. If you are troubled with such symptoms as loss of appetite, headache, upset stomach, flatulence, physical fatigue, sleeplessness, mental haziness, bad breath — and if these symptoms are due only to constipation — then see what Black-Draught may do for you. COTTON CLASSING CARDS IMPORTANT

Auburn, Ala. — Every cotton improvement association in the state made application for free government classing service under the Smith-Doxey Act. All applications were received on time and approved by the State Review Committee.

"Farmers who are members of these associations should insist that ginners or warehousemen send samples from every bale of their cotton to the government classing office," advises O. N. Andrews, A.P.I. Extension Service cotton improvement specialist. A few days after samples are sent to the classing office in Montgomery or Birmingham, farmers will receive green cards in the mail showing grade, staple and gin preparation.

The specialist urges farmers to use these cards when marketing cotton and remember that government lending agencies will accept the classing cards when making government loans.

CLANTON SHOE SHOP

YELLOW FRONT STORE

OPEN Wed. Afternoons

At this season of the year, many farmers are quite busy with their fall work and especially picking cotton. It does not make "Mr. Farmer" feel too good to bring his cotton to town on Wednesday afternoons and be deprived of shopping privileges. He is entitled to this consideration.

If our officials permit the Yellow Front Store in Clanton to close one afternoon a week, ..during the fall and winter months, then to be consistent, it could not object to all it's stores closing, if they so desire. and to close our forty stores one-half day each week. or one-twelth of the time, would mean that our present trucking equipment could not deliver the merchandise to our stores, located in twenty counties. It would also mean that some fifty or sixty employees in our warehouses would find difficulty in keeping busy the afternoons when the stores were closed; and last, but by no means least, the company would suffer tremendously from the standpoint of volume, hence such might produce the necessity of raising prices or cutting salaries: . . . Neither of which we propose doing.

Sumter Farm & Stock Company is an Alabama corporation; it operates Yellow Front Stores only in Alabama. It is vitally interested in it's employees and continuously doing good things for them, and we believe that we can offer them more in the way of bonuses, salaries, group insurance, hospitalization and economic security, by selling more merchandise, and that means six days a week will do it and at the same time, not one of it's many employees have offered a dissenting opinion. If our employees do not object, why should others?

WHY?

Our desire is to give service to our many customers: they are entitled to service six days per week.

Most of our customers are working people. They work six days a week. Our employees are hired for six days a week. . .They are paid accordingly. Why close one afternoon per week and jeopardize bonuses and inconvenience our customers?

Who keeps us in business?
Who benefits by closing Wednesdays?
Who wants to close?

The war days are over. It is time to get down to business. The "Victory Gardens" was an excuse at one time; there is no legitimate excuse today. It is necessary to work for business and the Yellow Front is at your service. We appreciate your business.

We invite the public to check all similar size towns, or larger, of a progressive nature, in the state of Alabama and to see if such towns are advocating closing one-half day per week at this season of the year. During the hot-mid-summer months, we do not so seriously object to the closing of our stores for the convenience of the personnel; but we give vacations to our older employees and they don't want to be off one-twelth of the time, the year round. As a matter of fact, they object to closing!

We hold no animosity toward any man. We are not trying to run the other man's business. We have all we can do to look after our own. We do not object to other businesses closing on Wednesday afternoons, if they so desire. We see no reason why others should criticize us, if our stores think best to stay open on Wednesdays.

The Yellow Front Store is a part of Clanton and Chilton County. It is an institution of service. It is ready to cooperate at all times with any worthy movement; but we maintain the closing of all businesses in Clanton on Wednesday afternoons, is not a movement for the good of the general public, or the welfare of the community. Such movement has a tendency to discourage Clanton as a trading center. People in border-line communities will go to towns where better services are offered, therefore, we sincerely believe to close our store on Wednesday afternoons at Clanton, would discourage rather than encourage the growth of Clanton.

GET READY FOR PEACH AND PLUM TREE BORERS

Auburn, Ala. — The mass of gum seen around the base of many untreated peach and plum trees in early spring is the result of peach tree borers. They begin their attack in late summer or early fall and feed under the bark all winter.

To control this damage, J. C. Ford, A.P.I. Extension Service orchard specialist, recommends that peach and plum trees be treated in October. He says that now is a good time to buy the material so it will be on hand when needed.

"If borers are not controlled, they may kill or severely injure trees before spring," reveals Ford. "There are several good remedies for borers, and those interested in detailed information on controlling them are urged to see the local county agent."

DAIRYMEN CAN BUILD UP HERD PRODUCTION

When bulls transmit better production characteristics to their daughters than brood cows, milk production goes up.

"Since bulls are so important," says Pete Turnham, A.P.I. Extension Service dairy specialist, "records should be checked thoroughly before bulls are selected for artificial breeding purposes."

He discloses that this is exactly what was done when bulls were chosen for use at the Auburn bull stud.

Turnham declares that farmers can build up herd production by breeding cows artificially to the outstanding bulls in use at Auburn. Membership in an artificial breeding association is all that is necessary.

Before adding the batter, drop a teaspoon of peanut butter in each muffin pan to give muffins a delicious nutty flavor.

Chilton County Council Hostess To A. F. W. C.

Clanton is indeed fortunate to be the hostess city to the Fifth District of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs, which will convene in Clanton for its Fall meeting Tuesday, September 27th, with the Chilton County Council as hostess.

Chilton County has two Federated Clubs, the Quest Club of Jemison, with Miss Mary Clements as President, and the Clanton Study Club, with Mrs. F. N. Scott as President.

Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m. at the First Baptist Church, which will be headquarters for the meeting, and will be called to order promptly at 10:00 a.m.

Mrs. H. L. Golden of Tallassee, Ala., Director of the Fifth District, will preside over the business sessions. In addition to Mrs. Golden, other honored guests will be our State President, Miss May Kyser, of Minter, Ala., and State, District and Club officers. It is a source of great pride to have our State President, Miss Kyser, as our special guest at this time. Her message of inspiration is anticipated with deep interest.

The Fifth District comprises some sixty clubs, and as hostess city on this occasion, Clanton, through the Club Women of the County Council, is planning an interesting and entertaining day. The delegates and guests will be thrice welcomed, with the address of welcome from the County Council given by Mrs. F. N. Scott. Hon. C. F. Jones, Mayor, will welcome them to our City, and Hon. Omar L. Reynolds will give a welcome in behalf of the business and professional men of Clanton.

Luncheon will be served at one o'clock.

The following committees under the direction of the County Council are busy with plans for a most successful day:

General Chairman, Mrs. Omar L. Reynolds.

Thomas David (Turkey) Boman died in a Mobile rest home Tuesday, Sept. 13, 1949, at 1:30.

A baseball and football star at the University of Alabama, Boman showed major league promise while playing with Little Rock shortly before World War I. His professional career was cut short by war injuries. He had lived in Mobile, Ala. the past 6 years and was employed as a staff field representative of the U.S. Employment Service, working with veterans. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John J. Boman, pioneers of Cleburne County, he was a veteran of World War I and for awhile after graduation from college coached high school athletics. While serving in this capacity he met and later married a student of B.C.H.S., Miss Ruth Hicks of Lawley, Ala. This marriage ended in divorce in 1932. She survives him and is living at this time in Stanton, Ala., with her mother.

At the request of friends, services were held in Mobile Tuesday. The body was sent to Heflin, Ala., and arrived there at 4 p.m. Wednesday. His body lay in state at the Brown-Service parlors until the funeral at the Methodist Church at 2 p.m. Thursday. Interment in the Heflin Cemetery.

He is survived by two sisters: Mrs. Steve Noble and Mrs. Roy Turner of Heflin, Ala. and several neices and nephews.

Verbena High Scores Victory In Dedication Of New Lights

Friday, September 16th, marked a gala day in the history of Verbena High School. The athletic field, for which the student body and the Verbena Recreation Association has worked so hard for the past year, was presented to the school in an impressive ceremony, immediately preceding the first game of the season.

Mr. A. B. Stanley, as master of ceremonies, presided at the loud speaker and introduced Mrs. T. B. DeRamus as president of the association, who spoke briefly. Mr. H. G. Daniel, principal, introduced Hon. Howard Boockkholdt as the main speaker of the evening. Mr. Boockholdt spoke on the importance of athletics in high schools, stressing sportsmanship in parents, as well as in students.

Music for the occasion was furnished by the Draper Band and added greatly to the evening's festivities. Verbena is to be congratulated on this fine lighted field and is justly proud of the fact that necessary funds were collected and the field completed in less than a year.

Verbena tallied twice in the second period and once in the third to edge Jemison High School 18-14. Jemison scored in the first and last quarters.

Messer, Sandlin, Robinson and Calloway were Verbena's backfield standouts. Cost, Busby and Almarad ran offensive for Jemison.

TREAT FAMILY TO AN OUTDOOR CORN DISH

Fried corn with onions and green pepper—served sizzling hot from the campfire—brings color and zest to fall picnic plates.

"Serve it with franks or hamburgers for a hearty out-of-door treat," suggests Mary Hulsey, A.P.I. Extension Service nutritionist.

She explains that the dish saves labor in hot kitchen.

Just chop the onions and green peppers at home and carry them to the picnic in a covered jar. The canned [illegible] and other ingredients can go along in the picnic basket.

Green Fields In County Means More Dollars

P. O. DAVIS

It is said that "The South would come into its own when its fields are green in winter." We might change this and say "Chilton County will come into its own when its fields are green this winter."

Chilton County farmers have already come into their own, but, of course, more green fields will extend them further into their own.

This statement about green fileds raises a question: Why are green fields in winter so important? The answer:

1. Green crops in winter protect and improve the land.
2. Green crops in winter produce grazing for animals.
3. Green crops in winter are a step to more grain and other feed in the spring and summer that follow.
4. Green crops add wonderfully to the beauty of the landscape. They make the owner, and everybody that sees them, feel proud.

Underneath these facts is the basic truth that wealth is created by work. Land that is growing any crop at any time is a work in the sense that it is producing. It is not loafing and wasting away.

There is also the fact that animals which are grazing are at work, too, in the sense that they are harvesting their own feed instead of depending upon their owner to harvest it for them and feed them.

When I study the work of the Sand Mountain Substation at Crossville in connection with feed crops and livestock, I become thrilled over the opportunities it offers to farmers in Chilton and other counties. Space here permits mention of only one example of the Sand Mountain Substation's work. It is with corn and grazing and hogs.

It shows that Sand Mountain farmers can produce a big yield of corn per acre. Also, it shows that their hogs can convert this corn into pork in a way to make a big increase in farm income over what it would be if corn alone were sold.

The exact gain varies, of course, with prices. At present prices, a hog on good grazing would take a dollar's worth of corn and convert into two dollars worth of pork.

But two dollars for one isn't the only gain. Hogs harvest the corn and this saves labor for the owner. To produce this high return, they must have good grazing in the form of alfalfa or some other good grazing crop; and this enriches the land.

Chilton farmers are near the top in truck crop production. By doing as well with corn and grazing crops for hogs, they'll have a wonderful combination. And they don't need to stop with hogs. Dairying and poultry are other big opportunities.

County Agent M. R. Glasscock has told me of his keen desire to see a carpet of green over the fields of Chilton County next fall and winter. Farmers and others share this feeling with him; they're working together for it.

It is a great ambition. It will mean many more dollars to their income this year. It will mean many more dollars to their income this year. It will give them also, as just mentioned richer land which is very important.

I join heartily with Mr. Glasscock and farmers of Chilton County in their program of green cover for winter. It means better farming and richer living. I'm looking forward to a trip over Chilton next winter to see your green fields surrounding pretty farm houses.—P. O. Davis.

FESCUE GRASS

By R. H. Kirkpatrick

Fescue grass is among the newer plants that have been recently introduced. While it is no miracle plant or winter pasture cure-all, it does show promise.

Fescue, a perennial grass that lends itself well to most soils. Due to the fact that it will grow on wetter land than most plants, it may have a very definite place in a pasture program on many Chilton county farms.

It is advisable to plant fescue on stricly trial basis. To give fescue a fair trial experiment recomemndations should be followed as closely as possible. Fescue should be planted October 1 on well prepared land.

Seeding should be made at the rate of 10-15 pounds per acre either drilled or broadcast. The rate of fertilizer used is probably the greatest single factor that affects the success of fescue. Eight hundred to 1,000 pounds of 0-14-10 per acre should be applied with an aplication of 150-200 paunds of nitrate per acre as soon as plants start growth. Fescue will make exceptional growth provided it is well fertilized.

Fescue probably has it's greatest advantage in that is shows promise of grawing well as a companion crop with ladino clover and possibly with lespedeza sericea. Fescue and ladino may be seeded together with ladino being seeded at the rate of 2 pounds per acre. Fescue should be planted first and covered to not more than an inch. Ladino can then be planted and covered lightly with a section harrow or weeder.

Fescue grass may soon be added to the list of proved perennial and reseeding plants that can be relied upon to keep Chilton green in winter.

Rotation With Legume Pays Cash Dividends

The most economical cotton and corn that can be produced in this area is in a two year rotation of cotton, winter legumes in the cotton middles, followed by corn. This rotation lends itself to practically every farm in Chilton coun[illegible]

BUTTON CLOVER

By R. H. Kirkpatrick

Button clover, another of the newer reseeders, has been planted quite successfully in North Alabama. While it remains to be seen just how well but[illegible] will do in Chilton County [illegible] ise of being another [illegible] t can be added to the growing list of reliable reseeders.

[illegible] ponds [illegible] phate and potash. But[illegible] not recommended for [illegible] d seed may be wasted [illegible] ggestion is followed. [illegible] should be planted [illegible] good land that has been well prepared. Land should be limed, and fertilized at the rate of 600-800 pounds of 0-14-10 or the equivalent of slag. Seed button clover on a firm seed bed at the rate of 20 pounds per acre. In addition 1½ to 2½ bushels of oats should be planted as companion crop.

Button clover gives grazing longer in the spring than crimson clover and seed of button does not have to be harvested at maturity. Button clover reported to be an excellent grazer and a very free seeder. After allowing button to go to seed it will volunteer two to three years without allowing a crop to seed.

While button clover shows promise of being another crop that will keep Chilton's fields green in winter it is still a new, untried plant. For this reason farmers who plan to plant button clover should follow recommended practi[illegible] closely and plant it on [illegible]

CLANTON, ALABAMA THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

YOUR HOBBY

The compulsory retirement plans of industry today pose a [illegible] lions of people reaching older age. Many of these persons face a rather empty future, for it is difficult to stop suddenly the mental and physical machinery that has been geared to business competiton. Wise is the person who foresees this inactivity by preparing himself with a hobby

Preventive medicine, though its control of many diseases that formerly took many lives, is responsible for extending the life span. Today there are more than nineteen million people over 55-years of age. With a greater aging population, new factors develop for their care because this group faces such degenerative diseases as high blood pressure, arteriosclerosis, cancer and arthritis. Heart disease in its various forms leads the list. Just as the specialty of pediatrics developed for the care of the growing child, so the specialty of geriatics came into being for the medical problems of the older person.

Because modern medicine is responsible for more of us "growing old," it will also establish a means for caring for the conditions peculiar to old age. Geratrics is rapidly becoming an expanding field for study and research.

Perhaps one of the greatest problems of growing old is the feeling that one is no longer needed, that usefulness is over. Everyone wants to be a contributing power, whether it be in business, the home or the community The end of a long life of service and activity needs a compensatory substitute.

That is why the development of a hobby is encouraged. Accept the chalenge of retirement by getting ready for it now. Maybe the younger years are the more productive ones, but wisdom and experience come with emotional maturity and there is great satisfaction in pursuit of an interest that will keep you happy mentally and occupied physically. If your hobby is saleable you will again be gainfully employed.

Farmers Statements About Winter Grazing

Earnest Edwards, Enterprise

....The time has passed when a farmer can clean up a new ground and make a crop. The only way to have productive land now is to use the land we have the right way.

I have $241.00 coming through my P. M. A. allotment. I am going to use all of than and need that much more. What I would say to a farmer is to use all his PMA payments and borrow money, if he has to, and plant more seed.

My winter grazing is much better than my summer pasture and as long as theres vetch, clover oats or ryegrass seed and the Lord's willing, I'll have a green farm in the winter.

A. B. Jones, Alpine

I find that not only will winter legumes and winter grasses increase your crop and peach yield and prevent gullies in land, but will carry your beef cattle through winter practically without any other feed.

Year Around Grazing Suggested For Dairy

You will find it best to work out a grazing system. This will insure that you will have a place to plant the grazing mixture every year. Then a system will make you a real soil building program. The system for your farm will depend on your conditions. Here is a good system that has been used on the substances.

For one dairy cow:

Field No. 1—1 acre permant pasture or lespedeza sericea.

Field No. 2—1 acre crimson Clover ryegrass, mixture followed by grain sorghum.

Field No. 3—1 acre of oats or wheat mixture.

followed by crimson clover ryegrass

Field No. 4—½ acre of alfalfa or sericea for supplemental grazing and hay

From the above it can be seen that our different areas or fields are needed for this grazing and feed production system.

Field No. 1—In this system field number one is the permanent pasture. If permanent pasture land, low moist fertile bottom land, is not available, sericea or alfalfa can be substituted. One acre of permanent pasture, or more, per cow, depending on the fertility of the land will be needed.

Field No. 2—Field number 2 rotates with field number 3. Field number 2 should contain 1 acre for each cow. The land should be turned in June and fallowed until planted to crimson clover-rye grass mixtures. After the crimson clover-ryegrass mixture is grazed out, or seed harvested the next spring, the land is prepared and planted to grain sorghum.

Field No. 3—Field number 3 rotates with field number 2. There should be one acre in field number 3 for each cow to be grazed. It will be growing oats or wheat at the same time field number 2 is growing crimson clover- ryegrass. The oats or wheat are grazed from fall until February when cows are removed and the grain top dressed to be harvested for hay or grain. When the grain is harvested in the spring the land is turned immediately and fallowed to be planted to crimson clover ryegrass is started the oats or what is drilled in the grain sorghum middles. The mixture in August. After the rotation oats or wheat will not be needed for grazing after March because the acre of crimson clover-ryegrass will furnish plenty of grazing for one cow.

Field No. 4—Field No. 4 is used for alfalfa or sericea for supplementary grazing in the summer and to cut for hay. It should contain one-half acre for each cow.

The acreage in this system at one substation for two cows (7 acres) has produced enough grain sorghum and oats or wheat, and enough grazing to top out two litters averaging 6 pigs per litter per year. This is in addition to furnishing all the feed, that is, grazing and hay for the dairy cows. The number of top hogs produced would depend, of course, on the yields made per acre.

Crimson clover seed can also be harvested.

Thomas F. Patterson, Eastview

In 1948, I planted 150 pounds of ryegrass, 50 pounds of reseeding crimson clover, 400 pounds winter peas, and 12 bushels of oats, grazed them through the winter without any additional feed and turned a good crop of peas in the spring. I made 7 2-horse loads of oats.

I intend to plant 150 pounds of crimson clover, 200 pounds maganese bur clover, 300 pounds of ryegrass, one acre of alfalfa, and 20 bushels of oats this year.

The winter grazing pays me. I think we grazed twelve head of cattle on it without any feed.

I think it would pay everybody to plant winter grazing for their cattle and winter legumes for increased crop yields.

Q. R. Cummings, Thorsby Rte 1

From my experience with the soil, I know that legumes prevent erosion. We do not want our soil to wash away, we want to make it useful as well as beautiful. Legumes save the rainfall that is necessary for the crops to maintain the proper amount of moisture through the growing season.

Winter grazing is more economical because it saves labor and money. It provides the livestock with a more balanced feed. The livestock can live through a long cold winter and stay healthier with winter grazing.

Be wise, help mother nature. Let us "Keep Chilton County Green This Winter."

T. J. Littlejohn, Mt. Pleasant

I want to state that winter legumes have made my land triple the yields in ten years since I have been making my fields green in winter.

Claude Glass, Union Grove

Legumes are valuable to me in many ways, not only for grazing, but also as a soil builder.

I have three acres of lespedeza sericea which is four years old. For two years I have used it for grazing. The 1949 crop was not used for grazing but as the result of two cuttings, I have 225 bales of sericea hay. This fall I plan to seed these acres of sericea with crimson clover which I plan to use for year-round grazing. There are also five more acres of young sericea that will be ready for grazing next spring

Caley peas and oats will be my main grazing for this winter. My two acres of caley peas which reseeded this spring will be used for grazing in addition to eight more acres which I intend to plant this month.

O. H. Lawrence, New Cedron

I don't know how to value winter crops. I have seen the yields on this place more than double in the past twenty years. I began growing cover crops about that far back. We should all strive to have something green for all livestock to harvest every day of the year. They are good harvest hands and I never heard of one complaining of being overworked. Let's all go to grass.

E. W. Miller, Clanton

I feel that the money spent for legumes or grazing crops is the most valuable dollar that I spend. Nothing I do pays so well in milk production as good winter grazing.

Cliff Sewell, Mt. Creek

I paid Mr. John Hall fifteen hundred dollars for eighty acres of land that I am living on. When I bought this land, the average yield per acre of corn was ten bushels and less than one half bale of cotton per acre. I went to the county agent's office for help for the land was washed full of gullies. County Agent and Mr. High ran terrace lines for two days. I plowed up the terraces and planted twelve acres of vetch the first year. That was back in 1944. That fall I used six tons of basic slag, three tons phsophate, two tons 0-14-10. In the fall of 1945, I used every dollar the P. M. A. allotted me and bought about four times the amount outright and paid the full price rather than do without it. In 1946, I sowed eight acres in vetch, six acres in peas. From 1947 up until the present date I have sowed cover crops and also I have eight acres of improved permanent pasture and two acres of hog pasture. I have a good field that isn't washed anywhere. I have built my corn yield from ten bushels to eighty bushels per acre and I believe I have some this year that will yield one hundred per acre. My cotton land averages from a bale to a bale and one fourth per acre. Winter crops did it.

Lee A. Cox, Poplar Springs

I believe in planting winter legumes because they give cheaper nitrogen. They also keep my soil from washing away during the winter rains. At the same time you are building up the land.

I am planting two acres of reseeding crimson clover for winter grazing. It furnishes good feed for the cows and at the same time is helping my land.

Dan L. Owen, Pool's Cross Roads

Not to mention the benefits of winter legumes and small grains I have been receiving for my field crop farming, I find that the only profitable way to carry my eighteen brood cows through the winter with contentment is by having winter grazing and too, by this method they haul out most of my manure during the process.

With the help of the PMA I find these legumeous crops to be the most economical crop of the year.

Last winter, the cattlemen in some parts of this country were trying to get feed to their cattle by airplane on account of snow and blizzards. My cows were on green knee deep fattening while cattle in other sections were dying of starvation.

J. N. Dennis, Clanton

I am glad to see the recognition of the need for winter cover and grazing crops.

Properly used they will materially increase the yield of corn, cotton and other crops by adding vegetable matter and the much needed nitrogen to our lands, prevent washing, furnish feed at the time it is needed most, beside the beauty of green coverage during winter.

With the many crops now available it behooves us to have better grazing in winter than in spring and summer.

Let's build our land making it possible to have more milk, beef and pork to use and market. Make more cotton, corn, truck and fruit crops on fewer acres.

Small grain ryegrass, Kentucky 31 and Alta Fescue, crimson, manganese and other clover, vetches, caley peas, A. W. peas all make good when land preparation, seeding and fertilizing are done as recommended by county agents and soil conservation workers as well as by our best farmers.

Let's make this the banner year!

Glenn W. Sessions, Collins Chapel

I have derived special benefit by having temporary grazing in winter. I consider it one of the best and cheapest ways to carry cattle through the winter. I have always used oats and ryegrass mixed. It will give you lots of good grazing if planted early and fertilized well. I am planning to double my acreage this fall.

Pinson Glenn, Mt. Creek

Since I have been using winter cover crops my land is producing three times as much as it did before I used any.

Hoyt Freeman, Macedonia

Winter legumes are a must in Chilton county farming.

I am going to plant oats and rye and caley peas on kudzu for grazing.

I am going to continue to plant my vetch or peas for row crop land improvement for legumes have already doubled my corn yield in the last few years.

N. H. Harrell, Mulberry (Beat 15)

Legumes in a farming system are so important that no operation can successfully meet competiiton without them. This is particularly true in a livestock operation.

Soil protection and improvement, crop yields, and livestock feeding are dependent upon legume growth on the farm.

Although much emphasis is being put on new clovers, fescue grasses, we must not neglect our old standby, white clover and annual lespedeza.

On my farm we have grazed 30 odd head of red polled cattle, principally mature cows, from February through May on white dutch clover. Oats have played an important role in feeding this heard. Annual lespedeza in combination with oats has produced over two and one-half tons of hay per acre.

Harry Higgenbotham, Maplesville

Green pasture in the winter means a full milk pail. It's the difference between operating at a loss and profit.

Earnest Burkhalter, Verbena

I plant winter crops for grazing and soil building because I think it is a feed saver for my cattle, and keeps land from washing. I have ten acres of reseeding clover and I am going to plant ten acres more of regular clover for soil building and grazing.

W. A. Williams, Baker

"Make hay while the sun shines" is an old saying. You can save hay by having your field green this winter for grazing all kinds of livestock and still harvest a grain crop or turn a green manure crop next spring and at the same time your soil has good protection during the winter months.

Last year we get about 60 days of grazing for 12 head of cows and calves from 8 acres of oats, 7 acres of vetch and about 1 acre of bur clover. Stock was taken off about March 1 and in Spring we harvested 50 bushels oats [illegible] acre, 1 ton of bur clover seed and had an excellent growth of vetch to turn for soil building, plus the extra grazing.

This year we plan to graze oats, wheat, bur clover, crimson clover and Kentucky 31 fescue.

Save hay, labor and soil by having your field green this winter.

B. F. Rasberry & Coy, Macedonia

As for farming, I don't know of anything that there is any more pay in than a good green field of legume crops in winter for grazing and soil building.

We have been sowing from 10 to 15 acres in crimson clover and ryegrass for grazing, soil building and seed for the past five years, on this we have gotten good grazing for cattle, sheep and hogs from December through April and they did much better than would have on just straight dry feed.

We have already sowed some crimson clover and oats and have 30 acres broken, disked and fertilized ready to sow when the season is right in crimson clover, other clovers for grazing and seed.

We are planning to sow 40 acres in caley peas, and 15 acres in oats and caley peas for grazing.

We have 4 acres in Alfalfa and are well pleased with its production. We have land prepared to sow another 100 pounds of Alfalfa seed this time.

We are planting some fescue grass for seeding.

We planted caley peas in kudzu last year and got a good growth and are going to plant caley peas and crimson clover in kudzu and sericea this time.

I don't feel like I can speak too highly for green fields in winter.

Clarence Baker, Concord

My most profitable experience with cover crops was with Willamette vetch. I planted six acres of willamette vetch behind cotton, fertilizing at the rate of 1,000 pounds per acre. Following the vetch I planted corn with no additional fertilizer. From the six acres I harvested 380 bushels of corn. In addition I wintered three heifers on the vetch and they gained from 50 to 75 pounds per animal during the winter.

Police And Press

Closer cooperation between police and the press to prevent traffic accidents was urged last week at the International Association of Chiefs of Police at Dallas, Tex.

"The police of this country are not doing enough to prevent traffic accidents. And neither is the press," said William E. Scripps, publisher of the Detroit News.

"As I see it. . .what is needed is a greater degree of cooperation, a much closer working relationship, between these two groups," Scripps said.

That statement could well be made in our own locality. We won't go into an argument as to who is at fault but we will say that a closer relationship between the press and the police here would aid wonderfully in lowering our annual toll in lives and dollars.

This, of course, goes for radio too. More emphasis should be put on the causes of wrecks, more details as to whose carelessness was responsible, more suggestions as to how the next one can be prevented should be given—this can only be accomplished by all agencies, press, radio and police, working together.

The Chilton County News is ready, we are sure WKLF, our radio station stands ready, and just as positive are we that our local and state police are ready. It's just a matter of getting together and taking the time to make plans for this important work. We're all neglecting a duty so long as we fail to combine our efforts to this end.

Can Be

The people of Clanton again have the urge to build an auditorium. This bug has bitten local residents before. Let us hope that the bug bites so hard this time that the people will stir themselves enough to get this work done.

True, Clanton and Chilton County needs many thing—none of which, we are sure, is so badly needed as an auditorium.

Local Clubs and organizations will be called on in the near future to furnish a member for the auditorium committee. We sincerely hope each organization accepts the responsibility as their own and join the work with the spirit to do or die. It is going to take all working together to accomplish this. It will be enjoyed by all the people. We offer all our services and hope the dream comes true.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Mr. John T. Ellis is dead. In bad health for the past several months, at 79, he passed through the valley of the shadows to rest with loved ones gone before. Mr. Ellis was for nearly half a century vitally interested in Chilton County and her welfare and took an active part in her progress. He lived a full life and we are sure against his name in the Book of Life will be written, "Well done." Our deepest sympathy goes out to the family and his many friends in Alabama who will mourn his passing.

Hon. Ed deGraffenried, Congressman from this District, was visiting his Chilton County friends last week. He probably didn't get to see all the folks he wanted to, but he certainly tried. Mr. deGraffenried is very popular in this section and unless unforeseen candidates arise he will have no opposition next spring.

A couple of weeks ago we told you about the "green edition" that Red Glasscock and his department worked up. Now we want to tell you about a Fall Harvest Sale edition that Roy Wilkins has worked up—and for next week. This according to Roy, will be a big box holder edition covering every post office and carrier box in Chilton County. It will cover the south bound route out of Shelby county and the north bound route out of Autauga, and Dallas County. Six thousand copies of the Big Edition will be published and the accent will be on "Big Fall Bargains at Clanton stores. If you ain't in, get in touch with Roy. You don't want to get left out.

Howard Boeckholdt, Superintendent of Education, gave us some interesting figures this week in regards to the five and a half year age limit now in effect in Alabama schools. He stated that the new low age limit would permit the entrance of twenty-one thousand children in the state's public schools this fall. That is over and above the usual number of first graders entering each year.

Don't worry when you stumble—remember, a worm is the only thing that can't fall down.

About Town: Lady in front of Evans Brothers Hardware Store asking Julian Evans if he run that store. Julian answered: "Sometimes, lady." . . .Marion Easterling ending his radio program with the sentence: "If you have enjoyed our program, I am amply repaid." Wonder if that don't tickle his sponsores who dig up the cash . . . Those parking meters are in on the west side of U. S. 31. You can't park on the other side. . .They do say efforts are being made to get the ball rolling for a auditorium for our city. They do say. . .Folks wish some kind of a report would be made on the courthouse audit, even if not complete. They'd like to be brought up-to-date in the matter. . .Go down to see that cute little Boy Scout Hut at the City Park. It's a honey. That should create new interest in scouting for parents as well as the boys. . .C. M. Lawrence, our night policeman is tickled pink these nights. He's a grandfather, but that's not the whole reason. He's been a grandfather before. The broad smile (just about as broad as he is) is because it's a boy. Born a couple of weeks ago to his son, Billy, and his wife. . .

Aside to Sheldon Cook: You are right. You picked a winner. Need we say more?

I. D. Armstrong, field representative of the Woodmen of the World, has won an all-expense paid trip to the society's conference in St. Louis, Mo., September 22 to 24th. The trip is the reward for outstanding service to the society and well earned by I. D.

The little girl was moving from Clanton to Birmingham with her parents, and was greatly excited. The night before the departure, saying her prayers as usual, she finished off with: "God bless mommy and daddy, and my little brother, Tommy; and this is goodbye God—we're moving to Birmingham tomorrow."

RED CROSS HAS RECORD NUMBER SERVING U. S. MILITARY FORCES

With U. S. military forces at five times their prewar strength, a record number of American Red Cross workers are serving them throughout the world.

More than 2,000 Red Cross representatives today are stationed at 1,300 military installations and 123 hospitals here and overseas. About 1,400 staff workers are serving troops in this country. The others are working at occupation and defense posts abroad. Only during the peak years of World War II were a larger number on duty.

The duties of these Red Cross workers are as varied as the locale in which they work, involving a wide range of welfare services that contribute to military morale. They may include tiding over a soldier's wife with grocery and rent money until her family allowance check comes through, or getting a welfare report on an Eskimo serviceman's mother via weather bureau radio. Sometimes it means getting word of a family emergency to a sailor with the fleet in the Mediterranean.

Service of the Red Cross worker in a military hospital may be helping a man through the difficult hour when he learns that he will never be well again or removing the worry that often stands in the way of his recovery.

The Red Cross man at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii, lends a helping hand to a young marine, enroute from Kwajalein to his Maine home on emergency leave.

Under federal statute and regulations of the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force, the American Red Cross furnishes volunteer aid to the sick and wounded of the armed forces and acts in matters of voluntary relief and as a medium of communication between the people of the United States and their armed forces.

In the last year Red Cross staff members handled more than 102,000 welfare cases in military hospitals. More than 500 professional Red Cross workers are stationed at 40 army hospitals, 26 navy hospitals, and 14 air force hospitals.

For the able-bodied, too, whatever the problem or wherever the serviceman is stationed, the chances are that the Red Cross has a field worker on the spot or nearby who can help try to solve it.

In this country 361 field directors and their assistants cover 148 base stations, 31 substations, and 923 itinerant stations. During the last year field directors at camps handled more than 672,000 cases. Health and welfare reports requested by servicemen or their families were the most common type of help asked for. More than 179,000 such cases were recorded. The next most frequent type of request was that involving leave or extension of leave. The Red Cross cannot grant leave, but military authorities depend upon the organization for reports of conditions underlying leave requests. These cases run into many thousands each year.

Abroad, Red Cross coverage is almost as complete as in this country. In Japan alone, 159 men and women are serving occupation troops at 31 military installations and 14 hospitals. Other parts of the Far East are equally well staffed.

In Europe, 248 Red Cross workers serve military pesonnel and their dependents at 51 military installations and 15 hospitals, most of them in occupied Germany. Coverage is also given in England and to miscellaneous units still in France.

WHY THE MISSOURI PACIFIC RAILROAD STRIKE?

Over twenty years ago, the Congress of the United States passed the Railway Labor Act. It was hailed by union leaders as a model for the settlement of labor disputes.

The leaders of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, Order of Railway Conductors, and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen on the Missouri Pacific Railroad have refused to avail themselves of the peaceful means provided by this Act for settling their disputes. They insist that they be the sole umpire of their own disputes over the meaning of contracts.

There is no Need for Strikes

With all of the available methods for the interpretation of contracts, there is no need for a strike or even a threat of a strike, but the leaders of these railroad unions have ignored the ordinary procedures established by law and insist upon imposing their own interpretations of their contracts by means of a strike.

The wheels have stopped rolling on the Missouri Pacific. They may stop rolling on other railroads at any time. Recently the Wabash Railroad was forced to discontinue operation for several days under similar circumstances.

What are These Strikes About?

These strikes and strike threats are not about wage rates or hours. They result from disputes over the meaning of existing contracts. They cover claims for a full day's pay for less than a day's work, or for payments for services performed by others who were fully paid for the work done.

President Truman's Board Condemns Strike

There is an established legal method for handling disputes involving existing written contracts—just as there is such a method of settling any contract dispute which you may have in your daily life.

The President of the United States appointed a Fact Finding Board to investigate and adjust the Missouri Pacific dispute. This Board reported, in part, as follows:

> ". . . it is with a deep sense of regret that we are obliged to report the failure of our mission. It seems inconceivable to us that a coercive strike should occur on one of the nation's major transportation systems, with all of the losses and hardships that would follow, in view of the fact that the Railway Labor Act provides an orderly, efficient and complete remedy for the fair and just settlement of the matters in dispute. Grievances of the character here under discussion are so numerous and of such frequent occurrence on all railroads that the general adoption of the policy pursued by the organizations in this case would soon result in the complete nullification of the Railway Labor Act. . . ."

Obviously the railroads cannot be run efficiently or economically if the leaders of the unions ignore agreements or laws.

Provisions of the Law which are Disregarded

There are five ways under the Railway Labor Act to settle disputes over the meaning of contracts:

1—Decision by National Railroad Adjustment Board.
2—Decision by System Adjustment Board for the specific railroad.
3—Decision by arbitration.
4—Decision by neutral referee.
5—Decision by courts.

The Missouri Pacific Railroad has been and is entirely willing to have these dis- led in accordance with the re- s of the Railway Labor Act. s of this fact, the union leaders hut down that railroad.

Innocent Bystanders Suffer Losses and Hardships

There are about 5,000 engineers, fr n, conductors and trainmen on the Missouri Pacific. They are known as "operating" employes, and are the most highly paid of all employes on the nation's railroads, but their strike action has resulted in the loss of work to 22,500 other employes of the Missouri Pacific. In addition, they have imposed great inconvenience and hardship upon the public and the communities served by that railroad.

The Railway Labor Act was designed to protect the public against just such interruptions of commerce.

If these men will not comply with the provisions of the law for the settlement of such disputes, then all thinking Americans must face the question, "What is the next step?"

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

TYRANTS AND TYRANNY

Tyranny is the severe rule of a tyrant, absolute monarchy imperiously administered. Many times in past history in Europe and Asia rulers of this type were a most dreaded factor. This form of oppresion was hard to break up and the frontier life made a good exodus to those who desired to be freed from such rule.

You will remember our own Pilgrim Fathers who fled from England because of tyranny, and in the beloved song, "Columbia The Gem of the Ocean," says her banner make tyranny tremble, when born by the red, white and blue. This government was founded as a guarantee against tyranny—freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom of the press and freedom of enterprise.

We do not have legalized tyranny now, but rather a cheaper form and you might call it bootlegged tyranny, traveling on the wings of public opinion, created by the monopolists of the country and fed by lies and propaganda to deceive and mislead the uninformed. To use them for advantage in political, religious, and economical fields. They know too well our American people will not bow to tyranny unless it is disguised and brought out with a false face.

REV. H. M. SANDLIN

A painter in a certain city violated the Union rule and worked right on over their protest. They placed a picket in front of his job to show him up. He made a big sign and placed a picket over their picket with these words, "Because I won't bow to a dictator." He was one fellow with sense enough to run his own business.

People are pulled in line by a minority who formulate plans to throw public opinion against them if they do not get in line. If you have a job nine times out of ten you also have a boss, and you do not dare think differently from your boss, on many lines if you do you must be very quiet about it.

Recently I was addressing a group of men and they kept slipping away until I was just about left alone. I did not know what had happened and I inquired to one man privately what I had said to cause them to leave me. He informed me that they saw the boss man looking in on the scene and were afraid they would lose their jobs.

We have very little margin right now from that practiced in Russia and many other of the totalitarian states. You are constantly spied on by some group in the political, religious, social or economical world to see if you are an asset or a liability to the clan, and in either field if you are wide open you are slandered, smeared, sneered at boycotted and set at naught as though you are a dangerous, ferocious beast that should be confined.

When Hitler was in his glory in Germany, a man met one of his German friends that was schooled in the United States. He asked him what he thought about Hitler and he told him in an under tone, "I don't like him a D— bit, but I have one of three courses to take and I have chosen the best of the three bads; if I come out openly against him my head will come off, if I work against him secretly it will soon leak out, so I have chosen to keep my mouth shut and support my family and live with them till it is over."

Here is some questions for you to ponder: Is your party, your boss man, your church, or your organization American in its principle? Or has its Americanism decayed away and the [illegible]

For The Ladies: A Diet That Really Works

We went out visiting the other night and the ladies were talking away about weight-reducing diets. One of them had a special "15-day Hollywood diet" guaranteed to slim her down fifteen pounds' worth. Another was living on bananas and skim milk!

I might have known the missus would get the bug, too, and sure enough the other day she asks me, "Joe, what kind of a diet do you think I ought to go on?"

"Mother," I says, "the only diet I would ever recommend to anyone is simply moderation. I wouldn't trust any of those get-thin-quick diets. Simply cut down on desserts, bread, butter, sweets and fats—but when you do, even do your cutting down moderately."

From where I sit, moderation is the watchword. Moderation with food, with smoking or with the enjoyment of a friendly glass of temperate beer or ale. Actually, moderation adds to the enjoyment of just about anything.

MAPLESVILLE NEWS

Church News—

Rev. and Mrs. Clayton Gilbert will return this week. There will be preaching next Sunday morning and evening as usual.

The Royal Ambassadors of the W.M.U. here are very much enthused over the kindness of Miss Blossom Crumpton in donating to them the use of one of her buildings for the R.A.'s recreation hall and it will also include a work shop, and a barbeque pit. Mr. Joe Graham, a lumber dealer, here has offered to donate lumber for repairs. With their able leader, Miss Frances Reynolds, and the pastor, Rev. Gilbert, the boys will be taught the great need of the missionary work. All the boys up to 14 years of age will be benefitted by this worthy undertaking. When not in school they will have something instructive to do that will keep them from the streets. They are grateful to Miss Crumpton for this kindness.. Great good can be accomplished.

As we read and study the church covenant, we wonder how many of us are really Christians? What kind of a Christian are we?

Some are like wheelbarrows—
  Not good unless pushed.
Some are like canoes—
  They need to be paddled.
Some are like kites—
  If you don't keep a string on them, they will fly away.
Some are like kittens—
  More contented when petted.
Some are like balloons—
  Full of wind and ready to blow up.
Some are like trailors—
  They have to be pulled..
Some are like neon lights—
  They keep going an and off.
Some are like buzzards—
  They "get wind" of every stink and come quickly.
Others let the Holy Spirit Lead.

If we feel cold when we go into a church, the coldness is within our own heart. If our heart is filled with fire and the Holy Spirit, no coldness can enter in, but if we have envy, a grudge or a dislike for anyone, it will naturally make our heart cold.. It isn't the church or anyone in the church. It is us!

Dairy Development

JOHN PARRISH
A.P.I. Extension Dairyman

Dairy development in Alabama has been rapid for hte past ten years. In 1938 we had 360,000 milk cows that produced an income of $7,810,000 while in 1947 when we had 435,000 cows that returned $23,911,000. The gross value of the deary industry has increased from $26,838,000 in 1938 to over $65,000,000 in 1947.

The API Agricultural Experiment Station system has developed pasture programs which furnish dairy cows ample grazing the year around, with the exception of a few days when weather conditions keep animals off the field.

Markets are available in all sections of the state where dairying is of economical importance, and new markets are being developed. Markets can be provided for any section having sufficient production. Alabama has approximately 1,600 Grade A daries, with an average of 40 to 50 cows each, 1,200 farmers sell milk for manufacturing purposes.

Alabama naw has an artificial breeding program available to all counties that meet the minimum requirements set up by the Experiment Station and the extension service. The "stud" consists of seven Jerseys and five Guernseys. Later three Holstein bulls are to be available.

A state-wide dairy herd improvement association (D. H. I. A.) program was started this year. At present there are seven associations with approximately 5,500 cows on test. This will be expanded where dairymen want the service.

Junior work is a feature and is popular with boys and girls. This year, as a climax to this program, seven districts and one State Junior show will be held for 4-H Club and FFA members.

The state still needs a minimum of 18 per cent more fluid milk to meet its needs. Teh market outlet for manufactured milk is unlimited.

THE VOICE OF SERVICE

Do You Want Your A&P Put Out Of Business?

Last Thursday in New York, the anti-trust lawyers from Washington filed a suit to put A&P out of business.

They asked the court to order us to get rid of most of our stores and also the manufacturing facilities which supply you with A&P coffee, Ann Page products, Jane Parker baked goods, and other quality items we produce.

This would mean higher food prices for you. It would mean less food on every dinner table and fewer dollars in every pay envelope.

It would mean the end of A&P as you know it.

This poses a basic question for the American people: Do they want to continue to enjoy lower prices and better living? Or do they want to break up A&P and pay higher prices, and have lower living standards?

What do you want?

Why Destroy A&P?

This suit was brought under the anti-trust laws. These are good laws. They were passed about fifty years ago to prevent any company, or any group of companies, from getting a monopoly in a field and then raising prices to the public.

A&P has never done any of these things.

> Nobody has ever shown that we have anything even approaching a monopoly of the food business anywhere. As every housewife knows, the retail grocery business is the most competitive in the country and we do only a small part of it.
>
> Nobody has ever said we charged too high prices — just the opposite. This whole attack rises out of the fact that we sell good food too cheap. We would not have had any of this trouble if, instead of lowering prices, we had raised them and pocketed the difference.
>
> Nobody has ever said that our profit rate was too high. During the past five years our net profit, after taxes, has averaged about 1⅓c on every dollar of sales, which is less than almost any other business you can think of.

The American people have shown that they like our low-price policy by coming to our stores to do their shopping. If A&P is big, it is because the American people, by their patronage, have made it big.

Obviously, it is the theory of the anti-trust lawyers that the people have no right to patronize a company, if their patronage will make that company grow; and that any big business must be destroyed simply because it is big, and even if the public gets hurt in the process.

Do You Want Higher Prices?

There is much more involved in this case than the future of A&P. The entire American system of efficient, low-cost, low-profit distribution which we pioneered, will face destruction and the public will suffer.

A&P was the first chain store in this country. For more than ninety years we have tried to build a sound business on the simple formula the founder gave us: "Give the people the most good food you can for their money." Year after year we have tried to do a better job, make our business more efficient, and pass the savings on to the consumer in the form of lower prices.

Our efforts along these lines have led other grocers to keep their costs and profits down.

In the old days before A&P, food that cost the grocer 50¢, often sold as high as $1.00 at retail.

Today, food that costs the grocer 50¢ generally sells to the public at less than 60¢.

The methods we pioneered have been adopted not only by other grocers, but by merchants in other lines. There are today literally hundreds of chain stores, voluntary groups and individual merchants operating with the same methods and in the same pattern here under attack.

If the anti-trust lawyers succeed in destroying A&P, the way will be clear for the destruction of every other efficient large-scale distributor.

Who Will Be Hurt?

There has never been any question in our mind that it is good business and good citizenship to sell good food as cheaply as possible. As Fortune Magazine said about A&P some time ago, "It is firmly attached to the one great principle — the selling of more for less — that has made the desert bloom and the nation wax great."

> We sincerely believe that we have helped the American people eat better and live better.
>
> We believe that the hundreds of thousands of farmers and manufacturers who have voluntarily sought our business have profited by our fast, low-cost distribution of their products.
>
> We know that our 110,000 loyal employees enjoy today, as they always have, the highest wages, shortest hours and best working conditions generally prevailing in the retail food industry; and that these men and women have found in A&P good opportunities for security and progress.
>
> We know that thousands of businessmen — the landlords who rent us our stores, the haulers who operate our trucks, the people who supply us with goods and services — have a big stake in our operations.

Obviously, all these people will suffer if this company is put out of business.

What Shall We Do?

We admit that the interests of the owners of A&P are of little importance.

Frankly, they could make an enormous amount of money by breaking up A&P, as the anti-trust lawyers wish, and selling off the parts.

But is this what the American people want? Do they agree with the anti-trust lawyers that our food prices are too low, and that we should be put out of the picture so other grocers can charge more?

Frankly, if this were the case, we would not want to continue in business.

But we seriously doubt that this is the case. Twelve years ago, an effort was made to tax this company and other chain stores out of business. The public rallied to our support. They said they liked our quality foods and our low prices. As a result of their opposition, the tax was defeated.

Now we are faced with this new attack through the courts. We are faced with the heavy costs and all the trouble that lawsuits involve.

But we believe this attack is a threat to millions of consumers who rely on us for quality foods at low prices; to farmers who rely on us for fast, low-cost distribution of their products; and to our loyal employees.

We feel that it is our responsibility to all these people to defend, by every legitimate means, this company and the low-price policy on which it was built.

THINGS WE SEE & HEAR

(by TUCK)

Seems like Harold Parr got his words confused in Biology class last week. Miss Perry asked Harold who was the "Father of Medicine." Well, Harold didn't want to say becaust he couldn't pronounce the name correctly. Miss Perry told him to try it anyway. So Harold, being a good sport, said, "Hypocrit." 'Course the class let out a howl and boy, was Harold embarrassed. For the benefit of those who don't know who the "Father of Medicine" was, it was Hipocrates.

Brother, talk about crowded, the High School is so crowded this year, as Mr. Adair says, you almost have to be an all-star tackle to get thru the hall. And he ALSO says that the kids aren't very courteous. How about that fellas, aren't you? And its not just the boys, girls.

Wallace (Frog) Neeley was going to lunch Monday, uh, you might say running a trifle, but anyway he almost knocked a little Jr. I girl off her feet. Say, "Frog," it's a good thing you were running faster than I was because if you hadn't been, I would have hit her.

I overheard a conversation the other day of two Jr. I boys. They were arguing about which class to go to when one spoke up and solved the whole problem. The smallest one says, "I tell ya' what let's do, let's compromise and just don't go to either one this period."

I'm beginning to think that Fred Thompson is sick this year, or maybe he's just gotta get in the groove, but he doesn't walk around the room like he used to. Maybe Mrs. Griffin wised him up on it. Could be, you know, Mrs. Griffin is an expert at that sort of things.

Well, it's the football season and the air is filled with the cheerful hurrahs of the delighted patrons as the Tigers sweep down the field for another victory. (I don't know where I got that, but I guess it's all right.) But no foolin' folks, it is the time we should all be going to see our team win every game possible. And I'm sure that with Coach Spicer instructing the boys, we will have a lot of victories.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Out on Maplesville, Route 1, a birth day dinner was given Sunday, September 11th, for little Robbie Nell and Audrey Ann Latham. It was celebrating their tenth and seventh birthdays.

Enjoying the games and dinner were Mary Elizabeth Haigler, Willie Dill and Dorothy Ann Abbott, Shirley and Billy Rhodes, Buddy, Willie and Billy Abbot, Mae Henderson, Mr and Mrs. Lonnie Rhodes, Winford Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. F. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Latham.

Jimmie Vickery fell while on the school play ground Monday and received a badly cut arm. He was carried to Clanton hospital for treatment where he was held under the doctors care uuntil Tuesday. Due to leaders being cut doctors fear Jimmie will always have a stiff arm.

ALFALFA HOPPER HARMS ALFALFA AND SERICEA

Damage to alfalfa and sericea that causes stems to turn yellow and die has been reported by some Alabama farmers.

After field inspections, A.P.I. Experiment Station entomologists say that this damage is caused by the alfalfa hopper, a three-cornered insect that girdles the stems of legumes.

W. G. Eden, Station assistant entomogolist, recommends that sericea or alfalfa be cut as soon as damage appears. Thus far no practical chemical control has been developed; however, the Experiment Station is conducting research that may provide practical methods of control in the near future.

Radio Ramblings

(By JESSE CULP)

Football is in the air, and on the air this week. WKLF listeners will hear this Saturday afternoon a play-by-play description of the game between the University of Alabama Crimson Tide and the Green Wave from Tulane. This should be worth listening to, since Tulane is rated unamiously as the South's top team this season. WKLF will broadcast Alabama's complete schedule again this year.

One of the South's best hillbilly aggregations is now heard on WKLF each morning at 6:45, as Happy Wilson and his Golden River Boys take to the air waves. Happy and his gang are making some popular records for Decca now, and they have a program well worth listening to.

A special feature of the "Facts for Farmers" program (12:15) this week is a series of programs on the theme "Keep Chilton County Fields Green This Winter." Interviews with agricultural officials and with farmers are being featured.

WKLF will be on the scene to broadcast the dedication ceremonies of the new Scout Hut this coming Sunday. The ceremonies themselves are scheduled to get underway at 2 o'clock.

Well, the fate of radio "give away" programs is still in doubt. As you might know, several weeks ago, the Federal Communications Commission, which controls the radio broadcasting industry, passed a ruling against radio "give away" programs, and stated that it would refuse to renew licenses of stations who broadcast such programs. Three of the networks have opened court procedure against the ruling, and it looks now like the matter may be tied up in the courts for quite some time. The idea that they had in passing the measure was that they contended that radio was depending too much on giving away prizes to hold its audience rather than strictly on good programming. What comes of it remains to be seen.

Surely did hate that I didn't write a column last week and get it in the paper. Never saw any of my writing published in green!

That's sign off time for this week. Until next Thursday, so long and good listening.

Caley Pea Planting Recommendations

The cows above, grazing in a knee deep sod of Caley Peas, are preforming the labor that farmers ordinarily do when they cut, rake, bale, store and grind dairy cattle feed. The fresh green feed the cows are harvesting is of better quality than it would be if harvested. The milk a cow produces from green grazing is higher in food value—Vitamins and Mineral content—than milk produced by cows on dry rations.

The Caley Pea is an annual reseeding winter legume.

Seeding: Plant 50 pounds of inoculated seed per acre on summer pasture sods, on Kudzu or Sericea sods, in combination with grain or alone on prepared land.

Fertilizer: On limed land (2 tons per acre) apply 800 pounds 0-14-10 per acre.

Graze lightly the first year. Don't expect maximum growth until land is well saturated with seed of this crop.

Military Pet Cemetery

WASHINGTON — Visitors to Arlington National cemetery and its tomb of the Unknown Soldiers know, if they listened to their guide, that not far away is a small burial plot for pets—the friends of military men and mascots of whole battalions.

It was started back in World War I when in 1918 a nondescript dog whose name has now been forgotten died. The men in the Third Cavalry buried him in a secluded part of Fort Myer, which adjoins the national cemetery.

The pooch had attached himself to the unit on a training march through Virginia. A sergeant looked out for him. Oldtimers at the fort recall that at command he would stand quietly beside his master's horse on the parade ground.

There are about 100 pets—dogs, cats, an alligator, a monkey, a rooster—buried in the plot now. At least a fourth of them lie beneath markers expressing the affection of their owners.

Among the dogs are Smokie the "dear beloved pet" of the Fort Myer fire department, and Sgt. Yardbird, onetime mascot of Battery C, 55th Field Artillery.

In one corner is a tiny grave whose marker proclaims that Peepsie was especially valued by Col. and Mrs. Martin du Fresne now stationed at Fort Belvoir, Va.

Dentist Earns $100,000 In 11 Months Under British Medical Plan

EDINBURGH, SCOTLAND—For 11 months' dental work, one Scottish dentist earned 25,000 pounds—the equivalent of $100,000 in American money—under Britain's socialized - medicine plan.

This was disclosed by Sir William Marshall, chairman of the Lanark County Health Service Executive council, at a meeting of the Dental Estimates board.

Under the National Health Service, dentists submit a bill to the government for each patient treated. The patient does not have to pay for treatment.

The government pays the dentist according to the number of patients under his care and the kind of treatment given.

Commenting on the case, Sir William said: "It is hard to believe that the patients received the painstaking careful attention which we have a right to expect in our service."

ROCKET TO MOON

Germans Say It's Possible

FRANKFURT — German atom scientists doing research on moon rockets say they have completed basic theoretical calculations for a manned rocket which they want to shoot to the moon.

"All we need now is the chance—and the financial aid—to put our theories into practice," said rocket-specialist Dr. Heinz Gartmann. Gartmann's articles predicting successful efforts to reach the moon by space ship are popular in Germany.

Worked At White Sands

Because of his outstanding qualifications, U.S. authorities called on Gartmann for assistance in 1947. They took him up to the White Sands proving ground in New Mexico where, for six months, he helped American rocket designers.

Atom and rocket scientists in postwar Germany are directing most of their efforts to catch up with American and British developments in this field.

Since the Allies have banned any kind of German war production, the scientists' activities now are restricted to elaborating theories and exchanging ideas with their foreign colleagues.

Form Research Society

To centralize their efforts, German scientists got together and formed the Interplanetary Society for Space Research, with Gartmann as chairman. These researchers admit they enthusiastically cherish the hope that "sooner or later German science will be leading again in the field of rocket design."

For the time being, and probably for years to come, they see their position as being "at the very tail end of the world's atomic and rocket research."

Nevertheless, one of them said, "I am of the firm conviction that before the end of my days I shall have viewed the moon from the back."

Claim 'Startling Inventions'

His German colleagues claim Gartmann recently was able to prove to some American rocket designers a fundamental error in their calculations for a space rocket.

"A steady flow of information is crossing the ocean both ways between Germany and American scientists, but we are not so stupid as to disclose our top-secret theories just for nothing," a German informant said.

Although they have "startling inventions" in their files, the Germans insist they will withhold them until the Allies give them world-wide patent protection.

'Mum' Visits in Chicago To See One of 'Her' Boys

CHICAGO.—Chicago had a distinguished visitor recently—a tiny, 76-year-old lady from London, England. Her name is Mrs. Adelaide Gilbert.

Mrs. Gilbert, known to thousands of America service men whom she befriended during the war, was in Chicago to visit one of "her" boys.

She was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edvin Kodat, whose son, LeRoy, 23, once enjoyed Mrs. Gilbert's hospitality in England during the war.

The tiny, sprightly little woman opened her house to servicemen. They slept on featherbeds, raided her icebox and joked with her on the brief leaves they had before the invasion.

"Mum" was in the United States to visit as many of her "boys" as she can find. They all invited her to their homes to help repay her generosity.

Inspiration for her unselfish acts came from her son, Michael, a private in the British army, who was killed.

She remembered and opened her own home to American lads "because Michael would have wanted that."

Rain Makers

Back to Laboratories

NEW YORK. — Scientists can make it rain—but they agree that they can't make it any time, any place. So they are going back to their laboratories to see what they can do about it.

The making of rain with dry ice, experiments with which began some three years ago, cannot be done just with any old cloud or at any old place.

The United States weather bureau has recently concluded three rain-making experiments with negative results they got more than a year ago in tests over Ohio when 150 attempts failed to show how to make rain of economic importance to farmers.

Scientific rainmaking, however, has proved one new point beyond doubt — namely, that clouds, their structure, why the rain and why they develop the power to cause disasters are a lot more intricate than has been supposed.

Air Forces Now Making Cupid's Task Easier

WASHINGTON.—The air force has made things easier for Cupid.

Sometime ago an official directive stated that would-be bridegrooms in the four lowest pay ranks must obtain consent of squadron commanders before saying "I do."

The air force's position was that the lower-paid soldier—because of the shortage of service accommodations and benefits—should, among other things, prove his ability to carry the financial end of a marriage.

This caused "confusion," according to The Beam, weekly newspaper of Bolling Field air base here. It also caused a decline in weddings.

Under the new order a prospective bridegroom must write a "letter of intent" to the commander. Then the officer "counsels" the enlisted man on finances, housing, transportation, and other matters of armed-services married life. After this it's up to the couple whether they want to be married.

Uranium Discovery Prize Spurs Prospector Army

CHICAGO. — With the atomic energy commission offering $10,000 rewards for each acceptable discovery of uranium deposits, a growing army of amateur prospectors annually is buying more than $200,000 worth of a new-type Geiger counter designed to aid them in their search for the deposits, it was learned yesterday.

The instrument, called a nuclear "sniffer," weighs 2 pounds, can be carried in a coat pocket and generates 1,200 volts from two flashlight batteries. In the presence of uranium and other radioactive substances the counter emits clicks through a telephone head set.

Four young Chicago scientists developed the counter. John Kuranz, 27 years old, a physicist and vice president of the Nuclear Instrument and Chemical Corporation of Chicago, which the scientists have built into a million-dollar yearly business, said the counter was being distributed through large department stores.

A PERSONAL THREAT

One of the biggest personal threats that hangs over the head of every man, woman and child in Chilton County is cancer—the disease that will strike one out of every six of them.

That fact alone, says the American Cancer Society, would be reason enough to mobilize an army of volunteers and to spend large sums of money to combat the most dreaded of all diseases.

But, when there is added to that fact, the fact that from a third to a half the persons cancer strikes can be saved, the recruitment of workers and the expenditure of funds to carry out a cancer control program becomes a matter of urgent personal interest to the entire population.

Last year cancer killed 20 men, women and children in Chilton County. Of that total, somewhere between seven and ten of them probably could have been saved. They could have been saved, that is, if they had recognized the symptoms that were cancer's early warnings, and if they had gone to their doctors for immediate medical attention.

It is to stop this waste of lives that the Chilton County Cancer Society is recruiting a group of volunteer workers to carry out a year round program of public education. The work will be directed by Mrs. C. R. Morrison. well-known Clanton civic leader.

In the field of service to cancer patients, the Alabama Division of the American Cancer Society furnishes bandages and dressings to indigent cancer patients, provides drugs and other palliative medicines for non-hospitalized indigent patients and pays for transportation of indigent cancer patients from their homes to treatment centers. Under a state law passed in 1943, treatment of indigent patients is provided in five state-aid clinics located in Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile.

In addition to its public education and service programs, the Alabama Division will sponsor this year a cancer seminar for Alabama doctors. Outstanding specialists in fields of cancer diagnosis and treatment will be brought to the state to discuss latest developments in cancer control. Every physician in the state will be invited to attend.

A large portion of the Alabama Division's funds is devoted to cancer research. At the present time, more than $135,000 is being spent in Alabama on five projects designed to discover the causes and cure for cancer, and, possibly, to find a preventive for the disease.

Southern Research Institute, in Birmingham, is working on two bio-chemistry projects under a grant of more than $40,000 from the Cancer Society. Alabama Polytechnic Institute, at Auburn, has received $19,000 to seek possible relationships between nutrition and cancer. Highland Baptist Hospital, in Birmingham, is doing research work with animals under a grant of more than $7,000. The Alabama Association of Pathologists has been allocated $34,000 to establish a state tumor registry, the only project of its type in the South and one of only three such activities in the nation.

One of the most urgently needed tools in the fight against cancer is being sought in the new research laboratories of the Medical College of Alabama. There, research workers are attempting to find an accurate and inexpensive test that could be given to masses of people to determine whether cancer — even in early stages — is present in the body. The Alabama Division of the American Cancer Society has allocated $35,000 for this project to the Medical College during the past twelve months.

All activities of the American Cancer Society in the state are carried out under the supervision of the Cancer Committee of the Medical Association of Alabama. The program is carried out under the direction of Mrs. Lillian G. Meade, of Birmingham, who serves as executive director.

On three broad fronts—education, service and research—the Alabama Division of the American Cancer Society is spearheading the attack against the disease that killed 2,582 men, women and children in the state last year.

For the immediate future, its objective is to prevent the needless deaths of from a third to a half of those cancer strikes, who, with early diagnosis and treatment by surgery, X-ray and radium, can be cured.

As its ultimate goal, the Society is seeking to discover all of the answer to the cancer problem. The Society looks forward to the day when cancer will take its place beside other great killers of the past which [illegible] been conquered by medical science. Its greatest [illegible] is that the day is not far off when there will be [illegible] further need for the American Cancer Society.

Folks and Things About Town

--By BEN

Work is coming right along on the new skating rink being constructed next door to Yielding's on Second Avenue. Mr. Arthur Taylor, who is doing the building, says that work will be completed around November 1st.

We don't know how he did it, but he did it. We're talking about Newt Popwell getting safely out of Tuscaloosa last week when he went over there to take James to the University. Confidentially, it wasn't the institution of learning that we were afraid would catch Newt, it was that other institution. Now we're even with Newt for putting that sign on the News office advertising Coca-Cola.

Course everybody knows the best cooks in the world are in Chilton County. Especially was this fact appreciated last week by Clarke Headley, John VanDerveer and Virgil Culver. All three are escapees from local printeries and all have to come back now and then to report their conduct. But last week it was to get some of that good Chilton County cooking we were talking about. Something happened to the gas supply at Selma and the boys got so tired of cold ham sandwiches they drove all the way here to satisfy their hunger for real food. Lots of folks there weren't so fortunate, they didn't know just forty-five short miles away were several cafes that boasted the best home-cooked meals in the world.

Mrs. C. S. Strock and Mrs. Maude Barrett of Verbena paid us a visit the other afternoon. It was a business call and very much appreciated. Mrs. Barrett sent the News to her son, Billy, who is stationed at Fairhope, Ala. She also informs us that he is the proud papa of twin boys born several weeks ago..

Marbury school girls were out this week in Clanton selling space on their 1949-50 annuals. Going on the assumption that the early bird gets the worm, no doubt.

When the white man discovered this country, the Indians were running it. There were no taxes, there was no debt. The women did all the work. And the white men thought they could improve on a system like that!

RABIES

Rabies is always fatal to human beings. Although comparatively few people die of rabies in the United States, it is considered a major health problem. Between 50 and 60 cases of human rabies are reported in the United States each year.

The certainty of death, the horrible suffering of the patient, the shocking manifestations of symptoms, make rabies one of the most feared and tragic of diseases. Fortunately, there is a lapse of time after the bite and before the onset of rabies, during which time proper and safe treatment may be begun.

Few dog bites cause rabies, but if rabies exists in the community, the biting dog must be suspected of having the disease. Any dog that has bitten a person should be confined for a period of at least fourteen days. If the dog has rabies, he will die within 14 days and then the Pasteur treatment may be given to the individual.

Rabies is world wide except in certain countries where the disease is believed to have been eradicated—Australia, Great Britain, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Belgium and Switzerland. The United States could use a pattern similar to Great Britain's and eradicate this dreadful disease.

Such an eradication program would call for all dogs seized and impounded, all dogs vaccinated until a given area is free of rabies, all dogs quarantined as soon as rabies appears in a community, and six months quarantine on all imported dogs. Only by proper control methods can rabies be wiped out.

Big Gorilla Beaten By Panther Ruled Badly Outclassed

SPOKANE, WASH.—It was generally agreed that Barangtu, a 312-pound gorilla, never had a chance in his two-hour death struggle with a snarling 185-pound black panther.

Zoo authorities and the owner of the two animals expressed the opinion that despite the weight advantage, Barangtu was fighting far out of his class.

In fact, according to witnesses, the gorilla passed the entire two hours seeking to ward off the savage onslaughts of the enraged panther.

More than 400 persons were virtually hypnotized by the death struggle in a cage at a Liberty Lake animal show. When the battle was ended, the gorilla lay dead, mercifully murdered by show attendants. Before the attendants shot Barangtu, the panther had torn his arm off and inflicted numerous painful wounds.

It was probably the first time in history a gorilla had ever met a panther in mortal combat, according to Edward Johnson, Superintendent of the Woodland Park Zoo in Seattle.

The native habitat of the gorilla is Africa and the panther comes from Asia, he said.

Mrs. Ruby Smith, San Diego, one of the owners of the show, said that "Barangtu was the loser from the beginning." The panther slashed at him with his claws and teeth while about all the gorilla could do was try to avoid him."

In Seattle, Johnson said gorillas are peace-loving animals who do not attack others unless attacked first. They are mainly vegetarians, he said.

RED CROSS RECREATION PROGRAM HELPS HOSPITALIZED SERVICEMEN

Providing recreation and entertainment for hospitalized and convalescent servicemen is an important Red Cross job at military hospitals. These Red Cross hospital recreation workers take a group of patients for a tour of Mammoth Cave, Ky., during an outing sponsored by a community service organization.

Any woman will tell you she'd rather nurse five sick children than one sick man. Doctors and nurses are inclined to agree with her. A man resents being helpless and is often beset by fears for himself and his family.

The sick soldier is little different from the civilian, except that treating the sick serviceman presents additional problems.

Unlike the patient in the civilian hospital, who undergoes his convalescence at home, the soldier remains in the hospital until he is completely fit for duty. After the acute phase of the serviceman's illness is past, he is sent to a "reconditioning ward," where he remains until he is able to take up his regular military job. Sometimes he remains there for weeks. And usually he is far from home.

For recreation and simple, pleasurable activities to fill those long hours of convalescence, military physicians in post hospitals look to the American Red Cross and its corps of specially trained recreation workers.

Recreational programs are adapted to the needs of both the man confined to his ward and the convalescent. They range from teaching a bedridden man to play solitaire to dances and bingo games for the man on the road to recovery.

There are motion pictures for both ward patients and the covalescent, and for the ambulatory patients there are tickets and transportation to nearby ball parks and theaters.

There are also the special services provided by volunteer workers. Gray Ladies run errands and write letters, Motor Service provides transportation. Volunteer Services, working with other community agencies, help bring into the hospitals boys and girls of the same age group as the hospitalized serviceman.

Red Cross provides the "home touch" which, added to medical and nursing care, helps restore the sick man to good health.

Canada's Baby Bonus Falling, Record Shows

OTTAWA.—Canada's baby bonus program has passed its fourth birthday without any sign of achieving its goal—promoting larger families. And so far it has cost more than a billion dollars.

Since 1945, when the family allowances were introduced, there had been only one sudden jump in birth rates—between 1945 and 1946. That was attributed to the postwar reunion of many families.

An indication family allowances are not producing the expected effect is that fewer children were born in Canada in 1948 despite the fact there were more people in the country.

Doctor Treats Healthy Folks In Risky Roles

NEW YORK.—Most doctors treat sick people. But Dr. Vincent Nardielloy's patients generally are strong, healthy brutes built like human bulldozers.

They just happen to be in an unhealthy business.

As a house physician at Madison Square Garden, Dr. Nardiello never runs short of variety. His cases range from a cowboy's brain concussion induced by a horse to a small boy's stomachache induced by too much circus candy.

The spectators, you see, are a health problem, too, in an arena which seats 18,000.

The doctor has repaired the fractured wrist of a Democratic judge who fell off the platform during a Republican rally (no foul play was proved). He has treated the black eyes of fight fans who got to fighting, themselves. He has ministered to spectators for heart attacks brought on by thrills, for slight bruises caused by a rodeo calf which suddenly appeared in the box seats, and for some of the world's classiest bites at championship dog shows.

Cowboy Customers

During the circus, Dr. Nardiello averages about 10 kids a day who are brought to his office with complaints of headaches, dizziness or stomach pains all brought on by overeating.

But generally the short, chunky house doctor is kept busiest by the assorted athletes and performers most of whom are in top shape when they enter the Garden.

His most frequent customers are the rodeo cowboys. During their stand at the Garden, he averages 15 to 20 cases of dislocated shoulders, fractures, bruises and rope burns every night. In recent years there were two cowboys who died within four minutes after being kicked by horses.

The most durable athletes Dr. Nardiello knows are hockey players.

"I'll never forget Johnny Mowers, the Detroit goalie," the doctor says. "One night about five years ago he was smashed squarely in the teeth by a flying puck. He took 20 stitches and was back on the ice in 15 minutes."

He Needled 1,500

The biggest single job the doctor ever had at the Garden occurred in 1947, when he inoculated some 1,500 circus employes, including the tatooed lady, for smallpox.

One of the most tragic involved treating a trapeze flyer for shock and hysteria a few years ago. The man had tried to jump from an aerial platform after seeing his wife and partner miss her grip and fall to her death.

The performers closest to the doc's heart are the fighters. He used to be one himself, fighting for a time as a lightweight to work his way through medical school.

Dr. Nardiello is 60 and still very busy. He generally doesn't leave the Garden until after midnight, and the Garden is dark only one or two nights between Labor day and late spring, when the circus ends.

Man Obtains Court Order To Get Bed from Stepson

BOSTON.—It took a court order, but George MacMasters may sleep now in the master bedroom of his Holbrook home.

His 14-year-old stepson, John Rock, must stop "usurping" the big bedroom and from now on must sleep in a smaller room in the attic.

Judge John E. Swift fixed the sleeping arrangements in Suffolk county superior court. At MacMasters' request he issued a temporary injunction restraining the boy.

The 40-year-old linoleum-factory pressman had charged that he was "prevented from enjoying the ease and comfort of my own home." He asked the court to declare his stepson a trespasser in the home.

MacMasters told Judge Swift his stepson's "misbehavior is inspired by his mother," Mrs. Ann Rock MacMasters, from whom MacMasters is seeking a divorce.

Electric Shocks to Test Elephant Fence Strength

PORT ELIZABETH.—Giving a herd of wild elephants electric shocks to save them from extinction has posed the problem of how strong a shock must be given to make an elephant jump.

In erecting an electrified fence to discourage the dwindling herd of elephants of the Addo bush near here from straying over farm lands where the farmers will wage war on them, the keepers mapped a plan to test the shock.

The elephants will be led to the fence by a trail of oranges—about 1,000 oranges being used—with the idea that the beasts will follow the juicy trail and lean against the fragile-looking fence to knock it down. Then they'll get a surprise. When experts find how much current is needed, they will fence the whole area where the elephants roam.

TEENICIDE

Road Deaths On Uptrend

CHICAGO. — A car full of teenage boys recently drove through a red traffic light in a suburb near here and rammed their automobile at breakneck speed into the machine of an elderly couple. The innocent couple were killed instantly and all of the boys were seriously injured—some perhaps for life.

This accident typifies a new form of mass murder and self-destruction on the highways known as "teenicide."

Teenicide is violent death caused by an automobile driver under 25 years of age, usually the result of recklessness or immature judgement. Last year, teenicide figures soared to 7,500 killed and an estimated 275,000 injured. This shocking total represents 10 times more casualties than our armed forces suffered at Iwo Jima and cost the nation 600 million dollars in cold cash.

Can anything be done to reduce this slaughter? Scores of insurance agencies, automobile associations and other organizations are throwing their weight into the teenicide problem.

Three-Way Problem

James S. Kemper, chairman of the Lumbermens mutual casualty company and a pioneer in highway safety, believes the present death and accident rate can be cut only by changing the frivolous and irresponsible attitude of youth.

"The teenicide problem must be attacked in three ways," Kemper says. "First, youngsters must be taught the technique of safe driving, preferably in schools. Second, traffic rules must be enforced and stricter license requirements established. The third approach—and most important — is that parents should not only teach good driving but set an example themselves."

Kemper points out that any teenage boy who sees his parents driving 50 miles an hour in a 40-mile zone—and getting by with it—can almost invariably be expected to drive 60 miles an hour under the same conditions from natural vitality and exhuberance.

According to statistics, a car in the hands of a teen-ager is about twice as dangerous as a car driven by a mature adult. The 16-20 age group is involved in five times as many accidents as the 45-50 group; and sixteen-year-old drivers cause nine times as many accidents as the 45-50 group.

America Proves too Much For Baby Elephant Bimbo

NEW YORK.—Bimbo was a well behaved elephant—for such a little elephant, so far away from his native Africa.

When the plane landed at the international airport, Bimbo walked down the ramp without a bit of help.

It just took a little push to persuade him to lift his 190 pounds into the back seat of the car. He was reported to be the first elephant ever to ride in an automobile.

On the first trip downtown he stuck his trunk out of the window, and waved it calmly at the skyscrapers.

Believed to be the youngest—five months old—and smallest — 30 inches high—ever to come to this country, Bimbo was an elephant of distinction. And he behaved with distinction.

But at the animal store where he was taken, to await shipment to his final home in the St. Louis zoo, Bimbo found America too much for him.

The owner found him a few hours later collapsed in his cage, breathing too loudly, his heartbeat too weak.

A police emergency squad was called.

They gave Bimbo 1,600 cubic feet of pure oxygen before a trained animal-ambulance crew arrived.

The animal-store owner called his personal physician, who once had attended him for pneumonia.

The doctor administered penicillin and adrenalin injections.

Less than 12 hours after he arrived, Bimbo was reported sinking.

Later, lying under a gray army blanket and still getting oxygen, Bimbo died.

His body will go to the American museum of natural history.

PHYSICAL HANDICAP? YES!
JOB HANDICAP? NO!

All activities during this week will be directed toward developing job openings for the handicapped worker. He finds it more difficult, far more frustrating to match his aptitudes and abilities with job openings than does his unimpared fellow. Custom has placed a premium on high standards of physical perfection without regard for the demands of the job to be done. Again, this year the slogans will be—Hire the Handicapped, It's Good Business and Ability Not Disability Counts. Employers are invited to contact the local employment office where assistance will be given to place the right disabled worker on the right job.

The Maplesville football fans wanted to show the "Red Devils" of Maplesville team that they were behind them by going to Centreville with them last Friday night, and what they saw was well worth their money.

Maplesville 6-Bibb County 7. That is the way the score board read as the game ended in Centreville Friday night. Maplesville proved that they would be no push-over this year in their first game by going ahead 6-0 early in the game as left-half Chapman, Captain, ran 30 yards for the score. Bibb County came back to take the lead in the second quarter, 7-6. A few minutes later Chapman again took a hand-off from Quarterback Atcheson and ran 60 yards only to have the play called back and be penalized 15 yards. Neither team was able to score in the second half.

Coach Kelley expects the team to improve for the West Blocton game next Friday at West Blocton, as this was the first game using the newly installed "T" formation. The boys played good football and Coach Kelley is working hard with the boys, so remember the opening home game with Isabella October 7th. Everyone attend.

People Urged To Right Acts By Conscience

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The human conscience sometimes makes men do many strange things. Among these is the particular act or decision to ease one's conscience by making restitution for a fancied or real theft or deception.

For instance, the White House recently received a letter the other day which said:

"Enclosed is 5 cents which I owe the government. While out on the Atlantic in a boat I dropped a nickel overboard. Here is another one to put back in the mint."

Officials believe the letter was written in all sincerity, that there was nothing facetious about it. Many federal agencies get letters from people with guilty consciences and most of the letters contain money. If they do, they go to the "conscience fund" under the treasury's bureau of accounts; Joseph A. Woodson, chief. The money ends up in the general federal kitty and is 'spent.

Started in 1811

First known contributions to the conscience fund were during the administration of President Madison back in 1811. The total that year was $250. For the fiscal year 1948 it was $124,168.12.

Some people sign their names; others do not. A great many say they have found religion, and with it a pang of conscience for some past wrong.

A few jokesters are involved. Like the woman who sent 5c in stamps "to be applied against our 251 billion dollar public debt."

The letters, though, are not funny to the conscience fund people who maintain a large office on the fourth floor of the treasury building and keep an elaborate file and bookkeeping system on such matters. Each signed letter is answered politely.

The current crop of notes contains many from former servicemen.

One sent a money order for $30 to pay for property he stole while wearing an army uniform. Another had filched "a bunch of light bulbs" from the navy. "I don't know how many," he said, 'but I think $10 will cover it."

Returns $2.62

A marine declared he had been overpaid by $2.62 at the time of his discharge. He returned it, plus 10c in interest.

A soldier said he had walked out of a separation center (somehow) with his discharge papers in one hand and a bass drum in the other. He sent $17.50 with a notation that "it was such a poor drum it couldn't have been worth more than that."

A woman not long ago mailed in $150 in cash. She explained that she owed the government that much and had sent the amount in before. "I didn't receive any reply from you the first time, so here it is again." She didn't sign her name to either letter.

Sometimes the amount is small, but in the past startled clerks have opened plain envelopes containing as much as $30,000.

Hypnotic Therapy Credited With Curing Amnesia Case

NEW YORK CITY.—Hypnotic therapy has been credited with restoring memory to a New Rochelle housewife who apparently had been suffering from total amnesia for the past nine years.

The patient was Mrs. Emily Norton, 26, mother of two young children. She was reunited in New Rochelle with two of her brothers who arrived from Braddock, Pa., her former home which had been erased from her mind.

Details of the cure were told by Dr. Nathaniel E. Selby, who placed the young matron in her hypnotic state. He said that when she came to him last Thursday she could remember nothing of her past save that she had fainted on a street in Philadelphia in 1942, was unable to identify herself and started life anew as a waitress.

Four years ago she met and married John A. Norton in New Rochelle. They had two children, Robert, 3, and Melaine, aged 1. Fearful of delving into her past, she had told her husband she was an orphan. She came to Dr. Selby for diagnosis and treatment of headaches.

The phychiatrist said that under ordinary questioning Mrs. Norton could remember only the names of "Kybski" and Braddock, Pa.

Dr. Selby communicated with the Braddock police. They told him an Emily Kobalanski had disappeared in 1940 and had never been found. The family, consisting of father, mother, four brothers and a sister, were dubious after having checked so many fruitless clues. But they told the doctor Emily had a small scar on her forehead.

When Mrs. Norton visited him Tuesday, Dr. Selby saw the scar. It was then that he hypnotized her and, he said, "she had a full return of memory," except that some details of her past between 1940 and 1942 still remain to be cleared up.

Blazing Meteor Of Fireball Size Seen in Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—A large meteor blazing across the southern sky was seen by many people in four other midwestern states, as well as in Milwaukee.

Because of its brightness, the Milwaukee astronomical society said the meteor was large enough to be classed as a "fireball"—a meteor that can be seen before dark.

Traveling at about 2,500 miles an hour, the fireball entered the earth's atmosphere somewhere east of Chicago at about 8:03 p.m., according to Edward A. Halbach, director of the society's observatory near the town of New Berlin (Waukesha county). It disappeared on the southern horizon less than one minute later.

Earl Needham, a member of the society, said that the light from the fireball appeared about as intense as a photographic flash bulb exploded 100 feet away. Dozens of persons called Needham, Halbach and other members of the society to report seeing it.

The fireball probably was the size of a man's head, Halbach said. He explained that ordinary meteors are about as large as a grain of sand. Like the fireball seen here, they enter the earth's atmosphere and become incandescent from friction with the air at high speed.

Usually they burn out before reaching the earth, Halbach reported. But he said that the fireball probably struck the earth before this could happen. Early reports indicate that it may have fallen in the southwest corner of Wisconsin, Halbach said. The society was to conduct a search for it if later observations bear this out.

It Pays to be Ignorant, Says University Professor

SOUTH BEND, IND.—Ignorance is bliss—and it's better for a student to be ignorant than wrong.

That's the opinion of Dr. Mortimer J. Adler, a University of Chicago law philosophy professor.

"The trouble with most students today is that they are not ignorant enough," Dr. Adler told a University of Notre Dame convocation. "Instead of being ignorant, most students have erroneous opinions."

Wrong opinions are worse than ignorance, Dr. Adler said, for this reason:

"Before you can give knowledge to a person in error, you must get rid of the error. The problem of eradicating the error doesn't exist in the ignorant person, since he knows he doesn't know and so is more easily given knowledge."

Women Found Able As Men At Car Wheel

MILWAUKEE. — Stifle those laughs about women drivers. The girls are just as handy with the wheel as with the skillet.

That's the opinion of several driving instructors here. One believes that the best pupils are housewives in their early 30s. Why? He doesn't know.

The driving instructors chuckle over some of the incidents that occur during lessons.

"An elderly widow with a Dixie drawl was proceeding down Lake dr. on a busy afternoon when suddenly she wound up in the left lane," related instructor Roger L. Moody.

"Oncoming cars were splitting up around her like the tide around a rock. Her instructor steered the car over to the other side, whereupon she drawled, 'We sure did get out of that nice, didn't we.' "

Another anecdote Moody likes to tell concerns a man. Learning to shift on Lincoln Memorial dr., the man yanked the steering wheel to the right and placed the car in line with the lagoon. Immediately he reached for the brake but stepped on the gas instead.

The wheels were on the grass, with the car poised for a leap into the water when the novice handed over the situation to the teacher. He never returned for another lesson.

Many Questions Asked

Are there many stupid questions? Yes, the instructors say, but "you get so used to dumb questions you cease to consider them dumb." Shifting frequently is difficult for beginners. Irritated, they inquire at stops: "Do I have to shift and start all over again?"

From back seat to front seat driver is quite a jump for some women.

"It's hard for many women to learn to steer," an instructor said. "They're used to being passengers and looking to the side. Now they have to look ahead."

Sex, age and occupation have little influence on whether a pupil will make a good driver.

Some teen agers take to autos like race horses to a track. Others plod along and fail to earn their licenses from the state motor vehicle department even after finishing the customary six lessons and being awarded their diploma from the school.

A former B-24 pilot learned the fundamentals in two hours while a used car dealer quit in despair.

From 16 to 78

Youngsters of 16 take the course. The oldest pupil was 78. He had bought a new car but could find no one with patience enough to teach him to drive. He learned in three weeks. Most of the pupils take 10 days.

"A woman about 40 said she was happier about getting her driver's license than her marriage license," an instructor commented.

Families have registered; so have bridge clubs, prospective drivers for welfare groups, two rabbis and a young policeman.

Old Indian Village Is to Be Restored By Wisconsin State

AZTALAN, WIS. — Today about 350 persons live here at Aztalan where five hundred years ago about 1,000 Indians dwelt in a thriving village. The Indian inhabitants vanished about 1500 and now the site of the once busy Indian village is a big, bumpy field knee-deep in weeds; but the state of Wisconsin plans someday to reconstruct the village to look just as it did centuries ago.

The state of Wisconsin has purchased the site for a state park. But no construction of the village can be done until the topsoil is carefully scraped away and the undisturbed ground below the plow zone scrutinized.

Ten brawny, sun tanned archaeologists are spending the summer in the middle of the field, carefully scraping the soil off and cataloging everything they find. The expedition, headed by Chandler Rowe, assistant professor of anthropology at Lawrence college, has uncovered many broken jugs, bird and deer bones, shell hoes and an occasional sharp bone used by the Indians as a shuttle in weaving.

From the materials found, the archaeologists reconstruct the culture of the Indians who lived here. Rowe pointed to a circular blackish area about six inches across, and explained that it was a decayed post. Series of such post holes have indicated the exact location of a stockade that surrounded the village and the size and shape of the houses. When the conservation department restores the village, it will be able to sink posts in the exact places where the Indians did.

Archaeologists have been excavating Aztalan off and on since 1919. Their discoveries show pretty certainly that the Indians were from the middle Mississippi valley.

Chinese Runs Sum of $10 Into Enormous Fortune

SAN FRANCISCO.—A 66-year-old Chinese who came to San Francisco 49 years ago with $10 in his pockets has run his worldly fortune into several millions by building a herbal empire, buying real estate, and selling spicy night-club entertainment.

He is fabulous Fong Wan, known mainly as the "king of the herbalists in North America." He acquired his title by treating thousands who claimed to suffer from almost every ailment known to man.

Although his main business has been herbs, Fong is making thousands in real estate and income from two hotels he owns in San Francisco plus restaurants and night clubs.

Talking Crow Enrolled At Illinois University

CHAMPAIGN. ILL.—George M. Crowham, a talking crow, is going to school at the University of Illinois.

Dr. O. H. Mowrer, director of the psychological clinic, hopes to establish from George M. Crowham just how babies learn to talk.

David Maxwell, 17, Edwardsville, Ill., who taught the bird to talk gave it to Mowrer. Mowrer believes the process by which the crow was taught to speak is the same as that by which a mother coaxes the first words from a child.

Delicate Operation Untangles an Artery Choking Girl Child

BOSTON. — The once tangled heart of a baby girl has been freed by a famed surgeon in a "very rare" operation which cut a "ring" which might have squeezed out her lifebeat.

Sandra (Sandy) Kaplan, six-month-old blond daughter of a noted athlete, was reported in "good condition."

"We think she's cured," the spokesman said after the hour and a half of surgery by the noted specialist, Dr. Richard Sweet, severed part of a great artery from the heart which threatened to choke her.

It was the fourth such operation in the history of the hospital.

Sandy is the daughter of Bernard Kaplan of New Rochelle, N. Y., a one-time football flash for the University of Western Maryland and later a pro star with the New York Giants.

From birth the girl was afflicted with an "aortic ring" which caused fits of near-strangulation and difficulty in swallowing.

Sandy's mother said that twice during the attacks she held the little girl upright against her chest all through the night. A nurse stood by to administer oxygen.

The hospital spokesman said any of those attacks could have been fatal. He described the "aortic ring" in this fashion.

The aorta is the principal blood vessel, or artery, of the human heart. In a normal person it arches across the heart and then passes in front of the windpipe (trachea) and gullet (esophagus), which are parallel tubes.

But the girl's aorta had split and divided in such a way that it passed both in front of and behind the windpipe and gullet, thus enclosing them in a ring. This ring squeezed against the two essential breathing and swallowing tubes of the throat.

Expectant Dads Are Taught How to Act With Children

CHICAGO. — Expectant fathers are taught what to expect when the stork comes.

A series of three sessions for prospective fathers is conducted four times a year at Chicago lying-in hospital and dispensary of the university of Chicago.

Chicago lying-in, which is primarily a research institution, started classes for fathers a year ago. Since then more than 500 husbands have attended classes open to every expectant father in Chicago. Instruction is free.

Dr. William J. Dieckmann, chairman of the department of obstetrics and chief of staff, said the fathers' classes were an effort to pull the father into family activity.

'It's a 50-50 business, and a father can make things much easier for his wife if he is made to realize that there is a lot of work and mental strain before and after the baby is born," he said.

Opposition Developing To T. R. Memorial Spot

OYSTER BAY, L. I.—An unexpected volume of opposition has developed against a plan to create a national shrine at Sagamore Hill, home of former President Theodore Roosevelt and one-time summer White House. As a result, Mayor Lee Loomis of Cove Neck, and trustees of that incorporated village, where Sagamore Hill is situated, are awaiting further developments and perhaps abandonment of the proposal.

At a public hearing in the tennis court building of Cove Neck to consider an application from the Roosevelt memorial association for a change of zoning to permit the establishment of the memorial, a large number of estate owners in the community stated their opposition to making a public shrine in the midst of a strictly residential section.

There is no business area in Cove Neck. It is a colony of estates approached by a narrow winding road along the waters of Oyster Bay Cove, and to establish a public shrine where visitors would pay entrance fees and roam over the twenty acres of hills was out of keeping with the wishes of property owners, according to the tenor of most of the protests at the meeting.

Musical Notes to Test Hearing of US Sailors

CHICAGO.—The navy is experimenting with a musical-note test which it hopes will prove to be a quick, easy method to discover men with extra-acute hearing.

Such men are needed to operate sound-detecting and ranging gear used in antisubmarine warfare.

The present time-consuming method of testing hearing ability in the navy is the measurement of the distance a person can hear a whispered number of phrases.

This test is generally satisfactory but not detailed or selective enough to meet special needs.

The new method is more accurate, standardized, and can test as many as 300 men at one time.

It consists of a pulsating pure sound which gradually decreases in intensity. Single, double, or triple pulsations alternate as the intensity decreases.

Radio Ramblings

(By JESSE CULP)

A new voice is being heard this week on WKLF. It is that of Earl Kaiser, who has joined the full-time staff of the station as announcer-engineer. Earl has worked for quite some time on week ends at the transmitter, but hasn't been heard on the air. I'm sure you'll like his friendly manner.

Football fans will hear another great football game this Saturday afternoon, as the Alabama Crimson Tide journeys to Nashville to play Vanderbilt. Gabby Bell will be there with the ABS play-by-play microphone to bring WKLF listeners a complete report of the game.

The "Peach Pickers," one of the oldest bands to play on WKLF, are now heard each Saturday at 12.05 on the "Rural Party Line" program. The group is presently composed of Shorty Bates on the straight guitar, Earl Bates, who doubles on the fiddle and steel guitar, and Mrs. Shorty Lois Bates, who helps out on the vocals. They invite you to come up and visit their broadcast.

Well, this is my final edition of "Radio Ramblings." As you may know, I am moving in to the State Department of Agriculture in Montgomery to do some farm radio work. I'd like to say to all of you that I deeply regret leaving such a fine group of people, and I appreciate very much your courtesies and cooperation. Stand by your radio station and help it build. WKLF is one of the greatest assets Chilton County has ever had, and with your backing it will grow better and better through the years.

'Nuts' Is OK in Battle, But Not in Parliament!

LONDON—Its all right to reply to an enemy's demand for surrender with the now classic "Nuts!"—but if you're a member of Parliament you can't say that another member is "nuts" without formally apologizing.

This ruling was made after Labor Member Ernest Thurtle objected because Communist Member William Gallacher said, "He is nuts," and the words were printed in the official record of proceedings.

Animal Once Thought Extinct Discovered On Haiti Peninsula

WASHINGTON—On the brink of oblivion for more than a century, an animal once believed to be extinct has been rediscovered, and a freshly-killed specimen is in the hands of the Smithsonian institution to prove it.

It is a Haitian species of the hutia, ratlike distant relative of the guinea pig and porcupine, which was last collected in 1830 and described by the French naturalist Cuvier.

Since then no living specimens have been reported, although there are quite close relatives in the Dominican Republic, Cuba, Jamaica and some other West Indian islands. They represent a meager remnant of what was once a large flourishing family of rodents.

The Smithsonian has received from Anthony Curtiss of Port-au-Prince a freshly killed specimen collected on the southwestern peninsula of Haiti. Here the little creature apparently has found its last refuge.

Although scientists have assumed that this hutia was extinct, Curtiss wrote the Smithsonian that "it is well known to the country people of the region, who have dogs trained to catch it."

A near relative in the Dominican Republic is known to live in hollow trees, and dogs are trained to drive it out. The Haitian type is believed not to be a tree dweller, owing to the structure of its body.

It is quite closely related to the long-extinct "giant rat" of the West Indies, which probably became extinct about the time the first white men arrived in the New World. Its remains are common in cave deposits and Indian kitchen middens, and it may have been an important Indian food.

Polio Rate

Still Increasing

WASHINGTON — Figures from the U.S. Public Health Service show a continuing increase in infantile paralysis cases.

Last year, in which 27,894 cases were reported for the entire year, was the second worst polio year in the nation's history. It was topped only by 1916, when approximately 30,000 cases were listed.

Officials point out that in 1916 most of the cases were paralytic cases and included in the totals.

A total of 684 new cases was reported for the week ended July 9. 1949, compared with 479 for the preceding week and 510 for the corresponding week in 1948.

Since the first of the year, 3,881 cases had been reported as of July, 1949, for the nation as compared with 2,878 for the same period last year.

States reporting the largest number of cases are Texas 121 (118 the week before); Oklahoma 74 (51); Arkansas 70 (59); California 58 (29); and Minnesota 38 (25).

New Device Halves Time, Cost to Turn Out Pilots

NEW YORK—By means of a $250,000 electronic devise called a Dehmel flight simulator, pilots can learn to fly the new double-deck $1,500,000 stratocruisers in less than half the usual time and at half the usual cost.

This disclosure was made by Capt. Sam Miller, chief pilot for Pan American Airways' Atlantic division, in reviewing his first six months' experience with the device.

Veteran pilots who ordinarily would have to spend ten and a half hours in the air to learn to fly the new double-deck $1,500,000 stratocruisers now spend less than five hours in actual flights.

The device makes pilots experts in handling problems they are never likely to meet in years of actual flying.

German Electric Seine May Aid Whale Hunters

FRANKFURT, GERMANY.—Two Germans have developed an electrical device which, they say, attracts fish of a predetermined size, stuns them with a slight electric shock and causes them to fall into the net.

Physicist Konrad Kreutzer and Hamburg engineer Herbert Peglow designed the apparatus for fishing sparse deep sea banks, but it has been tried out successfully in fresh water.

At Hamburg they are fitting out a former German mine sweeper, with which they hope to revolutionize the fishing industry.

In front of a normal trawl net they trail a metal plate attached to a generator. By varying the type and the strength of the current fishermen could lure big or small fish, which develop symptoms of anesthesia. They are then scooped up in the trawl.

The invention can also be applied to the whaling industry, it is said. "Shocked" whales could be brought alongside for inspection, then killed or rejected.

Color Is Vital Point In Salesman Technique

NEW YORK—Here's a tip for those who would be successful salesmen or cooks. Woo your prospects with color.

So proclaims Howard Ketcham, an industrial design and color consultant, and he is talking to ladies who want to produce enjoyable meals as well as to businessmen who want to strike it rich.

"Color," says, Ketcham, "has a powerful influence on the subconscious. We know that people everywhere like an atmosphere of mental ease and a sense of well-being. And color, when it is considered a part of and as important as design can achieve just this."

All sorts of experiments and surveys have proved Ketcham's claim. For instance, there was the cafeteria chain which wanted to improve its salad sales. Ketcham suggested replacing the usual white crockery with pale green plates. Sales went up over 100 per cent within a few days.

Wingless-Chicken Eggs Flown to Great Britain

DES MOINES, IA. — The first wingless-chicken eggs ever sold since Peter H. Baumann placed on public display 400 of the "disarmed" birds he has developed over a 12-year period of evolution, were flown to Great Britain recently. The eggs will be used to hatch wingless chickens in London.

Mr. Baumann, who is a veterinary supply salesman, caused a raising of the eyebrows of farmers, poultrymen, agriculture editors and chicken consumers when he placed his wingless birds on public display.

His new breed, which took $15,000 to develop, produces fatter drumsticks and a surplus of white meat instead of the bones and tough joints of wings.

Several orders for live wingless chickens, including one "just a block from the White House," came from across the country, but he has not decided yet how many of his birds he will place on the market, Mr. Baumann said.

Grandmother, 62, Enjoys Motorcycle Trip to Wedding

McCOOK, NEB.—At 62, Mrs. A. H. Muffley thinks nothing of making a trip through three states with her husband, aged 63, aboard a motorcycle-built-for-two.

At least, she found that mode of travel "very enjoyable" when her husband brought her here on the back of his motorcycle all the way from Galesburg, Ill., to attend the marriage of their granddaughter.

"It wasn't too tiring," she said.

On the trip she sat on a specially-built seat directly behind her husband. The seat was cushioned with four inches of sponge rubber.

Robin Hood Statue Planned in England

NOTTINGHAM, ENGLAND. — Robin Hood may return to Sherwood forest if a Nottingham industrialist, Philip E. F. Clay, has his way.

In Robin Hood's own town, where the outlaw and his merry men in Lincoln green once shattered the nerves of the high sheriff, Clay has offered the city council 5,000 pounds (about $20,000), and more, if necessary, to erect a statue of the man who "stole from the rich and gave to the poor."

City council has accepted the gift, and now the town is split over the location of the statue. The raging question is: should Robin stand in Nottingham itself or out in one of the few remaining glades of Sherwood forest? A solution is expected soon.

Flooding Texas Areas Get-Rich-Quick Plans

HOUSTON, TEX.—Canadian oil boom get-rich-quick schemes are moving across the international border by mail, telegraph and telephone.

Better business bureaus report receiving numerous complaints and inquiries on Canadian oil stock solicitations. Few are found to be legitimate. Few hold sound claims to oil leases, to say nothing of oil itself.

Predicted immediate investment returns range as high as $40 for each $1 sent across the border.

Mail order promotion of Canadian oil stocks flooded two Texas cities —Houston and Dallas—whose residents had their fill of bogus stocks in the old Texas boom days.

A Toronto, Canada, company mailed promotion literature and application blanks in wholesale fashion.

Commented C. Edward Buehner, manager of the Houston better business bureau:

"They seemed to have mailed to everyone in the city directory. Practically everyone in our office received the letters."

Mr. Buehner has accumulated a bulky file on fake Canadian stock promotions dating back to days when there was wild speculation on Canada's gold mines. The recent rich oil strike in Alberta province apparently has caused many of the mail order speculators to switch to oil.

Teacher Warns Against Educating Selfish Ones

RICHMOND, KY.—The president of the College of the Bible said here to increase the intellectual powers of a selfish person is to endanger freedom and menace peace.

Delivering the baccalaureate address at Eastern State College, Dr. Riley B Montgomery said:

"An education that increases knowledge and develops the intellect but fails to strengthen the character may . . . lead to disappointment and ultimate failure.

"Life can be continuously thrilling when we constantly search for knowledge and truth, and when we make it a continuous experiment in social responsibility and a continuous adventure in religious living."

Experimenter Gives Up Neckless-Chicken Try

BYRON, CALIF.—A chicken with no neck would be a bigger boon to white meat lovers than even the new wingless variety. That idea occurred to Lorenzo Armstrong when he read about wingless birds developed in the midwest.

So Armstrong built his hen houses with low roofs. Feeding troughs were breast high. The wire over the chicken runs was lowered. He figured if they kept their heads down the chickens' necks wouldn't grow.

He gave up finally. The chickens just got humpbacked.

All you have to do is to write us a letter telling us how much you want to pay for hats!

On October 1st, "The Hat Shop" will celebrate their First Anniversary. For the past year we've sold hats priced from $2.98 to $15.00. We've found it very difficult to sell a $2.98 or $3.98 hat after showing a better one, yet many of our customers will not pay the price of a better one. When we carried only the popular priced hats, we often heard the remark made, "Why doesn't The Hat Shop stock more expensive hats as all the other stores have the popular priced ones?" We do want to sell nearer a one-price range and we want to sell the price hat you want to buy, so we are asking the public to help us decide.

To make it more interesting for you, we are offering a twenty-five dollar ($25) prize for the best letter of two hundred (200) words or less, telling us what price hat you think we should sell and why.

We also carry lingerie, hose, gloves, hand bags and hat trimmings. Do you think we should stock these along with our hats?

If we get more letters asking for popular priced hats, then we will sell only that price, or more letters favoring a higher price hat, then we will sell only the higher priced one, etc.

this is your hat store

Contest opens October 1st and closes December 1st. You don't have to buy anything, just your opinion is all we want.

our aim is to please you

Be Careful of Fire; Use Axe Wisely!

Six hundred years before John Smith came to America the Vikings took forest products from Labrador to Greenland and Iceland. However, the Vikings discontinued this operation and the Colonist at Jamestown must be credited for having started the first business in America. Old records of the Virginia Company show htat Capt. John Smith shipped timber from Virginia to England in 1608 and the forest industries have grown to this day.

At first some wood was used for fuel, furniture, homes and fences. Other quanities were destroyed to make way for agriculture but always a seemingly inexhaustable supply was available just over the ridge. Today most lands suitable for agriculture, and a lot that was not, have been cleared. With the increased population, mechanization of harvesting and processing and increased number of ways to use the fiber of the tree, the seemingly unlimited supply has all but been exhausted. Today we are cutting 2nd, 3rd and even 4th growth timber from our forests where only a short time ago virgin timber was to be had for the taking. We are fortunate in that we live in an area where water and sunlight—the controlling factors in the growth of a tree — are available in such quantities as to grow trees as a crop. Trees are a crop and can be harvested from time to time as any other crop.

In considering the conservation of our soil—which with the exception of the Ocean is the source of all new wealth—we cannot expect to achieve anything like success if we overlook our forest acreage that comprises more than 60 percent of the total area of this county. The patriotic and emotional appeal for conservation of this economically invaluable source of revenue is to no avail until people are convinced that it pays in dollars and cents. That trees are contributing in a large way to the economy of this immediate area and each of us can in part be appreciated when we take into consideration the fact that gross receipts in 1948 from Chilton County's better than a quarter of a million acres of forest lands were, in round figures, three million dollars. This quarter million acres and better of woodlands are owned by more than four thousand individuals and companies.

It represents a challenge to all of us to not only maintain but to increase our revenue from this source. This can be accomplished by [illegible] simple rules. Namely, being [illegible] with fire and the wis use of the axe and saw.

The theme of our paper for these few weeks, Henry Gra[illegible] "THE SOUTH WILL COME INTO IT'S OWN WHEN IT'S FIELDS ARE GREEN IN WINTER," should not omit our forest lands. There is nothing [illegible] pathetic as bare eroded fields and [illegible] deforested woodlands.

Announcement has been made by Col. C. S. Irvine, commanding officer of the 509th Bomb Wing in New Mexico of the promotion of James W. Vines to the rank of Sergeant. Sgt. Vines, who formerly resided at 8th St., Clanton, Ala., is a member of the 509th Air Police Squadron.

Sargeant's Son Given Send-off by Air Force

LONDON. — Sgt. Urban Singleton's son is off to a flying start—the U. S. air force took care of that for the sergeant who was on duty in England with a superfortress unit.

Singleton was unable to find space in an English hospital for his wife, Margaret, when their baby was due. The Air Force flew her to an American hospital in Germany. There the son, John Michael, was born.

Maj. Gen. Leon Johnson's converted flying fortress landed at Northold Airfield from Germany. Its only passengers were Singleton, his wife, and baby.

"I just mentioned to one of my officers that my wife was in Germany," said Singleton. "The next thing I knew I was on my way to pick them up in the general's own plane."

Singleton is from Colorado Springs.

VERBENA DEFEATS ISABELLA

Friday night, September 23rd, Isabella's football team met defeat at the hands of the Verbena team, in Verbena. The game was filled with thrills and suspense from the kick off until the final whistle. Verbena scored in the first quarter and Isabella scored twice in the third. In the final period Messer and Turner broke through and scored twice for Verbena, making the final score 21-14.

IT'S A GIRL

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Kirkpatrick are the proud parents of a seven-pound 5-ounce daughter born September 19, at St. Margaret's Hospital in Montgomery. They have named her M[illegible]n'a Gwen Kirkpatrick. Both mother and daughter are doing fine at their home here.

Goose Skins With Down On Available Soon

St. LOUIS, MO.—Goose skins, never an important commercial item in the past, may soon prove to be of great value to the poultry farmers of the nation.

Goose skin production has been hampered by two things: Not enough geese and lack of a practical way to tan or preserve the delicate skin. Exhibitors at the international baby chick association convention showed how these two obstacles now may be overcome.

First an incubator company of Gettysburg, Ohio, displayed an incubator to hatch geese eggs. Ray Petersime, vice-president of the company, explained that before this the hatching has been up to the parent geese. Regular incubators didn't work with geese eggs, he said.

Tanning Technique

Then a goose farm of Zarephath, N.J., demonstrated a tanning process for the goose skin. To skin a goose, you first pull the feathers off carefully, leaving the thick fuzzy down in place. Next you separate the skin, with down attached, from the body of the goose. Then you tan it by the patented process.

Tanned and with the down still attached, goose skins can be used for powder puffs, baby booties, trim on women's hats and negligees, baby caps and the like. Poultrymen at the convention said there was a big future for goose skins. They said the down holds onto powder, for example, just the way it should to make an ideal puff.

The Petersime incubator has a device which turns the geese eggs. The temperature and humidity are controlled to make things ideal for the unhatched geese. And, Petersime said, the incubator has "a mild breathing air movement."

Future Bright

Other poultrymen at the convention said the future is bright in the goose business. Cotton farmers are discovering, for example, that geese will eat the grass and weeds in their fields but not the cotton.

The down on their skins, they said, can be colored pink, blue or whatever the buyer wants. A goose skin is about the size of an open telephone book and, once tanned, is fairly durable.

George Scheuffle, proprietor of the goose farm, also exhibited a method of canning goose meat. Other goose experts among the 3,200 poultrymen here for the convention said that incubator hatched, mass produced geese can be kept until they are too old to lay eggs in quantity. Then they can be killed, they said, and every part can be used. The feathers can stuff pillows, the skins can be tanned and the meat can be cooked or canned.

Ghost Town Restoration Paying Good Dividends

RALEIGH, N. C.—Fontana village in the Great Smoky mountains of North Carolina is one ghost town that refused to remain an uninhabited country crumbling to dust. Instead, its homes and business buildings have been reconverted into resort properties until the entire village is one huge hotel.

Deep in the heart of the Smokies, well off the beaten path, Fontana village lies at the end of a nine-mile scenic highway which extends from federal highway 129 along the shore line of the Little Tennessee river. There is no "beyond."

In a setting of 50 green acres at 1,800 feet elevation, rimmed by mountains that rise another 1,500 feet, are 300 houses and cottages along wide, shaded streets that ramble up hill and down.

Fontana village was built by TVA for the use of its employes while two mile distant Fontana dam (TVA's largest) was under construction. When the dam was completed, the employes departed and the village became a ghost town.

A private organization in Washington, D. C., saw the possibilities which Fontana village offered, and so it came to life again "a-courtin' of the tourist trade."

And the idea took, with the result that three-quarters of a million people representing every state in the nation and 35 foreign countries visited the village last year.

Dead-Eye Ball-Tosser Cleans Out Concession

PALISADES PARK, N. J.—It was a tough day for the ball-throwing concessionaire here. Sixteen-year-old Bobby Pritchard, Newark, completely cleaned out the concession by knocking down 3,000 consecutive milk bottles.

The youth won every prize on the concession's shelves for the first time in the history of the amusement park, and walked away with more than 400 assorted kewpie dolls, stuffed animals, figurines, and pieces of china. He hired three cabs to take his prizes home.

The concessionaire, who had to send to a warehouse to get additional prizes for later business, said young Prichard spent only $1, since he took many free throws in place of prizes.

Aged Zoo Donkey Now Immortalized In History Museum

NEW YORK CITY. — A little donkey that gave rides to children in the Bronx zoo for 19 years has been immortalized in the American museum of natural history.

Henceforth, visitors in the hall of comparative anatomy will see it as a "skeleton in motion" fighting off the attack of a botfly by scratching its left hind leg with its teeth.

It is the final work of the late S. Harmsted Chubb, world authority on animals in motion as shown by their mounted skeletons.

Mrs. Chubb finished the job from detailed instructions that the osteologist dictated shortly before his death. Chubb also prepared a number of charts and diagrams to assist his wife in the delicate work.

Chubb's entire collection of mounted specimens will remain as part of the museum's permanent display, including his collection of 25,000 bones ranging in size from pin-point specks to five feet in length and four inches in diameter.

Among the most famous of the scientist's mounts was that of an Irish elk which he completed in 1897 for Columbia university.

His mountings of a rearing horse and man and of a central Mongolian wild horse attacked by a wolf have achieved world-wide fame.

Dr. William K. Gregory, curator emeritus of Comparative Anatomy, said that although Dr. Chubb's work was of great interest to all who are concerned with natural history in its many forms and to the lay public at large, it was of particular interest to artists and students who find the perfect specimens of tremendous value in research and anatomical drawing.

80 Acres Prize Wheat Harvested by 'Mistake'

CHEYENNE WELLS, COL.—Lloyd Meis of this community discovered that 80 acres of his prize wheat had been harvested while he was working on another part of the farm.

Naturally disturbed, he sought out legal aid to determine where his wheat had gone.

Sheriff Ed Byers went to work on the case. It didn't take him long to come up with the facts. The wheat "thieves," he learned, were transient harvest hands employed by a neighboring farmer. They had harvested Meis' wheat by mistake.

The wheat was located at a nearby elevator and was credited to Meis' account.

Blind Man Names Babies At Cost of Dollar Each

MUNCIE, IND.—There is a new business for solving an old handicap.

R. H. Gifford, of this city, is blind and aging. There seemed nothing he could do; but he had a will and there was a way. Gifford took up baby-naming. He chose that, he said, because there are so many people with odd names. He used science and common sense as his "technique" in naming babies.

For 25 cents Gifford offers parents a name for their baby. If they accept his suggestion, he says, he expects them to send him 75 cents more.

"That's a pretty inexpensive way to assure a youngster a good name," he thinks.

"A person with an off sounding name often gets off on the wrong foot," he says. "Some first names don't fit the last names. Take Oswald and Lemuel. I've met dozens of men with those names and they don't pair with any surname, not even Smith."

He says off spellings of common names were impractical, also names used for either boy or girl, such as Francis and Frances.

As a general rule, he explains, short first names go best with long names, and vice versa. He detests the word "junior."

"A good name helps your personality," Gifford says.

Gifford's own name?

He insists that the "h" is an initial only. Under pressure, he admitted that his first name is "Romain."

"Horrible sounding, isn't it?" he said. "But I'm stuck with it."

Aged Ohio Indian Fighter Thinks He'll Ask Pension

COLUMBUS, OHIO.—An 83-year-old Perry countian, who says he fought Indians in Oklahoma before there was an Oklahoma, finally has decided he'd like to have a federal pension.

James Finley of Rehobeth, a settlement a mile northeast of here, told Harlan Smith, Perry county service officer, his Indian fighting was between the years of 1882 and 1885. He said he was wounded three times by arrows, once in each hip and once in his left shoulder. He added he broke three ribs when a horse threw him.

He served with General Lyons in the ninth field artillery, he recalls.

Big trouble, Finley told Smith, is the fact his discharge papers were lost when his home burned some time ago.

Smith said the service record was needed to complete the application for pension.

ANGEL FISH

Helen Lures New Yorkers

NEW YORK. — "Where's your baggage?" asked the clerk behind the ticket counter at LaGuardia Field's overseas terminal recently. He was speaking to four New York businessmen checking in for Pan American airway's morning flight to Bermuda.

"Here it is," they chorused, each waving a pair of bathing trunks in the chap's face. "We're just going down to see Helen. We'll be back on tonight's Clipper."

"Helen must be an extraordinary woman," thought the clerk. But he was wrong. Helen is a fish, not an ordinary fish but a lovely angel fish of iridescent blue with extended fins that trail behind her like gay yellow streamers. Her outstanding attribute is her liking for people. With her friend, Ruth, and a host of yellow grunts, breams and gray snappers, she receives callers nearly every day at her home on a coral reef 15 feet below the ocean level.

Fascinating Diversion

Visiting these residents of the briny deep in their submarine homes is Bermuda's newest and most fascinating diversion. A young American, Bronson Hartley, introduced the fascinating sport of deep sea diving to the tourists a year ago after doing it himself for the past 18 years. Now the vacationist who is bored with the ordinary pleasures of swimming and bicycling can make like a fish at the bottom of the ocean for a mere $5 and the trouble of donning a diving helmet and sneakers—furnished by Hartley—and a bathing suit.

In the past 12 months, more than 1,000 persons — including a five-year-old boy and an 85-year-old lady—have taken Hartley's underwater sight-seeing tour. It's the rage with college students, honeymooners and jokers who like to write post cards underwater with ball point pens. More than one party of high living New Yorkers have Clippered the 773 miles down to the Coral islands for the sole purpose of viewing them 15 feet underwater and last Christmas, 24 persons begged Hartley in vain to take them down.

So popular has this unique sport become that tourists have taken to phoning Hartley at 6:00 a.m. in the morning to make reservations for the day's trips. With good humor, he added the longest extension cord he could find to his telephone and carries it with him from bedroom to bath to breakfast making appointments all the way.

Two Trips Daily

Twice a day—morning and afternoon—he sets out in his small cabin cruiser with his faithful assistant, Roy Darrell, and no more than eight guests. While the boat moves out through the brilliant green water of Flatts, Hartley briefs his passengers on what to do and look for while strolling around the ocean floor and how to walk ski-crouch fashion, knees bent and body erect. One must tread lightly, too, to keep from plowing up the sand and clouding the water.

In calm weather, Hartley steers out to the ocean where the passengers descend to one of the coral reefs that surround Bermuda. But in rough weather—when the churning waves of the ocean might make his passengers seasick — he heads for a quiet bay in Harrington Sound. High bluffs fringed with hibiscus and oleander bushes edge this cove and so protect it from the wind that Hartley was able to take a party down there during the last hurricane.

Pretender

Fights for Afghan Throne

KARACHI, INDIA — Tension between Afghanistan and Pakistan is tightening as a claimant to the Afghan throne continues his attempts to raise an army in the troubled tribal area between the two semi-hostile Moslem nations.

The claimant is Amin Jan, whose brother, Amanullah, vacated the throne in 1929 and now lives in Italy. Amin Jan wants to replace the present king, Zahir Shah, and figures an army might help.

Amin Jan is German-educated and has an English wife. He was arrested in Peshawar following his brother's abdication and was deported by the British to Rangoon. Later he was transferred to the Allahabad Jails. He was released in 1948 and allowed to proceed to Pakistan.

He already had made one start on an expedition to Kabul, Afghanistan's capital. But on reaching the border he found the number of irregulars—Mahsud tribesmen—had dwindled to 30, Amin Jan called the expedition off.

The major result was to stir up a new dispute between Pakistan and Afghanistan, already arguing over control of the tribal belt stretching along the frontier.

Kabul radio complained that Pakistan was backing Amin Jan. Pakistan replied that it had warned the Afghans about his activities and urged tribesmen not to join him. Observers here, however, declare that Pakistan would be pleased to see Amin on the throne.

Truck Drivers Better Read This If They Value Their Jobs

PITTSBURGH — Truck drivers had better read this if they value their jobs—and the lives and property of their fellow man:

Recently, a driver was burning up the Pennsylvania turnpike at a speed well over the limit set by his company for its trucks.

A passenger car followed the giant of the roads. Inside, the driver looked at his speedometer and switched on a movie camera. His speed and that of the truck were recorded on film.

As the truck swung out of lane on a curve the camera caught it. The load shifted, too. Later, the truck driver did a sloppy job of parking at a lunchroom. When he resumed his trip, he failed to switch on his running lights. He was having a bad night.

But he had a worse morning. Called into the office, he was charged with a list of violations as long as his arm. Perhaps he tried to deny them. In any event, he saw a movie and he was the star.

If his record with the firm was good, he was warned, suspended a few days, perhaps, and returned to duty. If he'd been on the carpet before, he was fired outright.

The movie, of course, was filmed from the passenger car which followed the errant truck driver for a few miles. The car and camera were operated by a private highway-patrol serviceman, one of many who work throughout Pennsylvania.

Safety-minded trucking companies all over the state are employing the patrol services to catch the careless or dangerous driver. It cuts down accidents, reducing insurance and repair costs. The drivers, becoming aware of the camera cars, are playing safe. Trucking accidents have been cut tremendously, according to the companies.

15 Million Hens Give Bakers Two Trillion Eggs a Year

CHICAGO—The bakers of America keep approximately 15,500,000 average hens busy each year providing the 2,706,000,000 eggs used in baking enriched bread and other bakery products, according to the American Bakers' association.

About 225,500,000 dozen or 300,000,000 pounds of eggs are purchased from the American farmer annually, the association pointed out, explaining that the baking industry is the farmer's biggest industrial customer.

The bakers' purchases of flour, milk, cane and beet sugar and other farm products total close to a billion dollars annually.

It's Not What Happened—It's What Might Have!

VENICE, FLA.—A blowout while driving along a highway near here gave D. A. Leach, 23, some pretty bad moments, and he still shudders at the thought of what happened—or what might have happened.

The blowout caused Leach's car to swerve, hit a palm tree, nose into a road bank, flip completely over—and land upright on its wheels.

Bystanders helped him change the tire and Leach continued on his way, none the worse for his experience—but a lot wiser.

Animals Subject to Two Ailments Common to Humans

LINCOLN, NEB.—Humans never suffer from diseases like rabies, hoof-and-mouth disease or strangles common only to animals, but animals are subject to at least two diseases generally believed to be common only to humans—"hives" and hay fever.

The American Foundation for Animal Health reports the same types of antihistamine medicines often successful in treating these conditions in man now are being used with pets and farm animals.

Upon coming in contact with or eating certain plants, the foundation said, horses and cattle commonly founder, or develop nettle rash or a severe form of sore mouth.

The foundation warned use of antihistamine drugs must be carefully supervised. Improper dosage may result in death, it said.

Scientist Says Children Not Taught How to Listen

STATE COLLEGE, PA. — Although children spend most of their time in school listening, few teachers ever have bothered to teach the science of constructive listening, one educator says.

As a result, Dr. Miriam E. Wilt said, "many children half listen or daydream through the day's activities."

Dr. Wilt, of Pennsylvania state college, advocates classes in listening. She said it is inherent in almost every classroom activity, and as such, should be taught.

"The effectiveness of the teaching of listening," she said, "can be measured in terms of new learnings, better adjustment to environment, personal pleasure, and satisfaction and behavior."

THINGS WE SEE & HEAR

(by TUCK)

Looks like Myron Levine is having a hard time convincing the kids that he has to raise $250 by the end of the month. . And if people don't respond more generously than they have been, I'm afraid Myron will have to kiss his printed paper goodbye.

Looks like we lost our first game last Friday night, doesn't it sport fans? Oh, well, you can't win every time. In my opinion our eleven did a swell job of holding the score 6 to 0.

I think Mr. Adair had a pretty good idea the other day when he told a class that you should never laugh at the other fellow's mistake, because he could always put you on a spot where that fellow could laugh right back at you. There's a point there.

Wallace Neeley says that when Mrs. Griffin tells him to go upstairs every morning he doesn't like it. He seems to think that after he gets half way up it gets out of her territory. How about it, Mrs. Griffin? Do you agree? (uh. . .I didn't think so).

From the looks of things out on the football field every day the band isn't doing so well. What's the matter, kids? Can't you get in the groove? You know, I don't think it's the band master because he keeps in step pretty well.

I've been wondering lately who's going to be Miss Chit Chatter? From the way Myron Levine sounds there's not even going to be enough people to enter—much less vote!

Looks like we're going to have to put an electric fence down the middle of the hall to keep people on the right side of it. Boy! The situation is getting worse instead of better.

Some of you may think Mr. Adair a philosopher or something the way I talk about him, but to me, what he says is pretty good reasoning. He says when you leave your class going to lunch that when you get to the door that's not a signal for a race to begin. By the way, I also learn a good bit of Algebra from Mr. Adair. So what say we all heed his warning?

You know what? Come to think of it, Aubrey Neeley makes a pretty good announcer at the games, doesn't he kids?

In case any of you don't know how to fill out a slip for a magazine, there's a copy of it on the bulletin board in the library, and you can go by that. At least, it was in the library. No telling where it is now.

I guess everyone knows about the new drive-in movie we're going to get. Well, from the way its coming along it should be ready in a short time, and I'm pretty sure that will please all fellows with cars, won't it?

Honeymoon of Lad, 18, and Bride, 44, Ends Abruptly

MIAMI BEACH, FLA.—Federal nacotics agents abruptly interrupted the honeymoon of an 18-year-old youth and his 44-year-old bride when they arrested the latter on charges of fraudulently obtaining narcotics prescriptions from a Miami doctor.

The bride is Mrs. Katherine Bogart.

"Our honeymoon is definitely ended now," she told reporters.

Herman Bogart, her youthful husband, said. "We love each other very much. I guess we'll stick together. We figure things will work out that way."

Bogart said he and his bride eloped from Gary, Ind., and were married in Charleston, S. C., on June 10. They came here for their honeymoon.

Air Propulsion Soon May Power Barges in Italy

ROME—Airplane propellers soon may be used to power barges plying Italy's northern inland waterways.

In this way it is proposed to make use of the old Venetian canals whose walls, built centuries ago, could not resist the wash from conventional underwater screws.

The idea of using air propulsion was presented to the recent inland waterways conference in Padua by Prof. Luigi Sante Darios, who has made a long study of the problem of adapting the ancient waterways to modern navigation needs.

Man Never Cashed Pay Checks for Five Years

WEST CHESTER, PA.—When 70-year-old Harry G. Lamborn died, unopened weekly pay envelopes dating back to 1944 and containing a total of $6,291, were found in his one-room apartment.

Lamborn, a former factory worker, hoarded the envelopes in a paper box.

His will, written on a scrap of wrapping paper, left $2,500 of his estate to Mrs. Mary A. McLear, his landlady. Attorneys said the residue probably would be divided among Lamborn's nine first cousins.

Expert Claims Women Waste Too Much Time on Trifles

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Fellas, gather 'round!

But, girls, you'd better not read this because it might make you madder than maybe you are already.

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez—to get the worst out first—says that women "make a mess of their lives because they constantly blow in $10 worth of energy on a 10-cent problem."

Dr. Alvarez, hero of the day that he was, went on to declare that women also "wear themselves out trying to make over an ordinary, good, kind, prosaic husband into a Charles Boyer."

The doctor is senior consultant of the division of medicine at the Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minn. He gave the ideas above—and below—at Ramsey county's (St. Paul's) first health day program.

Now for the "below" part—

Dr. Alvarez claims that women "shop too long and then take back what they buy."

"Many women cannot make up their minds quickly enough"—still the doctor talking—"and when they do reach a decision they reopen the matter again. Some women court trouble for themselves by trying to make a saintly little Lord Fauntleroy out of a normal, noisy and active boy.

"And," concluded Dr. Alvarez, "women love to get themselves all upset having post mortems over old sorrows, tragedies and unpleasantnesses."

His advice to the girls: "Learn to live more sensibly and comfortably."

P. S.—Yes, there were women in the audience and Dr. Alvarez was unharmed. But—a mere male wrote this.

'IN A BLINDING FLASH'

'The Blind Shall See . . .'

HOPKINTON, MASS.—His sight suddenly restored—"in a blinding flash"—after 18 years of total blindness, Edward R. Rav, 63, finds that "everything looks so rich and bright—faces, flowers . . . even the sky on a gray day."

The first thing he saw was his brother-in-law's face. It looked wonderful—"wrinkles and all."

Surprised at Grandchildren

Then he was able to see his wife again. She hadn't changed at all, he said. His daughter, now grown up and married was "even better-looking than they told me."

But the greatest surprises were his two grandchildren, Joan, 6, and Edward, 3. Both were entirely different from the picture in his mind's eye.

"From their voices I had pictured Joan as having a heart-shaped face. It's as round as a moon. Ed is real chubby instead of wiry."

Rav continued treatments for his blindness although seven years ago doctors told him he probably never would see again. There is only one drawback to the miracle of returned sight.

Can't Judge Distance

"I just can't seem to judge distance," he said. But he expects that to clear up soon—like his vision.

Ray lost the sight of one eye and all but one-tenth normal vision in the other through an accident when he was 9. Then in 1929 his 15-year-old son drowned. The shock evidently was so great, doctors said, that Ray became completely blind.

Have You Heard About The Bulls and the Bees?

ROME—If you haven't heard about the bulls and the bees, then you can learn a lot from this tale:

There was a marriage at a farm near Naples the other day, and the guests were gathered at the table for the wedding feast. Outdoors, Francesco Minniti, 5, all dolled up in a red suit for the occasion, played in a field. A bull spotted him.

Francesco fled into a near-by automobile. The bull charged, missed, and hit a beehive. The bees got mad and chased the bull. The bull ran into the house, and on to the dining room. The guests jumped out the windows and into a water-filled ditch. The bull followed. The cool water calmed him down. Nobody was hurt.

Woman Marks 104th Year; Still Enjoys a Good Steak

NEWARK, N. J. — Mrs. Rose Gelb, great-grandmother of 11 children, has begun her 105th year as a citizen of this world.

At a picnic celebrating her birthday, the 104-year-old woman was honored by 10 members of her family. Steak broiled over an open fire in the backyard of the summer home of her son, Edward, in Long Beach was the piece de resistance. Mrs. Gelb ate heartily, as usual.

She said she likes "almost any kind of food" and is especially fond of meat.

Her birthday cake bore no candles.

"One way to keep young," she declared, "is to pay little attention to your age. Don't isolate yourself—particularly mentally."

Mrs. Gelb reads the newspapers regularly. She wears no glasses and her hearing is "pretty good for my age."

"Keeping up with what goes on in the world is another way of keeping young," she commented.

Besides her son, Mrs. Gelb has thirteen grandchildren and eleven great-granchildren. Her husband, Levi, died 60 years ago.

Fireworks Celebration Disrupts Air Liners

HOOD RIVER, ORE.—A fireworks celebration by the "Crag Rats"—a mountain-climbing organization — disruped airline traffic near Mount Hood and convinced one pilot he was seeing a new form of "flying saucers."

Paul Thresh, a Northwest airlines pilot flying west into Portland, reported to the tower there that he had seen a strange cluster of red lights as he approached Mount Hood area. This caused him to turn his plane to follow them, he said, "but they ran away from me."

Thresh's report temporarily halted several flights at the Portland airport. The tower thought at first that a plane might be in distress and would have to use the port for an emergency landing. This caused the tower to clear the field for several minutes and passenger flights were held up until it became apparent that no plane was involved and police solved the mystery.

Crimson-Sericea Combination Sets Fast Pace In Piedmont

E. L. Mayton, Superintendent
Piedmont Substation

Twenty acres of crimson clover grown in combination with lespedeza sericea on the Piedmont Substation near Camp Hill, furnished all feed consumed by nine dry cows for five months, and five heifers and ten producing cows for two months.

Milk sales from the producing cows amounted to approximately $23 per acre during April and May, the two months they were grazing crimson clover.

Crimson clover was grazed continuously from January 1, 1949, to May 30, 1949, with an average of nine dry cows or heifers. And from April to May 31, it was grazed with 10 producing cows and five heifers. Thus during April and May, the 20 acres carried a total of 24 animals -- more than a head per acre.

The milking cows produced an average of 25.7 pounds of milk per day during the two-month period. A small amount of hay was fed them during April to lessen danger of bloat. But the dry cows and heifers were fed nothing in addition to grazing.

During June the ten producing cows were day-grazed on 12 acres of kudzu and night-grazed on the 20 acres of sericea along with the dry cows and heifers that had remained on the sericea-crimson area constantly since Jan. 1. The shift of the producing cows to the kudzu was made to allow the sericea to "catch up" after the crimson clover had gone out.

The milking herd produced an average of 21 pounds of milk per cow per day in June and about 21 pounds in July. Three weeks of July, they grazed day and night on the sericea. The other week they day-grazed kudzu and night-grazed sericea.

How Crimson Clover was Seeded On Sericea

Crimson clover was seeded on an established stand of sericea as follows: In early October, 1948, 700 pounds of basic slag and 50 po[illegible] of muriate of potash were broadcast over the sericea. On October 17, soon after a good [illegible], 20 pounds per acre of double-inoculated crimson clover seed were broadcast over the entire 20 acres. A disc harrow with one-half angle was run over the area to cut grooves about one and one-half inches deep. The crimson clover was ready to graze by January 1.

Boost Your Income With Strip-Cropping

Comparable to the industrial revolution ushered in by the spinning jenny is the transition thru which farming has passed during only one generation. This agricultural revolution has been brought about by a number of factors, the more important of which are the advent of power farming, new and better fertilizers, hybrid strains of crops and livestock, and soil conservation methods of tillage.

Not the least of these factors which have advanced the efficiency of American agriculture is the system of farming the land according to its capabilities. This is the basic principle of soil conservation farming.

No two acres of land are exactly alike nor can they be treated alike if productivity is to be maintained. On many farms, four or five different classes of land are found. These capability classes are determined by such factors as the depth of remaining topsoil, type of soil, slope, kind of subsoil, and drainage.

It is obvious that a well drained, level field with 15 inches of fertile topsoil, will stand more intensive cultivation than a sloping field with only a third as much. But in the past, millions of acres of American farmland have been ruined for further cultivation by farmers who did not consider this simple fact.

Among the simplest of conservation methods which the efficient American farmer uses, is countour cultivation.

Contouring costs the farmer nothing whatever.

That contour cultivation increases yields has been proved conclusively by exp[illegible]ntal research and also actual field experience. Data collected from farm records in Illinois from 1939 to 1943, for example, showed that contouring increased [illegible] yields 12 percent, soybeans 13 p[illegible], oats 19 per cen[illegible] and wheat 18 [illegible]. As to its e[illegible]t on operating [illegible] revealed that contouring on 135 midwestern farms reduced power and machinery costs 36 cents an acre and labor costs 84 cents an acre. Soil losses are frequently cut in half by contouring.

Modern farmers use contour cultivation as only one phase of their complete farm conservation plan because such a plan sets up a full program especially adapted to that particular farm. It may involve a number of other measures to control erosion and runoff such as terraces, grass waterways, strip cropping, windbreaks, better rotations utilizing legumes, pasture improvement and woodland management. In the western cattle country, irrigation and range improvement would be integral factors in a complete conservation plan.

In each of the 48 states can be found soil conservation districts with trained men available to fit the conservation plan to the land, acre by acre, whether it be a ranch in Montana, a Kansas wheat farm or a cotton plantation in the deep South.

Keeping a stiff brush near the laundry tubs will make washing easier. It will be handy for soaping soiled places such as necklines, collars, cuffs, and pockets.

Care Urged In Leaving Farm Machinery Alone

THREE-YEAR-OLD KILLED BY OVERTURNING MACHINE

Montgomery- "Please publicize the fact that farmers should be sure that heavy plows and machinery will not turn over when they are left for a short time."

That was the plea made to the State Health Department's Bureau of Vital Statistics by an Alabama mother. It came from a heart-broken by grief: Her three-year-old son had been killed when a cultivator turned over on him. The accident would not have happened, she wrote, if the fin (normally used to regulate the depth to which the cultivator will cut into the soil) had not been removed. That was done in order to let the cultivator cut deeply so as to get rid of some Bermuda grass.

"The bar to which the plows fasten fell across his chest," the mother wrote, "and a small piece extending out about one and a half inches struck him over the liver, doing the most severe damage."

No one was watching the child exactly when the accident occurred, she went on; but older people were with him just two or three minutes later. She expressed the belief that he had tried to climb onto the cultivator

VETERANS INSURANCE RATES OF DIVIDENDS

Montgomery.- The first Veterans Administration calculations on amounts proposed to be paid about 300,000 Alabama World War II veterans in the special National Service Life Insurance dividend were made public today by Harley A. Smith, Regional Manager of the VA.

Nearly 16,000,000 veterans in the nation will share in the $2.8 billion dividend.

Maximum possible amount that any veteran can receive will be $528. Other payments, based on age groups will run to lesser sums. The dividend will be paid on both term and converted insurance policies, and will be paid only for the period that the policy was in force prior to the policy anniversary in 1948. No payments will be made for periods of lapse, VA emphasized.

Smith said that the estimated rate of the dividend was arrived at after long actual studies, and that the rate of payment will be the same for both term and converted policies, as the dividend is based on mortality savings since there are no excess interest earnings.

In arriving at the dividend scale, Smith said, standard insurance practices were followed, whereby dividends on a life insurance policy represent a return to the insured of the excess of premiums paid over the amounts required to pay claims and set up necessary reserves. This is not necessarily proportional to the premium paid.

While portions of the premium originally estimated as necessary to pay claims may turn out to have been too high and can return a dividend, the part of the premium that goes into building up reserves cannot return a profit unless the fund earns a rate of interest higher than that assumed in the premium calculations. This has not been done in the case of the National Service Life Insurance, Smith pointed out.

In computing the maximum payment of $528, the dividend was based on a $10,000 policy in force for 96 months, (the longest period possible), on a veteran aged 40 or less at the time the policy was taken out. This represents a payment of 55 cents a month per $1,000 of insurance. As the mortality rate for the age group of 40 and under did not vary greatly, a single rate will apply to this whole group.

The rates of payment will be: Those under 40 years of age at the rate of 55 cents per month per $1,000 of insurance; those 41 to 45 years of age, scaling down from 52 cents to 40 cents; those 46 to 50, 37 cents down to 25 cents; those 51 to 54, 24 cents down to 21 cents; those 55 and over, 20 cents per thousand.

The proposed scale does not apply to insurance on a permanent plan which has been surrendered for a reduced paid-up amount. These cases will be handled seperately.

DISABLED VETS CAN GET G. I. INSURANCE

"World War II veterans who have service-connected disabilities rated less than 100 per cent may still apply for National Service Life Insurance," Commander Jack Lawrence of the Chilton County Post No. 3193, Veterans of Foreign Wars, reminded today. Deadline for obtaining the insurance is January 1, 1950, and there is no prospect that the date will be extended.

Commander Lawrence pointed out that many disabled veterans are unaware of the fact that they are eligible for government insurance if not totally disabled, and many cases have come to light where veterans have died and left families with no visible means of support. Had these men known of their eligibility for G. I. Insurance and taken it out, their families would not now be in desperate financial straits.

Also partially disabled veterans who formerly held NSLI policies and have let them lapse may renew them by making two months payment on the premium.

Jack urges all veterans in this catagory to give serious thought to obtaining or renewing policies before the January 1 deadline, and has offered the assistance of his Post to all veterans desiring to secure policies.

This aid may be obtained from Horace C. Jones, Service Officer of the Post, whose office is located at Big Four Hardware, Clanton, Alabama.

CRIMSON CLOVER ON LESPEDEZA SERICEA

Interest in growing crimson clover on the same land with lespedeza sericea is increasing rapidly in many sections of Alabama, according to D. R. Harbor, A. P. I. Extension Service agronomist.

Explaining how this is done, Harbor says that after sericea and other growth are removed about October 15, fertilizer is applied. This is followed by broadcasting the inoculated crimson clover seed. The seed are covered immediately with a disc harrow. Discs are set at just enough angle to scarify the soil. Care should be taken not to plow up sericea crowns.

For complete information on fertilizer and other recommendations, see the local county agent.

PASTURE CARE

When pastures are properly fertilized, good grasses and clovers become more vigorous and crowd out many weeds.

TO ALL VETS ATTENDING SCHOOL ON G. I. BILL

Thousands of veterans who already have made preparations for Fall school semesters under the G. I. Bill will not be affected by a recent Veterans Administration regulation limiting education and training to courses having a definite connection with their vocation.

The new regulation -based on Public Laws 862, 80th Congress, and 266, 81st Congress- states that veterans who want to take certain G. I. Bill courses must show VA that:

1. The course is essential to employment, if the veteran already had completed or interrupted a previous G. I. Bill course, or
2. The course will serve a bona fide use in present or future business or employment.

The new regulation went into effect in mid-September.

However, VA has ruled that the regulation does not apply to veterans who have completed their plans for all schooling, so long as they (1) submitted their original applications for a certificate of eligibility before September 12, 1949, and (2) commence their course before November 1 of this year.

The application for a certificate must have been received either by a VA Regional Office or by the school before September 12. If the application was submitted to a school, it must be in the VA's hands by September 26.

Also, VA said, Supplemental Certificates of Eligibility -issued to veterans desiring to change courses or schools- will be acceptable if the veteran's request for a supplemental certificate was received by VA before the September 12 deadline.

For those veterans who submitted applications and who enter training by the specified dates, VA policies which were in effect before the new regulation came into being will govern in the disposition of their requests for G. I. Bill training, VA said.

VA emphasized that previous regulations -based on Public Law 862, 80th Congress- prohibited veterans from taking G. I. Bill courses for avocational or recreational purposes.

Even though veterans who meet the September 12 and November 1 deadlines are exempt from VA's new regulation, they still are required to submit justification showing that their training will be in connection with present or contemplated business or occupation, if they plan to take any of the following types of courses:

1. Dancing, photography, glider, bar-tending, personality development or entertainment courses; all single-subject courses not part of a general education program leading to a definite educational or employment objective; and all other courses which are well-known to VA Regional Office managers as being frequently pursued in their areas for avocational or recreational purposes.
2. Music courses, public speaking courses, and courses in sports and athletics. These courses do not refer to those applied music, physical education or public speaking courses which always have been considered and offered by institutions of higher learning for credit as an integral part of a course leading to an educational objective.

The new VA directive states that under no circumstances will veterans be permitted to enter schools, at Government expense, that have not been in operation on their own for at least 1 year. The one-year limitation was included in Public Law 266.

This restriction, of course, applies to those veterans who applied for certificates before September 12 and who contemplate entering training before November 1.

Grow Crimson Clover-Ryegrass Mixture For Winter Grazing

By M. R. Glasscock
County Agent

Your milk cous, beef cattle, hogs, and chickens need green grazing in the winter. Milk produced on green grazing contains valuable health-giving vitamin A, not found in milk produced without green grazing. Green grazing in winter makes your animals healthier; saves you labor; saves feed and adds to the fertility of your soil. New let's think about your farm and your livestock. Why not plan to have winter grazing for them. By planning ahead and getting crimson clover and ryegrass planted right at the right time, you can have it on your farm.

You can grow it by following recommendations of the upper coastal plain Substation. These recommendations have been used by hundreds of farmers for several years all over the upper coastal plain area of Alabama, which includes Chilton county. They work. They will work on your farm.

So here are recommendations on how to grow the mixture.

Where to grow: 1. Where oats or wheat was harvested. 2. Where crimson clover or winter legumes were harvested for seed. 3. On lespedeza sericea. 4. On permanent pastures.

How you prepare your land: Note: If you want fall and early winter grazing, early seeding each year on seed bed prepared right is necessary.

1. Where oats or wheat or crimson clover or other legume was harvested for seed break the land in June and leave in the rough until rains come. Fallow by disking or harrowing after each rain. This helps hold moisture [illegible] s out a lot of weeds [illegible] loose seed beds. Th[illegible] d bed must be free of air pockets and unrotted vegetation.

2. Sericea lespedeza sod: Disk the sericea lightly just before time to plant.

3. Pasture sod: Preparation depends on kind of sod you have. If you have a fair to good stand of good pasture plants such as white Dutch clover, dallis grass, blue grass or orchard grass sacrify just enough to freshen the surface some.

On pasture that have not been improved and on Bermuda sod give a very thorough disking. You can just forget that there are plants on the land and fix the land right.

Caution: Where crimson clover is on sericea or pasture sod, most years you will not get much grazing until late winter and spring.

"Reseeding" or "Hard Seed Crimson": Use this kind on sericea and pasture sod. It is all right for annual seeding on prepared seed bed.

How You Should Fertilize

Disk fertilizer into soil 10 to 14 days before time to plant. Use 800 to 1,000 pounds of nitrate of soda or 1000 to 125 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre or equal nitrogen from other sources.

Inoculation: Crimson clover seed must be inoculated with crimson clover inoculant. Double inoculation is cheap insurance.

How much seed: Twenty pounds of crimson clover and 20 to 30 pounds of ryegrass per acre.

How to plant: 1. On fallowed land: Freshen the land lightly with a section harrow just ahead of sowing. The clover and ryegrass must be sown in separate operations. Sow with whirlwind type seeder if seeding by hand. Divide clover seed into two equal parts and cross-sow. At another operation cross-sow ryegrass seed the same way. Then cover with a corrugated or log roller. The seed may be covered with section harrow and packed with any kind of roller. The ryegrass seed can be sown ahead of the first harrowing to freshen the seed bed.

When to graze: Planted on prepared land and with normal weather, crimson clover and ryegrass planted the middle of August should give you grazing by October 15 to November 15, if you have normal amount of rain. Start grazing when you need it or when plants are big enough that they do not pull up. If you plan to save crimson clover seed stop grazing April 1 to 15.

2. Establishing on sericea: Get a stand of sericea established. Seed crimson clover on the sericea in the fall after your sericea stand is established or on older stands. The fall after you have had one successful crimson clover crop, sow the ryegrass. Do not sow ryegrass until the other crops are well established.

3. On pastures: Same as on fallowed land.

When to sow: 1. On prepared land —As soon after August 15 as moisture conditions are good.

2. On sericea and pasture sod—about October 15. It is necessary to wait until the sericea or Bermuda is not growing vigorously and taking up lots of moisture.

Why Use Mixture: Use a mixture of clover and grass because it is better balanced grazing and the grass helps keep down bloat.

Bloating: Sometimes you may have bloat trouble. Never turn hungry or [illegible]rsty cows on wet clover. Start them off at first after a full feed and let them stay on a few hours. After a few days you can let them stay on all the time. It will help if they have access to some grass hay when they want it. If bloat occurs it may be helpful to put a big stick in the animal's mouth like a bit in a mule's mouth and walk cow gently. Do not run animals.

JERSEY CATTLE SHOW HAS BEEN POSTPONED

The Jersey Cattle show previously scheduled for September has been postponed until October 28. It was felt by members of the Jersey Cattle Club that a better show could be held by allowing more time for fitting and training.

This year club members are being offered a very attractive prize for fitting and showmanship. A bred, purebred heifer will be given to the 4-H club boy ar girl who does the best job of fitting and showing his or her animal. By basing the award on these two points alone, the type and careformation of these animals will not enter into the judging.

In addition to the 4-H award, cash prizes will be made to both adult and 4-H constestants.

Animals that are to be shown should be blanketed just as soon as possible. They should also be taught to lead well and respond to the halter. The best of animals have a very poor chance unless they can be shown to their best advantage.

Now that there is a milk market in the county, there should be greater interest in breeding better dairy animals. A good county show should be of interest to every farmer in the county as good dairy animals can produce needed supplementary income.

This years county show should be one of the best ever held. All owners of good purebred Jerseys are urged to fit and train their animals for the coming show. Animals should be entered at the County Agent's office as soon as possible. A list of premiums will be published in next week's paper.

STATE FAIR TO BE BEST OF THEM ALL

Speedway To Highlight Affair

Birmingham, Ala. — With but two weeks from Fair Week in Alabama residents were preparing for the greatest State Fair in history and also the crowning of Miss Alabama Queen of Cotton—one of the many features of this year's Fair.

As carpenters, painters and steelworkers readied the Fairgrounds for the big week—October 3-8th—Walter L. Randolph, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation and chairman of the Alabama Queen of Cotton contest, said that 55 counties have already named committees to conduct Queen of Cotton contests and that several colleges have also stated they will be represented. The finals will be held in front of the grandstand at the State Fairgrounds the night of Thursday, October 6th. The winner will go to the National Maid of Cotton contest to be held in Memphis in January 1950 and also will be awarded $500 in cash by the Birmingham-News and Age-Herald.

Steelworkers are busy getting the mammoth cattle barn—the Cow Palace ready for this year's state Dairy and Beef Cattle Shows. R. H. McIntosh, general manager of the Fair, states the shows will be held in the new building, if the workers get a roof on it, regardless of whether all of the work is completed.

The 4-H, and FHA boys and girls are busy these days getting their exhibits ready for the Fair. This year's exhibits of these youngsters to be held in the Agricultural Building promise to be the best ever.

Posters are now being distributed over the state telling of this year's Fair and probate judges and other officials in many counties are reminding their folks to be sure and take in this year's Fair.

Birmingham, Ala. — Speedway-type race cars will whirl on the Alabama State Fair raceway Friday and Saturday, Oct. 7-8, in championship speed contests certain to bear directly on 1949 national title awards.

Four of the first six points for the national dirt speedway championship are already qualified to compete and Manager R. H. McIntosh predicts the final entry roster will include all 10 top contenders.

Frankie Luptow, daring Florida pilot, has entered his powerful Black Panther Offenhauser, the mount that has sped him to 27 feature wins, 19 new track records and top position in the 1949 championship point standings.

Trailing Luptow by less than 400 points the veteran Deb Snyder of Kent, Ohio, defending 1948 National Speedways champion, plans to contest the Tampa driver with his own Offenhauser. Snyder has established two new national dirt track records this year.

Other favored early entrants include the spectacular Bobby Grim of Indianapolis, winner over both Luptow and Snyder at Birmingham last April, Gene Aldridge, crack young Fort Branch, Ind., speedster, Stan Callaway of Miami, and Redmond, lead-footed Atlanta campaigner.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON NEW FARM HOUSING LAW

Because of the many inquiries he has received, Senator John Sparkman has prepared question - and-answer helps on the new farm housing law which he sponsored and which Congress passed a short time ago. Money will soon be available to put the law into effect.

Originally introduced by Senator Sparkman in the Senate and by Congressman Bob Jones of Alabama in the House as a separate bill, the farm housing proposals were incorporated as Title V of the Housing Act of 1949. Fuller details than those listed below may be had in the County Farmers Home Administration Office.

Questions and answers follow

1. What are the basic ideas back of the Sparkman farm housing legislation?

(a) That a sound farm economy requires not only better homes for farmers and their tenants, but also adequate farm buildings such as barns, poultry houses, storage houses, etc., necessary for a complete farm unit;

(b) that occupants of farm homes, as well as people who live in cities, are entitled to decent homes and home conveniences.

2. Who is eligible for farm housing help as set up in the new law?

Farm owners who are unable to get credit under reasonable terms and conditions from private financial sources. Veterans and families of deceased servicemen have preference.

3. What type of loans are provided in the law?

Loans to farmers whose income from farm or other sources is sufficient to repay the loan plus interest; and loans to farmers whose income is insufficient to repay the loan plus interest, if the borrower agrees to change his farming operations so that he will be able to repay the debt on schedule. Limited special loans and grants in some cases may be made to farmers to put their dwellings in a safe and sanitary condition even though the farm may not be or is not expected to become self-sufficient.

4. What are the terms of the loan?

Loans may not exceed 33 years and will bear interest at not more than 4%. Security for loans will consist of the farm owner's equity in his farm and additional collateral as may be necessary to assure reasonable repayment of the loan.

5. Will the borrower lose his farm if he cannot meet payments on his loan?

If he cannot meet payments because of unavoidable circumstances, the Secretary of Agriculture may postpone payments for as long as necessary. In cases of extreme hardship, the interest may be cancelled during the postponement.

6. Does the law provide for such technical aid as building plans, construction supervision, etc

Yes.

7. Who will administer the farm housing law?

The Farmers Home Administration thru its county committees and county supervisors.

8. How should one make application for a farm housing loan?

By applying to the local office of the Farmers Home Administration usually at the County [illegible]

RED CROSS FIELD DIRECTORS SOLVE SERVICEMEN'S PROBLEMS

Red Cross services to the armed forces are available wherever U. S. servicemen are stationed. Here a Red Cross field director goes right to a young sailor at work on his ship for the facts he needs to help solve a problem.

The sailor was young. He had finished his home leave in a southern coastal city and was heading back to his California base.

He said goodby to his parents and to an older brother, a marine veteran just returned from service. Then he left by bus.

A few hours later the older brother was killed in an automobile accident. The family appealed to the Red Cross to locate the younger son so he could return home.

Within a short while a Red Cross chapter secretary along the route intercepted the bus, broke the news, and helped the lad get started back home. There the chapter got in touch with the field director at the west coast base and verified the facts for the commanding officer who was being asked to extend the sailor's leave.

Once or more every minute, around the clock last year, the Red Cross performed some service for members of the military forces and their families. Among the nearly three quarters of a million cases handled, a large percentage involved supplying verified information concerning home conditions requiring emergency leave or extension of leave. While the Red Cross cannot grant leave to a serviceman, military authorities depend upon its post field directors and the network of chapters for reports of conditions underlying such leave requests.

Field directors in 364 military installations and hospitals and 1,059 itinerant- and sub-stations in this country and abroad aid servicemen with personal problems that range from babies and budgets to helping straighten out delays that hold up pay or family allowances.

The serviceman has his family problems, marital difficulties, financial strains, and family illnesses—all disturbing to morale.

Field directors, providing 24-hour service at military installations, are pretty much in the same situation as the family doctor. They are routed out of bed at all hours to face any one of a hundred complicated problems. Sometimes it may be to get a report on the condition of a critically ill member of a soldier's family, or to lend him money for an emergency trip home, or to find housing for a family unexpectedly arriving at the post.

Whatever the problem, the serviceman feels free to turn to the Red Cross for help, knowing that he will find a sympathetic friend in the man wearing the Red Cross uniform.

WORMS NOW ATTACKING GRAIN SORGHUM HEADS

Auburn, Ala.- Much of Alabama's grain sorghum is being attacked by 3 kinds of worms this fall

The worms that may be found feeding on the heads of the grain are called the sorghum webworm, corn earworm, and the fall army worm.

"They should be controlled as soon as they are discovered in the field," declares W. A. Ruffin, API entomologist. He explains that if the worms are allowed to feed until they are almost grown, it is more difficult to kill them in the heads of sorghum

Tests made at the API Experiment Station show that an application of approximately 20 pounds per acre of a dust that contains 10 percent DDT or [illegible] percent toxaphene will give [illegible] of all worms that have re[illegible] the half-grown stage

[illegible] sorghum that is to be con[illegible] [illegible]ll not retain enough DDT or toxaphene to be harmful to livestock if the insecticide is applied 30 to 6 days prior to the time of combining adds Ruffin. "If the crop is to be grazed or used for fodder, at least 60 days should elapse between dusting and harvesting."

PRINCIPAL CAUSES OF FARM FIRES REVEALED

They include failure to protect buildings with lightening rods; defective, sooty, and poorly constructed chimneys; flammable wooden roofs; defective stoves and furnaces and failure to use fireproof covering on pipes; careless use of matches and tobacco; improper storage and careless use of gasoline and kerosene; hot ashes; spontaneous combustion; and misuse of electricity
